In an interview this morning Mr. Grills told The Intelligencer he will be making a statement on whether he will seek the nomination again within the next week to 10 days.

At a riding executive meeting in Madoc Saturday, the present MP was given an unanimous vote of confidence.

"I couldn't help but appreciate that," Mr. Grills said today.

Liberal candidacy is still up in the air but it is known both former MPs Robert Temple and Frank Foltiesi are considered as candidates for nomination.

However, Temple said this morning he is not close to a decision as to what he will do.

He said the outcome of the nominating convention will be unpredictable in any case as the Hastings Liberal organization is opted for an open convention procedure by which every member of the party in Hastings holding a party membership card 72 hours before the convention will be accredited as a delegate.

Temple called this "a grass roots approach".

While the Conservatives will hold their convention in accordance with the one delegate per 100 voters provision of their riding constitution, Gunsolus says the number of delegates and alternates is uncertain — depending on the number of electors on the voters' lists now being compiled by enumerators.

Decisions on the conventions follow executive meetings of both parties last week and over the weekend. No announcements have been made by representatives of the New Democratic Party locally.

In a press release, Conservatives say they are both excited and enthusiastic. In Madoc, Saturday, Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins assured the federal party of his full support and assistance.

Freak Accident Was Killer

CAMPBELLFORD (Staff)— An RCMP Campbellford man died early Saturday morning when his head struck a utility pole as he was leaning out of a car driven by a friend.

David Charles Macoun, 21, was a passenger in the vehicle driven by Donald Bradford, 17, of Church St.

The accident occurred at 2:10 a.m. on Kent St., Campbellford town police are investigating.

Fire Destroys Barn, Contents

A tractor, seeder and 1,000 bales of hay were destroyed when an Ameliasburgh barn was burned to the ground.

A spokesman for the township's volunteer fire department said the wooden barn building had caved in almost completely when firemen arrived on the scene after receiving the call.

The last of three trucks on the scene left at 10 p.m. after arriving shortly before 3:30 p.m.

Dean O'Hara, auctioneer and farmer on the third concession, also lost several fence posts and an evaporator for maple syrup in the blaze. The cause is still under investigation.

Mr. O'Hara had been planning to use the barn to house beef cattle. Damage has been estimated at $10,000.

Only the building was insured, the spokesman said.

Girl Injured

A Belleville girl sustained bruises when the car in which she was riding left the 401 early Saturday morning and struck a hydro pole.

Marilyn Dianne Malcolm 17, of 19 Marina St. East, was a passenger in the car driven by Lucien Levesque of Park Way Trailer Court, Belleville. The pole was levelled by the impact.

Levesque has been charged with careless driving.

Try That on for Size!

The Belleville Firefighters' muscular dystrophy fund was increased by $1,000 in one donation Saturday afternoon when the Belleville Yardmen Benefits Fund contributed a cheque for that sum. Jack Matthews, chairman of the firefighters' fund accepted the cheque from Robert Turcotte, yardmen's treasurer, and crowns him with an asbestos fire chief's helmet from the display in Quinte Mall. The total collected for muscular dystrophy during the firemen's drive was $1,942.

Subscribers Wanted -- But Not Too Many!

Even though the largest reason for the Theatre Guild Open House next Sunday is to interest people in buying subscriptions, at least one guild spokesman hopes there is no increase over last year's subscription figure.

More than 500 people last year bought subscription tickets, entitling them to attend all season productions, workshops and festivities.

Verna Hamilton, chairman of the subscription committee, said today, "this is really as much as we could handle with a theatre that seats only slightly more than 100."

There are many factors which indicate that some past subscribers will not be continuing their patronage this year, one being the group from the now defunct entertainment institute.

Some large group reservations have not yet been reordered and probably most of these spaces will be filled by new theatre enthusiasts, said Mrs. Patterson.

"I hope that we hold the $30 subscriptions but would like to see no more than a total of 600 for the coming year," she said.

The open house begins at 2 p.m. in the Green room of the theatre on Pinnacle Street and will be preceded by a low brass concert at noon.

The meeting is designed to bring members of the guild up to date on the workings of the guild during the summer months and what is happening with the winter program.

Already full is the play, The Price, has started rehearsal and is getting ready for its first night.

Displays will be placed for the public to view what is going on in the theatre and all members of the executive will be present to answer questions in informal conversation during the evening.

Barn, Hay Destroyed

A storage barn recently filled with hay burned to the ground in Township of Tyendinaga's third concession Sunday afternoon.

A spokesman for Sidney's volunteer fire department attributed the cause to spontaneous combustion.

Several farmers were renting the wooden structure from Mrs. Marie Nash of 174 Church St., Belleville. Value of the barn and contents was estimated at $4,000.

No Councillor at Meeting

A community meeting sponsored by the national organization Man and Resources, is being held this evening at the Sun Luck Gardens on North Front Street, but there will be no representative from the city in attendance.

The reason is the meeting conflicts with the regular meeting of council and no representative has been named to attend.

"I didn't know anything about it," said Mayor J. Russell Scott today. "The invitation was addressed to no person in particular and is only now being brought to council's attention."

The meeting invitation says Man and Resources is a Canada-wide program in which all provinces are joining to discuss such questions as how to manage natural resources to get the best balance of social, economic and ecological benefits.

Harold Young, a member of the Moira River Conservation Authority educational advisory board will represent the authority at the Belleville meeting.

At the meeting study groups formed to examine issues relevant to Man and Resources, will report on their findings and will join with other concerned citizens in defining citizens' problems for the community.

Three-car Crash Injures Two

Two persons were injured in a three-car collision on Dundas St. East Friday evening.

Deborah Gray, 18, of Tullamoma, Tenn., and Mary Lou Cook, 17, of 221 Pine St., Belleville both suffered bruises when cars in which they were riding were struck from behind.

John L. MacDonald of 119 Wright St., has been charged with following too closely.

Total damage was slightly over $1,000.

Fairgoers Ignore Weather

PICTON (Staff) — The Carlton Showband, a featured attraction at Prince Edward County fair, packed the grandstand last Saturday night as hundreds of spectators clapped to the rollicking songs of the Irish.

Although heavy rains blighted the fair on its opening day, directors followed a show-must-go-on policy and line classes for draft horses were held indoors in a barn.

Afternoon halter classes continued outdoors on schedule as cloudy skies cleared and a special evening horse show in front of the grandstand was held despite heavy footing.

Picton mayor Margaret Ackerman, county Warden Ross Benway and George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Lennox, attended the Friday night opening of the fair. Each congratulated members of the Prince Edward County agricultural society for their efforts in presenting such a colorful and entertaining fall fair. Musical entertainment was provided by the Singing Post Family, Ameliasburg.

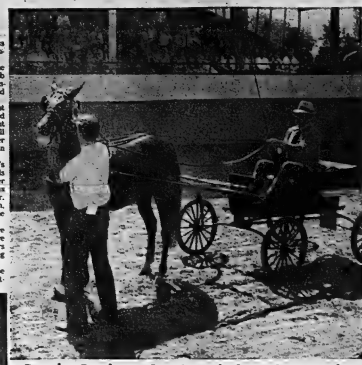
Saturday's program of events included cattle judging, a full program of horse classes, hunter and jumper competitions and music by the Goode family and Jack Jones and the Acoustics of Picton.

The Carlton Showband headlined the evening program of events and proved a crowd pleaser.

An unidentified Picton man earned the heartiest applause from the crowd, however, as he broke from a line of spectators and executed several Irish jigs in front of the grandstand.

Although several fair board directors exhibited concern for the unbilled appearance, the show stopper was welcomed by members of the showband who invited him on stage to dance again.

Visitors to the fair yesterday enjoyed an afternoon horse show featuring harness and chariot races and a program of saddle classes.



The County Centre and the Prince Edward Curling Club were filled with attractive displays of flowers, fruits and vegetables and art work.

Winner of the annual Artist of the Year award, presented by the Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd., was Joyce Hill of Elm Street, Picton. Her winning painting portrayed an old farm barn at Milford.

Prince Edward County's "flower child" Philip Dodds won 41 prizes in the flower division of the fair and was the show's largest exhibitor. His displays, in preparation, filled a dressing room at the County Centre.

Although final attendance figures for this year's fair are not yet available, directors were enthusiastic concerning the turnout of visitors.

An increased entry in horse and pony classes was reported this fall.

Bureaucratic Morass

You would never know from the way the bureaucracy works — or should we say, doesn't work — that things get done at all. It is our experience that Government departments — some at least — are long on manpower and short on efficiency.

We have it also from one local citizen that he took some detailed tax information regarding overseas earnings to the federal building recently, in response to a request for such information. It took consultations with two junior staff members and finally one with some semblance of authority — covering 45 minutes in all — from 4 p.m. to quitting time at 4.45 p.m. — to decide it should deal with the information and what should be done with it. It took all that time moreover to find our friend's file, whereupon it was discovered that the original letter requesting the information, with space for a reply which was duly given, was nowhere to be seen.

You will remember of course those cute advertisements the Government ran during those exasperating early months of the year when the world is tired and people are tired but nevertheless must steel themselves to tackle the tax morass. "Play It Again Sam," we were told in the old Humphrey Bogart tradition, meaning the tax return would be done the same way as before. Next year it; will be different and inevitably, more complex still, what with capital gains and all that.

But the ads are slick and, in the circumstances, not a little irritating, considering the runaround that direct contact with Government departments often entails. It is bad enough that the public has difficulty with tax and other matters, but when the bureaucracy gives every impression of being in the dark also it is too much.

Meanwhile we are in the process of the Municipal Enumeration which like tax return time also inspired preparatory advertisements from the Government, this time the provincial administration.

"Ontario is now putting together the biggest municipal enumeration in its history," the blurb points out, adding: "Without You It Won't Be Right."

Then follows a detailed explanation of what is required and unlike the tax returns it is all pretty straightforward. Just an enumeration notice to be signed by the householder and altered if necessary to make information the government possesses requires updating.

So don't forget, "without you it won't be right." With or without the bureaucracy, it might not be right either.

Divided Loyalties

Is it too much (on the heresy bit again) to ask that area municipalities give their undivided attention to their problems rather than their opinion, advice or whatever? We mean . . . after all . . . really . . . could the result of the Team Canada-Russia hockey game not have waited.

We are referring to that report from Canniff on the other day: "While a radio in the council chambers kept them up to date on the hockey game," our staff man wrote, "Thurlow council met in special session to hear views of a delegation of Foxboro residents on a road closing issue."

A "special session" indeed. What . . . to hear the delegation or the hockey game?

Old and New

While we are all patiently awaiting the opening — reportedly delayed once again— of the Hastings County Historical Society's museum in its new location at Glanmore House, former residence of artist Philippa Faulkner, we are sorry to note that there have been no second thoughts on the fate of the museum's home for 11 years, the old registry office on Church Street.

There is to be a 10th anniversary reunion there on October 1, amid the packing cases destined for Glanmore House and in company with whatever ghosts which may choose to haunt it in these days of decline before accession by the wreckers sometime after November 1.

Let the people of Belleville beware of the possibility of other older buildings of historical note meeting a similar fate. We want progress, but please let us consider carefully the historical and even lingering practical value of our older proper properties before knocking them down.

Keeping Belleville Beautiful

KEEPING
Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Recently I had a couple of experiences, in relation to our attractive parks and city streets that I feel are important to all of us.

I was walking on one of our streets here in the west end when I saw an energetic boy enjoying his job. He had a big bag and was picking up the litter by the road in front of his home then working out down along the street, leaving nothing to spoil the appearance of the lovely green grass we have in our city this year. When I came back I saw he had done an excellent piece of work, encouraged, of course, by his parents.

Then the next day I was going along another street when a boy walking in front of me threw a big wad of paper on the side of the road. "Sure," I said to him, "I know you can put that in the big garbage can over there and those other pieces too." He grinned and looked so pleased when I gave him a word of praise.

We have young people here who respond with action to a touch of encouragement and it can make such a difference to the appearance of our fine parks and our attractive streets where so many homes are set in a pattern of lovely flower beds.

All our energetic boys and girls and our young people need is some wise suggestions and encouragement from parents and teachers.

It can all help to keep Belleville beautiful.

What Can Davis Do Is Election Question

BY DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park

Just how does a provincial premier help in a federal election?

Premier Davis has said he is going to give all-out support to Robert Stanfield.

He are now waiting here to see what this means. And what it can mean. Drew Frost?

For quite awhile in recent times we have not seen a provincial party give all-out support in a provincial election.

We have had four Tory premiers in the past nearly 26 years. And none of them really got along with their federal counterparts.

George Drew couldn't stand John Bracken.

Leslie Frost, oddly enough, couldn't stand George Drew. And he wasn't much better with John Diefenbaker.

John Robarts also had little use for Diefenbaker. And though he did respect Robert Stanfield, he did not do too much in '68—he was occupied with his own affairs.

WHAT CAN HE DO?

So we really have a new experience.

And what actually can Davis do?

He can speak on a few platforms. Appear with Stanfield and give the word!

Yes this will help. Not much but a bit.

However the important thing he can do is send his moneyraisers out.

And this is the one sign we have seen so far that he is serious about this federal campaign.

The provincial bag men are The Tory men. They know what they would in a provincial election. But they are putting the brakes on.

Actually with a government in power in the province they have more biting strength than a federal party which is in opposition. And the money they will raise will be helpful.

But whether Davis can really help beyond this still has to be seen.

He can put the riding organizations out. But they should go out anyway. He can place a bit of advertising. He can raise a little bit of boorah. But really influence an election?

Let's see. It's doubtful!

Mountie Symbol for Coins

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

By this time next year the question "Hey mister, can you spare a Mountie," may have become a common request by the silent panhandlers of our nation.

While an unusual request at time of this writing the query will simply be a request for spare change in 1973.

Canada has scored again in its choice of commemorative coin subjects and this time it should prove a real winner. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, formed in 1873 as the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, will be honored with issue of both a 25-cent coin and dollar coin, each depicting a Mountie astride one of the traditional musical ride horses.

Tongue - in - cheek observers were greatly disappointed when in 1967, a variety of Canadian animals such as the rabbit, the duck-billed platypus, the geese, doves and fish, replaced traditional emblems on the obverse of coins, but sparked little interest in the coining of nickel pennies.

Imagine the disappointment when no one asked for "change of a wildcat," or "buddy, can you spare a fish"

It almost set the custom of the wooden nickel back a hundred years.

Naturally, this is no attempt to poke fun at such a fine institution as the RCMP, . . . simply a brief comment on the convergences which might be expected when the Mountie begins to circulate in the pockets of the nation.

Voters Do Study Form

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Perhaps the degree of interest at the "average voter" for the forthcoming federal election would surprise Mr. Hockley.

The space given to coverage by the press obviously has not been wasted, since Mr. Hockley seems to have gleaned sufficient information to form the definite opinion of the political picture in B.C., that Premier Barrett won easily because the voters chose to defeat Mr. Bennett.

Surely a goodly number of other interested electors have followed the news sufficiently well enough to form opinions as well. And regardless of the cynicism evidenced by Mr. Hockley, the voters in the electorate believing he has "exercised his democratic right" by voting. I have no doubt that a good many voters made their choice after having seriously considered both the party and the candidate and are no doubt as well informed as Mr. Hockley.

Perhaps, Mr. Hockley, the mechanics and laborers armed with intelligence, sincerity and political knowledge, offered themselves as candidates, more would be elected. But patience! Come, Mr. Hockley, isn't it possible they have been too busy while work was plentiful to spend much time to national politics?

Dialogue Canada Looked at by School Board and UN

By RON ADAMS
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Bilingualism in the federal public service is a subject of recurring controversy, particularly here in the capital area where more than one quarter of the country's 203,000 public servants live and work.

The Gendron' miscellaneous estimates committee spent nine days this spring discussing the report of the Public Service Commission; meetings characterized by fulsome praise sometimes bitter probing of the commission's bilingualism objectives.

But little attention has been paid to how the government is going about creating what commission chairman John J. Carson calls the public service that is capable of offering services in both languages where necessary and a public service in which francophone and anglophone Canadians enjoy equal opportunity to fulfill their career aspirations."

The story began in 1964 when 42 public servants and five teachers began an experimental language training program. Eight years and 23 million later, Phillip Deane, director of the commission's language training branch, has 19,000 public employees will take courses from more than 400 teachers this year.

More than half of those students will attend classes at a sprawling former seminary called the Ottawa language centre. The bureau also operates schools in Winnipeg, Montreal, Quebec City and Halifax.

In addition, Mr. Deane said, some 5,000 students in the Canadian Forces will be learning language basics instructional this year.

They will study a specially designed curriculum called "Dialogue Canada". The course was developed by the language bureau to meet the specific needs of public servants. In addition to a basic knowledge of French language, Mr. Deane said, it teachers public servants "the vocabulary of work."

The language bureau developed the curriculum, he said, because other established French courses "are not really relevants on Parisian French and were found to be "irrelevant" by Canadians.

"A public servant doesn't really need to know how to talk to a girl on an Alp," Mr. Deane said.

Instead the course aims to teach the public servant how to talk his job in French — from helping people fill out forms to chatting about hockey.

Dialogue Canada utilizes audio-visual techniques to a great extent, and even a kind of flag-acting to get its message across. Mr. Deane says it is a unique language teaching method, chiefly because it works. French teaching methods used in Canadian schools fail, he said, because students do not really learn to speak French.

At least one Canadian school board, in Calgary, wants to adopt Dialogue Canada for use in its schools and Mr. Deane said the United Nations is interested in the program for possible use at its multi-lingual world headquarters.

The curriculum can be available to other Canadian schools, he said, although non-public servants cannot take advantage of the courses run by the public service commission.

Although he praises its effectiveness, Mr. Deane admits the course is hard work, particularly for students who begin with little or no language knowledge. He estimates it takes between 600 and 1,500 hours of instruction to produce a fully bilingual public servant — the time depending chiefly on the aptitude and willingness of the student.

And, because the course is given on an in-service basis, not all students can devote their full attention to their work while they are saying.

Mr. Darisse moves around them, cueing, encouraging, demanding repetition of the words that the students have uttered but sounds like French. At this point, he said, he is trying to help students "break the translation barrier" that shows down language learning. September to June, a few students were working at the Ottawa Language Centre in Aquado.

In one classroom, teacher Jean Darisse was working with four young Royal Canadian Mounted Police recruits who are volunteers in a new RCMP bilingualism program.

The students, with the distinctively anglophone names of Kevin, Larry, Greg and Martin, were about two-thirds through their elementary French course. Their language training will continue during police training at Regina, and they will eventually be posted to French areas.

Mr. Darisse was using an audio-visual lesson to help the students develop an "ear" for French.

A series of pictures flashed on the classroom screen, accompanied by spoken phrases from a tape recorder. The students are encouraged to repeat the phrases as they hear them, without listening to what is what they are saying.

It Is Never Easy To Go Back to School

Ottawa Journal

It has never been easy, going back to school. Leaving the relaxed childhood's most important turning point in the whole year, whether beginning school for the first time or returning for Grade 13. The wrenches from a protective family, and the fears, go deep. They are remembered long into later years.

But, at least there were established patterns and routines to English classes, to French "immersion" programs or to "vocational" training. Even if half and half whether they should attend the academic stream or to take advantage of the private special programs of the Cours Classiques or the Montessori Schools.

Parents now hear of the Ottawa New School, the modern version of the little red school house where students learn independence to Grade 8 are thrust impetuously in an "open" environment learning from each other almost as much as from a teacher, MAGU, the Ottawa Valley Language Grouping Unit?

This year for the first time Ontario high school students have been able to decide whether they want to change high schools. Some 300 of them took up the option, apparently having satisfied their move on academic grounds.

The old wall between elementary and high schools is coming down fast. Starting off in what can take high school history if they qualify. Promotion is now by subject rather than by grade and it can come at Christmas as well as June.

A Grade 9 student may choose to take Grade 13 French if he can show he can keep pace. English-speaking students who have acquired sufficient mastery of French can attend a bilingual French high school in the Ottawa system if they want to — and some are making that choice.

Those who say the education system has stood still have been away from schools for too long. Perhaps the changes have come too slowly and too reluctantly.

A record attendance of over 75 members gave a flying start to the opening meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild at Queen Victoria School, and inaugurated a rapidly expanding interest in theatrical matters. Mrs. W. J. Doyle, president of the Guild, welcomed members and gave a brief sketch of the aims, operations and organization of the group.

The annual Kwanis Fall Karnival which opened in Belleville's downtown section was off to a rousing start from the very first. Belleville citizens, with the aid of the Royal Legion post to Kwanis projects, were responding to hundreds and their co-operation and contributions were most gratifying to the Kwanis executive. Kwanis Karnival's program was the introduction of the Tiny Tot Bathing Beauty Revue under the direction of George Forban.

It won't be long now — school bells will ring for public school students Sept. 14 and for students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Sept. 22. Collegiate students who have been engaged in farm work during the harvest season, will be allowed to remain at their occupation until Oct. 9.

Classes in Arts, Crafts Organized for Tweed

TWEED (Special) — September 15 is registration day in Tweed for a series of night classes in the arts and crafts which will be held at S. H. Carew School this fall.

Working under the chairmanship of Margaret LeSage, a committee has been formed which has been arranging with artists and craftsmen in the Tweed area to conduct classes in everything from oil painting and pottery to furniture refinishing and macrame.

Noting the success of similar programs in Belleville and Madoc, and realizing that some Tweed residents had participated in these programs, Margaret LeSage and the committee have attempted to organize a program of instruction that will make this kind of instruction available to residents of Tweed within their own community.

Classes, conducted under the auspices of the newly formed Tweed Council of the Arts are slated to begin early this fall. Among many of the artists and craftsmen giving instructions will be Grace Parks decorative stitchery and rug hooking; Vera Ingles, oil painting and Dene Wilson pastels.

The committee has received full co-operation from the school and have been provided with the space necessary to conduct the classes.

Margaret LeSage and the committee hope that the courses of instruction being offered cover an area broad enough to touch on the interest of anyone interested in arts and crafts. However, the committee has asked that should anyone have an interest or hobby not being offered please contact Margaret LeSage and let her know. She and her group are very anxious to involve as many people and interests as possible. If they do not have an artist available to teach the subject, they will locate one.

A partial list of arts and crafts being taught this fall includes:

Creative stitchery, macrame pastels, primitive pottery, weaving, crochet, pottery, embroidery, petit point, knitting, photography, oil painting, needlepoint, wood carving, rug hooking, quilting, sculpture, furniture refinishing, leatherwork, water colors, glass flowers, flower arranging.

All courses will cover a 10-week period and classes will be held once a week for a two-hour period. Cost is $1 per class. Material will be supplied by the student and cost will be minimal.

Sept. 15 is registration day at the Hungerford Township Hall between 12 noon and 10 p.m.

Religious Knowledge To Be Offered Again

The catechetical department of the Hastings - Prince Edward County separate school board is again offering an information course in religious education.

This is the third year the popular course has been offered and it will extend from Sept. 20 to Dec. 14. The first two evenings of the course will be held on Wednesday, but the remaining 11 sessions will be held Thursday nights.

Each session will be divided into two parts. The first part will be a rotating seminar of three topics: the Gospel of St. John, the Vatican II document on the laity and co-responsibility and the Vatican II document on religious freedom and moral questions.

The second part of each session will be a lecture by a guest speaker or a member of the catechetical team.

The first guest speaker will be Rev. Dan Donovan, professor of theology at St. Michael's College, Toronto and the second will be Dr. Thomas Fraserence, a doctor of clinical psychology and president of the department of religious studies at McGill University. He is a noted theologian and catechist.

The initiator of many of the Canadian catechism texts, Rev. Martin Jeffrey of Ottawa will be the third guest.

Rev. F. X. Pistorius, SJ, from the department of theology at Regis College in Toronto will be another guest.

Others who will lecture later in the fall are Sister Mary Baier, a Dominican sister and co-pastor of St. Dominic's parish, Port Credit and Ronald DeLaskie, director of Metro separate school board's family life education program and developer of the original program.

Sister Norma McCoy, diocesan director of religion for the archdiocese of Kingston, will also lecture during the series.

The religious education course is open to all separate school supporters and the catechetical team hopes that parents, priests and teachers will take advantage of the opportunity to attend.

Sidney Road Study Meeting Is Called

Sidney township councillors meet tomorrow afternoon in special session with representatives of the ministry of transportation and communication to discuss the municipality's need for a transportation study.

Reeve Jack Bush said today the study would set down a pattern for road development in the township. He said decision to retain engineering consultants for the study may be made as early as tomorrow.

The reeve indicated the study would probably cover Sidney's road needs for the next 10 years but would be revised after five years had elapsed.

If the study goes ahead, says Bush, it will be confined largely to programs for the upgrading of existing roadways. However, he said he expects plans for an extension of Belleville's Bridge Street West deep into the township could also be included.

Questioned as to what roads will be treated as priorities, Bush replied "they all need work but it should be done according to a sensible pattern."

He indicated that one road that has drawn several complaints is the upper portion of Wallbridge - Loyalist Road but this is a responsibility of the Belleville and Suburban Roads Commission and not the township.

The reeve speculated a new overpass across the Canadian National Railway tracks on Wallbridge - Loyalist Road be built before the road itself is upgraded. The Canadian Transport Commission recently issued an order calling for design of the new overpass.

Sidney's road needs study will contain a thorough analysis of present township needs and set down a program for their development. If the study goes ahead, it will be preceded this fall and again next spring by a series of traffic counts throughout the township.

Morning Exercises

Graduation Ceremonies Held at Centennial

The Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing held its double-barrel graduation exercises on Saturday in Centennial High School. In the morning session, the Class of 1972A (Two Plus-One Year Program) graduate class of 48 nurses were awarded their pins and certificates and special awards.

Participating in the morning session were Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan, Chairman of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, who delivered the invocation, Mr. J. W. Deacon, Chairman, Board of Directors, ECRSN, who welcomed everyone.

Following the opening Mr. John A. Lupton, Administrator, Trenton Memorial Hospital spoke. Mr. Lupton compared nursing in the 19th century to today and the likeness of several popular television shows to the profession. "Dependable, kind, considerate, and a sense of humor are important qualities for nurses," said Mr. Lupton in his address to the graduating class. "Ask any patient and he'll centre out the nurse with the sense of humor." Mr. Lupton also described the nursing profession as one which commands lasting respect and admiration.

Bonnie Lynn Wickson, was honored with two special awards: the gold medal and the Dr. Donald M. Scott Memorial Award. Mrs. Patricia Ann Hunt won the Silver Medal. Miss Sharilyn Anne Stinson, Miss Lynn Claire McMackin, Miss Glenda Fay Brown, Mrs. Judith Pauline Scott and Miss Edith Maureen Rodgers were awarded the General Proficiency Nursing Awards.

Mrs. M. Flindall, principal ECRSN and Mrs. J. Rickard, vice-principal, ECRSN, presented the pins and diplomas. Award presentations were made by Mr. J. W. Deacon, Board of Directors, ECRSN; Mr. H. A. Hamilton, vice-chairman, Board of Directors, ECRSN; Mrs. J. D. Tripp, Board of Directors, Trenton Memorial Hospital; W. C. Hicks, Board of Governors, Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital; Mr. G. H. Free, Board of Directors, Campbellford Memorial Hospital; Mrs. J. E. Marsh, Board of Governors, Belleville General Hospital; Mrs. R. S. Morphy, W. B. Saunders Company and Dr. K. M. Douglas, President Medical Staff, Belleville General Hospital.

The valedictorian speech was given by Miss Carolyn Arnott. In her delivery, Miss Arnott thanked parents, teachers, classmates and medical staff for assisting the graduate nurses in reaching their goal. "Faith, hope and love".

Last, but not least, a special presentation was made. This time, the graduating class presented the award, Mrs. Marilyn McCoy and Mrs. Anne Cook, the teachers who assisted the class in making the yearbook were surprised and amused to receive the Yearbook dedication. These teachers were titled "the liger with the lion's heart" and "the lamb with the tiger's heart", presented the Yearbook to them: "the lamb with the tiger's heart" and "the tiger with the lamb's heart",

Equal Number in Later Ceremony

During the Saturday afternoon session of the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing graduation exercises held at Centennial High School, the same representatives from various boards of directors and governors in local hospitals awarded the special presentations.

Keynote speaker was Mr. S. N. Carr, Administrator, Campbellford Memorial Hospital. Mr. Carr mentioned the two male nurses in the class of 48 graduate nurses; Gordon Murray Crosier and Carl Joseph Gray.

In Mr. Carr's address, he explained men's role in nursing. "The monks looked after the sick and ailing and there were male nurses in the crusades," noted the guest speaker. "Don't get an inferiority complex — there is room for competition." Mr. Carr said that there is now a male nurse who is president of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario. In his address, the interesting speaker also mentioned that nurses are an important part of the team in dealing with patients.

Following the guest speaker's address Mrs. M. Flindall and Mrs. Richard presented the pins and diplomas.

Mrs. Jean Anne Ross walked off the stage carrying two awards: the Gold Medal and the Dr. Donald M. Scott Memorial Award. Miss Jennifer Ann Lawless received the Silver Medal. The General Proficiency Awards were presented by representatives from the four regional hospitals involved in ECRSN: Belleville General Hospital, Trenton Memorial Hospital, Campbellford Memorial Hospital and Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Sylvia Elaine O'Neill, Miss Nancy Colleen Meacock, Miss Patricia Edna Brand, Carl Joseph Grey and Mrs. Deborah Louise Castellarin received the General Proficiency Awards.

Miss Jean Burgess gave her Valedictorian address for the Class of 1972, in which she also thanked those responsible for the graduate nurses.

Two teachers who aided in the preparation of the Yearbook, a combined effort of classes A and B graduate nurses, Mrs. Anne Cook and Mrs. Marilyn McCoy were again surprised when the afternoon graduating class

IODE Chapter Resumes Meetings

The regular monthly meeting of St. Julien Chapter, IODE, was held September 5 at the Kinsmis Centre with the regent, Mrs. C. Lenk, presiding. Following words of welcome after summer vacation, the regent touched on highlights of the coming season and called for full participation in achieving success.

Minutes of the June meeting were read and much interest shown in attending the district dinner to be held in Marmora on Thursday, September 28. Correspondence included communications regarding coming events from both the National and Provincial Chapters and from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carscallen in appreciation of the floral arrangements sent them in honor of their recent 50th wedding anniversary. Attention was drawn to the closing date of November 30 for the short story competition for 1972 sponsored by Provincial Chapter with awards provided from the Lucy Morrison Memorial Fund.

Mrs. R. C. Ellis announced that Kenneth Snowden of Centennial Secondary School, who is entering Queen's University in Honors BA majoring in history this fall, had been awarded the Grade XIII bursary and that Miss Susan Rissi of Moira Secondary School, now enrolled in the two-year course at Mrs. C. Whittemore reported that Mrs. Richard Bisley and Mrs. H. McKay had been hospitalized this summer and Mrs. Bailey is still seriously ill. Mrs. A. D. Pearce, formerly a member of St. Thomas Picton Chapter, was then presented for admission to membership in this chapter in a brief but moving ceremony.

Mrs. F. Carscallen announced that the Thursday after noon bridge marathon was scheduled to begin September 21 and Mrs. F. Geerkens said the other bridge marathon would start the last week in September.

Books of tickets for the Christmas tree draw are still available for distribution to members, and it is hoped to display posters strategically to stimulate interest in this project which takes the form of a money tree this year — first prize will be $100, second $50 and third a grocery hamper.

The sunshine draw was won by Mrs. Eva Doolittle.

The regent thanked Mrs. C. Whittemore, tea hostess for the evening, and everyone enjoyed a social hour.

Find Out Where The Dollars Go

By DORIS CLARK

Time and again my letters ask for help in setting up a family budget. Time and again I urge couples to make this a matter of teamwork, and no cheating, either.

If money is a problem - or you have no head for figures, get a book for keeping track of where the dollars go. Work together on it and for several months write down what you spend.

Then you will find, indeed, that you are spending too much or too little, that certain indulgences might well be cut down in favor of more satisfying expenditures; or that you need to provide for a hobby — something neither of you thought of.

Dear Doris: I've been corresponding with a Marine. He is 21 and I am 18. We've been getting along just fine through our letters but now when he gets his leave he wants to come and meet me.

The problem is that I'm terribly overweight but I never told him this. I've also led him to believe I've been around guys quite a bit but I haven't. I'm really very shy around guys and I get my feelings hurt very easily.

Now I'm afraid to meet him when he comes home because I won't be what he thinks I am, and if I don't meet him he wants a reason why I can't so. Doris, what should I do? — Pen Pal.

Dear Pal: Put the record straight before he gets to where you are. Write and explain your shyness; your desire to have him think well of you; and that you are really rather shy with boys.

Explain that you are sensitive about your appearance because of the extra weight, but that like lots of others you are dieting and trying to get into shape again.

Chances are he is no model of perfection either. You have come to like each other through your letters; now you are going to have to give your real personalities a chance to shine through in a personal encounter. And I hope this will teach you that it pays to be honest!

Dear Doris: I am 61, widowed for 15 years. I am employed by a law firm and my two children are both married.

I am now thinking of marrying an 80-year-old man who is a young, active, healthy man who might pass for 65. We have much in common.

I have some concern about his age but if we can give each other even a few years of companionship and mutual enjoyment of hobbies — music, botany, ornithology, traveling, I feel that we should try.

What should I know and be prepared for? Should I ask the gentleman to have a medical check-up? — Sixty-Three.

Dear Sixty-Three: Sounds good to me. Be sure you know your man well enough that you are not marrying out of sheer loneliness. Get the frank opinions and approval of your children.

Dear R.C.: This is too much to handle alone. An understanding clergyman who will listen to your fears can be immensely helpful. Get going.

on, will be nursing an old man.

Take a little longer to make up your mind. Your warm regard may turn into a love to be treasured to the extent that you will make compromises and adjustments all along the line, which are certainly going to be needed.

CALGARY (CP) — Kyoen Ohashi, the host of the Japanese equivalent of the Johnny Carson Show, is going to bring a little bit of Alberta to his Hamillion late-night audience in Japan.

Films of the Medicine Hat Stampede, the Japanese monorial garden in Lethbridge, a 7,000-acre potato farm owned by a Japanese immigrant and an interview with Premier Peter Lougheed will be made into two one-hour programs by the Nippon Television Network Corp.

Mr. Ohashi and most Japanese have heard of the Nikka Yuko garden in Lethbridge so he is anxious to bring it to them on film.

The interview with Mr. Lougheed will be shown shortly before the premier's September trade mission to Japan.

Film segments shot in Calgary, Banff, Jasper, and British Columbia will also be shown to Japanese audiences.

Accompanying Mr. Ohashi on his second trip to Canada are his wife, a four-man film crew, and three friends.

Ann Landers

Gets Kicks by Spying on Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 34-year-old career girl—normal (I think) and happy. I became acquainted at work with what seemed to be a nice young woman.

As we became better friends, she confided that frequently she drives around at night checking driveways, garages and parking lots by hotels and motels looking for cars that belong to friends, relatives, public officials, and so on. She has a notebook filled with license plate numbers and other identifying features.

When I asked why she does this, she replied: "It started out as sociological research, but now it's a hobby!"

Last night I became aware of her driving by my house. It was nearly midnight. This made me angry. Needless to say, I no longer want her as a friend. Should I tell her to knock it off or should I keep quiet? Is she breaking the law? Please advise.—Spied On

Dear S.O.: No law is being broken so long as she doesn't harass anyone. But a person who would spy on friends and relatives as a hobby is off her rocker.

Say nothing. Such kooks are unpredictable. Keep quiet and cool the friendship.

Dear Ann Landers: Since I'm sure you have never done a laundry in your whole life I'm not surprised that your answer to "Minimum Mule" was superficial and inadequate. Hear this—from someone who is an authority on dirty clothes.

When my husband told me to wash six loads in one day rather than one load a day, all week long, I gave him the answer you suggested: "You run your office and let me run the house." He said: "Don't confuse me with facts. My mind is made up. It's cheaper to run the machine for several hours one day a week than to run it one hour a day, six days a week."

We went round and round about this silly thing until I discovered that his real complaint was the whirling and grinding and sloshing which he hated. So, rather than fight, I said "Yes dear, you're right," and I do as I please.—Dumb Like A Fox

Dear Foxy: First, let me disabuse you of the notion that I've never done a laundry in my life. My wash was the whitest on Valmond Ave. in Echo Claire, Wis.—the envy of the neighborhood, if you'll pardon the immodesty.

As for your solution (say, "Yes, dear," and then do as you please) it's the oldest one in the world. How come it took you so long to figure it out?

Dear Ann: I was married to a handsome man with a promising future. I learned to my horror that he was a secret drinker. It was agony to watch him deteriorate before my eyes. He fled, cheated, lost jobs, ruined friendships and alienated his family because of his drinking. Finally, he was killed in a car accident.

Now, two years later, I am married to another wonderful man who enjoys a few cocktails on weekends. He is not a problem drinker but I go to pieces whenever he has had one drink. We've had some arguments over it and I know I'm not being fair to him. How can I conquer this fear before I drive him away?—R.C.

Dear R.C.: This is too much to handle alone. An understanding clergyman who will listen to your fears can be immensely helpful. Get going.

Mirror of Your Mind

by ANN CHANDLER

Can a wife live on promises?

IF they are her husband's promises to do better as a husband and a provider, yes, a wife could have the will and the desire to make a success of their marriage (most wives do that every day). A wife doesn't even have to expect to see those promises overthrow. She is happy that her husband loves her enough to want to please her. Nor does a wife want her husband to "compare" happiness until he can deliver those promises.

Do good politicians 'give 'em hell'?

NO; "hero" politicians have an instinct for attacking issues, not people—not even their most bitter opponents. Actually, there aren't many good politicians in this vein. That's because there is a scarcity of people with such qualities. It is best that most individuals who do have such a flair in dealing with others stay mostly in other fields, where the rewards in personal satisfaction are more evenly balanced with the risks and the attacks involved.

Has the last child 'got it made'?

NO, although it may look as if the baby of the family should have an easier time as a child than his brothers and sisters. His parents might relax their reaches not to spoil their children and will pamper their last child. And a last child can learn from his brothers and sisters. Quite often, however, that can be the trouble. His older brothers and sisters can be models whom the youngest in the family spends a lifetime trying to emulate or outdo.

Thousand Battle Police on Reserve

OSHWEKEN, Ont. (CP) — Gunfire rattled through Six Nations Indian Reserve early Sunday, when provincial police quelled a wild, bottle-throwing riot.

Five policemen were injured and six cruiser cars were damaged during the fracas.

Hunt Killer

HULL, Que. (CP) — City police are searching for the killer of 13-year-old Lucie Dore of Hull, found nude and strangled with her belt Sunday evening in Gatineau Park.

Her clothes scattered 200 feet along a woodland trail, the girl's body was discovered about 5 p.m. by a stroller. Her head was in Lac des Fees-Fairy Lake and her body hidden by bushes.

The girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Dore, and was last seen about 4:45 p.m. Sept. 6, and reported missing by her mother about 12:30 a.m. Sept. 7.

When last seen she was riding her bicycle, now missing.

Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Terry Anne Meeuwsen, Miss Wisconsin, was crowned Miss America 1973 here Saturday.

Spassky Home

MOSCOW (AP) — Boris Spassky returned home to a hero's welcome Sunday night.

For the welcoming party of seven friends and relatives he had a weak smile. To an American journalist who had met him in Reykjavik, he expressed no regrets about losing the crown.

All he wanted to do now, he said, was rest.

Staff Sgt. Bud Soroka of the Brantford detachment of the provincial police said more than 1,000 people were involved in the fracas which started after police attempted to make arrests at a dance.

"Police personnel tried to make an arrest and met resistance and as a result reinforcements were called from Brantford, Simcoe and Cayuga," he said.

He said five arrests were fi nal made and several other warrants have been issued. The five will appear in Brantford court inda.

"We were heavily peppered with beer bottles, rocks and boards," said staff sergeant.

The fire policemen were all treated for lacerations and head injuries and released from hospital.

"Six shots were fired so we could evacuate the injured personnel," Staff Sgt. Soroka said.

About 75 police officers battled the rioters before the disturbance was finally quelled.

The dance is a traditional affair held at the conclusion of the Ohsweken Fall Fair. Ohsweken is just south of Brantford on the Six Nations Reserve.

Protest Raids

TORONTO (CP) — The 3,500 member Canadian Arab Federation has asked External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp to condemn Israeli air raids Friday on targets in Syria and Lebanon.

The telegram to Mr. Sharp charged that "more than 250 innocent Arab civilians" had been killed in the Israeli attacks.

Israel said the targets were bases for Palestinian guerrillas blamed for the deaths of 11 Israeli athletes at the Olympic Games in Munich Tuesday.

Pick Candidate

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Wilmer Hill, a 36-year-old high school teacher from Hampton, Ont., won the New Democratic Party nomination for Northumberland-Durham Sunday afternoon in the Oct. 30 federal general election.

He defeated Pat Stewart, 29, a nursing teacher.

Mr. Hill was the candidate in the 1968 election when he lost to Liberal Russell Honey.

Allan Lawrence, Ontario Justice secretary, announced last Friday that he would seek the Progressive Conservative nomination in the riding.

Cobourg is 20 miles southeast of Peterborough.

Israeli Shot

BRUSSELS (Reuter) — An Israeli embassy clerk was shot in the head by a burst of machine-gun fire in a cafe in this Belgian capital Sunday night, an embassy spokesman said today.

He said the clerk, Zadok Ophir, 42, had been operated on and his condition is quite hopeful.

The spokesman said Ophir was shot in a cafe to which he had been lured by a telephone caller who gave his name as Mohamed Ahmed Rabbah.

Police immediately launched a search for the two men who attacked Ophir.

Guinness Turns

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican radio said Saturday night veteran actor Alec Guinness has become a Roman Catholic because of his son's recovery from polio. The broadcast said Guinness attributed it to a miracle.

Matthew Guinness was stricken when he was five and confined to a wheelchair. Doctors said they were unable to do anything for him, the broadcast said.

Salesman Wins Plowing Title

BATHURST, N.B. (CP) — Charlie Thompson has been off the farm for several years, but the 23-year-old Chatham, N.B., salesman demonstrated a farm boy's learning Saturday as he won the national plowing championship here.

Thompson bettered 13 other competitors in the 5½-hour event and became the first British Columbia in 29 years to win the annual event, long dominated by contestants from Ontario and the other eastern provinces.

Thompson, a salesman for a Chilliwack radio station, will represent Canada at the world plowing championships next year.

Tuna Tussle

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Scandinavia won the 1972 international tuna cup match in waters north of here on the strength of two fish boated by Frank Moe of Asker, Norway.

Moe's two bluefin — a 636-pounder caught Wednesday and a 945-pounder boated Friday — gave the Scandinavian team 1,841 points on the basis of a point for each pound of fish caught. They added 208 extra points as a bonus for the largest bluefin caught in the five-day tournament and split 200 points with three other teams for the most fish caught in the tournament.

The winning total was 1,891 points.

Discuss NATO

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — A group of statesmen and parliamentarians from nine North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries ended two days of closed-door meetings Sunday convinced that the alliance is still viable and valid.

Senator Jacob Javits of the United States said one of the problems discussed by the committee was the decision by France to withdraw its troops from under NATO command.

He said "the organization has adapted itself to what was a real crushing blow," but added the committee has hope France will eventually return.

Apartheid Victim

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — A girl in labor waited two hours for a desperately-needed emergency operation while the qualified doctor at her side could do nothing because he was not white, it was reported here Sunday.

The Johannesburg Sunday Times says a white surgeon eventually performed the operation, but the girl, 18-year-old Caroline Amas, who was a Cape Coloured or mixed race, died three days later after giving birth to a daughter.

The paper says the girl died Aug. 7. It says her baby was being delivered in Out-of-bounds Hospital by Dr. Carl Abrahamse, a Cape Coloured, when she suffered from a fit.

But the hospital regulations prevented Dr. Abrahamse from using the services of skilled white employees and prevented him from entering the operating theatre, the report says.

Find Way to Detect Cancer Before Any Symptoms Show

NEWCASTLE, England (AP) — Potential cancer sufferers may be identified long before physical symptoms appear, a British research team reported Sunday.

This discovery, they said, may point the way to an eventual breakthrough in treatment based on stimulating the body's own natural defences.

The report came from Prof. C. J. Field and a medical research team working at Newcastle General Hospital.

Writing in the British Medical Journal, Field forecast that by the end of the century mass screening for cancer will be standard practice, and immunotherapy—an attempt to assist natural defences—may be available to potential sufferers even before the site of the cancer is located.

A member of the team cautioned, however, that their work should not raise false optimism.

He explained that the diagnostic tests involved are expensive and complicated and must be radically simplified before mass screening could begin.

The team's work is based on its discovery that the white blood cells of people with cancer develop a special reaction to a protein present in malignant tumors.

They then started testing children born to mothers who subsequently developed cancers. They found that the mothers passed these sensitized white cells on to their children several years before the mother's cancer was diagnosed.

Thus the potential cancer in the mother could have been identified long before the cancer became apparent. The cells passed on to the child are harmless. They disappear before puberty and may, the team believes, even have protective value.

"It is already clear that the earliest surgical diagnosis is already relatively late," Field wrote.

"So long as doctors wait for classical signs of cancer—a pal- pable lump, obstruction of a tube or bleeding—valuable years will be lost."

Troubled Games' Flame Doused

MUNICH (CP) — The 1972 Olympics, a mixture of triumph and tragedy, end today with the dousing of the flame that burned for 17 days, some of them the most memorable in the history of the Modern Games.

Crises rooted in racially-troubled Africa and the divided Middle East intruded on the festival. A movement dedicated to peace found itself confronted first with political bitterness and finally with terror.

The death of 11 Israeli Olympians in an Arab terrorist raid left Olympic ideals tattered and splashed the festive atmosphere.

Halted for 34 hours on the 11th day last Wednesday after the murders, the Games might have ended right then and there but for Avery Brundage, who at the end of his 20-year reign as Olympic boss insisted they "must go on," and they did.

Now the scene shifts to Montreal, where in four years' time 6ths will hold its first Olympics.

The Brundage era over, the 21st Olympics may be taken on a new look under the stewardship of Irish peer Lord Killanin, who succeeds Brundage as president of the International Olympic Committee.

The 20th Games, which drew crowds of 80,000 daily to the glamour track and field events that ended Sunday, was left with only the traditional Grand Prix des Nations jumping event, and the closing ceremony as today's program.

For Canada today, it was the last chance for a gold medal, a situation identical to the one four years ago when the eques. rians led by Tom Gayford won on the last day at Mexico City.

The Canadian squad of 206 competitors already had equalled its 1968 total medal count of five—winning two silver and three bronze in Munich. The swimmers and yachtsmen accounted for the medals.

The Russians went on a 16 gold spree during the weekend, including a gold disputed by the United States in basketball, and won the team championship by a wide margin.

Fifty gold medals in all were in the Soviet bag, a total surpassed only twice—by the U.S. with 78 in 1904 and Britain with 56 in 1908. Runner-up U.S. had 33—off a dozen from 1968.

The Finland, a country of 4.5 million, crowned its achievements in track and field Saturday by completing a remarkable distance triple. Lasse Viren, the running policeman, added the 5,000-metre gold to the one he won last week in the 10,000. Pekka Vasala outran defending champion Kip Keino of Kenya in the 1,500 m-tres.

The U.S. salvaged three track and field gold to end up with six—fewest ever. Frank Shorter upset Mamo Wolde, Ethiopia's defending champion, in the marathon and the U.S. took the long jump and one of the four relay titles, equalling the world record in the men's 400-metre race.

Seven world records fell and three others were equalled besides the relay as track and field competition and all additional Olympic marks fell. The swimmers did even better, smashing world marks in 22 events, equalling a 23rd and wiping out every Olympic record in the book.

Cuba won its first gold medals by capturing three titles in boxing and Uganda also broke into the victory column for the first time as John Akii Bua finished in front in the 400-metre hurdles.

Defending champions were also hard to defeat in several of Sunday's events.

Pakistan was beaten by West Germany in the field hockey final. Hungary bowed to Poland in soccer and Japan deposed Russia in men's volleyball.

Kriese held for a second L. 200-metre crown was thwarted by Vasala although he picked up a gold medal earlier in the 3,000-metre steeplechase and Viren's 5,000-metre triumph came at the expense of Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia who finished second.

Valery Borzov of Russia and Renate Stecher of East Germany, both of whom achieved sprint doubles, were foiled in attempting to win a third gold medal. Mrs. Stecher's 400 relay team was edged by East Germany and the Russians settled for silver behind the U.S. in the men's sprint relay.

The East German girls came back with a world-record victory in the 1,600-metre relay and Russia captured the last two field events, the men's high jump and women's discus.

East Europeans swept all 10 classes in Greco-Roman wrestling with the Russians winning four while the U.S. celebrated the return of archery as an Olympic event after 52 years by taking both men's and women's titles. Don Jackson of Lindsay, Ont., was sixth in the men's competition.

The United States, on top of the table since the 1960 Rome Olympics, tottered through a series of sporting setbacks and incredible fiascos to a position of mediocrity.

The final humiliation came when it lost 51-50 the basketball title for the first time since the sport was introduced at the 1936 Berlin games—after a sensational finish.

Banned Runner Blames 'Vendetta'

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic medallist Wayne Collett, barred for life from the Olympic Games for his demeanour during the playing of the Star Spangled Banner at Munich, arrived here Saturday and charged he was banished because "Avery Brundage is on a personal vendetta."

Collett said Brundage, outgoing International Olympic Committee president, is "on a rampage" because the International Olympic Committee refused him in barring Rhodesia from the Games.

"There were a lot of human misunderstandings," at the Games, Collett said. "Peru was a lot of irresponsible journalism."

"The thing about the national anthem is that there are a lot of things in it that are untrue," he said.

"We are athletes, not politicians, and politics must be taken out of the Olympics."

The 22-year-old business major at the University of California won a bronze medal in the 400-metre race, as did gold medal winner Vince Matthews who also was barred for life.

Brundage Busy Opening Mail

MUNICH (AP) — Avery Brundage scanned the telegram, blinked and could now resist a deep chuckle.

"Nazi."

That was all it said. All around him, almost knee deep, were telegrams from all over the world directed at the 84-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee.

"You should award gold medals posthumously to the brave Israelis slain by the Arab commandos," said a telegram from Athens, Greece.

"Inscribe the Star of David on the five rings of the Olympic flag," said another from Tel Aviv.

Many of the telegrams dealt with the expulsion of American runners Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett from the Olympic Games because of their so-called "disgusting" behavior on the victory stand during the playing of the national anthems.

"They are a disgrace to America," said a telegram signed by a citizen committee from Dallas. "Send them home and take away their medals."

AVERY BRUNDAGE

"Racist—it's just another discrimination against the blacks," argued a voice from militant black society.

Every few minutes, Fredrick Ruegegger, Brundage's Swiss secretary, barged into the fourth floor suit of the fashionable Hotel Vierjahreszeiten with another handful of telegrams.

He proceeded to read every one, spraying the messages on the floor as he finished them.

It was suggested that these Games—with the African-Rhodesian controversy, Tuesday's horror-filled massacre of innocent Israelis and Friday's expulsion of two American black athletes—must be the most trying of all for the tough, old octogenarian who performs his final duties as president on Monday.

"Absolutely," he said with resolution, "but the Olympic spirit is too strong to die or be killed by anybody."

Red Sox' Boss Real Diplomat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Kasko always has been known for his diplomacy, and he certainly won't change now that his Boston Red Sox have their biggest lead of the season in the tight four-team American League East pennant race.

"I couldn't pick out a single aspect as to why we're winning," tactful Kasko said Sunday after the Red Sox had swept a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians 5-1 in 12 innings and 3-0, increasing their lead to 1½ games over runner-up Baltimore Orioles.

"We've been getting good pitching for quite a while," added the Boston manager. "But if I said the pitchers were doing it, the hitters would get mad. It's been a combination of everything."

Boston's two victories over Cleveland give the Red Sox 14 triumphs in their last 17 games and a 66-26 record since July 1, when they were 7½ games back.

"We're on a hot streak," admitted Kasko "but we haven't played Detroit or Baltimore in quite a while."

Rookie Carlton Fisk's 29th homer of the season enabled Boston to break a 1 - 1 tie against Cleveland in the 12th inning of their opener. A walk, two singles, a two-run error by Jack Brohamer and Luis Aparicio's bunt single gave Boston its final three runs and former National Leaguer Bob Veale his first American League triumph.

Rookie John Curtis gained his 10th victory in 16 decisions since being called up from the minors late in May, shackling the Indians on five hits in the second game. Aparicio contributed a solo homer.

Baltimore, winner of the East championship the past three years, blanked Milwaukee Brewers 2-0 as Jim Palmer scattered seven hits for his 19th victory.

Palmer's shutout moved him within one victory of his third straight 20-victory season.

"There was great pressure to win, despite playing Milwaukee," said the Orioles' right-hander. "We can't afford to lose."

Weaver Wins with Imagination

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — DeWitt Weaver combined luck and imagination Sunday to capture the $100,000 Southern open golf tournament, edging Chuck Courtney on the first hole of a sudden death playoff.

Courtney charged to within one stroke of Weaver at the 17th green, coming away with a birdie after the leader settled for a bogey.

But while Courtney played it safe thinking he was fighting for second place at the 18th green, Weaver—playing behind Courtney—was experiencing near disaster on the tee of No. 18.

Weaver's final shot had hooked sharply out of play. Although facing a one penalty stroke, he teed off again and the drive hooked in the same direction. The shot struck a tree limb, however, and fell into fair play.

He took a double bogey five, following Courtney, who had chipped past the flag and then three-putted for a bogey.

Both finished regulation play with four-round totals of 276.

Faced with a sudden-death possibility of defeat, Weaver said he put his imagination to work before teeing off on the record, par-4, 401-yard hole.

"I imagined that I was going to hit my drive on top of the hill and I did," Weaver said.

"Then I imagined the second shot was going to land on the green, and it did."

He won the hole with a par four—and the $20,000 first prize—and described the victory as "a bigger thrill than winning the U.S. Match Play championship last year."

Toronto's George Knudson shot a 72 Sunday for a 285 total and prize money of $885. Will Hornemak of Winnipeg, only other Canadian to survive the cut, won $142 by shooting 74 Sunday for a 290 total.

Two Tackles Turn Tide

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Individual heroics by defensive backs that turn a game around are unusual but the unusual happened in two Eastern Football Conference encounters on the weekend.

Ottawa Rough Riders were trailing Montreal Alouettes 22-21 early in the final quarter at Ottawa Saturday night when Rider tackle Rudy Sims intercepted a George Mira pass and lumbered 36 yards for the go-ahead touchdown.

The Riders added another touchdown and a field goal for a 38-22 win, their fifth against one loss to keep them solidly in the EFC lead.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats were down by four points in the final quarter at Toronto Sunday when tackle Bruce Smith picked off a Wally Gabler pass and took it to the Argonaut 40-yard line.

Dave Fleming ran for the touchdown on the next play and the Ticats pulled out a 22-18 victory to stay two points behind Ottawa in the EFC race with four wins against three losses.

"That's my first (professional) touchdown — a big man," said Sims, a 250-pound lineman who played halfback in high school.

"I scored one in college, but it was never like that."

Sims' touchdown turned the tide for Ottawa but it was only one of three such plays in the game.

Earlier, linebacker Wayne Giardino intercepted a Mira pass on the Montreal 33 and ran it back to give the Riders a 17-0 lead after the first quarter.

The Als also collected one of their major scores on an interception when Brad Upshaw stepped in front of a Rick Cassata pass and ran back 41 yards.

Running backs Terry Wellesley and Bob Houmard accounted for the other Ottawa touchdowns and also contributed 324 yard total ground attack to balance off the 228 yards gained on Rick Cassata's passing.

At Toronto, Smith didn't stop with his interception but came back to molest Gabler on Argos' next play and dropped the Toronto quarterback for a 17-yard loss.

Gabler's next pass went into the hands of Ticat defensive back Rick Shaw and Al Bruno picked off yet another Toronto pass in the final minute of play in frustrate Argos' comeback hopes.

Like the Rough Riders, the Ticats also displayed a strong running attack with quarterback Chuck Ealey and Fleming each rambling for 88 yards, contributing to a total ground game of 242 yards.

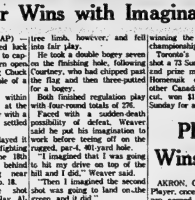
Eskies' Jauch Not Jubilant

EDMONTON (CP) — The 22,311 people jammed into Clarke Stadium were cheering "We're No. 1" as Edmonton Eskimos left the field after a 27-20 victory over Calgary Stampeders Sunday.

But in the Edmonton dressing room, where coach Ray Jauch might be expected to be celebrating the win that gave the Eskimos first place in the Western Football Conference, it was a different story.

"We're not No. 1," said Jauch despite his team's 6-1 record. "We're too young and haven't been together as a team long enough . . . but we may be eventually.

"We have the material, but we're not able to field the best club because of injuries."



He was referring to a long list of veteran Eskimos players sidelined with injuries who were joined by middle linebacker Jerry Griffin early in Sunday's game. Griffin, who called the team's defensive plays, hobbled around the dressing room with his left taped from ankle to thigh and it was not known how long he would be out of action.

GALE SAYERS

Bears Lose Gale Sayers

CHICAGO (AP) — Gale Sayers announced his retirement from the Chicago Bears Sunday.

The two-time all American from the University of Kansas and five-time All-National Football League choice in his early years with the Bears, had never fully recovered from knee trouble dating back to 1968. The halfback's decision to quit came after a dismal showing in the Bears' 23-14 loss to St. Louis Cardinals in a preseason game Saturday night.

It was an admitted final test for Sayers, who lost much of his speed and moves because of injuries. Sayers, who set or shared eight NFL rushing records, had been averaging 4.4 yards per carry in each of the last two NFL seasons. He showed little of the lateral that terrorized defenses when he came to the Bears in 1965, led the league in rushing, won rookie-of-the-year honors, and scored six touchdowns against San Francisco Dec. 12, 1965.

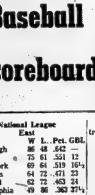
Player Wins Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Gary Player, once a PGA-circuit champ, earned a cool $25,000-a-day over the weekend.

The 36-year-old Professional Golf Association champion flew 19,026 miles back to his native South Africa today with a $50,000 cheque for his third World Series of Golf title Sunday.

His rounds of 71-71-71 beat Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino by two shots. Nicklaus shot the only sub par round of the tournament, a 69, to finish at 144 with Trevino, who had a closing 70. They each earned $7,500.

Fourth place Gay Brewer nets $5,000 for shooting 73-72—290.



"I made 170 a month when I started out as a pro back home, and it gives you a better sense of values," said Player.

"That's why I don't believe in boycotts. It makes you soft," he said.

Player then proved his point by running two miles late Sunday around the deserted 7,180-yard Firestone South course.

The little South African negotiated ten of the first 14 holes, once sinking five consecutive one-putters on the front nine.

Squirts Win First Of Semis

Mead Johnson squirts collected their hits in timely places to top Barrie 4-3 in the opening game of their OASA semifinal Saturday.

Despite being outhit by a 7-4 margin, the Belleville team was able to gain the win behind some timely hitting by Andy Rozzell. In the first inning he powered a two - run homer to give his team a 2-0 lead and scored the eventual winning run in the third after leading off the inning with a double.

This finale went the distance for Belleville, allowing only two unearned runs. He struck out seven batters and issued a single base on balls. Andy Browning lost a five-hitter for Barrie, walking three and recording four strikeouts.

Rozzell had a double, triple and single for the winners with Darrell Coleman and Paul Soule providing the other hits.

Selects Get Silverware

Manfred Kuehnapfel of the Ottawa Selects accepts the championship trophy from Bay of Quinte Soccer Association executive Bill Letford after he and his teammates captured the first Masters Invitational Senior Soccer Tournament Sunday. Kuehnapfel kicked the winning goal as Ottawa downed Oshawa Azzurri 1-0 for their fifth win of the day against no defeats.

SACO Swan-song Happy

Belleville SACO peewees made their 1972 swan song a happy one by winning the Pakenham Peewee Tournament Saturday.

The local OASA entry trounced Mountain Grove 15-5 in the opening game and followed with a 17-7 verdict over Springbrook in the A championship.

Randy Smith and Danny Vance combined for the opening victory, limiting Mountain Grove to seven hits and one walk. John Ianopoulos rapped a triple and three singles for Saco while Wayne Eros connected for a single, double and triple. Bill Whyte collected a double and two singles for the Belleville team's homer and double. The victory gave Belleville a bye into the "A" championship.

Smith and Vance again combined to hurl the win over Springbrook, getting their major hitting help from Terry Pearce who socked a homer, two triples and a single. Kevin Ward added two doubles and a single with Whyte supplying a triple and single.

Wayne Andrews powered a triple and single for Springbrook with Dobson and Morton adding two hits each.

"I think I've discovered your problem, J. B. You're power log!"

Plane's Drop Final Opener

Thurlow Plane's Concrete weren't able to "go against the grain" Saturday losing 4-2 to Wheatley in the opening game of the Ontario Tyke "C" finals.

David Blakely went the route for Plane's allowing nine hits and two walks while striking out seven. Robinson gave up eight hits for Wheatley and provided much of the offence with a homer and two singles.

Gerard Cole and John Card rapped two hits each for Thurlow, with single safeties going to Rob O'Brien, Boyd Sullivan, John Masterson and Jeff Hergre.

The second game in the best-of-three series will be played Saturday at Harmony Public School beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, Thurlow Hardmen bantams were eliminated from the bantam "C" semifinals by losing two weekend encounters with Dorchester.

The Yardmen were beaten 10-5 Saturday and 11-4 Sunday to finish their season.

Dan McCloud hurled a two-hitter for the clinching Dorchester victory while Terry Holgate and Brian Masterson gave up seven hits for the losers. Holgate and Ted Potter had seen mound duty in Saturday's belt.

Bruce Sullivan had a homer and Ted Foster a single for Thurlow Sunday, while Farley Vader collected three hits and Brian Masterson two in the opening defeat.

Yankee Jed Joins Winner's Circle Here

A change of scenery didn't hamper Yankee Jed in the least as he posted a win in the feature of Saturday's Quinte Raceway harness racing card.

The nine - year - old bay gelding, who won his last outing at Frontenac Downs, took the Belleville track in stride. His winning time of 2:10.4 was the fastest of the night, earning owner-driver Bernard Hunt of Tweed first prize money of $360. Gerry Walsh was second with Dominion Lad, with John Vance guided Rush's Daisy to a third place showing.

Cam Wanamaker's Meadow Dale Wanni slipped from the winner's circle for the first time in three career starts, placing fourth in the opening race of the night. Joe Hogan guided Simm Sam to a win in third race, ahead of Al Vance driving Johnny Command.

A crowd of 658 attended the event, with a pari-mutuel handle of $18,726.

Brakemen Came Back

Belleville Brakemen and Conductors pervaded team came off the ropes swinging to earn an Ontario Baseball Association semi final match with East York this weekend.

Mike Burke, Peter Hall and Howie Coons saw mound action in Sunday's victory. They struck out five and walked three. Coons sparked the attack with a grand slam homer and a single while Bruce McKay had two singles and a triple and Hall a double and single.

Hall and Coons were on the hill for Saturday's loss. Coons was the leading hitter for the Conductors and Brakemen with a double and single with their other hits going to Burke and Rory Radford.

Ambro Huck in Hurry

KINGSTON — Ambro Hurk must have been in a hurry to provide owner - driver Paul Barkley with the $2,000 first prize money in the Glen Lawrence Invitational at Frontenac Downs Sunday.

Barkley reined Ambro Huck to a 2:02.4 performance in the event to shatter the Frontenac Downs track record. Winners Not Fussy with Format

TRENTON — One might have expected members of the Ottawa Selects to have nothing but praise for the format of the first annual Molson's Invitational Soccer Tournament — especially after they won it.

But the Selects, like most of the other four clubs entered, were dubious about the merits of trying to cram 22 abbreviated 40-minute games into a one-day schedule.

Round Up Broncos

CFHQ Trojans threw a rope on sole possession of first place in the National Defence Football League by tying up CFB Trenton Broncos 18-7 Saturday.

It was the second victory in a row for CFHQ, while Trenton is now tied for second with Rockcliffe Huskies. Both teams have 1-1 records.

The winners carried a 6-1 lead into half time as penalties proved costly to them. Two second-half touchdowns increased the lead to 18-7 before Ken Vos scored on a five-yard counter near the end of the game. Paul Hall's 28-yard run had set up the major. The former Brown point came as the result of a 28-yard single by Jim Simpson.

Registrations Still Open

There was no first - minute rush by minor hockey players to register in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association this weekend.

A total of 488 registrations were recorded in the two-day period. "It's about one-third of what is expected," advised Austin Watkin of the BMHA. "But that's about what we got last year in the first week."

Players will be able to register all of this week from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the Recreation Centre. Registrations will also be held at Belleville Memorial Arena from 6 - 9 Friday night and 9 - 12 a.m. Saturday.

TRACK GROUP FORMED

MUNICH (AP) — A group headed by the founders of the American Basketball Association and the World Hockey Association announced Sunday the formation of a pro track circuit, called the International Track Association.

"It would have been better as a two-day tournament — this is our fifth game today," noted Ottawa's Manfred Kuehnapfel, whose sudden-death penalty kick gave his team the championship by virtue of a 1-0 win over Oshawa Azzurri.

The penalty kick method of determining winners, with each side kicking alternately until one succeeded and the other missed also drew some criticism. Four of the day's 22 games were decided in this way, and it took four tries by each team to determine the outcome of the championship match.

"We were in favor of playing extra time," noted Kuehnapfel. "But the other team

Mosquitoes Bite Dust

Belleville mosquito all-stars found the second leg of the Oshawa McLaughlin Centennial Soccer Tournament the toughest Saturday. After downing an Ajax entry 1-0 in their opening game, the local minor soccer entry was ousted from the tournament by a 2-1 loss to Applewood-Kiekfas of Toronto.

Gary Fredericks scored the only goal of the game in Belleville's win over Ajax, while Bob Dainard recorded the shutout. Fredericks also scored in the second encounter as his team was edged by the eventual tournament finalists.

A total of 16 teams from Ajax, Oshawa, Belleville and Toronto took part in the tournament.

Kingston's only loss was 1-0 to A section winner Oshawa Azzurri, while the Wanderers' lone entry - round loss was 2-1 on a sudden-death penalty kick to the eventual champion from Ottawa.

Two Bay of Quinte Soccer Association all-star sides had dismal days, with Quinte Ambers and Quinte Dynamos each going winless in four games. Kingston Lion's, Belleville's entry in the Kingston senior league, recorded one win in four games, a 2-1 victory over the Dynamos.

The Ambers, Peterborough, Oshawa Azzurri and Tune-up and Kingston International formed the tournament's A section, which played their games at Belleville's OSD and Zwick's Island fields.

The Dynamos, Ottawa, Newmarket, Oshawa Wanderers, and Lion's played B section games at CFB Trenton and at Trenton Centennial Park, the scene of the two title matches.

Nastase Best on Lawn

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Romanian Davis Cup star Ilie Nastase has won the coveted men's singles title of the 1972 Open Tennis Championship, and in doing so has achieved a personal goal—reclaimed the U.S. Open title and the prestige that comes with it.

Prior to this year, Nastase was noted only for his clay court prowess.

Billie Jean King got even more respect for her play when she downed Australia's Kerry Melville, 6-3, 7-5, for the women's final Saturday.

August he took the Eastern Grass Courts crown. Now in September he has the U.S. Open title and the prestige that comes with it.

Prior to this year, Nastase was noted only for his clay court prowess.

Billie Jean King got even more respect for her play when she downed Australia's Kerry Melville, 6-3, 7-5, for the women's final Saturday.

Dynamite De-fused

TORONTO (CP) — The American challenger Dynamite proved herself to be a light-air threat before Sunday's first race in the Canada's Cup sailing series was abandoned with lack of wind.

Dynamite, with Lloyd Eccleston of Detroit at the helm, footed to the first weather mark 10 minutes faster than the Canadian defender Mirage under skipper Gordon Fisher of Toronto.

But the race was abandoned when the race committee realized neither sloop would complete the 21 miles over a triangular course within the seven-hour time limit.

The two contenders battled for about 3½ hours to cover the first leg which had a straight-line distance of just under five miles.

But today could be different. The Lake Ontario marine weather forecast calls for winds between 15 to 20 miles an hour for the late-morning start, freshening to 20 to 25 m.p.h. in the afternoon.

Fittipaldi Fastest

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil drove his Lotus to victory in the 40-mile Formula 1 Grand Prix of Italy Sunday to clinch the world driving championship.

The 25-year-old from Sao Paulo became the youngest driver to hold the title in 21 years. He also became the first Brazilian to gain the honor.

Defending world champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland and Jacky Ickx of Belgium failed early in their bid to derail the Brazilian's run for the championship.

Sign First Five

Bobcats Need Size, Defencemen

With all but three of last year's roster graduating to higher schools of hockey learning, and facing their first season of play in the competitive Metro Toronto Junior B League, organizers of the Belleville Bobcats knew they had their work cut out for them.

At Sunday's first session of the Bobcat training camp, manager Russ Soule got a lot of important paperwork done.

After coach Murray "Moe" Hunter put 36 hopefuls through an exhaustive opening two-hour workout at the Dick Ellis Rink, manager Soule and general manager Jim Matthews announced the signing of the nucleus of this year's Bobcats.

Holdovers Tim Yohn, Dave Horwood, and Bill Jackett all signed, as did juvenile grads Rick Meagher and Rob Foster, who both saw action with the Junior B's last winter.

Between now and the first of 36 scheduled Metro League games around October 18, coach Hunter served notice he will be looking for good hockey players in general, and good BIG ones in particular.

"All the guys we have signed are good hockey players, but we haven't got much size," the second-year coach confessed. "And we could use some defencemen. Right now all we've got is Timmy (Yohn)."

The Bobcats expected to announce the signings of other players' at tonight's second training camp session, beginning at 9.30 at the Ellis Rink.

Hastings Tykes Show Sunday Best

Hastings Caretaking put on their Sunday best after dropping the opening game of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association tyke finals.

Hastings ripped the Kinsmen 20-11 Sunday after losing an 8-4 verdict in the Saturday opener of the best-of-three series.

Steve McCrory and Bill Stark shared Sunday's pitching duties for Hastings, besting Kevin Jones, Jeff Hayward and Bruce McIlrien who had combined to pitch the opening win.

McCrory had 3 triple and four singles with Steve Seymour adding four singles for the caretakers. Scott Cooper paced Kinsmen with a homer and single.

McIlrien led the Kinsmen to their Saturday victory by slamming a homer and double. McCrory had a single, double and triple for Hastings.

The Kinsmen bantams earned a berth in the city finals by stopping Golden Mile 5-3 in the third and deciding game of their semi-final series. Mike McClelland and Peter McBride combined to pitch a two-hitter for the Kinsmen. They struck out 15 batters and walked five. Brian Turner took the loss.

Tony Meagher paced the Kinsmen with three singles while Pat McKinney had a pair and Dave Holland a double. The lone Golden Mile hit went to Turner and Jeff Merrill.

Net-ful of Bobcats

Belleville Bobcats opened their Junior B training camp Sunday, and promptly signed a net-ful of players. From left, juvenile graduates Rob Foster and Rick Meagher, and the three remaining c l u b holdovers from last season — Tim Yohn, Bill Jackett, and Dave Horwood — signed for the Belleville Juniors' first season in the Metro Toronto League. The Bobcats open their 36 - game schedule around Oct. 10, with their first home game set for Sunday, Oct. 15.

Pro Camps Plaguing Quintes

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

While National Hockey League expansion and the coming of the World Hockey Association are mushrooming the opportunities for players to make professional or semi-pro clubs, the growing of revised senior hockey in the city, may have its training camp rivalled with absences due to pro camp invitations.

Of the 23 players skating at the opening workout, no less than five could be leaving at least temporarily for pro tryouts within the next couple of weeks, while another three have already signed professional contracts for the 1972-73 season.

Familiar faces who were out for Sunday's skate under the direction of coach Wayne "Wiener" Brown were Lionel Boily, Ralph Plane, Al Ferguson, Perry Chittick, Ray Johnston, Dan Creighton, Lorne O'Donnell, Wayne and John McConnell, goalie Ron Jury, and rally forward Paul Perras, who played until Christmas last year before quitting due to job and night-school commitments.

But O'Donnell will join the New England Whalers' WHA camp, Johnston has an invitation to California Golden Seals' NHL tryouts, Perras is being wooed by Boston Bruins as a possible addition to their Dayton farm club, and even Quinte captain Ralph Plane is mulling over last week's telephone offer to attend the training camp of the WHA's Cleveland Crusaders.

In addition, Belleville native Pete Fleming, a standout with New York State's St. Lawrence College for the past three winters, will leave Tuesday to attend Boston's NHL camp.

AL FERGUSON

Fleming would look good in a Belleville uniform, as would three other skaters at Sunday's session.

Unfortunately for coach Brown and the Quintes, George Ferguson (Toronto Maple Leafs), Larry Mavety (Los Angeles Sharks), Ron Riley (Ottawa Nationals) have already signed previous commitments.

Two players the Quintes WILL have are Trenton commuters Al Ferguson and Dan Creighton. Ferguson, the first Belleville product since the days of Minnie Menard to hit a 20-goal season, and defenceman Creighton both were signed after Sunday's scrimmages.

With all-star goaltender Steve Rexe signed to a WHA contract, last years back-up Ron Jury has the inside track on the netminding job. Former Trenton junior Gig Hart was the other goalie out Sunday.

Senior A experienced players included Ray Summers, Carl Boonhower, and defenceman Greg Burkitt, while, of the newcomers, Little Britain intermediate Bob Taylor showed most promise. Taylor spent three seasons with the Eastern League's Salem entry before quitting two years ago.

Club spokesman Lionel Boily indicated the Quintes could probably count on the services of popular centre George Godino, who was sidelined in the latter stages of last season with a knee injury.

And veteran Greg Marchen's absence was due to his involvement with the Peterborough Lakers in National Lacrosse League playoffs.

Meanwhile, team spokesmen were trying to hide their disappointment at the non-appearance that will be caused by players attending pro camps.

"They'll be going away all right, noted club director Gord Robbin, "but will be coming back."

The Quintes continue to work out with a two hour practice tonight, beginning at 7.30 in the Ellis Rink.

"It was the same signal for the slow ball and the fast ball. They travel at about the same speed."

Tony's Trim Domville

Oshawa Tony's left little doubt about their right to advance to the OASA Senior A semi-finals as they hammered out a 7-1 victory over Domville Sunday.

The game, played at Belleville's Alemite field, was the third and deciding match in their quarter-final series.

Goyer Paces Ponies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Orillia Majors and Kingston Ponies will meet again in Kingston Saturday to decide which team will play Toronto Maple Leafs for the Ontario Baseball Association senior champion ship.

The Majors defeated the Ponies 4-1 in Orillia Sunday to square the best-of-three series final at one game each. The Ponies won 9-4 in Kingston Saturday.

The Leafs eliminated St. Catharines Falls from the other semi-final with a 7-3 win Saturday.

Gord Dymet scattered five hits to pack up Sunday's victory for the Majors while his teammates were collecting 10 hits off loser Garnie Adams. Barry Cockburn and Wally MacMillan each hit homers for the winners.

In Kingston Saturday, Gary Goyer hit a three-run homer to pace the Ponies and Duke Murphy was the winning pitcher.

Winning pitcher John Edgar fashioned a three-hitter and didn't allow a safety after the second inning to lead the Leafs into the finals Saturday.

Rick Owen had a pair of homers for Toronto and Leo Dercher added one.

Losing pitcher George Kovince accounted for all of St. Catharines' runs with a three-run homer in the first inning.

Sinden Studying

TORONTO (CP) — In 1969, while he was still coach of the Russian national hockey team, Anatoli Tarasov wrote a book entitled Road to Olympus. It sketched ernest Toronto critics storea drawing little attention although it was reduced from its $4.95 price to 95 cents a copy on the clearance tables.

Suddenly, the book has become significant, especially for Canadian hockey coaches Harry Sinden and John Ferguson.

Since watching the Russians play hockey and head for Moscow with a 2-1-1 record in the first of four exhibition games between the Soviets and Team Canada, Sinden and Ferguson are convinced the book should be a best-seller.

"Somebody gave it to me and I've read parts of it," Sinden admitted Saturday, when team Canada returned from Vancouver to Toronto where the players dispersed until Tuesday.

"You can bet I'll read it all before we leave for Sweden," Sinden said.

He listed three examples: 1. The Soviet system of changing their full unit of five, instead of line changes; 2. The Soviet system of intensive and comprehensive training drills; 3. The Russian players' constant attention to techniques.

Who's the Teacher?

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass, the Soviet News agency, said Saturday that the Russian and Canadian hockey teams had something to learn from each other.

Tass didn't say so outright, but indicated the Canadians could learn from the Russians.

"It now can be said that the national teams of the U.S.S.R. and Canada are rivals of about equal strength," Tass said.

'Corporate Bums' Again Under Fire

TORONTO (CP) — National New Democratic Party leader David Lewis officially opened his campaign for the Oct. 30 federal election Sunday by continuing his attack against the federal income tax system and expanding his list of "corporate welfare bums."

Mr. Lewis focused on deferred taxes which he said is a system that gives "giant corporations interest free loans at the expense of the average Canadian taxpayer."

He was in Toronto to address an Ontario NDP provincial council meeting. He was to leave Sunday night for Vancouver where he will begin a cross-Canada campaign tour.

Speaking to about 300 NDP members, Mr. Lewis said the deferred tax system "means scores of corporations will never pay these taxes back, because, legally, corporations can go on forever deferring their taxes."

He said at the end of 1971 Liberal and Conservative governments had allowed corporations to defer income taxes totalling $3.6 billion.

Turning his attack against individual firms, he said an example of corporate welfare was Canadian Marconi, a company he said had net earnings of $10.6 million between 1967 and 1971 and paid income tax of $4.4 million for an average rate of 22.7 per cent.

However, he said during the same period the company received $16.2 million in federal grants and duty remissions. As a result, he said, the federal treasury received 34 million in taxes and pais out $18 million in grants.

Another firm, Dominion Foundry and Steel Corp., he said had net earnings of $462.8 million between 1966 and 1971 and paid income taxes of $91.8 million, a rate of 14.8 per cent.

During the same period, the company accumulated $47.4 million in deferred taxes, he said, that brings its total of deferred taxes to $104 million.

The Steel Company of Canada, he said, had deferred taxes of $55.9 million between 1956 and 1971 while paying $149.8 million in taxes on $743.7 million in net earnings.

Mr. Lewis said he was not criticizing the corporations but rather the federal tax system that permits tax loopholes.

He said the NDP determination in the election is to change the tax rules, "not increase the rates of taxation but simply collect what is a fair share of the cost of running the country."

Mr. Lewis said he would continue his attack against the tax system during the campaign, because "the more he (Prime Minister Lewis has shot his bolt on the tax issue should be forewarned that we have not cocked the rifle," he said.

"We are going to take the tax system apart piece by piece," he said, "and it will be a complete expose."

Liberals Say PM Believes in Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau will be presented to the voters before the Oct. 30 federal election as a leader who believes in change as strongly as he did four years ago, but will be safely practical in going about it.

A bundle of literature issued by the Liberal party portrays Pierre Trudeau as a paradox — a progressive and a pragmatist at the same time.

Almost—but for obvious reasons not in so many words—the personality sketched in the official party biography comes out as a progressive conservative.

While the outstanding feature of his first term as prime minister has been change and innovation, the biography says, it was also highlighted by strong practical leadership.

Inclusion of the responsible-leader part of the image is a shift of emphasis from 1968. Four years ago, the party profile says, Mr. Trudeau was chosen because he represented simple progress and change.

Now: "Trudeau calls himself a pragmatist, a believer not in the kind of freedom that comes from a sense of balance and proportion."

The new dualism is reflected in two official campaign portraits—one a closeup of a smiling leader with an aura of glamour, the other a long shot of a sober man of affairs, tie undone, head at work at his desk.

Appropriately, sides emphasize that Mr. Trudeau will be engaged in a double role during the campaign he opens Tuesday in his Montreal home constituency of Mount Royal.

In the seven weeks to the Oct. 30 election, Mr. Trudeau will be both the politician electioneering and the prime minister governing the country.

His travel plans have been sketched out only roughly. Even the skimpy schedule made public is subject to change at short notice, party officials say, because nobody knows when he will have to switch to governing from electioneering.

For example, after Tuesday in Mount Royal, plans call for a visit the following day to London, Ont., then back to Ottawa Thursday—whether for governing or campaigning or both is unclear.

Further, all the governing won't be done by return trips to Ottawa. The government moves with the prime minister, party officials emphasize. In British Columbia later this month, for instance, Sept. 23 is listed for campaigning, the following two days for government business there..

Caouette Decries 'Dirty Dog' Rumors

LORRAINVILLE, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, federal leader of the Social Credit party, kicked off his campaign in Temiscamingue riding Sunday by denying rumors he is sick and near retirement.

He told a group of about 200 supporters at a rally there who are spreading the rumors are "dirty dogs."

Mr. Caouette, 55, underwent a gall bladder operation in July and spent several weeks convalescing.

The rally was Mr. Caouette's first campaign appearance in his home riding.

He repeated the Social Credit plan for a guaranteed income and said the present welfare system encourages "laziness, dishonesty and fraud because it sometime permits people to receive benefits to which they have no right."

Under the Social Credit scheme, single persons would receive an annual federal government pension of $1,200 and married persons would get $2,400. An additional sum of $250 per year would be allowed for each dependant child.

Unemployment Board Wants $1,789 Repaid

TORONTO (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission has demanded repayment of $1,789 from an old-age pensioner in Toronto who has been deaf for the last eight years and who suffers from a heart condition.

A form letter from the commission advised Robert Milligan, 65, that unless he settled the method of repayment within 10 days, legal proceedings can be instituted. All costs added to the amount of repayment.

Mr. Milligan's plight was outlined Sunday by David Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, to show what he said was the difference in government treatment of the individual citizen compared with the various tax concessions awarded to corporations.

Mr. Milligan retired from the packing department of a large department store in 1970 after 35 years of service. He learned he was eligible in 1971 to collect both unemployment insurance and his Canada Pension Plan benefits.

Mr. Lewis said Mr. and Mrs. Milligan were called into the commission office late this year and told that a mistake had been made and that they could not have both unemployment insurance and CPP payments in 1971.

Mr. Lewis said the couple was given the option to reject one or the other, and chose unemployment insurance at 55 per cent of $1,540 a month. They were told they could receive insurance for 50 weeks.

The Milligans sent a cheque for $393.84 to the federal government, representing a rebate of CPP payments received in 1971.

Last August, Mr. Lewis said, the Milligans received a letter from the commission informing them that the status of their unemployment insurance claim for 1971 had changed, effective Sept. 5, that year, to one of a retirement claim and that they had been overpaid by $1,789.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, Sept. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19): The balance tips, questions find ready provisional or tentative answers and you can get your week's campaign under way.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Reconcile without recrimination; go on for long-term goals. Expect emotional involvement in distract you from studies.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Advice is favored, particularly second opinions. Job-seeking bids for promotion, and the like are open to development.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): If you can take the day off easily, do so. If you must work, hit the ground running and go on as quickly as you can.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A gathering of the clan is in order, with endless discussion of progress. Excitement, cheerful news keep everybody stirring.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Project your most determined wish as if it were only a matter of a short time before all good things will come true.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Activity is up, likewise expenses, but well worth the increase in results. Secret competition brought to light and reduced.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Get an early start, progress while the going is good, as people seem determined to get past recent hindrances and stalemates.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now is the time to come to terms with long-range obligations; refinance if need be, redeem them altogether where you can.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Question everybody you can concerning the workings of the financial enterprises you're studying. A new technology is likely.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Efficient management is in day's goal. Adjustments needed may be slight, should be tried at minimum levels. Being precise is satisfying.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Intellectual interests offer broad new worlds to explore. Little for immediate practical application. Get your work done.

Poor Circulation Causes Leg Ulcers

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had varicose veins stripped about 15 years ago, and had one bad ulcer. The ulcer healed, but now I am having trouble again with the same spot.

I am 51 and wonder what would be the best thing to do, before I go to several doctors and have them tell me to "stay off your feet." That's what the last one told me 15 years ago. We don't have a lot of money.—Mrs. J.N.

The biggest single cause of unhealing leg ulcers is poor circulation, and of all the causes of poor circulation, the most frequent is varicose veins.

Why? Because nature cannot perform its healing functions without adequate circulation. When you had your varicose veins stripped (removed), your circulation improved and your ulcer healed. But that was years ago.

Recurrence of the ulcer now can involve any of several factors. One is the occurrence of superficial varicose veins (i.e., close to the surface). Removal of these veins may be helpful as removal of the others was—but the condition of circulation deeper in the leg may be involved. Your doctor would have to determine that.

Another possibility is that the ulcer area is vulnerable to the slightest injury. Organisms are known to lurk in such areas at times, and with a minor bump the skin can be broken, with another infected ulcer result.

Properly fitted support hose is important. In some cases pressure dressings are useful, or even casting a fiberglass cast with an Unna boot.

Hit-or-miss use of various salves and ointments is usually fruitless and a waste of time and money—but specific ointments, such as those containing an antibiotic or an enzyme may be important. It requires good medical judgment to know which to prescribe, however.

In brief, there is very little in the way of home treatment that can overcome a persistent leg ulcer, and I decidedly recommend that you get professional care.

You don't have to go to "several doctors." If you can't return to the doctor who treated your varicose veins years ago, you will find that some hospitals have "vein clinics." Or you can ask your county medical society for referral to a suitable physician. Not several. There's no point in going to several. Much better to stick with one.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a vasectomy four weeks ago. One side was more sore than the other afterwards, and last week he noticed a lump about the size of a grape on that side.

Is the tissue or what, and will it go away and when? The doctor said it could be a blood clot. Is that possible?—L.W.

Scar tissue is minimal with a vasectomy and wouldn't make a lump like that. You can be sure bleeding and an accumulation or "pocket" of blood, which should absorb in time. You can't put a timetable on it, though.

Sometimes such a mass is an accumulation of sperm (called spermatocele) which is a cyst-like affair. This doesn't ordinarily occur until later after the operation. I trust your husband has had tests to determine the presence of sperm.

Note to Mrs. D.M.: No, cirrhosis of the liver is not hereditary.

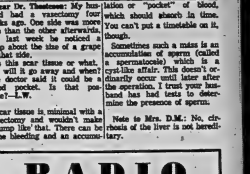
opening lead — king of clubs.

Mexico finished 25th in the 39-nation Olympiad, but in the course of the round robin they blitzed Great Britain, who came sixth, defeated France, who finished fourth, and on top of that held Canada, who came third, to a draw.

Excellent timing by the Mexican declarer permitted him to bring home four majors doubled in this hand from the match against Britain. Perhaps East should not have doubled four hearts and chased the Mexican pair into the far better contract of four spades — but he did.

The British West lead the king of clubs, then shifted to the ace and another diamond. East took the king and continued with the jack which Reygadas, partnered with Rosenkranz, ruffed.

Playing as though he saw through the backs of the cards, Reygadas cashed the ace of trumps, crossed to dummy with a heart to the king, returned a low heart to the ten, cashed the ace and ruffed his last heart. Then, at long last, he played a second round of trumps, finessing the jack, and so made the contract for a plus 756 points.



At the other table, where Mexico held the East - West cards, the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
1 ♥	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

This contract went down one when declarer misjudged the diamond situation, but Mexico netted 690 points on the deal for a gain of 12 imps.

In the match against Finland, the South African declarer, Eher, also got to four spades and made it by throwing more or less the same line of play that Reygadas had adopted.

PEDALLING INTO PAST

BROADWAY, England (CP) — Bobbies on bikes are getting scarcer in Britain. Days a report by a Worcestershire countabulary. The two-wheeled transport is being replaced by patrol cars. The report says: "This may be a logical step in many urban areas but in places like isolated villages where the policeman has only to patrol small rural areas, bicycles should continue to be used," it adds.

Toronto the Good?

Flower Sales Clerk Frightens Off Thief

TORONTO (CP) — A flower sales clerk was choked and knocked to the floor and a man and a woman in an automobile had a knife held to his throat during a weekend of violent crime in Toronto.

Bernice Raymond, 50, was taking Saturday's receipts from the flower shop to a deposit box when two men attacked in the corridor.

She was choked and knocked to the floor but managed to scream, frightening her assailants away without their money. Mrs. Raymond was treated for bruises at hospital.

Friday night, David Bright of Toronto was sitting in his car when a youth opened the door and held a knife to his throat, robbing him of $15.

Saturday, police arrested Earl Jeffrey Eden, 17, of Toronto, and charged him with armed robber.

At a drinking party Friday night, Robert Doumont, 40, of Toronto, was stabbed in the head, arms, hands, shoulder and back with a butcher knife.

Paul Richard Cook, 16, of Toronto, has been charged with wounding.

Also Saturday, a shopping plaza superintendent was kicked in the groin and struck on the head with a bottle when he asked a father to tell his children to stop throwing stones.

Police charged Brian Paul O'Kell, 27, of Santa Monica, Calif., with assault causing bodily harm.

Another Toronto man was shot Sunday by one of three men who called him to their car as he walked along a downtown street.

Scott Calder, 22, told police that the car pulled to the curb and when he walked over to answer a call from one of the men, the man pulled out a gun and shot him in the shoulder. The car sped off.

In yet another incident, Edward Fletcher, 39, of Toronto, required treatment after being stabbed in the back in the downtown section.

Mr. Fletcher told police he became involved in an argument with a married couple and was attacked by a number of other men, one of whom stabbed him in the back.

Wagner Picked

ST. HYACINTE, Que. (CP) — Claude Wagner, a former Quebec Liberal Justice minister, was nominated in St. Hyacinthe riding Sunday as the Progressive Conservative candidate in the Oct. 30 federal election.

Mr. Wagner, who resigned as a Supreme court judge last week to re-enter politics, was unopposed and was chosen unanimously by 484 party delegates.

Runaway Bulldozer Hits Toronto House

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra Fillier was watching television early Saturday morning when suddenly the television set and the wall behind it lurched toward her.

When she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fillier, rushed outside their Scarborough home they found a driverless bulldozer, motor still running, wedged against the rear of the house.

The five-ton machine, leased by Ontario Hydro, started its one-mile journey from a Hydro experimental construction site. A security guard was on duty until midnight, but soon after he left, someone started the machine, rammed the throttle open then disappeared into the night.

The bulldozer, set in reverse gear, cut through the Hydro property and ran over some construction equipment. It sheared off the leg of a high-tension transmission tower and bent another leg, broke through a fence, left a park, crossed a street and entered the Fillier property.

"It tore down our picket fence and went right over the blue bushes," Mrs. Fillier said. "Then it came right up the flagstone path, wiped out a couple of flowerpots and kept going until it hit the house."

The impact caused a partial cave-in of the basement wall, damaged outside brickwork and moved a joist out of position, resulting in damage of $7,500.

Metro Police and Hydro spokesmen said no key is needed to start the machine, but some expertise would be required to get it going.

Quebec Game Guards Slain

ST. LOUIS-DE-BLANDFORD, Que. (CP) — The bullet-riddled bodies of two Quebec game wardens were discovered in the bush near here Monday.

Their two revolvers were not in their holsters and a high-powered .308-calibre rifle normally mounted behind the seat of their truck was reported missing.

Police identified the dead as Roderic Cote, 42, of nearby Pleasantville, and Ernest St. Pierre, 32, of this community, 45 miles southwest of Quebec City.

The bodies of the game wardens were found about 150 feet from their truck. They had been buried under leaves about 30 feet off a dirt road.

"Money was scattered about their bodies and I saw what looked as if one of their pockets had been emptied," said game warden Claude Brudile, a member of the search party that found the corpses.

Mr. Brunelle was in tears as he spoke of Cote, a 23-year veteran warden, father of 16 and eight-child corps and a 13-year-old girl, and St. Pierre, a former veteran, who had a 25-year-old daughter.

"It was horrible, I took a look at St. Pierre and kept saying my body in his place," Mr. Brunelle said, explaining the victim had changed shifts with him so that he could attend a wedding.

"Who knows what happened? One thing I'm sure of it wasn't poachers. No one in their right mind is going to shoot someone because he gets caught hunting out of season," Mr. Brunelle said.

"They were shot like dogs. But why? What did they see that was so important it be kept secret by killing two persons?" asked Inspector Denis Emond, supervisor of the two dead men.

Peterborough Students Quit Classes

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — An estimated 1,800 students at five secondary schools left their classes Monday in protest against the withdrawal of voluntary services by teachers. About 1,600 students stayed in class.

Many of those who walked out milled around the offices of the Peterborough County board of education. Student spokesmen said there will be more walkouts today and that the schools will be picketed.

The board has invited representatives of the student councils at the five city schools and two outside the city to attend a meeting Wednesday night to work out alternative means of continuing extra-curricular activities until the teachers end their work - to - rule campaign.

The teachers recently rejected a proposed new contract with the board and have withdrawn voluntary services until a settlement is reached or the dispute goes to arbitration.

Threat Made to Raid Closing Ceremonies

MUNICH (CP) — The 1972 Olympic Games, bloodstained by murder and rocked by political strife, ended on another bizarre note.

As the Olympic flame was extinguished and the Olympic flag came down before a capacity 80,000 at Olympic Stadium Monday two West German fighter planes patrolled the sky overhead.

They had been sent aloft after Olympic officials received an anonymous telephone call that a stolen airplane would be used to bomb the closing ceremonies.

Radar screens showed an airplane headed in the direction of the stadium, but it developed

Different Laws Urged For Poor

TORONTO (CP) — Two sets of Canadian laws—one for the rich and the other for the poor to make sure the latter are treated fairly and protected from high-handed bureaucrats—are needed, Mr. Justice Edson L. Haines said Monday night.

"The rich man can look after himself," said the 65-year-old Ontario Supreme Court trial judge in an interview.

"We need two sets of laws," he said. "At the outset, it sounds shocking to say that—but we do."

Mr. Justice Haines said he was not talking about special new laws designed solely for the poor but about an array of new procedural safeguards that would guarantee the poor speedy access and fair treatment before the courts and government boards.

Unemployment's Decline Below August Average

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment declined to an estimated 503,000 last month from 542,000 in July but remained higher than the 455,000 counted as jobless in August last year, Statistics Canada reported today.

The drop in unemployment was less than usual for August, the agency said.

There was a drop in the total number of people in the labor force, to 9.27 million from 9.37 million, and the statistics bureau said this was more than usual for this time of year.

The unemployment rate—the number of people without jobs as a percentage of the total labor force—declined to 5.4 per cent in August from 5.8 per cent in July. It was 5.1 per cent in August last year.

However, Statistics Canada said its computation of the underlying trend in unemployment, taking seasonal factors into account, showed a higher rate, rising to 6.7 per cent of the labor force in August from 6.3 per cent in July.

Because unemployment usually soars during the winter months and drops during the summer in Canada, economists generally look to this seasonally-adjusted rate to show the underlying trend. It was down to 5.8 per cent last April but has been rising since Jan.

The employment picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Aug.	July	Aug. 1972
Labor force	9,274	9,368	8,972
Employed	8,771	8,825	8,517
Unemployed	503	543	455

IRA Threatens To Attack Hospital

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army threatened to attack Belfast's biggest hospital Monday as Northern Ireland's Protestant militants closed ranks to form an army of hardliners pledged to fight any political solution that does not return power to the Protestants.

The new alliance, the United Loyalist Front, linked the paramilitary Ulster Defence Association, the more politically oriented Ulster Vanguard movement and the Loyalist Association of Workers.

It ended months of Protestant disarray and cut more pressure on the British government to give in to the demands of the Protestant majority for control of Northern Ireland.

The alliance was formed at a meeting in an East Belfast hotel Monday night. Protestant workers, meanwhile, went on a strike at two of the city's main power stations.

The formation of the Protestant coalition thrust forward the Vanguard leader, former Ulster cabinet minister William Craig, as the new strongman in Northern Ireland's Protestant politics.

Craig wasted no time in throwing down the gauntlet to the British administrator, William Whitelaw.

The ULF's inner council, which he heads, said it will resist "any attempts to impose a solution which is contrary to that normal democratic process."

The alliance said in a statement: "We are the people who control the grassroots majority of this country and when the necessity arises we will use our forces as we see fit."

Banff Parley Opposes 'Ecological Aggression'

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Everyone must accept conservation his way of life and discard customs "which lead us to commit ecological aggression," a major conservation conference was told Monday.

"Everyone must try to arrive at a new, dynamic equilibrium that will enable us to tread lightly on the natural world," Zafar Futehally of Bombay, India, told the triennial convention of the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources.

For the majority of people in Southeast Asia, the quality of life is deteriorating each day, he said.

Gerardo Budowski, director-general of the union, said it is essential that conservation be directed by people who are more knowledgeable than emotional about the issue.

In an information paper, he told about 400 delegates that the organization suffers from the world's division of opinion.

"Some of our policies deprive the poorer citizens of developing countries of their normal source of income, which is derived from the exploitation of trade in animals.

"... and there are those who accuse IUCN of favoring an unacceptable degree of management and exploitation of wild animals."

Too Much Said Built In Kingston District

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — James Richardson, federal minister of supply and services, called Monday night for greater equity in industrialization across the country.

Mr. Richardson told a Liberal nomination meeting that "too much is being built in the region of which you are a part."

The minister was addressing the nomination meeting for the riding of Kingston and the Islands during which Dr. John Haslett was selected as candidate.

Mr. Richardson, member for Winnipeg South in the last Parliament, said there is no reason that aircraft manufacturing, for example, should be localized in one region.

Liberal On Campaign Trail

TRENTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward — Hastings Liberal candidate told news media gathered here yesterday that national unity was a prime concern, although opposition leader Robert Stanfield claims it is not an issue in this election.

High school teacher George Cunningham, making his second bid for a seat in the House of Commons, kicked off his campaign officially with an area press conference at the Red Lion Motor Hotel.

Mr. Cunningham on his first try in reopened the riding at Ottawa lost to Conservative George Hees by some 3,000 votes.

However, Mr. Cunningham said, now he feels confident he'll win, based on the fact the voting population in the riding has increased by 10,000 mostly due to the lowering of the voting age to 18. "And then when I add the 7,000 who failed to vote in the last election, it makes me believe Prince Edward-Hastings can no longer be considered safe for the Conservative candidate," he said.

Although Mr. Cunningham has been on the campaign trail since he was nominated in October 1969, his plans call for an all out effort in the final three weeks. He has asked the Board of Education for a leave of absence commencing October 11 and ending November 11. He revealed his strategy was to appeal to small and formal meetings rather than mass meetings.

In answer to a question for his views on a bridge to replace the present link between Belleville and Prince Edward County, he replied he favored implementing a new method of transportation suggested by Allan Dempsey of Rednersville. "I'll promote a tunnel rather than an overhead bridge." He agreed with one of his team mates the present tunnel would create a lot of jobs and the employment factor would be tremendous, particularly if construction was pushed once it was under way.

Yesterday Mr. Cunningham chose the occasion to name the members of the Cunningham team for the '72 campaign. They are Hugh O'Neil, campaign manager; Mel Boulton, official agent; Anthony Dalcar, finance chairman; Mrs. Bette Henley, office manager at 7, Trenton; area co-ordinators Mrs. Norma Huffman, Ameliasburg,; Dr. Terry Walsh, Trenton; Jack H. Bush, Hastings ,County; William Hogg, Northumberland County.

Mr. Cunningham said campaign headquarters be established in the centres of Trenton, Picton, Campbellford, Brighton and Colborne.

The Prince Edward Hastings constituency appears unisually 2,000 square miles. The last census showed there were 47,600 eligible voters but the figure could be increased with the completion of the new enumeration now under way.

Detour Season Not Over Yet

Belleville and district motorists have had more than their fair share this summer of traffic disruptions as the result of street reconstruction and sewer installations, but as far as the downtown area is concerned things are to get worse before they are better.

City council was told yesterday that construction would start next week on the installation of storm and sanitary sewers on Bridge Street between Pinnacle Street and the Moira River.

As a result, traffic along the main east-west artery in the above section of downtown will be curtailed until the work is completed.

The contractor has 50 working days to complete the installation and reinstall the pavement.

And motorists on West Moira Street are also going to experience more traffic inconvenience.

As the result of construction of the new Sidney Street overpass over the CN double tracks new services installations are required and Moira Street between Sidney and Yeomans streets will be closed to traffic commencing the middle of next week. To inconvenience is thereby reduced to approximately two months.

While the work is in progress, motorists are asked to use Lewis Street or some other route.

But while there will be traffic disruption in the downtown area and on Moira Street for the next few weeks, one will benefit the city's north end has been opened.

The extension of Bell Blvd. from the Quinte Mall to Sidney Street was officially opened Monday following completion of double surface treatment.

Pet-limiting Law Goes to Committee

Members of the city council resolutions committee have been charged with the responsibility of coming up with a recommendation for a bylaw that could conceivably limit the number of cats and dogs kept by city households.

Council action was the result of complaints aired last month by residents of a Cedar Street area who said they were being denied enjoyment of their properties because of the stench from a nearby household where dozens of cats were being kept.

The matter was referred to the city solicitor, who yesterday told council the city at present had no bylaw limiting the number of cats or dogs that can be kept.

However, he said council had the authority to pass such a bylaw.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said such legislation could be of considerable importance to pet owners and he thought the matter warranted full consideration before a bylaw was brought in.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey said that legislation limiting the number of cats was "necessary and needed" but expressed surprise that council had power to pass such a bylaw.

Alderman Donald Williams wondered how natural reproduction was dealt with in such a bylaw.

He asked some allowance would be made in the bylaw when pets had litters.

Alderman Jerald Joyce urged some kind of immediate action to deal with the specific problem on Cedar Street but council went along with Mayor Scott's suggestion and referred the matter to the resolutions committee.

Elridge Brethour NDP Candidate

Unlike the other national parties in Hastings riding, the New Democratic Party will not be holding a nominating convention this month, having selected a standard bearer at a party meeting in Belleville last Feb. 15.

In the field for the NDP in Hastings is Elridge Brethour, a 40-year-old oil dealer and distributor from the North Hastings community of Cardiff.

The first declared party candidate in Hastings riding is married with two children and is now making final campaign arrangements.

Brethour has been active in tourist promotional activities, having served as past president of the Madawaska Tourist Association and he now holds the post of treasurer of the Eastern Ontario Associated Council of Tourist Organizations.

The NDP candidate is also a member of the Masonic Lodge.

Enrolment Forecast Is Right on Target

The moment of truth is almost here and enrolment predictions for the county school system have proved to be almost dead on target down by about 200 pupils in elementary schools and up by almost 200 in secondary schools.

E. T. Morris, the Hastings board of education's statistician and chief prognosticator, announced the figures at the enrolment as of Sept. 11 this year had dropped to 23,862 from the 24,073 enrolled last year at Sept. 30. Sept. 30 is the date on which official enrolments are taken for the first part of the school year.

The official enrolment figure for elementary schools last year was 15,183. At noon yesterday, county elementary schools held 14,753 pupils, 428 fewer than last year.

As predicted, the picture was reversed in the county's eight secondary schools. Last year's official enrolment was 8,817. This year the mid-September enrolment was up by 179 to a high of 8,996. The number is expected to increase as students leave summer jobs during the next two weeks to return to school.

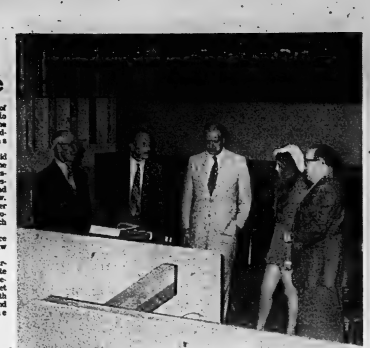
"The economic situation plays a part in the enrolment figures," said superintendent Robert Horwood. "Students who got jobs are hanging on to them until they end."

He expects at least 75 more secondary school students by the end of September.

The result has been a total cut back of 19 in teaching staff, although the secondary school teacher strength has been increased by five to 530 this year.

The four superintendents in charge of associate school groups gave a breakdown of the areas where the greatest enrolment fluctuations occurred.

Bayside elementary school had a slight increase of 25 pupils, but the enrolment at Queen Mary School in Belleville dropped so drastically one teacher had to be transferred to another school.



Because many families moved out of the neighborhood, leaving houses vacant, another teacher had to be transferred from Queen Victoria School.

In Centre Hastings, the secondary school in Madoc has 37 more students than expected, making restaffing necessary.

In the east Belleville area served by Moira Secondary School, the decrease in elementary pupils is spread over all schools in the area as families have moved out.

"Maynooth's 37 fewer pupils is balanced by an increase in Bancroft school.

Portables will be necessary to handle the increase in enrolments in Harmony Public School. Three new portables will be moved to the site to handle the increase of 92, the result of new housing develop-

Showcase Tour

Trustees last night toured the new Bayside Secondary School, acclimatized as an educational showcase. Inspecting the multi-level library are Everett Fairman, Nelson McKibbon, MacDonald Smith, student guide Jo-Anne Hyatt and principal L. D. Read. The $4 million building will be officially opened Oct. 27 with an open house for the public.

Tennis Buffs Win Match Point

It's going to be a love set for local tennis players next year.

At least tennis playing facilities in the city are to be considerably increased as result of action taken last night at city council.

Council boarded the construction of four new tennis courts adjacent to the Dick Ellis Rink in West Belleville at a cost of just over $32,000. Half of this cost will be born by the Hastings County board of Education.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey, as chairman of the city recreation-arena committee, said an amount of $22,000 had been budgeted this year's budget for construction of the new tennis court but when tenders were let the actual cost came in lighter than the estimate.

Floodlights will be provided but the installation will not include lights, council was told.

Mrs. Jeffrey said the additional courts were needed because tennis is one of the fastest growing recreational activities in the city.

Parks Board chairman Alderman Paul Russell agreed.

"You only have to take a look at the lineups of people waiting to use the courts at Zwick's Island," he said.

Busing Still A Problem

In a county as spread out as Hastings, school bus routes will always remain a contentious issue.

They were the first item of serious business for the school board at its initial meeting of the year last night at Bayside.

A former bus driver, Alex McCurdy, appeared before the board to complain of long routes and long hours for the students who must ride buses to get to school.

As a result of his complaint, the board will investigate the routes from Stirling village, along the west side of the Trent River to Frankford and into Centennial Secondary School.

"The route may be too long," observed chairman Donald Williams.

With about 11,000 students to be transported a million bus miles a year, the Hastings county board is up to its ears in busing difficulties.

Mr. McCurdy was a driver for Franklin Bus Lines. The company was bought this year by Gray Bus Lines and Mr. McCurdy's employment ceased the second day of school, last Wednesday.

Some students on his route, said Mr. McCurdy, leave home at 7:30 a.m. and don't get back until 5:30 p.m.

This marathon day is too much for students, he said.

"It's all right for you fellows to get in a car and follow a route but ride a bus and you'll change your tune," he told trustees. "My route was all gravel road except for a ½ mile in front of the Reeve of Sidney's."

Crux of Mr. McCurdy's problem is the "activities period" at Centennial.

School ends officially at Centennial at 3:20 p.m. Then the "activities period", for students needing extra help or for those involved in extra-curricular activities, extends until 4 p.m.

Buses are required to wait until 4:10 p.m. before pulling out.

But in the past, Mr. McCurdy was accustomed to leaving when the load was on hand, usually before 4 o'clock.

His round trip route was about 100 miles long, he said and "it is not necessary for buses to wait until 10 after 4 to leave."

Mr. McCurdy's complaint points up the almost insoluble problem of the county board. As Chairman Williams said, the board has to get students to schools as swiftly as possible, but it also has to promise the best in academic excellence to all students in its system.

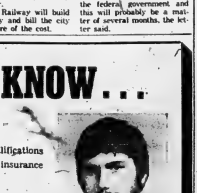
RCAF Memorial Up in Air

Final decision on the location of the proposed RCAF memorial will not be known for several months.

This is indicated in a letter to Belleville city council from Air Marshall C. R. Dunlap, president of the RCAF Memorial Fund who noted that his organization is collaborating with the National Museum of Science and Technology to achieve a combined aviation museum and memorial.

Belleville and other area Quinte municipalities several years ago made cash contributions to the memorial on the understanding that it was to be built at Trenton. But the Trenton memorial has also...

City Share $8,300



Construction of the proposed Frank Street pedestrian underpass across the CN double tracks will cost an estimated $83,000, city council has been advised by the Railway Transport Commission.

Of this amount the commission will pay 80 per cent, the CN railway 10 per cent and the city 10 per cent or $8,300.

Maintenance of the subway will be a railway expense, while upkeep of the approaches will be the responsibility of the city.

The CN Railway will build the subway and bill the city for its share of the cost.

Rotary Speaker:

Too Much Politics In Incentive Grants

John Lecours, industrial development officer for Canadian National Railways in Belleville, addressed the Rotary Club yesterday, brandishing a sword against incentive grants, forgivable loans and public share-lightedness.

In his capacity with the CN, Mr. Lecours counsels both municipalities and individual industries on their needs, locations and resources with respect to rail links, and market availability.

"I have been criticised that I don't spend enough time dealing exclusively with Belleville," said Mr. Lecours. "My job is not to promote a town but to promote CN."

Once on the topic of placement of industry, Mr. Lecours attacked politicians and federal government in general when he told Rotarians, "incentive loans are nothing more than a shin plaster."

"They seem to meet an immediate need," while more importantly, "re-establish the popularity of a local politician," he said.

"Just watch from now until election time how many grants will be announced," he warned.

Not against such grants, Mr. Lecours suggested that grants should be provided to a municipality rather than to an individual company.

"With the additional grant money, it might be possible for the town to develop more industrial park, inducing more public share-lightedness. I'm not into a look at the area," he said.

Most large companies don't care about the money available in grants, he said. If they want to build somewhere they are going to and if money is being handed out as well, they might as well take it.

"It is not the fault of industry but the fault of the grants and government administration," he said.

Public scepticism and shortsightedness was the last issue to come before Mr. Lecours as he claimed, "plant an oak and it is a long time before the first acorns. Most would rather plant weeds to be reaped the following day."

Mr. Lecours hinted that people, especially politicians, are afraid of planning something that they won't be around for when it comes to maturity.

"Politicians want things to happen within an election term," he said. "For obvious reasons."

Mr. Lecours' approach to development, Mr. Lecours advocated government intervention, saying that federal bodies should set strategic guidelines for all to follow.

"Many of my colleagues call me a pessimist because I work for the CN and not for a particular municipality and my first responsibility is to my company," said Mr. Lecours.

"But I am a Canadian and try to help one and all. I am free and easy," he said.

Bayside Impresses Trustees

The pride of Hastings county's school system, Bayside Secondary School, was unveiled to its trustees and administrators last night before the first board meeting of the new academic year.

The board met in Bayside's open-area English department after a 1½-hour tour of the 3½ acres of enclosed space that makes up the building.

One of the board's administrators said afterwards that he had visited many M for A Toronto schools, but had never seen one as impressive as Bayside's $25-million, square-yard building.

About 70 teachers from other schools and members of the public attended the meeting after the early preview of their own.

In addition to a tour of Bayside's purple, rose, orange and scarlet interior, trustees toured the school grounds, with its greenhouse, three playing fields now being used, tennis and handball courts.

Among the school's features are two outdoor courts, one adjacent to the cafeteria auditorium and another in the centre of the science wing. There is also a store for the sale of school supplies.

Milford Fair Tomorrow

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County's annual remaining township fair will open in Milford on Wednesday with a grand parade to the fairgrounds.

The one-day program of events will feature a flower show, displays of fruits and vegetables, poultry, a pet show, horse classes, old time fiddlers contest and a rolling pin toss and musical entertainment.

A baby show also is a popular highlight of the fair each year.

How does a subject called Organizational Behaviour fit into an accounting course?

Well anyone who has taken the CGA course can tell you that you learn more than accounting.

But Organizational Behaviour?

Sure. The CGA course is constantly being revised and updated to add this lessons adding new subjects.

But what does Organization Behaviour have to do with accounting?

Plenty. CGA students are trained for careers in financial management. So they need the kind of knowledge they get from subjects like Organizational Behaviour.

I get it. You mean that CGA graduates make it to top administrative positions. Or they tend to know management as well as accounting.

Precisely. That's why the CGA course is called management accounting.

Well, now that I know what you're talking about, I'm impressed. Where do I go from here?

To a pen and paper. Then write for the CGA calendar and career plan for the 1972-73 academic year. It starts in September.

Innovative Medicine

Two recent outlines of medical investment prove that innovation has not yet left the field.

Close to home the health clinic at Northbrook is a wonderful example of the compassionate approach still retained by the doctors of today.

Funded through monies remaining when the old Physicians Services Incorporated was disbanded, it sees doctors from Kingston flown to the clinic to look after the health needs of the community.

The more recent McMaster experiment where 30 medical students are participating in a series of projects in the Flounder Bay area shows that government as well as the individual doctor is willing to take innovative steps to improve the health care delivery system in the province.

It is this combination of individual initiative and government support which can bridge the gap in providing services in the more remote areas of our province.

Welcome Sight

For boaters used to cruising past a deserted Massassaga Point it is something of a double take situation to see tents pitched on the land.

The area, which was taken over earlier by the conservation authority, is being rediscovered by a new generation. Years ago it was the most popular picnic and resort area on the Bay of Quinte.

It is hoped that the conservation authority will be able to allocate sufficient funds to do some basic work on the point so that more area residents will be able to enjoy its beauty and solitude.

It points up again, that as residents of this area we are not being fair to ourselves by collectively allowing waterfront land to escape public control. With elections coming in all municipalities Dec. 4, it is a matter which should be pondered quite seriously by all candidates.

Typical Reaction

We hope Ottawa and the public at large will note the perverse — if predictable — reaction of that noisy little man, Montreal union leader Michel Chartrand, that the Palestinian who chose death to the death of 11 Israeli athletes in Munich are "patriots and heroes."

Armada Relics

The newly-opened extension to the Ulster Museum in Belfast offers a dazzling paradox in terms of the difficulties in that area today. As of now the museum is threatened by vicissness from within. Back in the 16th century all of Britain was under attack by the naval power of Spain.

As everyone knows, however, the Spanish Armada was routed and a handful of its surviving men-of-war came to grief off Ireland while trying to escape. Today a superb collection of gold and jewels, recovered by marine diver Robert Stenuit from the wreck of the "Girona" near the legendary Giant's Causeway is on display at the Museum.

As Museum director Alan Warhurst points out in Ulster Commentary, Stenuit had long been fascinated by the sites of Armada wrecks around the coasts of Scotland and Ireland. The Girona particularly intrigued him. The vessel was known to have sailed from Killybegs, County Donegal, in an attempt to reach sanctuary in Scotland, but it foundered off the North Antrim coast October 28, 1588. On board were its army and the crews of two other vessels stranded off the Donegal coast.

"By a combination of detective historical research and skilful diving," writes Warhurst, Stenuit and his team discovered the site of the wreck off Port na Spaniagh (so named in earlier times as the general area of the sinking had long been known) near the Giant's Causeway. After two years of patient exploration of the sea bed he had recovered a mass of precious gold and silver jewellery as well as items of everyday use."

The hoard of coins includes 400 gold and 700 pieces of silver from mints in Spain, Naples, Sicily, Portugal, the Low Countries and Latin America. Many bear the head of Philip II of Spain (1556-98). In addition there are medallions, crucifixes, brooches, charms and pearl-indented jewellery.

This is truly a remarkable collection. A Government grant has made the present display possible, but £50,000 is still needed to ensure it remains together as one collection in the Ulster Museum. An appeal is under way to this end and the 9p franking marks on stamps from Northern Ireland currently bear the legend "Girona — Ulster Museum."

Government Reluctant

How Much Inconvenience Required for Intervention?

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Remember the last time the postal workers struck and Prime Minister Trudeau declined to intervene because as he put it, public inconvenience was not all that bad?

Difficult to recall it because there have been so many postal strikes, but it was the small slowdown of two years ago when the Post Office — and the long-suffering public — got into a rotating work stoppages from May through September.

The Prime Minister's position seemed to be that the public must suffer a little longer and a little harder before government intervention could be warranted.

Well, cheer up, this could be the year when the public might get to suffer the required degree.

The word comes from Roger Decarie, the militant president of the postal carriers, in a writing to his union to get ready for what he calls the "ultimate confrontation" if the government will've postal strike.

"Confrontation," he told the union is "the only way to go".

Then he added "the situation is pretty grave and you know who for, since he dropped a heavy-as-lead line that the slowdown just might coincide with Christmas.

The letter carriers currently get $3.54 an hour with general government payroll fringe benefits and are demanding 15 per cent a year more.

Treasury board is offering 13 per cent over three years.

But money is only one of the components of threatened "ultimate confrontation."

For both the letter carriers and their allies, the postal workers are fighting the introduction of mechanization — with resulting speed and efficiency in the Post Office.

The unions have been given the government's word that no worker will be displaced with the installation of new high-speed sorting equipment.

But utterly disinterested in improved postal service, they insist on full-time jobs and not infinitely slower hand-sorting.

Nor are they concerned with resumption of Saturday delivery, claimed through Postmaster President Roger Decarie that there is no public demand for it.

Retiring Postmaster General (now Senator) Jean Pierre Cote seems to think there is, and that is quite a turnaround for it was he who originated the idea of dropping Saturday deliveries.

Now he admits it was a mistake — his error — and a failure, confessing that the no Saturday delivery weekend mail piled up, take up to four days of the next week to clear.

The five-day delivery, he has conceded publicly, "has created delays on Mondays, Tuesdays and even Wednesdays".

He did not have to mention that when a statutory holiday is added to the postal weekend, delivery can be four or five days late.

But the postal workers do not want Saturday delivery. They do not want faster, improved service for the public. But they do want more money.

And a measure of their militancy — as if they strings of strikes already has not established them as union extremists — is their announced intention of "getting" the Postmaster General in the oncoming election.

Never before has a public service union declared political war on its minister, as did the postal workers in telling Mr. Cote they would work to defeat him at the polls.

It was only a few days after that declaration of election hostilities that Jean Pierre Cote withdrew as a candidate.

He would not be running again, not because of threats of defeat by his own postal employees, but because of health problems. The Senate appointment followed.

A respected parliamentarian with nine years service in the House of Commons, fifth of them as a member of the cabinets of both Prime Ministers Lester Pearson and Pierre Trudeau, he is a survivor of two heart attacks, one of them requiring open-heart surgery.

Trying to do business with the militant postal workers and keep the Post Office operating can be a man-killing assignment.

Criticism Unwarranted Manager Contends

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

At our recent Directors meeting many projects were discussed, among them Project Hospitality. This is a program designed by the Travel Industry Association of Canada, to assist the citizens, motel, hotel, restaurant, service station and transportation, and retail personnel, in promoting tourism, pleasant care-free attitude.

As manager of the Chamber of Commerce I suggested that we could promote a similar project here in Belleville at Loalist College, not only for the tourist season, but on an annual basis. Experts in each industry would be asked to address the employees in their particular field. This function could refresh those of us who take things for granted, and assist others starting off in the public sector of servicing the consumer.

From the article which appeared in the Sept. 7 issue unwarranted criticism was directed towards merchants in downtown Belleville, which is the furthest from my mind.

On the contrary, we are endeavoring to improve the city visible record the city of Belleville now enjoys. Finally, I apologize for any misconception which has developed from the recent article by your reporter Ken Smith.

DONALD L. SUTTON,
Secretary Manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 12, 1971 . . .

Oliver Cromwell captured Drogheda, Ireland, 323 years ago today—in 1649—and executed the entire garrison of about 3,000 men. On the same date in 1651, Cromwell entered London in triumph after defeating King Charles II and the Scots.

1919—Dr. Theodore Heuss was elected first president of the Federal Republic of West Germany.

1948—The North Korean Republic was proclaimed.

1932—The German Reichstag was dissolved.

1814—The British fleet bombarded Baltimore.

1609—Henry Hudson discovered the Hudson River.

Political Climate Has Changed

Brockville Recorder and Times

Mr. Lessig, the Progressive Conservatives are likely to retain the seat if they field a strong candidate. If they don't it will make it easier for the Liberal candidate Gerwin Black. Mr. Smiths Falls. And the recent rise in popularity of the NDP may make the run of Dr. Keith Sutcliffe, of Brockville, more promising. He is popular but he is overshadowed because there is a feeling that the riding should be represented by someone from the south end this time around.

Nevertheless, Ontario is going to make the difference and an interesting contest is shaping up. Eighty four of the 264 seats in the House of Commons is in Ontario with 21 of them alone in Toronto. At present the Liberals hold 21 seats, the PC's 19 and the NDP seven. Two are vacant and held by an independent. House Speaker Lucien Lamoureux of Cornwall. Ontario looks at Trudeau differently than it did in 1968 when Diefenbaker was sweeping the country. Many "safe" Tory seats fell to his charm but it is the feeling in political circles that with the novelty of the new Liberal leader having worn off a good many of these seats will return to the fold. And so, the Conservatives are better organized than they have been in years.

Apathy or Cowardice?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Recently there came to my personal attention an incident which occurred between the municipal boundaries of Belleville and which resulted in the immediate personal injury of one of Belleville's most pacific inhabitants.

On one of the most heavily travelled and populated thoroughfares of the city a trio of young people were sitting in an automobile awaiting the change of a red light. Now appeared two youths in a car (who at this point were said to be intoxicated) who stopped from their vehicle, physically dragged one of the occupants from the first car and after subjecting him to immediate personal violence, left him. Their later was reported to be a mild concussion, cuts and abrasions on the neck, and contusions on the skull) returned to their automobile and sped off.

This "beating up" was witnessed directly by at least 25 persons who upon seeing the somewhat one-sided fight, left as fast as possible! At one time I heard that one of the attacked people called to the driver of an also stopped automobile but this person rolled up his window and drove away as soon as the light changed.

I'm sure this apathy is not shown by all of Belleville's citizenry, but for the exceedingly large amount shown by these people one wonders what our city is coming to to harbor such irresponsible human beings.

As I said, not all Belleville's people are like this, and for this may we thank God.

The Countryside Is Our Living Room

Chatham Daily News

Summertime is the period for picnics, holidays, and excursions in the country.

It is also the time when the litterbug is at its worst and leaves all over the place the residue of the good time had by all.

All . . . except the people who have to deal with the garbage left behind by thoughtless people.

One often wonders, when one sees the effects of the visitations of these hordes of garbage if they live in the same way at home and if they litter their homes as they ruin our beaches, our country lanes, the sense of the history of the nation has preserved for their edification and their enjoyment.

Despite a meeting lasting three and a half hours, a firm agreement was not achieved, although a foundation does appear to have been laid for an eventual end to the long-standing dispute. What was agreed was that the question of who owns the offshore resources would be set aside for the time being, and perhaps for all time.

The governments are not as concerned about who owns the title to the resources as they are about what happens to the revenue from their exploitation.

To work out some formula on revenue sharing, both sides have agreed to let their officials negotiate on such matters as costs of administering the resources, arriving at an estimate of the resources available and deciding whether a sharing formula should be based on gross or net income.

Prince Edward Island Premier Alex Campbell points out that the issue is tied very firmly into the question of equalization payments by the federal government to the less fortunate provinces in order that it would do the province no good at all to be given 100 per cent of the revenue from oil and mineral resources off the coast if, at the same time, the federal government reduced the amount of fiscal transfer payments by an equal amount.

The meeting did agree that the 50-50 revenue-sharing formula adopted by the federal government in 1968 now has gone down the drain by mutual consent. The provincial premiers insist on a formula of their hope that when a formula is finally settled it will be of greater benefit to the province than that.

If the prime minister was not able to come up with an agreement on the eve of an election campaign, at least he eased the pressure by thrusting the argument into the background while officials earthwork on another lengthy study of the problem.

Atlantic Support Unrealized

Trudeau May Have Missed Boat on Off-shore Rights

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Trudeau may have buried the recent meeting between himself, four Atlantic premiers and a representative from Quebec would solve the contentious issue of off-shore oil and mineral rights. Such an agreement would have been a feather in the PM's cap and provided the government with a badly needed pre-election boost in the Atlantic region.

Film Season Starts Wednesday

Loyalist College Community Film Society begins its third season this Wednesday night, with a showing of Bergman's first episode in his religious trilogy, Through a Glass Darkly.

This year the film society will screen its experimental, classical and historical movies two nights a month . . . on the second Wednesday and Thursday of each month until May.

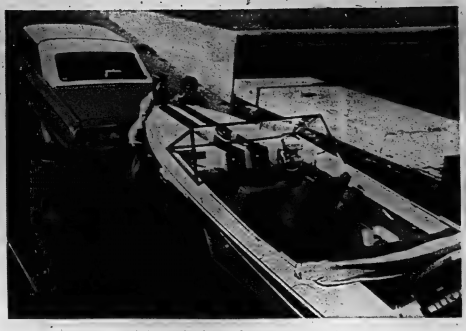
Loyalist College lecture theatre is the site of the monthly screenings and many of the nine feature films and numerous short films are restricted for use by recognized available to the general public.

Membership in the film society is $4 a year for students, $6 a year for single people and $10 a year for couples. In addition, two free guest tickets will be given free with each season's membership.

Slated for the season are Jules et Jim, a 1961 French film to be shown Oct. 11 and 12 and Duck Soup, a Leo McCarey comedy of 1933 to be shown Jan 10 and 11.

Canal Bridges Now 9-to-5

The Murray Canal has closed its doors to boaters for another season, opening them only on demand, and only between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.



A spokesman for the three bridges involved in the system said boat traffic has dropped to nearly nothing and it wouldn't make sense to keep a man on the bridges in the evening.

Boaters coming east from the Toronto area, used the Murray Canal system, rather than trying the more hectic waters of Lake Ontario.

The canal provided sheltered water and a short cut into the Bay of Quinte.

Now, if the boaters don't make it to the canal and through it by 5 p.m., they are trapped until the next morning.

The bridges will resume their schedule of opening on demand next July 17.

Last Days of Summer

Summer sunshine persisted this weekend to extend the season for pleasure craft and their owners. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rain with their daughter Debbie of Trenton launched their runabout in the Bay of Quinte Sunday for what might be the last warm spin of the year.

World War I Veterans Reunite on Weekend

About 65 World War I veterans are expected in Belleville this weekend for the 54th annual reunion of the 21st Battalion Association.

The battalion was recruited from the Central Ontario region, chiefly the Belleville district, in 1914 and was constantly reinforced by men from here while it was overseas.

The 1,000 men initially recruited assembled in Kingston in September, 1914, and were moved to England May 6, 1915 and to France Sept. 15 the same year.

The battalion took part in many major engagements of the war, including St. Eloi, the Somme, Vimy Ridge, Passchendale, Amiens, Cambral, Hill 70, Arras and the Pursuit to Mons that ended the war.

About 3,000 men passed through the battalion while it was overseas.

The first reunion was held May 24, 1919, immediately upon the battalion's return to Canada. A reunion has been held every year since then. The Battalion Association now has about 175 survivors in its membership.

This year's reunion will be held in the Legion Hall Sept. 15, 16 and 17. On Saturday the members will place a wreath on the Cenotaph in Memorial Park and attend a banquet in the evening.

The public is invited to attend the drum head service on the armory lawn on Sunday.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edith McFarlane, Cordova Mines and the late James Alexander McFarlane. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lowery of Marmora.

Rev. Maurice McLeod and Rev. John Peters officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony. Soloist Mrs. Diane Cole of R. R. 1, Havelock, sang and she was accompanied by Mrs. Eldon Killian at the organ.

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, Clarence McFarlane of Galt, the bride wore a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta with long cuffed sleeves and deep flounce skirt. The high neckline and trim was of embroidered lace enhanced with white ribbon. A headpiece of embroidered lace with corresponding trim held the fullest veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and wore a heirloom necklace and brooch.

Suburbia Woman Gives Rest of Story

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a divorcee who signed herself "Huntington Station" wrote to you and described her neighbors. They all had unsatisfactory marriages and everyone of their husbands had propositioned her.

"H.S." started out: "Bernice wears curlers 24 hours a day, is a chronic complainer and gets stoned every afternoon on beer. By the time her husband comes home she is staggering around the kitchen—blind."

"I speak as a 47-year-old woman, married 25 years in suburbia, with garden apartments and the whole bit. I know what goes on with wives everywhere because I'm the type people confide in and I hear plenty. I could put a name on every gal described in "H.S.'s" letter. Here's the rest of the story—from the wife's side:

"Bernice" wears curlers and drinks beer all afternoon because her husband is a cheapo who loves to come home and brag about his conquests. He gets his jollies from letting her know every time he scores with a new broad—which is like once a week.

"Marge" starts cleaning the house at midnight when her husband gets ready for bed because he is a lousy lover and takes a bath once a month—whether he needs it or not.

"Emily," who weighs 280 pounds and drops food on her chins (her bosom looks like a snack tray), is making up for the love she doesn't get from Henry—who is impotent. (At home, anyway.)

"Louise," who says wives are fools to allow their husbands to use them as substitute call girls and considers sex degrading unless a woman is in the mood (her mood's come twice a year), is married to a man who needs dirty pictures, porno films, filthy language and a fifth of Stolch to get turned on.

So the eternal question is unresolved. Which came first, the chicken or the egg?—Retching in Rochester

Dear Rech: It depends on who you ask—the hen or the rooster.

Dear Ann Landers: You do a lot of good in the world. Please do a little more by telling your readers to beware the con-artists who will take their last quarter. The most outrageous schemes pull in millions of dollars each year. No wonder how people can be so gullible.

A friend of mine worked for three years to save enough money to enroll in a correspondence college. When he didn't get an answer from the school, he did some investigating and discovered that the college campus was a post office box in New Jersey.

Fraudulent mail-order schools prey on the ignorant and the poor. The promise: We can teach you to speak English through the mails." rakes in fantastic sums. The hopefuls send in their cheques and some of them receive nothing but an envelope of reading material with phony forms that are to validate the poor sucker gives up trying to figure out what to do with them. By that time, he is too ashamed to ask anybody because he knows he's been had.

Please print my letter and warn your readers to be careful.—Sympathetic

Dear Sym: How sad that so many people believe they can get rich, thin and smart through the mails. The diploma mills in this country rake in millions of dollars and their bad name rubs off on the ethical correspondence schools which perform a genuine service. Anyone who wants to check the validity of a mail-order proposition should call the Better Business Bureau.

Dear Doris: I have multiple sclerosis (which in itself is not too earthshaking) but I have four young daughters and gradually my horizons are diminishing. Many of my friends have told me I should write and I almost enrolled in a course but there was a high cost factor involved and my medication is costly enough.

I have always been active and still hold a part time job by the skin of my teeth and sheer willpower. But I am extremely depressed and have always desired to learn to write. I paint portraits also but this is becoming difficult and more of a chore than a hobby.

Any information you could give me would be appreciated by one who shares the earth and sky and sea at the same moment in time you do. — Time Running Out.

Dear Time: Life becomes very precious when our time is limited, doesn't it? A person looks at earth and sky and sea with new eyes; nothing is taken for granted.

And yet — many who read this column and who are now in perfect health, unworthily, will doubtless have moved on before you do. There is time yet for you to put a name thoughts on paper which will be helpful to others.

Share what you can about those four daughters; or write something of what you have learned about people through portrait painting. Share your present philosophy.

Marjorie Major's course is not a mystery, even at her new rate, considering the progress to be made with every lesson. Address: Mrs. Marjorie Major, 52 Dutch Village Road, Armdale, Nova Scotia.

Dear Doris: This guy I like is 16 and I am 13. We went steady then I broke up to go with a guy 15. Then I went back with the first one.

Now I am in the middle of both of them. Each knows about the other and they are getting fed up. I like one better one time, another, another time.

If I don't choose they will both drop me. Please help.

I kow how to handle myself with guys. Other kids my age are too childish for me. — Hurry.

Dear Hurry: What is the all-fired rush? If you know how to handle yourself around guys you know you should never hurry at anything. At 13 there is no need to grab one and dash to the nearest altar.

The very fact that you like both of them tells me you need to meet more boys. Over the next few years you will come to know some very fine people, both boys and girls. You will come to know that just having a boy around, or a couple of boys fighting over you, isn't good enough.

Boys are individuals, with personal characteristics different from one another, and with a different kind of attraction for every girl. The man you finally select will probably be quite different from these two boys.

Get away from both of them and take your time (a few years) about looking the field over.

Confidential to Objections: People who deal in books, like librarians and publishers, object to censoring of any kind. They argue that no one is in a position to judge what is offensive to another, and that what one person considers good art, another sees as pornographic. Any real evidence that pornographic literature makes people go wrong seems to be lacking.

If you don't like what they put out in front at the corner store have a talk with the local police authorities. It isn't likely they will take action until citizens complain.

'Family Life' To Be Taught In Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Your children own YOU from the focus on those innocent eyes. You grope for the right words.

There you are—face to face with the child you've guarded from all the sordid things in life. Now you're faced with one of your most difficult tasks.

It's sex education time.

But you can rest easier now. Someone else is taking over part of that unnerving duty.

Schools, realising the importance workings of children being informed, are slowly beginning to fill in students on some of the facts for you.

Sex education—or more delicately called "family life"—is being taught at all Metropolitan Toronto schools and at most grade levels.

Courses vary from borough to borough and even from school to school. But in every case, sex is not taught as a separate subject but as part of an over-all health program.

"The only parent flak comes when they (the parents) don't know what we're doing," said Robert Gladish, physical and health education co-ordinator for the Toronto board of education.

So in most cases, especially at the elementary school level, the schools make every effort to inform the parents of what will be covered.

This practice has proved worth while, says Sylvia Brown, a consultant on health education with the Toronto board.

"When we introduced the program at the elementary level three years ago, we took it to the parents' first and 98 per cent were in full agreement."

J. K. Crossley, director of curriculum for the Ontario ministry of education, defends the department's broad guidelines when it comes to sex education.

"Other than saying the topic should be covered," he said, "we leave it to the individual communities to cut the cloth to suit their community since needs and attitudes vary from community to community across the province."

The emphasis in the early grades is on family relations, learning about self, attitudes, behavior, anatomy and physiology.

At the junior and senior grades students and teachers discuss such topics as menstruation, birth control, sexual intercourse, venereal disease and pregnancy.

Parents whose children are being taught sex education in school are generally in approval.

Blandford Gates, a father with a daughter who has just completed Grade I, had this to say:

"Sex, one of the most positive things in life, is often not discussed while many non-positive things such as wars and crime are openly discussed."

Mortgage Loan Limit On New Houses Raised

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has announced new National Housing Act regulations aimed at easing the burden of down payments for purchasers of new homes.

The announcement was welcomed by Progressive Conservatives and New Democratic Party spokesmen although they suggested the release sounded like Liberal electioneering.

The changes in NHA regulations raise the maximum mortgage loan for new, single-family homes to $30,000 from $25,000 and to a straight 85 per cent of appraised value.

Under the old rules, the loans were based on 95 per cent of the first $20,000 and 80 per cent of the remaining amount in the appraised value of the home.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. said in a news release that first-time buyers will be reduced by as much as one-third on the average NHA-financed house. In some cases, down payments will drop by as much as 70 per cent.

The new NHA regulations were made public simultaneously in Ottawa and Vancouver where it was announced by Urban Affairs Minister Basford.

The regulations increase the amount of income that can be used by two persons to qualify for a loan. Previously, the maximum was $15,000 but this has been raised to $20,000.

The new rules also increase the amount of income that can be used by one person to qualify for a loan to $15,000 from $12,000.

The regulations increase the amounts and property taxes to 30 per cent from 27 per cent.

The income includes the borrower's earnings plus the spouse's full income rather than 50 per cent of her earnings as under the old rules.

In Toronto, Keith Morley, vice-president of the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada, and George Coleman, deputy managing director of Ontario Housing Corp., said the new rules should end second mortgages for houses up to $35,000.

Under the new rules, a house costing $22,000 would require a down payment of only $3,300 while the conventional mortgage plan would require $3,300.

John C. Barbutt, president of the Toronto Home Builders' Association, said the NHA changes will mean families with incomes of around $13,000 will be able to afford houses.

The CMHC estimates that a family with an income of $7,000 could afford to buy a $24,000 house with a nine per cent mortgage over 25 years and municipal taxes of about $400 annually. Under the old rules, the family would have had to borrower's earnings plus the spouse's full income rather than 50 per cent of her earnings as under the old rules.

Other changes in the NHA rules:

—Maximum loan for purchase of existing homes has been increased to $23,000 from $18,000. Loans are based on 80 per cent of appraised value.

—Maximum loans for co-operative and condominium apartments has been raised to $23,000 from $18,000.

—Maximum for loans for houses built for rent will rise to $20,000 from $25,000 while the maximum for apartment units will increase to $20,000 from $18,000.

Doctor Says There's No Way to Know How Person Will React to Any Drug

TORONTO (CP) — When you go to two fingerprints are the same, think how much more complicated and vastly different the chemical reactions within individuals bodies must be, Dr. Ray Laforest, a Toronto pediatrician, said Monday.

He was commenting on recent tests on how different drug brands react within the body (bioavailability tests) to a group of doctors during a session at the Ontario branch of the College of Family Physicians.

It is practically impossible to compare how drugs will react within people, he said.

"As far as I know, no good [illegible] bioavailability have been done."

In a survey of the Ontario health department's drug quality and therapeutics committee and the Ontario Medical Association's pharmacy committee, Dr. Laforest was describing the provincial government's drug quality assurance program.

The program, which produces the government's PARDiat (for Prescription At Reasonable Cost) listings, has done a great deal to force manufacturers to carry out decent testing procedures to protect the public from "exceedingly dangerous" products, he said.

Dr. J. Russell Taylor, research director of the Ontario Medical Foundation and a former pharmacology professor at the University of Toronto, took issue with Dr. Laforest about bioavailability studies.

There are a number of techniques that now provide reliable bioavailability data, Dr. Taylor said, although "the state of the art isn't as advanced as it should be."

"It's only matter of time . . . and not very much time," he said.

He said he believes government departments, which already are doing some testing on how drugs are absorbed, circulated and excreted, will include these bioavailability tests as part of the regular criteria for standards.

Dr. Laforest earlier said government inspection and early testing programs had uncovered some "appalling" conditions in drug manufacture elsewhere.

Even in some of the large, well-known manufacturing firms, "careless or callous" practices have led to errors, such as mislabelling one drug with the name of another, he said. The Ontario government's demands for constant testing at all stages of manufacture before a drug can get on the business better drugs now are becoming available.

Dr. Laforest described some instances of lack of quality control. In one firm, two similar white tablets were being produced and no checks were made to ensure the tablets were properly labelled.

In another example, he described instances where supposedly sterile injectable drugs had been contaminated because glass vials were flawed with tiny invisible cracks.

None of Our Glitters Turned Out Gold

MUNICH (CP) — Swimmers and yachtsmen won five medals for Canada at the 1972 summer Olympics, equalling the Canadian team's medal total of four years ago. But this time there was no gold.

Two silver and two bronze were won in swimming and a bronze in yachting compared with one gold in equestrian and three silver and one bronze in swimming in 1968.

Canada finished 21st among 54 countries with points in the final unofficial team standing. Twenty-two of the 286 athletes entered in the Games passed the point-gathering. Most of Canada's points came in water sports.

The over-all score was 25½ points, a showing on a par with 1964 in Tokyo but considerably below that of four years ago in Mexico City.

Swimmers Bruce Robertson, Leslie Cliff and Donna Marie Gurr and yachtsman David Miller and his crew, all from Vancouver, accounted for more than half the points.

Under the traditional system of scoring, points are awarded on a 12-4-3-2-1 basis for the first six placings in each final.

Robertson, 19-year-old University of British Columbia student, was the only Canadian to win two medals.

He placed second to Mark Spitz in the men's 100-metre butterfly, winning a silver, worth five points. He shared bronze medals with Erik Fish, Mcclaine Hat, Alta.; Bill Mahony, New Westminster, B.C., and Bob Kasting, Lethbridge, Alta., in the 400 medley relay, worth four points.

In the 400 freestyle relay, Robertson, Brian Phillips, Winnipeg; Tim Bach, Calgary, and Kasting were fifth.

Miss Cliff, competing in six events, won silver in the women's 400 individual medley and placed fifth in the 200 medley, earning seven points. Miss Gurr got a bronze in the 200 backstroke.

The swimmers and divers totalled 27 points. Another Vancouver swimmer, Wendy Cook, was fifth in the 100 backstroke and Bev Boys, of Pickering, Ont., fifth in women's springboard diving. Byers MacDonald of Mississauga, Ont., was sixth in the 100 breaststroke.

Miller and his crew of John Ekels and Paul Cote were Pan first. Canadians to win a yachting medal in 36 years. They placed third in the Soling class now to the Olympics.

John Day of Sydney, Que., the top equestrian, placed in a three-way tie for fourth in the individual jumping and was a member of the equestrian team that lost the gold to West Germany on the toss-back of the Games. Day was the last man squad that won the team jumping event for the first time in Christian Hansen, Shirley Ont.; Lorraine Starbis, Toronto, and Cynthia Nadeau, King City, Ont., won a point for sixth in the team dressage, the highest finish ever by Canadians.

Canadians scored 25 points in field events at the Olympic field competition. Bruce Simpson, Montreal, was fifth in the pole vault and John Beers, Merritt, B.C., tied for sixth in the men's high jump. Lachie the point with a Hungarian.

Gordon Bertie, Edmonton, and Don Jackson, Lindsay, Ont., won single points for sixth placings in freestyle wrestling and archery.

Banning Out of Date?

Victory Stance Not Vital

MUNICH (CP) — The 20th Olympic Games were probably the last from which athletes were barred for life because they neglected to stand at attention on the victory podium.

And no one connected with them was left with the illusion that the Olympics are nothing more than an international festival of young men and women playing games.

Avery Brundage, the strong-minded American who stepped down Monday as president of the International Olympic Committee at the age of 84, possibly preserved the Games from disintegrating a week ago when he insisted that they continue despite their bloody disruption by Arab terrorists.

"It was an action in perfect accord with his often-stated view that political differences have no place in the Olympics. The Games had recently been saved a week before when he refused to apply the same principle in dealing with an African threat if a boycott if Rhodesia was allowed to participate.

To his chagrin, Brundage lost that battle as his colleagues found a technicality under which to keep out the Rhodesians and the Africans stayed. For better or worse, the outside world had moved into the Olympic Village.

Brundage continued to resist. Village facilities were denied to Olga Connolly, the 1968 silver medallist in the discus, when she tried to circulate a petition calling on President Nixon to stop bombing North Vietnam. The Athletes said Mrs. Connolly were being treated like children.

While relatively few appeared to resent being denied the opportunity to enlist in her cause, there was widespread anger at the IOC's drastic punishment of two black United States runners who slouched and chatted on the podium during the victory ceremony after their race.

The German crowd, accustomed to seeing the victors standing rigidly at attention while their national anthem was played, booed Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett. They did again when Collett gave no disrespect. American officials interceded for them with the IOC but the ban stuck.

Four years earlier, Tommie Smith and John Carlos had worn black gloves and black stockings on the stand when they received their medals for the 200 metres and had made it clear that they were engaging in a political demonstration.

They too had been sent home, but the action was taken by U.S. team officials.

But Matthews and Collett believed any political motives. Matthews said that the salute was a common form of greeting and that the athletes had intended but did not rule out other possibilities.

"There will be a lot of unprecedented things happening," he said. He indicated the current strict rules on professionalism would be modified before the 1976 Olympics.

He expects a host of amendments to be proposed at the 1974 IOC meeting in Vienna, where he predicted changes will be made.

In any event, a Montreal crowd is more accustomed than the citizens of Munich to athletes who don't become rigid at the sound of a national anthem. Even their own.

If Medals Important, They Must Be Bought

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Canada's Olympic team arriving home Monday night from the Summer Games in Munich, Germany, were of one accord—Canadians competed with honor in relation to the financial help they received to prepare.

"If we're putting a value on medals we need more money," said John Richardson of London, Ont., manager of the wa ter polo team. "As a team we did well."

"We did real good," agreed gymnast Lee Arsenault of Hudson, Que. "We need more experience, practice time and better qualified coaches. But we did well for what we had."

"As individuals we can compete," says Jack Gaudie, "but as a team we need the country's backing spiritually and psychologically," added the wa ter polo player from Hamilton.

Wrestler Pat Bebger of Dunton, Ont., said the government would have to provide more money, facilities and better coaching if Canada wanted to improve for the Olympics at Montreal in 1976.

"No one has to apologize to anyone," said women's track star Abbie Hoffman. "We did as well as we expected, considering we prepare in an amateur way.

"I don't think people should expect more than the few medals for all the money and attention we get."

Herron Leads Race for Mile

TORONTO (CP) — Halfback Mack Herron of Winnipeg Blue Bombers is in command of the Canadian Football League this season that he stands a chance of joining one of professional football's most exclusive clubs.

League statistics released Tuesday show Herron leading the Western Conference rushing department with 791 yards in 118 carries during seven games.

The Bombers still have nine games remaining, leaving Herron plenty of time to reach the one-mile total in rushing, a mark only three players have ever attained.

Earl Lunsford, then with Calgary Stampeders and now general manager at Winnipeg, was the first to carry the ball 1,760 yards or more in one season when he gained 1,794 yards in 1961.

Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns in the National Football League set the all-time season high with a total of 1,863 yards in 1963 and George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders joined him in 1965 with 1,768 yards.

Herron also is taking aim at the CFL season record for touchdowns set by Pat Abruzzo who totalled 28 majors in 1956 with Montreal Alouettes.

Herron has a league-leading total of 12 touchdowns—eight on rushing, three on pass receptions and one on a kickoff return.

Reed ranks second behind Herron in WFC rushing so far this season with 555 yards on 115 carries while Don Sutherland of Hamilton Tiger-Cats continues to lead the Eastern Conference with 587 yards in 146 runs.

In the EFC scoring race, kicker Gerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders leads with 11 converts, 16 field goals and five singles for 64 points.

Mackey In Muddle

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Colts announced Monday that veteran John Mackey had retired from pro football. Several hours later Mackey denied it.

"I haven't retired," said Mackey, who was voted several years ago the outstanding tight end of the first 50 years in pro football. "I'm healthy, able and looking for a new year . . . and a new coach."

The Mackey controversy came as the 26 National Football League clubs began paring down to the 40-player limit for the opening of the regular season next Sunday. The deadline is today.

The 30-year-old Mackey, a nine-year NFL veteran, said he had asked to be put on waivers if the Colts couldn't make a deal after being told by coach Don McCafferty that Tom Mitchell would be the starting tight end this season.

Jim Nance, leading ground gainer several years ago for the old Boston Patriots in the American Football League, was cut Monday. He was let go by Philadelphia Eagles.

Nance was one of two fullbacks cut by the Eagles. The other was 31-year-old Tom Woodeshick.

Thomas Long Gone

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Harland Svare of San Diego Chargers says, after talking with Duane Thomas for two hours, it appears the running back is leaving professional football.

After two spectacular years, Thomas was traded by Dallas Cowboys to San Diego unconditionally for running back Mike Montgomery and wide receiver Billy Parks.

The moody Thomas, whose 11 touchdowns last season led the National Football League, showed up in San Diego Saturday at 1 p.m. Saturday but was gone long before the Chargers played New York Jets to a 20-20 exhibition tie. Thomas went home to Dallas.

Team Canada to Be Back for More

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyer Jack Eagleson, one of the major organizers of the eight-game Canada-Russia hockey series, says exploratory talks have been held on a similar series next year but no agreements have been reached.

Commenting on a report from Montreal Monday that Canadian and Soviet Hockey officials had already agreed on a more schedule series for next year, Eagleson said:

"Discussions have been held. I've had some discussions myself with Soviet officials, but to my knowledge there's been no agreements or decisions made.

"There's been general discussions all around but both sides have agreed that nothing definite would be done until after this series is over."

The Canadian team of National Hockey League stars regroups here today before departing tonight for Stockholm and exhibition games against the Swedes Saturday and Sunday. The remainder of the Canada-Russia series is set for Moscow Sept. 22, 24, 25 and 27.

Hockey Briefs

Harris to Coach Nats

OTTAWA (CP) — Billy Harris, former player with several National Hockey League teams, signed a two-year contract Monday to coach Ottawa Nationals of the World Hockey Association.

In making the announcement, Ottawa general manager Bud Houle said the 37-year-old coach is "the right man for the job" and that his European experience will help build a "strong" team.

Harris coached the Swedish national team in 1971-72.

Houle also announced the signing of three players — Bob Cuding a former Pittsburgh Penguin goals, Les Binkley, 30, of Owen Sound.

Frank Blum, a 20-year-old from Sarnia Bees of the Western Ontario Junior B Hockey League, and 21-year-old Gilles Gratton of Ottawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series were the other goalies signed by the club.

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge Monday returned to the state court system a contract dispute between Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League and Bobby Hull. The action apparently eliminates anti-trust elements from the case.

Lynch also dissolved a federal restraining order which prohibited Hull, an NHL superstar for years, from "representing himself as anything other than a Chicago Black Hawk hockey player." The order had temporarily blocked his participation as player-coach with Winnipeg Jets of the rival World Hockey Association.

Wind Wanted

TORONTO (CP) — Nobody could blame Gordon Fisher if he and his crew do a little wind dance prior to today's start of the second race in the Canada's Cup sailing series.

Fisher showed the stern of the Canadian defender Mirage to the crew of the American challenger Dynamite for most of Monday's first race.

But the Detroit sloop came to life when the wind diminished, caught Mirage at the third of five marks over a 21-mile triangular course on Lake Ontario and was one minute 50 seconds ahead at the finish.

Pennant Races Tighten Up

By The Associated Press

Baseball is going through its annual September Song, and as the days dwindle down to a precious few, the chase for the American League East pennant gets whackier and whackier.

Leading Boston Red Sox, for example, had their lead trimmed to one-half game by losing to leveland Indians 6-5 Monday night on a ninth-inning rally that turned into a double play.

And Baltimore Orioles closed the gap with a 3-2 victory over Milwaukee Brewers, thanks to a friendly foul pole that turned a potential home run into a loud strike.

Cleveland's winning run against the Red Sox came on a sacrifice fly that outfielder Ben Oglivie dropped and then cleverly turned into a double play, erasing what would have been an error for the rookie outfielder.

Meanwhile, Baltimore Orioles used Boog Powell's first home run in more than three weeks to trip Milwaukee Brewers.

The Orioles had a mind-in-icing scare as pinch hitter Joe Lahoud crashed a two-out shot into the right field bleachers—barely foul.

The other East contenders New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers, splashed through 5½ innings before the rain took over and the Yankees won 4-2. The victory moved New York into third place, 1½ games behind Boston. Detroit slipped to fourth, two games off the Red Sox pace.

In the West, Chicago White Sox moved to within two games of Oakland by beating Kansas City Royals 2-1 while the Athletics were losing a doubleheader to Minesota Twins, 2-1 and 3-2.

Only three National League games were played Monday night, New York Mets trimmed Philadelphia Phillies and Steve Carlton 4-3, Montreal Expos shut out St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 and Houston Astros topped Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3.

Mike Jorgensen drove in three runs for Montreal as Ike Boone's five-hitter and homer into a tie with the Cards for fourth place in the East Division.

Jimmy Wynn hit a triple to drive in a run and homered for another run for Houston.

The Mets frustrated Carlton's bid for a 20th victory, beating the Phillie ace with catcher Duffy Dyer paying the offence. Dyer drove in three runs with a homer, triple and ground out.

The Red Sox got home runs by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith, Carlton Fisk and even relief pitcher Bill Lee.

Cleveland loaded the bases in the fifth with the game tied 5-5 when Roy Foster filed to Oglivie—deep enough, the official scorer decided, to credit the batter with a sacrifice fly.

The rookie dropped the ball but recovered in time to force Jack Heidemann at third and when Foster passed another runner on the base-paths, he also was declared out. But Bell scored on the play and the damage had been done.

Baltimore did its offensive damage on Powell's three-run homer in the fourth inning.

The Brewers nicked Mike Cuellar for a run in the seventh, ending a 31-inning dry spell against Baltimore pitching.

Consecutive fourth-inning homers by Bobby Murcer and Felipe Alou gave New York the lead for keeps. Murcer's homer was his 28th of the year and one of three hits in the game for the Yankee centre fielder.

Alou's shot was the 200th of his major league career.

Chicago chopped 1½ games off Oakland's edge by nipping Kansas City while the Athletics were losing a pair to Minnesota.

Dick Allen's 34th home run by White Sox' record—accounted for the Chicago runs.

Deadly Duo

Two good reasons for the strong showing of the Belleville Lions' peewee lacrosse team have been Jeff Runciman and Kevin Gow. The pair have been among the leading scorers on the club that captured the Eastern championship of the Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association. Belleville will meet Wallaceburg this Saturday for the all-Ontario "D" title, the first time that a local lacrosse entry has had a chance for a provincial championship.

Lions' Peewees Roar at Title

Belleville Lions' peewees will be attempting to sink their claws into an all-Ontario minor lacrosse league championship Saturday.

The local Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association entry will face Wallaceburg in a noon showdown for the peewee "D" championship of the province. The game will be played in Mississauga.

The Lions finished their first OMLA season with a 14-5-1 record, outscoring their opposition 121-78 for the year. In tournament action they won the "B" championship of the Kingston Dairy Foods minitournament and took one out of three games in the tough Hamilton Dairy Foods Peewee Tournament.

They earned their right to a provincial finals berth in the OMLA eastern championships held in Orillia in August, trounced Ajax 10-0 and then stopped perennially - powerful Huntsville 7-5 to take the title.

"We played really well defensively, the best we've played all year probably in the playdowns," offered coach Don Niles. "Yes, I guess you could say that our defence has improved, although we've played pretty well all year. Our offence has been really tremendous this season."

Jeff Runciman, Kevin Gow, Doug Rainboth and Dan Duffy have provided much of the offensive fireworks for the peewees, while the Lions-club-sponsored group got strong defensive support from Hugh Graham, Howard Graham and Bruce McKinney.

Their netminders came in for special praise from coach Niles. "They've been our bread and butter all year," he noted of goalies Jeff Donald and Guy Haggerty.

Other members of the Eastern Ontario champs include John Belanger, Peter Delong, Allan Hackett, Andre Hall, Gerry Healey, Stephen Murphy, Tim Nutall, Peter Poole, Scot Summers and Laurie Wilson. The team manager is Glenn Payne.

Quinte Ousted

Pitching Gems Shinier

Quinte Hotel and Develin Motors were coming up with the fielding gems last night, but the pitching of Ken Dr. Mille and Bob Ethier proved to be like money in the bank for their respective clubs.

Dehille fired a five-hit shutout to help Rollins down Quinte 2-0 and eliminate the Holesmen from the semi-finals in five games. Ethier was even more impressive, turning in a one-hit effort as Howard and Robert nipped Develin 1-0.

The only triple play of the Commercial league season wasn't enough to prevent Quinte from bowing out of the playoffs as Dehille scattered their five hits to keep the Holesmen scoreless.

Rollins' runs came in the second when consecutive singles by Paul Goodfellow, Al Ferguson, Ralph Boomhower and Ken Dehille gave them two runs. The construction team had men on first and third the following frame, but failed to score when Quinte turned Goodfellow's grounder to short into a triple play.

Scott Reid went the distance for the losers allowing six hits and four walks, while striking out five. Dehille let down an even dozen batters on striker while issuing three free passes.

Dehille helped himself with two singles while Paul Mercer had a pair of safeties for the losers. Rollins' Paces included Rollins' other hit while Reid, Larry Mavety and Bob Parsons were the other Quinte batsmen.

A fourth-inning single by Eric Maher prevented Bob Ethier from collecting his second no-hitter of the season as Howard and Robert grabbed a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

While three double plays by Develins were helping hold the Printers to a single run, Ethier was applying the whitewash with a 14-strikeout performance. His effort overshadowed a fine three-hit effort by Ron Marsee and Don Holoway, who combined to strike out seven, but walk five. Ethier showed flawless control.

The only run of the game came in the third on a walk, Ethier's sacrifice and a single by Pud Kellar. It was the second hit of the game for Kellar with the winners' other safety going to Gary Coyer.

The sixth game of the series will be played at the Alemite tonight beginning at 8 p.m.

Sheridan Takes Turn

Mead Johnson had gotten Mark Sheridan thrown out of one Industrial Softball finals' game for his part in a first-game disagreement. It was only fair then, when Sheridan began throwing out Mead Johnson.

The big CN hurler blazed a one-hitter at his Industrial rivals for his second consecutive shutout and a 6-0 win. The victory gives the Trainmen a 3-1 choke-hold on the best-of-seven series.

Sonny Holoway's single in the second wrecked Sheridan's bid for a no-hitter. He allowed only three baserunners, walking one batter and suffering from one fielding miscue by his teammates. Sheridan struck out six batters.

Ken Osborne went the distance for the losers, giving up eight hits and two walks while striking out three.

Homer Thomas cracked a triple and single for CNR with Mike Fahey adding a single and double.

Other hits went to Zane Plumbe, Sheridan, Ron Marshall and Milt Bell.

The next game in the series is slated for 6.30 p.m. at the Alemite Wednesday.

Kinsmen Square Legion Series

Dave Bennett and Bill Sills managed to strike the Legion 90 colors Monday night by leading the Kinsmen to an 11-5 Belleville Minor Baseball win. The victory gave the Kinsmen a 1-1 split in the best-of-three peewee city semi-final series.

The pitching pair combined for a four-hitter, walking only one batter and striking out seven. Gary Drake and Marty Henderson handled the Legion pitching duties.

Jim Smart was the top Kinsmen batter, rapping a double and single while Dave Harris and Mark Coughlan collected doubles. For the losers it was Drake with a triple and single followed by Henderson and Peter Love with singles.

Gagne Peewees Leave Tracks

Gagne Masonry peewees tracked through Plane's Concrete tyke all-stars 8-7 Monday to win the first game of their Thurlow minor Baseball final series.

Willie Gagne and Gary Badgley pitched for the winners while Tony Park's David Blakely and Tom Masterson saw action for Plane's. Robert Hagerman and Rick Woodward each triple for Gagne's while Doug Vader and Gerard Cole had a double each for Plane's.

Some trouble he had last season. The 10-pin stats we perfect hits!"

Bobcats Finding Strength in Numbers

Belleville Bobcats managed to maintain the quantity of hockey players present at their Junior B training camp Monday while at the same time boosting the quality.

Coach Murray "Moe" Rutter was on hand his first major cut of the season slicing 15 candidates from the 39 that showed up for the second workout of the Toronto Metro Junior B team.

The remaining ranks contained a number of players who will be making strong bids to supplement the five players already signed by the Bobcats on this year's team.

"Some of them looked pretty good," said manager Jim "Sailor" Matthews of Monday's turnout. "I feel a lot better right now than I did after the opening practice. We're getting a little more size."

One of the most impressive newcomers was defenceman Neil Turner, who performed last year with the Trenton midget all-stars. The 18-year-old rearguard impressed Matthews with "some real good moves" and being in the 180-pound range, he could add some needed size. Turner was recently cut from the Toronto Marlboro Junior "A" camp.

Other new faces who impressed in their opening workouts were defenceman Dave Flesch and forward Peter Szurka both members of last year's Blake Kerr Imperial midgets. Flesch failed to grab a berth with Chatham of the OHA Junior "A" Tier 2 League.

In addition to keeping an eye on Belleville workouts this week, Matthews plans to attend Kingston training camp to possibly pick up some cuts from the Tier 2, Junior A club. "I'd be interested in a couple of defencemen," noted the Bobcats' manager.

Stanfield Radically Alters Campaign's Tone and Style

HALIFAX (CP) — The game plan for Robert Lorne Stanfield in 1972, naturally enough, is designed to make use of the lessons learned since 1968, when he first challenged the electoral right of Pierre Trudeau to be prime minister.

When the 58-year-old Conservative leader opens his campaign tonight at his nomination meeting, he starts a run for the Oct. 30 federal election that is going to be radically different in tone and style than his first one four years ago.

In part, this is because the Liberal prime minister is a different opponent than he was four years ago and, for the first time, has a record in office that can be challenged.

But it is also because Mr. Stanfield and his coaching staff have learned a lot since the last big game.

One lesson that has been driven home is that he comes across better in smaller gatherings than at big ones. His strong suit is an easy manner and a fine sense of humor with a small group that tends in fade out of sight at mammoth meetings where he is pretty well restricted to a setpiece speech.

Consequently, while one campaign strategist notes "there are very few things Stanfield is bad at," he acknowledges that the mammoth arena-style rally just isn't very relevant in the 1972 campaign plans.

The message they want to deliver is that Stanfield "is determined to form the next government" and, while delivering it, to concentrate on the Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia seats that will spell the difference between victory and defeat for the Conservatives.

That is where the guns must come if the party, solidly based now in the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies, is to break through.

Jewett Says Liberals In State of Paralysis

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — The federal Liberal party is in a state of paralysis, says Pauline Jewett, a former Liberal member of Parliament who is contesting the Ottawa West riding for the New Democratic Party in the federal election.

Miss Jewett, a political scientist in Ottawa, says disillusionment over unemployment, foreign ownership, election financing and housing turned her to the NDP.

She told 45 people at an NDP nomination meeting Sunday for Northumberland-Durham, the riding she held as a Liberal between 1963 and 1965, that it seemed the Liberal government was deliberately creating unemployment to curb inflation.

She said inflation is caused by land speculators who drive up mortgage rates.

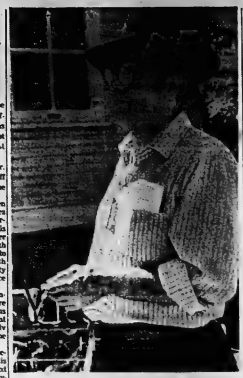
Wilmer Hill, a 36-year-old teacher from Hampton, was chosen to contest the riding for the NDP.

'Take Care, Take Time' Liberals' Song Reply

OTTAWA (CP) — "Take care, take time."

The land is strong.

With slow and careful love
The land stays young and free."



That's the first verse of the Liberal party's answer to the Progressive Conservative campaign tune. There's a New Way Coming, released last week. But although it's issued by the national headquarters, the Liberal attempt at the hit charts is issued only in English.

A party spokesman said the French Canadian campaign effort, run mainly from Montreal, will have access to the recording and can use it as they wish. But so far there is no French version.

Monday, Prime Minister Trudeau was given a premier of the bluesy soul price during a brief tour of the Ottawa campaign headquarters.

Mr. Trudeau listened without comment to snatches of the four-verse song, sung on one side by Toronto singer Rhonda Glover, 24, and played on the other by Moe Koffman on the electric flute.

Written by Canadian song writers J. Hall-Cook and Ted Roberts, the Liberals have all rights to the song until the Oct. 30 federal election. After that, the 45 rpm stereo record will be distributed commercially like any other.

Turner Says NDP Policies Would Make Ghost Towns

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Federal Finance Minister John Turner said Monday that New Democratic Party policies would turn northern mining towns into ghost towns.

Speaking at a nomination meeting, Mr. Turner said it was federal incentive grants and subsidies that provided the jobs that have made Timmins the mining capital of the north.

NDP Leader David Lewis three weeks ago visited Timmins and brought his war on "corporate welfare bums" with him. He said the Kidd Creek mine, operated by Texas Gulf Inc., was an example of mining ventures receiving handouts from the federal government.

Mr. Turner said Mr. Lewis had called Kirkland Lake, 50 miles away, a ghost town.

"Mr. Lewis would turn this town into a ghost town if he implemented his policies. If Mr. Lewis had his way, all the rest

Hees Would Cut Taxes On Income by 10 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — An immediate 10-per-cent reduction in personal income taxes is necessary in Canada to stimulate sales, production and jobs in a satisfactory level, former cabinet minister George Hees said Monday night.

Mr. Hees (PC—Prince Edward-Hastings) said in an interview that a reduced income taxes would be a part of party policy in the campaign for the Oct. 30 federal election.

He later told a nomination meeting in Toronto's Greenwood riding that to get the economy moving again the government must introduce new that personal and corporate income taxes will now be restored to their former levels (3 per cent higher) on January 1st next."

Lewis Pledges Price Controls

VANCOUVER (CP) — David Lewis, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said Monday an NDP government would institute controls on food and housing prices.

Speaking on an open-line radio show during his campaign for the Oct. 30 general election, Mr. Lewis said he "would control prices in food."

"I would control prices in housing as well," the NDP leader said.

Ann-Margaret Seriously Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Ann-Margaret faced reconstructive surgery today for facial injuries caused by a fall just before her act at a hotel in Lake Tahoe.

She was flown to Los Angeles Monday and admitted to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre, where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

The fall from a 22-foot-high stage scaffold Sunday night resulted in five fractures of facial bones, a fractured left arm, a concussion and a broken jaw.

The 31-year-old actress and singer had been standing on the scaffold—which looked like a giant bowl—waiting for ice cream to tip up on her show at the Sahara Tahoe Hotel. A hotel spokesman said part of the scaffold apparently broke and caused the structure to tilt.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — World renowned soprano Joan Sutherland let forth with a Verdi aria in the middle of downtown Union Square, virtually bringing crowds in the area to a halt.

The Australian diva's performance for a noon-time throng of Monday marked the opening of Opera Week in San Francisco to honor the 50th anniversary season of the local company. The season opens Friday with Miss Sutherland in Bellini's Norma.

After she received a thunderous ovation for her Ah fors e lui . . . Semper libera from Verdi's La Traviata, Miss Sutherland treated the crowd to an encore. The Last Rose of Summer, which the legendary Lauritz Melchior had sang to a Market Street assemblage over in 1950.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Sarah Vaughan heads for Latin America later this month with a new band that includes pop music as well as her familiar jazz.

"I'm not giving up my kind of music," the singer said. "But I think it's time I joined the generation."

Miss Vaughan's career has continued in nightclubs and concerts, but she's recently she hadn't recorded in five years. Her new album Sarah Vaughan with Michel LeGrand, has been selling well, Mainstream records reports.

The Vaughan itinerary includes Columbia, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Mexico Nicaragua, San Salvador nd Guatemala.

NEW YORK (AP) — A threatened strike by musicians that could silence Broadway musicals has been put off for a week until next Monday.

Max Arons, president of American Federation of Musicians Local 802, said Monday that Vincent D. McDonnell, chairman of the state mediation board, had requested a two-week postponement but the union decided on one week.

Arons said union members voted 204 to 2 to reject a contract offer from the League of New York Theatres.

McDonnell acted after receiving word that an impasse had been reached in the talks. Arons said the union is ready to resume negotiations with the help of a mediator.

Among those productions that could have been shuttered Monday night if a postponement had not been agreed upon were Jesus Christ Superstar, Sugar, Grease, Two Gentlemen of Verona, Don't Play Us Cheap, Sold No, No, Nanette.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Max Fleischer, creator of the Out of the Inkwell cartoon series and inventor of more than 70 motion picture production devices, died Monday. He was 89.

Fleischer, who created the Inkwell series in 1917, also produced two full-length motion pictures, Gulliver's Travels and Mr. Bugs Goes to Town. Motion picture production devices which he invented include the Rotoscope.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Now is an excellent time for pacification of local clashes. Business deals leave much to be desired: are subject to intervention.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Trouble-shooting is the most effective approach to your day. General clean-up is in order; can now be done with unusual dispatch.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Progress in any relationship problem, but not a time to conclude or break off any connection. Explore reasons gently.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your energy seems relatively high but lacking a proper target. Giving things time to settle also has much to offer.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Imagination upstages your business sense. Creative efforts turn up intriguing ideas. Financial moves are best avoided.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Temporary circumstances divert attention from where it belongs. Stick to previously set courses, time-tests methods.

Libra (Sep. 23-Oct. 22): Getting anything done needs discussion—probably a great deal of it. Good intentions are no substitute for definite information.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Knowing when you have the best of an encounter, when to quit, and what to do once you've left off are the insights to seek.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Physical aspects of work come conveniently to the fore. Nearer, Decisions, contrariwise, are difficult to bring to fact.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Collaboration runs into difficulties. Where you have found out what is to be done, proceed with what you can manage alone.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The many sides of any disagreement are closer to the truth than any single declaration. There are more comments coming.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Over-extension is the course of least resistance with some very plausible personalities of fering tempting prospects.

True Life Adventures

To Your Good Health

Ovaries Active, Supply Hormones

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 53 and have had my periods regularly without much sign of menopause. I had a problem for several years. The cervix dropped down and presses on the bladder. My doctor advised surgery so I was not getting better, only worse.

About six weeks ago I had the uterus and cervix removed. My doctor said my ovaries were healthy so he did not remove them. I have got along fine, and feel well. My doctor has not recommended hormones.

Friends say, "Oh, you should be taking hormones." Since I still have my ovaries, don't they supply the hormones I need? — Mrs. I.H.

Both you and your doctor know more about the facts than your friends who are so busily telling you you need hormones.

If your ovaries are still active, and producing sufficient hormones, why in the world should you take hormones? Your pardon my irascibility, why don't your friends shut up when they don't know what they're talking about?

Of course, at 53 you can expect menopausing fairly soon, but whether it's going to bother you remains to be seen. You may not ever need any hormones. Some women don't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In reading articles on hypoglycemia, I have noted comments concerning the value of medication in addition to diet.

My case went undiagnosed for 15 years. For years, but when it was detected, a rigid diet accurately worked miracles. In three days' supervision, I have been told there is no medication to help me. A night's deviation from the diet causes distressing symptoms.

I've got other desperate be- cause of the need always to plan ahead, whether at home or eats whenever I leave the house, be it weakness and trembling. — L.S.

There are nearly a dozen different types of hypoglycemia dependent on how blood sugars but diet alone keeps most of them under good control.

There are specialized types in which medication is necessary— thyroid, for example — but you may not be one of those.

There is, in addition, the fact that you are like it or not, that nervous tension very often accompanies hypoglycemia. So maybe we should put it the other way around—the nervous tense type of person is more likely to suffer from hypoglycemia. Hence in some cases a mild sedative or tranquilizer can be of surprising benefit.

One suggestion for you: diet, in the sense of the kind of food you eat, is important. But so is the timing. Eating a protein snack (raw cheese, nuts, a meat, sandwich, milk) shortly before you go out may solve your problem. Protein releases its sugar slowly, hence prevents a sudden dip in blood sugar over a longer time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to take pills to abort a pregnancy? If so, why can't women get one from doctors in their own city instead of having to pay airline fare, hotel bill and so on, and go to some other state for an abortion? — L.M

The short, simple answer is that there is no pill that will do it.

More Than Thirty MPs Qualify for Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — If they don't take a job directly from the federal government, retiring Liberal MP Bud Orange will collect a minimum $4,440 a year in parliamentary pension for the rest of his life.

That means that in three years he gets back all the money he invested in the pension plan, plus some.

Mr. Orange is one of more than 40 members of the Parliament dissolved Sept. 1 who are not seeking re-election. More than 30 of them qualify for lifetime pensions starting now by reason of their last six years in Parliament.

The pension payments are delayed while any otherwise-qualified ex-MP holds a government appointment, including a Senate membership.

Mr. Orange at 46 is one of the younger members quitting Parliament. If he lives to be 70, his pension payout from public funds would amount to a minimum $105,840 on an original investment of $9,456.

That is the minimum because the parliamentary pension is geared to rise with the cost of living. If costs rise by at least two per cent a year, the pension payments are bumped up by two per cent.

Mr. Orange, an economist who represented the Northwest Territories in the Commons from 1965, is singled out to illustrate the case of an MP just over the qualifying line to collect a pension—six calendar years of service.

The pension figures cited are based on his having seven years paid up in the fund.

An MP gets a year of paid-up service for every $1,858 split he pays into the program.

For the regular back-bencher, $1,250 is the limit he can contribute in a calendar year. But if he has an extra salaried position—such as party secretary to a minister, party whip or cabinet minister—he can pay extra $1,250 units into the plan and thus boost his years of service still further, regardless of how long he actually spent in the House.

Actual age has nothing to do with the plan. It is based strictly on the number of paid-up years as an MP he has to his credit.

Mr. Orange was appointed a parliamentary secretary in 1968 and then could have decided to increase his years of service for pension purposes by purchasing extra units. The percentage rate of pension returns on those extra units purchased is lower than on the units representing actual years of service.

On the straight-years-of-service basis, the retiring MP figured to get back more than he put into the plan in the third year of his term. If he has 11 years' service or less. At 12 years of service, he is into a return area where at the end of two years on pension he has recouped all the money he contributed.

Because of salary changes over the years, MP input into the pension plan, which has a maximum annual payout figure of $13,500, has increased.

The $1,250 contributory unit applies for the last 10 years of service.

Current MP salaries are $18,000 a year plus a tax-free $8,000 expense allowance. A parliamentary secretary draws an extra $4,000, a year in salary. A minister gets $16,000 annual salary over and above his $18,000. for a total of $33,000 plus an allowance of $20,000.

Only the salaried amounts, not expense accounts, are considered to determine whether an MP may purchase extra pension units.

On a straight-service basis, not counting any extra units purchased, here are representative payouts:

—Six years, annual pension $3,780 after paying in $8,128

—Ten years, pension $6,300, after paying in $13,500.

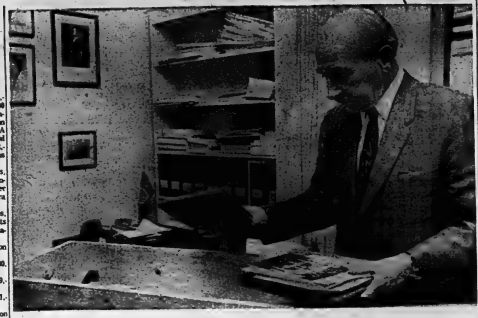
—Fifteen years, pension $9,000 after paying in $25,900

—Twenty years, pension $11,700 after paying in $18,300

—Twenty-five years, pension the maximum $13,500 after paying in $20,700.

This calculation disregards any changes that may be brought about by the cost-of-living rider.

There are also survivor benefits under the plan, providing payment of 60 per cent of a member's pension to a spouse, which may be increased if the survivor still has children to raises.



A retiring member becomes ineligible for immediate pension payments if he moves to another position where he is paid out of general government revenues.

So an MP appointed to the Senate cannot draw his commons pension on top of his Senate salary.

Similarly, he is barred from drawing the pension if he goes to the bench of the Supreme Court of Canada or the Federal Court of Canada, to a federal board, into the diplomatic service or if he engages in work on a contract basis for the federal government.

But an MP appointed to the bench in a provincial court—an appointment made by the federal justice minister—draws his pension as well as his judge's salary.

The pension is not forfeit if an MP takes a post where he is paid out of government revenues, simply held in a vacuum until such time as he leaves such a job. Once he does, payments start as if that was the date when he left the House.

Pensioner

Douglas Harkness will be one of the retiring MPs eligible for a pension. Here he cleans out his Parliament Hill office Thursday as he winds up a 27-year parliamentary career. Mr. Harkness, who has decided against seeking re-election in his riding of Calgary Centre in next month's federal election, is one of Parliament's three longest-serving members. (CP Photo)

Pensioner Is Helped By Lewis

OTTAWA (CP) — A biting speech by New Democrat Leader David Lewis has removed the threat of court action by the Unemployment Insurance Commission against a Toronto pensioner.

The pensioner, Robert Millgan, 65, received a letter from the commission telling him to repay $1,700 in benefits within 10 days or be taken to court.

In a Toronto speech Sunday, Mr. Lewis contrasted the case with that of large corporations allowed to defer millions of dollars in tax payments.

The commission said Monday its letter demanding repayment was sent in error.

Yves Charlebois, commission public relations officer, explained that Mr. Millgan had switched from receiving Canada Pension Plan payments to unemployment benefits because the latter were larger. Normally no one is allowed to receive both. But because an error he was not given full status as an unemployment insurance recipient and later repayment of the benefits was demanded.

Hydro Strike Now in Its 13th Week

TORONTO (CP) — The strike of 12,000 members of Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees against Ontario Hydro entered its 13th week today.

The local has paid out more than $1 million to striking and locked-out members and is continuing to pay benefits at the rate of about $130,000 a week. The treasury is empty, but Jack Walker, financial secretary of the local, said Monday the union's credit rating is so high that it has had no difficulty in borrowing money on its properties.

Negotiators reported no progress in talks to end the strike.

The union says its members are dug in and holding solid. Hydro is confident that its force of 1,200 supervisory personnel, some working up to 12 hours in some weeks, can continue to maintain the flow of power into the foreseeable future. Another 3,000 management and non-union personnel are carrying out administrative functions and line work.

The union members, ranging from electrical operators to linemen, storekeepers, draftsmen and tradesmen, had lost 3.6 million hours of work as of last Wednesday. Payroll loss is estimated at about $30 million, and this figure is mounting by about $1¼ million a week.

"Some of our members are being hurt quite badly," said William Vincer, president of Local 1000, "but they're not going back to work either."

Of the 12,000 members, about 4,000 are drawing strike benefits of $20 a week for single persons and $30 for those with families. The others are either sitting out the strike or have found temporary jobs. To qualify for strike pay, a striker must do picket duty or other chores.

Mr. Vincer said that, as long as there is no change in Hydro's position, the members will stay out.

Union officials recognize that despite all the problems that confront it, Hydro is in a position to stand firm as long as it is able to generate and maintain the flow of power.

"We've learned some real lessons from this struggle," said one official. "Hydro's strategy has certainly been successful so far."

Part of that strategy has been to lock out large groups of employees when others were on rotating strikes, so that the disruptive escalation until all union members were off the job.

In the last rotating strike against Hydro, the union had no money financial burden because only relatively small numbers of employees were out at any one time. That dispute lasted six weeks.

Much of Hydro's paper work is either piling up or being scrapped as management personnel concentrate on getting out the bills.

Robert Smart, a Hydro spokesman, said that with the increasing efficiency of the operation, Hydro has been able to give some of the supervisory people in the operating division their vacations.

Management personnel are being paid straight time for the first five hours of overtime after 37½ hours worked each week. After that, they get time-and-a-half.

Under the old agreement, linemen were paid $202.40 for a 40-hour week; first apprentice in large transformer stations received $209.30, and an experienced storekeeper got $130.09 for a 35-hour week.

The union, which opened bargaining with a request for an increase of 11 per cent over one year, has declined to nine per cent in each year of a two-year contract. Hydro has offered an average of 12½ per cent over two years, plus a cost-of-living prepayment on cost of living.

Complicating the wage issue is Hydro's determination to vary the size of the increases between categories. The union has declined to accept anything but an across-the-board percentage increase.

Levesque Takes Part In Federal Election

MONTREAL (CP) — " . . . And in this corner, Rene Levesque!"

What? In the federal election campaign? Yes. It may seem odd, but the separatist leader is throwing punches in the federal fight while the provincial leaders of Quebec's traditional parties protest a spectator role.

Moving swiftly into a spoiler style, the Parti Quebecois founder-leader figures on scoring against the "feds" as they expose soft spots while battling each other.

Mr. Levesque and his lieutenants feel the best strategy for attaining power in Quebec in the future is to make war now on federalism—and federalists personified here by Pierre Elliott Trudeau more than by anyone else.

As long ago as February, Mr. Levesque was taking an aggressive stance and predicting that the federal election—wherever it came—would result in a minority government in Ottawa, which would be fine with him.

Ontario Said to be Facing Critical Energy Prospects

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — Robert H. Hay of Kingston, Ont., a member of Ontario's advisory committee on energy, warned Monday that the province faces a grim energy prospect.

Sharply accelerated demand coupled with the "sudden and unwanted" concern of environmentalists is putting a squeeze on available energy resources, he told a district meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Ontario imports 83 per cent of its energy requirements from Western Canada and elsewhere. But even such sources are not unassailable.

"They're not finding more gas and oil in Alberta. The rate of discovery no longer matches the rate of increase in consumption.

"Excluding the Mackenzie delta and the Arctic island fields, Canadian gas will last us another 30 years, crude oil will last just past 1980 and only the oil sands will extend that to 1995-2000."

Mr. Hay, a past president of the OMEA, said Ontario, with hydro-electricity as its only indigenous source of energy, has managed to become the most productive sector of Canada's economy.

"But we are also the most vulnerable to the energy cr on that has hit the United States. Unless we move with wisdom as well as swiftness and hold down the blackouts, the brownouts and the shortages will be upon us too."

He said the only bright spot on the horizon is successful exploitation of the heavy water system for nuclear power generation as reflected in the success of the Pickering station near Toronto.

The greatest increase in energy demand in Ontario has been for electricity. The province's present rate of growth he told a district meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Ontario imports 83 per cent of its energy requirements from Western Canada and elsewhere. But even such sources are not unassailable.

"They're not finding more gas and oil in Alberta. The rate of discovery no longer matches the rate of increase in consumption.

Mr. Hay, a past president of the OMEA, said Ontario, with hydro-electricity as its only indigenous source of energy, has managed to become the most productive sector of Canada's economy.

"But we are also the most vulnerable to the energy cr on that has hit the United States. Unless we move with wisdom as well as swiftness and hold down the blackouts, the brownouts and the shortages will be industrial and economic growth, free enterprise and the energy requirements to supply them, and the social ills desire for a "risk-free" environment.

"To an extent not at all generally appreciated the reduction of pollution and protection of the environment will, of themselves, materially increase the demand for electricity," Mr. Hay said.

"We are ready and willing to minimize the adverse impacts involved in the generation of electrical energy. . . . However, there cannot be a risk-free environment. There never has been."

Development of nuclear power is the most promising answer to Ontario's dependence on increasingly scarce and expensive natural fields.

But, Mr. Hay added, there will be environmental and ecological impacts which compensation and logic should be able to minimize.

Notes of his speech, which will be delivered at OMEA district meetings in Sturgeon Falls Wednesday and Strathroy Sept. 20, were issued in advance.

Vallieres, 34, pleaded guilty to three charges of counselling political kidnappings in a letter he wrote in 1968. Seven other charges of counselling the kidnapping and/or murder of prominent political figures were dropped by Crown prosecutor Rene Dery.

The charges dropped stemmed from another letter, also written in 1968.

All charges carry a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Woman 3 Days Pinned Under Car

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — A farmwife, Mrs. Ford Stewart, was pinned under the wheel of a wrecked car for five days while the bodies of her husband and two friends lay nearby, it recovering in St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Bonnie Sprayman was found Sunday.

Dr. G. L. Stewart, Mount Forest coroner, said Monday he had not understood how Mrs. Sprayman survived.

"Mrs. Sprayman's wounds were loaded with crawling things," said Dr. Stewart. "Her discomfort must have been beyond imagination. She survived a weekend which not many people could have."

The coroner said the others would not have survived, even if they had received prompt medical attention, because of the extent of their injuries.

Dead are: Frank Sprayman, 52, of Maxwell; Mrs. Gordon Willcombe, 38, of Preston Downs; and Albert Price, 38, of RR 1 Maxwell, believed to have been driver of the car.

Police said the accident occurred Wednesday when the car failed to negotiate a curve on Concession 20 in Egremont.

Plan Special

TORONTO (CP) — A 28-hour telethon planned and produced by the Canadian Ice on Independent Canada will be what the organization calls the "pre-opening special" for Toronto's new television station, CITY-TV, channel 79.

The telethon starts Sept. 23 at 6 p.m.

The station, which began operating on Sept. 5, has donated its facilities to let the CIC acquaint the public with its activities, aims and ideals and to raise the money to promote them.

Among those participating will be Pierre Berton, Lauren Lazarre, Mavi Fernpeon, Cathrine McKinnon and the Percy Cuanco Conspiracy.

Import Salt

TORONTO (CP) — North York council decided Monday, after hot debate, to melt snow on borough streets this winter with Romanian rather than Canadian salt.

Despite charges of hypocrisy, council voted 10-1 to reject a council board recommendation of last week to buy equal amounts of salt from both countries.

The Romanian salt, supplied by Miller Paving Co., will cost the borough one cent less per ton than salt from Canadian Salt Co. of Windsor, Ont.

Ban Sought

PORT CARLING, Ont. (CP) — Margaret Scrimger, Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for the Toronto riding of St. David, called Monday for a ban on motorcycles from all residential streets in the province because of the noise they create.

Thursday, near Durham, Ont. The car shot through the air, struck a utility pole, rolled over and rolled down a 30-foot embankment.

Mrs. Sprayman was discovered by Ford Stewart of Flesherton, Ont., who had been a prisoner in the same wall-shaped car for five days. They had been unable to get out because of the position of the vehicle. Mr. Stewart was released at the same time.

Oppose Road

TORONTO (CP) — The province's plan to build a highway in the Metropolitan Toronto municipality of York Mills was opposed by the city of Toronto Monday in a brief presented to Premier William Davis at the provincial Speaker-conference in Toronto.

Mrs. Dodi Townsend said at a council meeting that York's council opposes the highway because traffic studies on Eglinton Ave. W. show it to be a provincial responsibility.

Metro Toronto council wished Premier to reconsider the plan and to discuss it personally with the Metropolitan Toronto council before the commencement of the hearings concerning the province's proposal this week.

Scientists Say Terrorists Might Build A-Bombs

Dread Thefts Of Plutonium

LONDON (CP) — Many nuclear scientists are worried that terrorists may eventually be able to steal radioactive plutonium from power plants and convert it into bombs.

Prof. Joseph Rotblat of London, secretary of the six-day Pugwash conference which ended its closed meeting at Oxford University Tuesday, said today this concern was expressed by many delegates who called for a special international organization to deal with the threat.

The spread of nuclear power plants, to be augmented sharply by fast breeder reactors, was a major topic at the conference attended by 200 East-West delegates. The conference takes its name from the first gathering in Nova Scotia in 1957.

Rotblat told a London reporter that guerrillas might be able to produce their own nuclear bomb and use it for blackmail.

"Once you have got hold of a

Pair Charged

HALIFAX (CP) — A preliminary hearing began Tuesday into charges of armed robbery against Victor Martell, Dartmouth, 29, and Robert Earl Ells, 24, both of Kingston, Ont.

The two are charged in connection with the Aug. 1 robbery of a Halifax grocery.

sufficient amount of plutonium the material of explosive it might not be very efficient—but it would still be a nuclear explosion," he said.

Senate Probes Bomb Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Senate armed services committee called on Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, President Nixon's choice as army chief of staff, to testify today in the congressional investigation of unauthorized U.S. bombings of North Vietnam.

Abrams was U.S. commander in Vietnam at the time of the strikes which led to the firing of Gen. John D. Lavelle as commander of the 7th Air Force.

Lavelle was relieved of command, demoted one grade and retired after it became known he ordered bombings above the demilitarized zone last winter and spring against the guise of protective-reaction strikes. At the time, Nixon administration policy forbade such bombings unless U.S. planes were attacked.

Senator John Stennis, chairman of the armed services committee, said Tuesday that Abrams "had many consultations" with Nixon during the time of the bombings. The Mississippi Democrat would not elaborate.

Senate action on Abrams nomination has been held up pending the outcome of the inquiry, which Stennis said "frankly has a lot to do with Abrams's nomination."

Stennis said Abrams may take one or two days to give his closed-door testimony. Other witnesses, including pilots and members of Lavelle's former staff in the upper echelons of the 7th Air Force, will be called later.

Lavelle testified in secret Monday and Stennis said the committee went down a list of the raids and asked Lavelle to explain each one.

"Certainly most of them were in the nature of protective reaction, but the question is where do you draw the line," Stennis said.

Earlier Tuesday, Senator Stuart Symington, (Dem., Mo.) said he thought it was becoming clear that Lavelle "wasn't alone" in authorized attacks.

Symington, a former secretary of the air force, is a member of the armed services committee.

Maggots Save Life Of Woman

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Maggots, a one-time medical remedy used to clean wounds, helped save the life of Denise Sprayson as she lay pinned in the wreckage of a car for five days. Dr. G. L. Stewart, area coroner, said today.

The maggots, swarming over the shattered face and limbs of the 17-year-old Maxwell, Ont., woman, prevented blood poisoning, Dr. Stewart said in an interview.

She was reported progressing favorably today in hospital after being trapped under the rear wheel of an auto wreck that claimed the lives of her husband and two friends.

Dr. Stewart said her wounds were "loaded" with maggots and her discomfort during her periods of consciousness must have been "beyond imagination."

The fact she was unconscious much of the time helped to reduce the shock. Being in a marshy area shaded by trees and watered by shows kept her body from being dehydrated, he said.

Lebanon Fears New Attacks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lebanon's premier expressed fear Tuesday of a new Israeli attack as United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim called for General Assembly action against terrorism.

"From an evaluation of the situation we cannot rule out last week's Israeli attack would be the last," Premier Saeb Salam told the Lebanese parliament.

His fears apparently were based on reports of continuing Israeli troop concentrations along Lebanon's southern borders and of new Israeli threats to retaliate after Arab terrorists.

Salam said the Lebanese army has clear orders "to defend Lebanon in every way Israeli aggression, at any price.

"We do not claim to have the power to deter Israel completely," he added, "but it is unacceptable not to resist an aggressor."

Israeli planes attacked Palestinian positions in Lebanon and Syria last October and November in the Olympics massacre in Munich. Twenty-three Arabs and 11 Israelis, five Arabs terrorists and a West German police officer were killed.

Jumping for Those Who Can't

Some children can't run and jump and play like everyone else. These five young Belleville girls understand this. Collins Bay Convicts Say They Often Shop for Wine

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two convicts testified Tuesday they frequently eluded security to purchase wine at a nearby shopping centre while being held at the Collins Bay penitentiary farm annex.

Alfred W. Everall and Norman Monk said they felt the shopping trips were a rather common practice when they testified in provincial court on charges of escaping custody today.

"Just the night before I got arrested I came back with a full case — that's 12 bottles of wine," said Everall. He said he had been "shopping three or four times" in a two-month period.

"I've been there three times previously," Monk said, "and I know three guys who go regularly."

On every occasion, the "runners" returned to the farm annex.

"We had too much to lose," said Monk. "I was getting out Oct. 10 and I also had a three-day temporary pass coming up."

Justice P. E. D. Baker reserved judgment to Sept. 19.

Eighty Items Are Settled In Hydro Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators in the strike of 12,000 Ontario Hydro workers, now in its 80th day, say that agreement was reached Tuesday on 80 of 90 contract items in dispute.

They said, however, that only 17 of the 80 represented changes from the old contract and all are "non-major" items.

Negotiators conferred in court with provincial mediator Vernon Scott to discuss the 10 items still in dispute, including wages, job security and shift scheduling procedures.

Icelandic Ship Cuts Trawls

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuter) — British fishermen were keeping a sharp eye on the navy for the Aegir, flagship of Iceland's coast guard fleet, which has been cutting their nets adrift.

The Aegirs captain, Guðmund Kernested, whose task is to enforce his government's new and unrecognized 50-mile fishing limit, cut the trawl lines of two more British vessels Tuesday in the latest clash of the so-called cod war.

Kernested had ordered the trawlers to haul in their nets and move outside Iceland's new limits.

But as he did so, Captain Charles Adams of the British support ship Miranda radioed the skippers to keep fishing and resist any attempts to chase them away.

Adams, whose ship was two miles away at the time, said: "You are fishing legally — on open sea."

The Aegir promptly lowered its cutting gear and severed the British trawl lines.

Man with Rifle Near McGovern

DETROIT (AP) — Police said they arrested a man carrying a rifle about an hour before a political rally for Senator George McGovern in Kennedy Square, downtown Detroit. The man was observed standing on a street corner about a block from the rally site carrying a rifle case and a blue canvas bag, police said. Investigating officers said the man had a rifle in the gun case and a handgun and hunting knife in the bag. Neither gun was loaded, officers said, but the man did have three rounds of ammunition for the handgun and a single round for the rifle in his pockets. The man was charged with armed robbery but police said the charges may be changed after further investigation.

Vanguard Warns Heath

BELFAST (AP) — Protestant militants have warned they will "drink Northern Ireland to a complete standstill" if the British government gives in to Roman Catholic demands to free suspected guerrillas.

As sporadic violence rumbled across Ulster today, the British government was reported to be considering a compromise to get the Protestants and Catholics off its back and save a crucial conference scheduled for later this month.

The warning from the Ulster Vanguard movement came late Tuesday after Prime Minister Edward Heath met with leaders of the Catholic Social Democratic and Labor Party who said they will boycott the conference if he does not end internment without trial regulations and free about 250 Irish Republican Army suspects.

Heath and his Ulster administrator, William Whitelaw, were reported to be considering ending internment and setting up special courts to try the suspects without juries.

IRA Alters Bomb Tactics, Concentrates on Soldiers

BELFAST (Reuter) — A two-week lull in the bombing campaign against civilians by the outlawed Irish Republican Army may reflect a major change in IRA policy.

The daily bomb attacks against civilian targets, which for two years has been terrorizing the population, dropped drastically two weeks ago at the same time that a new commander took over the Belfast brigade of the Provisional IRA.

Gerry Adams, a 26-year-old former internee, took over from Seamus Twomey, who is a hard-line proponent of the bombing policy favored by Provisional leader Sean MacStiofain, based in Dublin.

Adams is believed to favor an intensification of the campaign against the security forces. He wants to abandon the plan to bring the commercial life of Ulster to a standstill because he fears alienating the Roman Catholic community.

Only three or four small bombs have gone off in populated areas in the last two weeks which could reasonably be pinned on the IRA although several bomb explosions are believed to have been the work of militant Protestants.

Sandbanks Trial Delay Sought

PICTON (Staff) — One of the companies charged in a beside Sandbanks Provincial Park has asked for adjournment of the trial until November.

Triad Truckways Ltd., which along with Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. faces charges under the Environmental Protection Act and the Criminal Code, says it needs more time to consider changes in the prosecution. The trial, postponed July 19 but altered slightly Aug. 2.

Lawyers from both companies, together with David Estrin, general counsel for the Environmental Law Association which is conducting the prosecution, will appear in provincial court Friday to discuss the request.

Mr. Estrin said today he received a call from Triad earlier this week asking for the adjournment.

"We reluctantly agreed," he said, but he added, "We're prepared to proceed unless the other side can convince the court."

He said Lake Ontario Cement was in agreement with Triad in requesting the postponement.

The private suit was launched by Mrs. Agda Rayner, a Toronto secretary who spends her vacation at Sandbanks beach resort near the park. She may also appear before Judge John Clendenning Friday.

Mrs. Rayner charged the cement company and Triad, which hauls sand for it, with polluting the environment at the private beach resort and Sandbanks Park, under the province's environmental act.

She also charged both company with interfering with the federal criminal code, involving wilful interference with the enjoyment of private property.

A similar subpoena charge laid against Ronald Norton, operator of a front-end loader at the sand pit, was dropped when the case came before Judge Clendenning for the first time Aug. 2.

At that time, Mr. Estrin also moved to have the charges reworded in order to make them more clear. Lawyers for both companies have had copies of the revised charges since Aug. 15, he said.

This suit is nothing new for the environment-minded lawyer. A prosecution last March against a Killaloe charcoal factory resulted in the company receiving a $500 fine under the Environmental Protection Act.

The reasons for accepting Mrs. Rayner's lawsuits are to show that Lake Ontario Cement and Triad Truckways "have not kept their promise to land owners as far as keeping down noise is concerned," and that neither company has "kept the provincial laws as stated".

Lake Ontario Cement has a 75-year lease at $1 a year permitting removal of sand from a 16-acre site adjacent to scenic Sandbanks Park.

Olympians Honored

An Olympic Grove at Bayside Secondary School will forever commemorate the massacre of the Israeli athletes in Munich last week.

In one of its first actions since moving into its new school, the Bayside student body decided to honor the slain Olympians with the planting of 11 evergreen trees.

By Friday $70 had been collected, almost enough to buy the evergreens.

Bayside's staff and students hope the grove will not only be a memorial to the 11 Israelis but will also express the school's hope for the continuation of the Olympic brotherhood spirit.

Soutter Seeks PC Nomination

Donald M. Soutter, 63, a Belleville city alderman for the past three years, announced today he will seek the Progressive Conservative nomination at the Hastings Riding nomination meeting in Madoc if sitting member Lee Grills decides not to run again.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Soutter said "a young energetic and aggressive team backing Robert Stanfield can change the direction this country is taking for the better. We have the mismanagement of the economy, a failure to provide jobs and a preoccupation with some sectors of this country to the detriment of others. We have seen, over the last four years, the development of the philosophy of life which is contrary to our basic instincts."

Mr. Soutter said that "not all the issues are national. The federal government is pursuing policies of taxpayers' dollars which other parts of Canada. Here in Hastings County we have the resources of land, water and people, yet, for example, our tourist potential is ignored by Ottawa. One of the major concerns of those elected to the House of Commons must be to look after the best life of rural Canada. This would be one of my prime goals."

Mr. Soutter has been managing editor of the Intelligencer since moving to Belleville six years ago. He indicated that if nominated he would resign his position and if elected would devote his full time to the business of the riding.

The Belleville alderman has been active in the community. He is a governor and member of the redevelopment committee of Loyalist College; a member of the board of governors of the Belleville General Hospital, a director of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit and a director of the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County.

Mr. Soutter is also a director of the Belleville Industrial Commission and is past president of the Belleville incorporation - across committee and a past member of the parks board.

Until his community activities absorbed much of his time, he had been an ardent sailor. He is a member of the yacht club, a director of the Belleville Club as well as a member of the Belleville Sailing and Ad Club.

During the past federal and provincial elections Mr. Soutter played a role in supporting Mr. Grills and the Hon. Richard T. Potter. In the 1971 provincial campaign he was appointed regional resources chairman by party headquarters and is also resource chairman for four area ridings for the upcoming Oct. 30 election.

The candidate said "the only thing which would change my mind at this late date is if Mr. Grills decides to run. However as time is dwindling before the Oct. 30 vote it became necessary to declare my intentions now."

City's Pay Scale Not Up to Par

Young high school and university students working for the city's recreational department during the past summer came out on the short end of the financial stick, as compared with those working for government sponsored youth programs.

The difference in wages received by the young people working in the two programs ranged all the way from $15 to as much as $60 per week.

This wage disparity was mentioned briefly at Tuesday's recreation committee meeting during discussion of a $994 bill for uniforms for city playground supervisors and other young workers.

Questioning the $994 bill, Alderman Dean Smith suggested that it might be advisable to have workers wear their own clothes, but department officials said the supply of uniforms might be one way of helping to retain employment in view of the higher wages paid by LIP and other government sponsored youth programs. The bill was approved.

It was noted that the city pays from $46 to $80 a week for playground supervisors and other workers with top personnel in some cases receiving up to $90.

On the other hand government youth programs pay $60 to $120 for high school students and from $80 to $100 for university students.

Water Policy Concerns BUC

The Belleville Utilities Commission is concerned about a ministry of the environment decision to extend water services into Sidney Township from existing Belleville and Trenton systems.

In a letter to D. S. Caverly, assistant deputy minister of the water management branch, BUC manager Neil Britton says the commission is "vitally interested" in plans for the city's future water supply.

He asked Mr. Caverly to advise the BUC of the current status of the Quinte Area Water Board, noting the board has not met for some time. He also asked for clarification on the ministry's plans for water supply in this area, with particular reference to Belleville.

Mr. Britton said the commission was "surprised" to learn of the ministry's decision to scrap a proposed pipeline from Lake Ontario that would have serviced Belleville, Trenton and several adjoining municipalities.

News of the revised approach was made public in a letter to Belleville Industrial commissioner Fred Bemis, a copy of which was read at a Sidney Township meeting August 28.

That letter, from J. R. Barr, director of the ministry's sanitary engineering branch, said ministry officials were giving serious consideratin to an extension of existing facilities in Belleville and Trenton.

It also indicated that the reason for the ministry's rejection of the pipeline scheme was the result of objections by Belleville and Trenton authorities.'

Mr. Britton added that it has been some time since the BUC received information about the ministry's thinking in respect to water supplies for this area.

Petty Thefts Plague OPP

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police last week investigated a rash of thefts in the county.

An outboard motor valued at $625 was reported stolen from the Massassaugo Point cottage of Bernard Ledoucceur on September 3.

On September 4, Glen Flake of RR 2, Picton, reported the theft of a stereo tape player and detachable speakers from his barn. The incident remains under investigation.

John Douglas McFarlane of Picton informed police his wristwatch valued at $75 was taken while he was swimming at Lake-On-The-Mountain on September 5.

Three sleeping bags valued at $80 were taken from Prince Edward Heights complex the same day.

PECI Growing Fast

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward Collegiate Institute is growing and if the trend continues it will become one of the largest secondary schools in this area, according to county director of education John McNeil.

Mr. McNeil said Monday enrolment this year jumped to 1,491 students in comparison with a figure of 1,448 pupils in 1971.

The enrolment of grade nine students has been larger than usual this year, increasing from an average of 260 to 370 in previous years to 400 pupils.

The education director said this growth figure indicates that PECI will have a student population of more than 1,500 "in the near future," making it one of the largest high schools in the area.

Kindergarten enrolment in Prince Edward county this year increased from 315 students in 1971 to 329 pupils in 1972. Elementary school enrolment dropped slightly from a figure of 2,818 in 1971 to 2,765 this year.

Baylea Road Is Unwanted

WALLERIDGE (Staff) — Who is responsible for poor road conditions on Baylea Drive?

That was the essential question in a two-hour discussion at Sidney township council Tuesday.

The township claims ditches are inadequate along the residential road that runs south from Highway 2 to the bay in the Bayside area and the road itself needs substantial upgrading.

However, the township has not assumed responsibility for the road from developer Charles Lambert and doesn't feel it should pay tax dollars to bring the road to a standard it finds acceptable.

Unless the township does assume Baylea Drive, maintenance and snow removal costs will not be done by Sidney.

A bid last night to have Baylea residents opt for having the costs borne by local improvement charges against them failed. Lambert still owns 13 lots on Baylea and told council last night the full cost of improving the road were paid by local improvements he would pay the most.

An informal vote by 12 Baylea residents and Mr. Lambert as a landholder ended with only Mr. Lambert favoring local improvements. Township council will investigate the cost of improving Baylea and residents indicated last night they may be willing to pay if the expense is not too great.

Rejection by residents last night of local improvement charges was followed by a statement by one Baylea owner that essentially it is a question between Lambert and the township and residents are being "railroaded."

Lambert indicated at Tuesday's meeting he had met the township's minimum standards in building Baylea and had tried several times while the road was under construction to have township officials inspect it.

Reeve Jack Bush acknowledged that there had been a "breakdown in communications." Works foreman Charles Fair said he never received a request from Lambert to inspect the road.

"Finally someone comes and says he doesn't like the road," stated the developer.

Robert Sim, representative of the ministry of transportation and communication from Kingston, told the meeting with residents "the road may have met the township's minimum standards but the road doesn't stand up now."

He said, regardless of whether it had been inspected when being built, "if a road doesn't last the winter, it hasn't been built properly."

"I have already paid my fortune to build that road," said Lambert, indicating his willingness to pay a share of local improvement costs along with the residents themselves.

In a report, Mr. Fair stated the roads to be built will be 18 inches and the ditches have to be deepened substantially. The ditches do not carry away the water and the roadway is rutted.

Lambert says the road met township minimum standards when it was built.

When one resident suggested Mr. Lambert may be responsible for bringing the road to a standard acceptable to the township now — after it has gone through its first winter — the developer said "you are telling me I have to build this road all over again . . . I do not think that is fair ball."

Mr. Lambert feels the township shares responsibility because no township inspector investigated the road's condition when it was built.

Firm Hired For Survey

WALLERIDGE (Staff) — Sidney township council decided Tuesday to secure a professional opinion and estimates from a firm of consulting engineers for a survey of township roads needs.

The firm of Greer Galloway Associates will be asked to handle the study and reeve Jack Bush said today if the price is satisfactory Sidney council may approve going ahead with it as early as Oct. 24.

The study would provide a program for the upgrading of township roads and proposals for new roads. To be finished in 1973, the study would be preceded this fall and next spring by a series of traffic counts throughout Sidney.

Women Announcers

The CBC, far behind other parts of the world — notably Britain and New Zealand — in liberating women for announcer posts, has been taking some halting steps in this direction of late.

We say "halting," because after trying out at least two women announcers in the 9 a.m. radio news spot a month or so ago — nothing has been heard of them since. It could be that CBC is getting cold feet because a Bellevillian who wrote the network recently complimenting them received this reply; "Thank you for your comments on women announcers on the news. Since we have had some unfavorable reaction — not a great deal — it is pleasant to hear from a satisfied listener as well."

Women announcers are bound to be more in evidence as time goes on but we shall have to make our own, in good old male-oriented Canada, to it being a possibly lengthy wait. Unless of course some of our bright young women in the Communications Arts sphere become militant and — in the manner of some who stormed Toronto liquid refreshment spots a while back — begin to make themselves heard.

As we have pointed out, they have had a certain assurance on television (we are referring to both radio and television) in Britain and New Zealand and doubtless elsewhere for many years. We think they would provide these broadcasts of the media with an attractive new dimension. In the United States incidentally, one of the newsrks has at least three women reporters who face the cameras regularly on political and other assignments.

Bid for Mayoralty

Alderman Robin Jeffrey's announcement of her candidacy for the office of Mayor of Belleville is the opening shot of the still relatively distant municipal election in December.

Mrs. Jeffrey has considerable experience of municipal affairs and is an active participant in community work. Her approach to the needs of the city is lively and forthright and her candidacy provides a strong initial bid for office in the coming election.

The conflict of issue in which Mayor J. Russell Scott, among several others in government of late, is allegedly involved, will of course be one of the points of contention assumed Mayor Scott runs. Mrs. Jeffrey has indicated however that she does not see it as the only campaign issue. At the same time she says she is concerned about the integrity of candidates running for municipal office and about regional government.

Mrs. Jeffrey's decision to run for Mayor holds promise even at this fairly early stage of an interesting election campaign in December. Her new stand on the split between members of Council and citizens at large as to who may be planning to run for office.

Seminar Suggested

Chamber of Commerce manager Donald Sutton's comments of clarification on this page yesterday point to the possibility of the chamber of commerce — a catalyst to bring segments of the community together in the best interests of all.

In an effort to further promote the images of the city, Mr. Sutton points out that there is material available from national sources and further suggests that Loyalist College might conduct a seminar which would be before the positive factors of our community living.

Indeed, Loyalist should be eminently suited to such a get-together. What it has done for bunny girls working in one of our area restaurants it should be able to do for downtown merchants personnel. We are sure it is not that our merchants and their staffs are curt or rude, for if they were they would lose their customers very swiftly. It is probably more a case — and it applies to us all — of the need to be interested and considerate in a positive way. A smile of welcome with the customer given freedom to browse could be more conducive to making a sale than rushing with the standard "Can I Help You" almost the minute he enters the store.

One thing about Belleville, it is not the place it was five years ago. It has grown with great gusto if a little haphazardly and about the place. Let's see if we cannot, in the next many people, more life and color, prove our manners as well, for we shall then be in a position to really claim this is a friendly city.

Taiwan Still Plays Big Role As 'Second China'

By JOHN B. HAMMOND
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

With all the excitement and publicity about Canada's growing relationship with the People's Republic of China, we have yet there are still "two China's" in the world.

The authoritative British source The Economist, in its 1972 What's Who, lists those both, the first being what we used to call "mainland China" — Communist China, the second listed as The Republic of China and classified only as Taiwan.

Nor should we forget in all the clamour and din about President Nixon as a world travelling peacemaker in Peking last winter, that it is the Republic of China in Taiwan not the People's Republic of China which the United States still recognizes.

Canada had rejected Taiwan diplomatically by recognizing Peking in 1970. But Taiwan is still a major trading partner. In fact about our fifth largest in terms of the aggressive trading and export drive that has been from Taiwan, often cheaper than the still cheap ones we buy from Hong Kong and Japan.

The other words, the "other China" line on under very old President Chiang Kai-shek, still claims legitimately to be the real China—with Chiang waiting for the day, (and the power comes around), when he will invade the mainland and assume power again.

As we all get closer to the Communist Chinese, we must remember Taiwan is in many ways, the product of the West. It has been unashamedly left-over of the cold war era of the 1950s even when the same Communist China stirred only reproaches.

We hid the truth that the Nationalists who fled the big island in 1949 after the Communist overthrew Chiang's corrupt regime, were aliens on the island. They imposed — and still impose — their rule of law, press censorship, deny civil rights, very much as they did while in power on the mainland.

Since 1949, Taiwan has experienced many changes which could result in the island becoming a new independent nation in the world and never again a part of China.

The biggest is the development of industry, stimulated by American, European and Japanese companies in the Island-state and the fleet of Taiwanese nationalists. The first developments resulted from quick in cheap labor and tax concessions to bring in industry. Some of the companies have since left for higher wages elsewhere in the Far East.

Taiwanese nationalism, the second development, is not new. It has been stimulated by the rise of Asian nationalism since 1945. Many new countries have appeared in Southeast Asia since the Second World War while Taiwan has remained under Nationalist rule.

Prior to Chiang's unlimited arrival in the spring of 1949, the Taiwanese were still surviving from 50 years of harsh Japanese rule, under which a small nationalist movement was bitterly suppressed.

If and when the Vietnam war is settled, Aith's new and crucial tourist spot will probably be this outwardly prosperous, but inwardly troubled island.

Taiwan's future may be more with Washington than with Peking, whose only solution is reunion. The Nationalist regime has backed away a good deal from the traditional Chinese practices of President Chiang. The only U.S. troops left are those servicing the military supply route into Vietnam, which has also declined since the U.S. last commitment in Asia is reduced.

If Taiwan's days as "The Republic of China" are numbered, no one knows when.

Reader Challenges: Stop The Polluters

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Chairman Doug Sword and Members of PACE (People Against a Contaminated Environment) with the co-operation of the Belleville Downtown Association and the city of Belleville organized a Moira River clean-up, October 18, 1971. More than 200 students and other interested citizens were able to remove over 25 tons of junk material from the river.

Less than a year later the polluted condition of the Moira River is almost beyond belief. The sanitary sewer being installed in the Alder River is responsible for much of this pollution for apparently very very little consideration is given to preserving the quality of water and condition of the river. If a little extra precaution had been taken much of this pollution could have been prevented.

Dirt fill has been dumped into the river to make a temporary road for the construction machinery to install the sewer pipe. Trees have been cut down and allowed to float down stream past the CPR bridge where some were removed and trucked away.

The Moira River when this fill was dumped and after was a small trickling stream, a dirty brown color, silt and suds covering large areas of the river. Efforts were tested to determine what affect it would have on the quality of water in the Moira River and Bay of Quinte? Why were the trees torn out not removed, instead of being allowed to cause an unsightly mess in the river? Which, if any got out into the Bay of Quinte, could have endangered people with boats.

Just south of the Bridges St. bridge where a storm sewer empties into the Moira. Mr. Ing and a helper has been enclosed with this fill in a small body of water. As they are unable to get to the main body of water in the river they will die. Who cares?

The Moira River might just as well have never been cleaned up in 1971 for the litter and garbage is being put back in at a rapid rate. Car wheels, appliances, wheels, tires, tubes, plastic containers, bottles, cans, dead birds, fish, turtles and almost anything you can mention could be found in the river. Also large quantities of oil cover large areas of the water around the CPR bridge. Who cares?

Take a look around and see the litter and trash cluttering up our landscape. It seems anything you do not want, throw on the ground or in the water. There is much easier than putting it in a litter basket or bin for garbage collection.

At the north end of Village drive and Cascade Boulevard someone has taken the liberty of starting what seems to be a new garbage dump. There are plastic bags, insulation, paper and other things in this pile of garbage. Where are the inspectors who are supposed to enforce the 'laws against the pollution of the environment?

Dorian Smith in a letter to The Intelligencer Aug. 24, says: "Let a protective society to protect the environment in older residential areas of Belleville.

Maybe PACE could be the organization that can stop the destruction taking place in Belleville in the name of progress. For it is the same kind of people who have damaged many sections of Belleville with cracker box apartments, that are destroying our water, land and air. They seem determined for the short term benefits of today, to forget that people will live here in the future. If it continues much longer, many of our trees will be gone; then asphalt and concrete will be king. It is happening right now in some areas, of Belleville.

So let's stop the polluters now for the benefit of present and future generations. We always hear a great deal about the cost of cleaning up the environment. What will the cost be if we don't stop the polluting of the environment in impaired health, loss of recreation areas and natural beauty. One hundred thousand children die yearly in Mexico City smog (Toronto Star, Sept. 2, 1972). How do you put a dollar value on a human life?

There have been many incidents where people have died or been permanently crippled by contamination of the air, water and land. Now is the time to stop the polluters before it is too late.

Editor's Swan Song

A signed editorial by Tweedsmuir Colonel Journal editor Norman Smith:

In a paper which prefers the unsigned editorial, I ask understanding in signing this one to give some personal background to yesterday's announcement of the coming of Conrad Black as editor-in-chief.

After 44 years as reporter and editor I asked some while back to retire on Nov. 1 of this year and become editor-emeritus of the Journal. Threat of a return of my old ailment, plus the feeling my giving the work the sharpness and energy it should have, were the reasons for the request. Traditions and responsibilities, and for the most part pleasures, me from trying to be an editor in half gear. That would be a contradiction in terms. Editorship of a daily newspaper, personally owned, calls for all the sparkle of strength, time and thought, always on call. My doctors and I felt that to do this no longer, though I would like to.

I have had a most generous affection for The Journal. It is in several ways, in my humble way, a part of my role it should be able to play in Ottawa and Canada. In it I have been blessed with great mentors and companions. Though conscious often enough of the paper's shortcomings, including my own, contemptuous of the air, water and land. Now is the time to stop the polluters before it is too late.

KENNETH B. PEOPLES

In these last two months I will be more conscious than ever of the warm feeling I have had for readers who "used to be out there" a friendly public, quick to criticize, later, I hope, to touch with them with sadness, but in gratitude.

I know they will be as stimulating to my very great successor, Conrad Black.

John Grace, that good-natured man of broad interests and wide experience, will be editor of the editorial editor of making The Journal worthy of the early traditions and challenging future. In any case, 44 years is a good stint and I am content with that bet better.

Meantime, John Grace and I have a couple of months more of happy work together, and a general election campaign to be round things off.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 13, 1752 — Lord Edward Fitzgerald, Queen Elizabeth I's child minister, was born. Fitzgerald died young—in 1200—son of a junior court official, Sir Richard Cecil. A politician crafty enough to keep his head on his shoulders in violent Tudor times, Burleigh also was an honest and wise adviser to the Queen. His second wife, Mildred Cooke, was reckoned as equal with Lady Jane Grey as the age's most learned woman.

McKeough Resignation A Straightforward Act

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Why did McKeough do it?

Since the treasurer's resignation this is the question one hears constantly. And with it a lot of gossip.

There are those who see deep intrigue in the resignation.

Some wonder publicly whether Premier Davis actually didn't fire the treasurer.

Others see the resignation as part of a complicated manoeuvre to keep the government's skirts as clean as possible. This thinking is that there will be a great resignation charade but that McKeough will end up back in the cabinet in his old position—or at least as powerful as ever.

Perhaps there really is some such hypocritical thing behind the affair.

If there is, we may know one day or then we may not.

However, for now, and at least until there is more evidence, this one writer's opinion is that this was a straight-forward act on the part of McKeough. That there were no angles.

"This is based principally on knowledge of the man.

Darcy McKeough is a man of high principle. Nobody questions this.

So much, so, in fact, it was a matter that bred shock that he would have involved in any act of conflict, trivial and superficial as it may have been.

The former treasurer also is a man of considerable pride. And this pride is such that it could not stand constant suspicion.

Thus probably the most pertinent paragraph in McKeough's resignation statement was this:

"Those who know me appreciate that I cannot live with these doubts for the months ahead. I cannot tolerate these doubts knowing in my heart and mind that I do not deserve them."

This, in knowledge of the man, is all too clear.

Sadly, if we are to judge from the past this most probably can mark the end of a political career.

Hopefully it won't, for this is a man of a standard not too often seen in public life.

It is commonly conjectured now that McKeough will sit outside the government until another election and then he will return to the cabinet.

This may be so. But experience is that politicians seldom return to their early promise after an episode such as this.

They may come back. But some of the force is lacking. And their prestige has suffered.

Large sections of the public will never grasp just how trivial this matter has been. With it there will be a cloud over the man.

Even if he transferred to the federal field (where on ability, he logically could be considered as future leadership potential) it would be said in other parts of Canada, "Oh he got in trouble in Ontario, didn't he?"

Perhaps this man will come back. There is a lot of quality in him. And he is devoted to public service.

But for now it appears we have seen a tragedy.

Committee Tours Technical Wing

FLORA BELL

PICTON (Staff) — The advisory vocational committee of the Prince Edward County board of education Monday toured the technical wing of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute observing courses and equipment available for students.

Director of education John McNeil said the advisory vocational committee includes trustees and representatives from the industrial field who make recommendations to the board concerning school, technical facilities.

The committee includes Donald Richards of the Campbell Soup Company Ltd., Wellington; Robert MacKenzie, administrator of Prince Edward Heights; Bruce Price of Lake Ontario Cement Company Ltd.; Earl Price of Northern Electric, Belleville and John Wannamaker of Trenton air base.

A dinner at the PECI cafeteria preceded a two - hour tour of the school's 12 technical areas.

Chairman of the board of education, James Pitcher, and vice-chairman Claire McFaul joined trustees Dorothea Carson, John Hankinson, Douglas Caley, Lloyd Seeley, Ruth Hart, Jerry Bond and Sherrell Robinson for the tour.

Also among the group were Ernest Sherk, business administrator for the board, Carl Reid, co-ordinator of program budgeting, and Russell Williams, special services co-ordinator.

Paul Bard, principal of PECI and Jeremy Vincent, vice-principal attended the dinner meeting and joined the tour of classrooms in the technical wing.

Trustees viewed 12 areas including the rooms used for girls' diversified occupations taught by Marilyn Robins.

This teaching area provides space for a beauty shop, a restaurant corner, display shelves, a cooking section, a sewing centre and a replica of a motel unit. A hospital room also was reproduced.

Mrs. Robins said this year several boys have enrolled in her cooking class.

Roy Goosetrey, a drafting instructor at PECI, said 130 students pass through his classroom daily.

Eugene Snider, a teacher in architectural drafting explained the role of his courses taught to drafting students at PECI. He noted two farm units now are studying the free stall approach to dairy farming in contrast with the stanchion method as part of their course. Last year one student keenly interested in harness racing designed a complete stable as his project. A girl taking the course planned a facility for the mentally retarded and is still working on her project.

Mr. Snider said an increasing number of girls are enrolling in the drafting course. His largest class has an enrolment of 25 pupils and his smallest consists of 11 students.

At completion of the tour, staff members and advisory vocational committee members met in the cafeteria to discuss the courses and facilities offered. Each course was examined in relation to the demand for it and equipment was studied for its value locally in its educational purposes.

The need for additional equipment and the possibility of discarding certain pieces of present equipment were suggested as topics for examination by those joining the tour.

Teachers who explained the functions of their classrooms included Marilyn Robins, girls' diversified occupations, Norman Giffin, electron cs; C. Coulter, farm mechanics; Compton Singh, small industry; John Thompson, Ron Holston, Herbert Pliwischikes, machine shop; Stewart Kerr, machine shop; Reginald Wisdall, building construction; Laverne Moore, welding; Robert Fagan, auto mechanics; Eugene Snider, architectural drafting; Roy Goosetrey, drafting and Lorne Smith, diversified occupations for boys, Technical director for PECI is Douglas Baker.

Quinte Churches Will Beneficiaries

PICTON (Staff) — A Belleville woman who died in January, 1970, has willed a substantial portion of her estate to each of the churches in Prince Edward County.

The late Flora Lee Ann Bell of 226 Coleman Street, related a close association with the county through her brother, the late Fred Mullett, a native of Prince Edward who eventually moved to the United States.

Mrs. Bell, who died at the age of 93, left generous bequests to all churches in the county and this summer several congregations paid tribute to her thoughtfulness.

At an anniversary service at South Bay United Church, a plaque was dedicated in her memory.

The Christian Education Centre of the Friendship United Church, Demorestville, was opened officially this year with a special tribute to the late Mrs. Bell.

At Cherry Valley United Church, a new pulpit bible was dedicated in her memory and was carried forward by a long-time friend, Jesse Manson of Picton.

Present at each of the services honoring Mrs. Bell were Mr. Manson and Mrs. Mabel Backburn, Pictonians who knew her for many years.

The Salvation Army Citadel in Picton recently honored Mrs. Bell's memory with the dedication of a plaque and a guest register.

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Belleville General Hospital also received a $4,000 bequest from Mrs. Bell.

Additional bequests were made to Christ Church, Belleville, and the Belleville Salvation Army Citadel.

Ann Landers

Equal Time for Wife's Rebuttal

Dear Ann: I'm one of the (maybe millions) of women whose husbands asked: "Did you read Ann Landers today?" The letter he wanted me to read was entitled, "Other Loving Husbands—but Not Enough." We both laughed and thought it was very clever.

Where about equal time for a wife's rebuttal?

Dear Living Husband:

During the last year I approached you to make love to me 365 times but you had 329 excuses. You said "yes" 36 times. Here's my tally on the excuses:

Hard day at the office—139 times.

Argument with the boss, too tense—35 times.

Important meeting tomorrow, have to get a good night's sleep—39 times.

It's too cold in here—5 times.

It's too hot in here—38 times.

I'm beat—30 times.

My back is acting up again—6 times.

I drank too much, couldn't back it—12 times.

I Can't lose myself away from this terrific movie (during which you fall asleep)—29 times.

And now—as I finish this article (during which you fall asleep)—37 times.

I'm attaching what did you say?—36 times.

We don't newlyweds anymore. What are you trying to prove?—39 times.

Why don't you go bowling with the girls or take a cake to bed?—3 times.

Signed—Your Lonley Wife.

Dear Hat Preserver P.S. How about that girl, are you pleased with the score at "Loving Husband" and "Lonley Wife"?

P.S.S. It is my fervent wish which will be liberal if my husband finds out I wrote this letter.—Buckhead, Ill.

Dear Buck: My lips are sealed. I'll never never tell. By coincidence I received dozens of tallys from other wives who had a similar tale of woe, but you told your best.

P.S. Dear Ann Landers: I will get right to the point. My mother and dad are getting a divorce. Frankly, it's a relief for both. They have been fighting like cats and dogs for five years.

There are three kids in the family and we are allowed to choose whether we want to live with Mom or Dad. My sister chose Mom. My brother chose Dad. I chose dad, also. When I told them of my decision, most of the fuss died down and the girls let me live with their mother. I told her I would write to her once a week.

I have never had a run out of tears with her. Wherever I had a problem I always went to Dad. He is more calm, understanding, and he treats me like a person who has been around for a while. Mom has been getting married practically every time I change my mind. Dad I'm frustrated, but Dad says patience is a virtue and I'm sure he is pleased that I chose him.

Please, Ann, if you can help me decide what to do I'd appreciate it.—Kid in the Middle, Illinois.

Dear Middle: Since you were told the decision was yours to make, and you made it, I feel it is unfair of your mother to pressure you. Follow your original inclination. After you settle in with your dad try a few weekends with your mom and see how it goes. If you want to change your plans later, do so.

When cats yowl, rugs become too long to lie flat on the floor, make a thick paste of starch and apply it generously to the rug's matting.

Old Clothes Newest Thing In Fashions

EDMONTON (CP) — Old clothes are the newest thing in fashion says a home economics laboratory researcher with the Alberta agriculture department.

Boutiques are buying "used" fashions from individuals and clothing depots, cleaning and repairing and recycling them.

Not just any old clothes will do.

The old-clothes kick started in the United States about two years ago with a preference for styles from the 1920s and 1940s.

Successful Living

Is Traditional White Wedding Gown OK?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Our wedding will be a large formal one and the reception will follow in the church hall.

Unfortunately, I am no longer a virgin. My parents know about this and I have also told my future husband who, because I was very young at the time, does not hold that against me. No one else knows about this.

Should I wear the traditional white gown anyway? If I wear anything else people will ask why. I don't want to conceal what happened years ago but I don't want to lie either, or be a hypocrite by pretending I'm a virgin when I'm not. — Bride With a Face to Save.

Dear Bride: Wear the traditional white and keep your secret. It would be senseless to open up a question when there was none.

It would be different if you had been married before or were already pregnant. Then it would be in truly bad taste to wear white.

You have been honest with the people that matter and with me; and I admire your honesty. Probably there are not only hobby groups but co-ed dances every week or so.

To make friends you have to be friendly. Come on — say something!

Dear Doris: Would you please send me your leaflet on "Children With Learning Disabilities"? I am enclosing 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. My son, who will be seven, is in grade one for the second year. He will not do his work at school. He plays all the time.

The teacher says she is sure that he can do it if he would just stop playing and get busy.

I spend an hour and a half every night with him but it does no good. Would your leaflet help him? — Stumped.

Dear Stumped: This is not something to be diagnosed at long distance. Your boy's learning disability may be merely a lack of discipline. Then again there could be other serious causes — poor eyesight, poor hearing, feelings of uselessness, day-dreaming.

Help him learn. Give him some small jobs around the home and begin to feel it is worthwhile to accomplish something. Your praise and your love are both needed.

Work for the day when a spark within him will set off a real interest in learning. Keep in close touch with his teacher. If his "learning disability" persists, follow the guidance in the leaflet.

LONG WAIT

MONTREAL (CP) — People who wish to adopt a white healthy child under the age of two years may have to wait as long as two years, Mrs. Monique Perron, director of adoption for the department of social welfare, Mrs. Perron said this situation is not because of a decline in illegitimate births — 8,909 in 1971 compared with 8,888 the year before. But she said more unmarried mothers tend to keep their children instead of giving them up for adoption.

First Woman Director for TV Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's rights activists in television have appointed a woman, Sandy Howard, director of TV development, who pledged to "get rid of the millstone of women, traditionally, on TV."

The NOW-TV has appointed Miss Howard, former director of development at Universal Studios, to help it in TV law suits and in negotiations with the FCC, which has set a deadline of January 1 for ending discrimination against women in broadcasting.

Miss Howard, who has been in the movie business since 1957, said she will work for TV "to make sure that women are portrayed as human beings and not as sex objects."

"I want to get rid of the stereotyped roles that women have been forced to play," she said. "I want to see women as doctors, lawyers, judges, executives, and I want to see them as they are, as they have been and as they will be."

Miss Howard said she will also work to get more women directors and producers in the industry.

Miss Howard, who is married and has a 12-year-old daughter, said she has been "very lucky" in her career.

"I don't think that women have had a fair chance," she said. "I don't think it's because they're discriminated against, but because they haven't had the opportunity."

Miss Howard said she will work to change that. She said she will also work to get more women writers and producers in television.

Miss Howard said she has been in contact with Miss Steinem and other women's liberation leaders, although she herself has never been a participant.

She said she is hopeful that women's rights will be achieved "without violence."

"I'm not a militant," she said. "I'm a feminist, but I'm not a militant."

BC Premier's Wife Expects Changes

PORT COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — Shirley Barrett became British Columbia's next premier's wife Wednesday and said she expects changes in the role of wife of the Democratic Party won't change her.

But she is unwilling over the many changes that will affect her life since Dave Barrett, 42, children as the family of Premier Dave Barrett votes by video over the rules of government.

"There's not going to change my values or my behaviour," she says.

And should be show any tendency to forget his ability to handle all the problems of the republican of being the one to remind him.

"But in many people really like Shirley and me, the NDP leader says.

The couple have kept an open door but still have reasonable of their private lives. They want to be able to get out to a movie, for example, as Shirley's both "movie nuts".

Shirley has known Dave Barrett for 21 years, 10 of them as husband and wife. Sometimes she has been a strong source of stability.

Mrs. Barrett, who will be 43 Sept. 28, was born in Vancouver and met Barrett when they were students at the University of British Columbia. They married in 1951 and have four children, Kathy, 20, Jeff, 19, Dan, 17, and Sheryl, 12.

Mrs. Barrett's school was cooge—he is Jewish, she Anglican—but they were married in a United church.

Premier Barrett received Chanukah presents, an extra gift on their 12th birthday, which they do with compatible, and appreciation of humor. Mrs. Barrett's parents are also Shirley looks like the girl next door and that's a secret worry.

She'd like to think that people like her as much more sophisticated, cosmopolitan society figure. But she knows that she herself, but she laughs and says she's not going to change her basic feeling anyone on that score.

Shirley wishes the couple was more disciplined. Not one of the Barrett offspring up, and only is cleaning lady it doesn't make for a very tidy, setup, she says.

She doesn't like cleaning, and isn't fond of cooking steaks, but has a strong sense of stability on matters TV but she didn't want to say five years ago.

"I don't think she ever meant that. But I think if we express her views make rials maybe a special or a particular, I think it is going to be here to stay. I'm with Miss Steinem on that. Well, our research department with the views of audiences, blocks of public and private opinion, and I think they day-to-day issues is very accurate. I'm sure the networks will accept the challenge."

Also, I'm very sympathetic with the women's movement, both liberated and housewife, and I'm sure that's why I have children and some very successful women and some who have children and are housewives. I'm sympathetic with the whole movement."

She says: "I would say that of every single group known to man's experience and it does are certain pressures and certain temptations, I would say that the temptations are to right throughout the land for re-acting that mere ladies have a big contribution to make."

"NDP, didn't help him—he became I'm a lady but five years ago I can't say they would have recognized that I had ability or would have felt I could do the job."

Mirror of Your Mind

by Ann Landers

Do even 'good' teenagers rebel?

DEAR ANN: I read the letter from the mother who wanted to know if her daughter was normal. The problem and children who have established a pattern of good behavior and then suddenly rebel. I am one of those children and I would like to tell that mother that her daughter is not unusual. I am going to be married soon and I have been a good girl all my life. But I've had my fling and I'm glad I did it. Now I'm ready to settle down and be a wife and mother.

I'm not sorry I did what I did. I'm sorry I got caught. I'm sorry my parents had to find out. But I'm not sorry I had the experience. I'm glad I know what it's like to be a bad girl. Now I'm ready to be a good girl. I'm not sorry I did what I did. I'm sorry I got caught. I'm sorry my parents had to find out. But I'm not sorry I had the experience. I'm glad I know what it's like to be a bad girl. Now I'm ready to be a good girl.

Are most collectors neurotic?

DEAR ANN: In spite of the fact that the word with which a collector starts his collection and ends up as an addict is "neurotic," I am one of those people who collect for the sheer joy of it. I collect all kinds of things, and I enjoy every minute of it. I collect stamps, coins, and other things that interest me. I collect them because I like them, and I like to look at them. I like to show them to my friends, and I like to talk about them. I like to collect them because I like to collect them. I like to collect them because I like to collect them. I like to collect them because I like to collect them.

Can too much respect kill love?

DEAR ANN: Love and respect are widely misunderstood concepts, and women have proved it down to my mailbox. Sometimes I wish I could write a book about them. Then I could send it to those who think that love is all you need to make a marriage work. Or to those who believe that love is blind and that respect is for fools. Or to those who believe that love is for the young and respect is for the old. Or to those who believe that love is for the rich and respect is for the poor. Or to those who believe that love is for the beautiful and respect is for the ugly. Or to those who believe that love is for the strong and respect is for the weak. PERCHANCE TO DREAM—Edited by Damon Knight

Throughout the ages dreams have meant many things to many people and here is an entertaining collection of short stories by some of the masters of fiction. Damon Knight classes them as dreams of escape, dreams of terror and dreams of desire.

DARK HORSE — Fletcher Knebel

Mr. Knebel has written political novels before but here is one with a new twist. Edward Nicholas Quinn, an obscure highway official, becomes a Presidential candidate after the death of the original nominee. He is intended as a figurehead only, but decides that if he can't win he can at least shake things up. An unorthodox campaign ends in a suspense-filled election night.

THE YOUNG MONTROSE—Nigel Tranter

James Graham, the Marquis of Montrose, was a brilliant leader, a man of great charm, yet modest. He devoted his life to Charles I, had most of Scotland within his grasp and might have overcome Cromwell if fate had not been against him. This is the first of two novels in which the author takes this gallant man through the intrigue, violence and battle of the times, to the detriment of his family, and his own peace of mind. Readers of Mr. Tranter's trilogy on Robert the Bruce will look forward to the story of Montrose.

THE GHOST LANE — Edwin P. Hoyt

SS Chief Martin Bormann and Gestapo Head Heinrich Mueller faced swift annihilation as the Third Reich collapsed. To remain in Berlin meant certain death — but how to escape? Against a background of fact, Edwin Hoyt offers a fictional but plausible explanation of their mysterious disappearance. Involved are new identities, forged passports, a stolen yacht and a journey by submarine.

THE PASSIONATE REBEL — F. W. Kenyon

Hector Berlioz, expected to follow his father in the medical profession, escaped instead into the world of music and the theatre. His romantic music was matched by his romantic adventures.

Frank Kenyon, author of over a dozen biographical novels, has the ability to take the reader into his subject's life and describe events as if they were happening at present.

GRAVES WITHOUT CROSSES — Arved Viirlaid

Mr. Viirlaid, born in Estonia, is now a Canadian citizen. He has written both novels and poetry, for which he has received international recognition. "Graves—Without Crosses," only recently translated into English, is the story of Taavi, his wife and small son who join the freedom fighters in the forest near their village. There they witness the horrors of the Russian occupation and day by day are forced to realize the hopelessness of their position. The author has experienced many of the events described and writes movingly of the sufferings of his people and their longing for liberty.

ANGEL COVE — Will R. Bird

In 19 delightful stories, Will Bird portrays a way of life that has nearly vanished, giving insight into the hard life, individuality, and strong feelings of the outport Newfoundlander. The stories in "Angel Cove" display the color and authenticity that has distinguished Mr. Bird's books about the Atlantic Provinces. You will meet a number of remarkable and memorable people.

Doctors Soon Get Outdated

TORONTO (CP) — Medical knowledge grows "at an alarming rate" and unless doctors continually keep up with the latest information he soon gets out of date, Dr. Margaret Brandon, new president of the Ontario chapter of the College of Family Physicians of Canada, said Tuesday.

Dr. Brandon, installed as president Tuesday evening, said the college's basic purpose is to ensure that general practitioners can get continual education. She is the first woman in the position.

"The college was formed in 1954 just for this function," she said in an interview. It requires doctors to attend at least 100 hours of medical education every two years.

About 1,570 of Ontario's 2,500 general practitioners belong to the college, she said.

The college also has worked to improve the amount of time spent teaching aspects of family practice in medical schools and to have interns spend a portion of their time in doctors' offices rather than just in hospitals.

"But basically we are interested in continuing education for general practitioners and in setting standards," she said. "It was not formed to set up a specialist group for general practitioners."

Asked why more general practitioners don't join, Dr. Brandon said that some don't see that the college offers them anything—"it doesn't offer higher fees."

As well, "many just can't be bothered. The fee is "fairly high" and many don't want to bother answering study recalls, even though they may attend educational meetings.

More than 700 doctors are attending the three-day meeting, most of which is concerned with educational lectures.

Officials At Attica Criticized

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York state commission said Tuesday that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller should have gone to Attica state prison before he ordered it stormed in an effort to end a four-day riot in which 43 persons died.

Issued a year after the rebellion—bloodiest in American prison history—the report was highly critical of the prison system, officials who planned the assault, the "vengeful reprisals" against the prisoners, and officials who spread false reports of prisoner atrocities.

The riot, it said, stemmed from a revolutionary conspiracy, the commission said, but rather an "spontaneous burst of violent anger" by a new breed of prisoners.

Those prisoners, it said, are largely black and unwilling to accept the "petty humiliations and racism that characterize prison life." It said only minor changes have been made since the riot, and called the possibility of a recurrence "very real."

The commission acknowledged that Rockefeller had a hard decision, but said he "should not have committed the state's armed forces against the rebels without first appearing on the scene and satisfying himself that there was no other alternative and that all precautions against excessive force had been taken."

Alderman MP Quits Council

TORONTO (CP) — Alderman Thomas Wardell resigned Tuesday as a member of Toronto city and Metropolitan Toronto councils.

He had been an alderman since 1961 and, since the provincial election a year ago, a Conservative member of the legislature for the Toronto Woodbine riding.

New provincial legislation passed in August prohibits a member of the legislature from also sitting as a member of a municipal council.

Surplus Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto board of education has 62 surplus teachers due to a drop in public and secondary school enrolments.

Duncan Green, board associate director, said 38 of the teachers are from elementary schools and 25 from secondary schools.

Elementary school enrolment is 70,898, down from a prediction of 72,750, and secondary enrolment is 34,615, down from a prediction of 35,850.

Packagers Blamed For Dearer Food

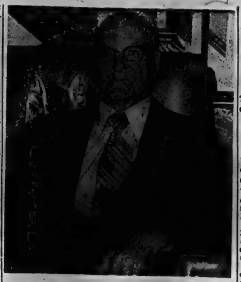
OTTAWA (CP) — Processors, packagers and distributors are by far the biggest culprits in the continuous climb of food prices, the agriculture department said Tuesday.

Food prices rose 7.4 per cent between August, 1971, and last month, and a department bulletin issued Tuesday places the blame for most of the food-price rise on the industry's middlemen.

It says processors and dealers account for 84 per cent of the $3.8 billion increase in farm-food prices since 1961, with farmers themselves benefiting from only 38 per cent.

This analysis disagrees with that of Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras who said just before the election... announcement that prices at the farm level were largely to blame.

He told the Commons Sept. 1 that price controls on food distributors would not be the answer since they were at mainly responsible.



"Based on the evidence we have at the present time, much of the increase in food prices is due to shortages, crop failures, bad weather as well as shortages of imported foods and many other things of that nature," said Mr. Andras.

An agriculture department spokesman, Jim Ronalds, said the bulletin was prepared as a defence of the farmer:

"We have known for some time that food prices would rise this year and that farmers would be blamed for it."

He said that if any one link in the price chain were to be tagged most-to-blame, it would be the packagers.

"In some products, the package costs as much as the product itself, particularly with frozen foods," he said.

Speed-up in Postal Negotiations Could Bring Strike Before Election

OTTAWA (CP) — A move Tuesday to speed up the process of settling the dispute between the government and postal workers could allow a postal strike before the Oct. 30 federal election.

Such a strike would greatly increase the money and effort needed to organize the election, Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel said in an interview, but would not stop the election.

Tuesday's postal-dispute development was a decision by the public service staff relations board to set up a conciliation board without further delay.

The Council of Postal Unions, representing 22,000 postal workers, had asked for the board while the government had asked for a conciliation officer to be appointed.

The unions can legally strike about six weeks after the board is created. If a conciliation officer had been appointed, the board could not be created until as had tried and failed to reach an agreement in the dispute.

Union spokesmen have charged that the government is trying to put off resolution of the dispute until after the election, in that any postal strike would come too late to antagonize voters.

Jacob Finkleman, chairman of the public service staff relations board, said he anticipates that the government and union will make an effort to settle their differences.

"I wish to make it clear that I will not look with favor on any attempt to thwart the procedings before the conciliation board primarily late a ra... against time."

Whatever the result, the federal election will be held on scheduled Oct. 30, said Mr. Hamel,as he worked into Tuesday night in his office.

Once the election is called, there's nothing, not even a war, that could stop it."

Catholics Reaffirm Anti-abortion Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — The official stance on abortion of the Roman Catholic Church was reaffirmed and applauded by speakers at Tuesday's sessions of the annual Catholic Hospital Association of Canada conference.

The anti-abortionist speakers included a gynecologist, a hospital administrator, a mother and the head of a distress service for pregnant women.

Unfair to Men

TORONTO (CP) — Male civic employees are discriminated against when it comes to retirement age, Local 79, Canadian Union of Public Employees, told the Metropolitan Toronto executive committee Tuesday.

Wallace E. Higgins, union president, said that in Metro, men may retire at full pension at 70 and women at 65. He said that both male and female civic employees should have the same retirement age if Metro is to conform to the provincial Employment Standards Act.

"We can never make killing morally right by making it legal," Dr. Heather Morris, an obstetrician and gynecologist at Toronto's Women's College Hospital, told more than 350 hospital administrators and workers, many of them nuns and priests.

Mrs. Louise Adams, wife of a Winnipeg gynecologist, spoke out against abortion from the point of view of a mother of six.

firmary, is the father of 11 children. He outlined his hospital's family planning counselling program and explained its anti-abortion position.

Doctor Alcoholic

ST. ANDREWS, N.B. (CP) — Dr. Gustave Glingras of Montreal, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said Tuesday provincial medical acts are inadequate.

"How can a body established by provincial law to protect the public allow a certified alcoholic to continue to practise medicine in this country," he asked delegates to the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Medical Society.

Dr. Gingras said "the public has a right to know if a physician has been ruled incompetent".

Want Change

OTTAWA (CP) The Dairy Farmers of Canada, a pressure group for Canadian milk producers, called for changes Tuesday in the Canadian Dairy Commission Act that would increase the amount of government planning in the dairy industry.

In a news release, the organization said they want amendments to the act that would put dairy industry planning on a five-year basis.

Currently, dairy quotas and other controls are set on a year-to-year basis.

Damages $1

MONTREAL (CP) — Superior Court Judge Jean St. Germain ordered Maclean's Magazine Tuesday to pay $1 for damages to the reputation of Montreal businessman Vincent Cotroni.

The Toronto magazine is also to pay court costs for the $1.25 million libel suit launched by Mr. Cotroni four years ago because of a 1963 article entitled The Mafia in Canada, written by Alan Phillips.

Witness Slain

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A young man was shot to death on a city street Tuesday, hours before he was scheduled to testify before a grand jury investigating drug-trafficking in the Buffalo area. Two men were arrested.

Aubrey Walton, 22, of suburban Lackawanna, described by federal drug agents as a top heroin peddler in this area, was shot at least six times, police said.

Man Acquitted

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — Gerhard Wolfe, 29, of Port Burwell, Ont., was acquitted Tuesday of second-capital murder in the Jan. 2 shooting death of his brother-in-law, George Peters, 32, of Vienna, Ont.

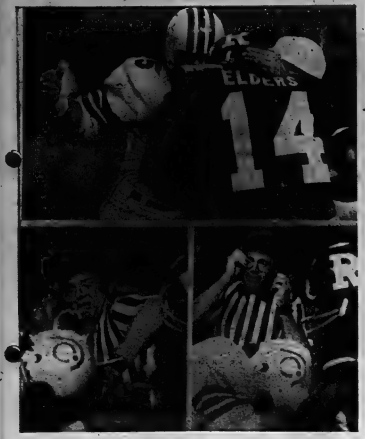
Hull Legally Black Hawk Until 30th

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull, former star of Chicago Black Hawks, was barred Tuesday from joining Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association until Sept. 30 in an extended temporary restraining order issued by Circuit Court Judge Francis T. Delaney extended an original Aug. 24 court order in behalf of the Black Hawks of the National Hockey League.

Hull had been barred from playing hockey or publicizing any team except the Black Hawks. The present order will be effective until Hull's current contract with the Hawks expires Sept. 30.

Hull, who had filed a counter-suit against the Hawks and the NHL but June 27, signed a contract with the Jets for a reported $2.75 million.



Judge Delaney subpoenaed Hull and his records and contracts with the Jets for a Sept. 18 hearing. Hull's agent, Barry Ashenberg of Chicago, also has been summoned to that hearing.

The action resulted from a decision Monday by federal judge William J. Lynch to transfer the case entirely from the federal court to the circuit court.

The transfer included Hull's counter-suit, filed in federal court Aug. 23, which charged the NHL with violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act through the use of a reserve clause in NHL contracts.

A contingent suit, however, was filed here in federal court Sept. 7 by the Jets and Chicago Cougars of the WHA against NHL president Clarence Campbell and the NHL Players' Association.

That suit asked the court to nullify the NHL's standard player contract, contending it "perpetually binds the player to play for the NHL team to whom he has been allocated or not play at all."

Ottawa defensive back Jim Elder (14) and Montreal wide receiver Terry Evanshen (white) both were disqualified for fighting during the Rough Rider - Montreal game in Ottawa Saturday night. Cranmer Back TORONTO (CP) — Dave Cranmer's return to the Toronto Argonaut lineup has paved the way for the return of Bill Symons to a running back position for the Eastern Football Conference club's next game.

Coach Leo Cahill realigned the Argo backfield Tuesday and said it will be in effect next Wednesday when the Argos host British Columbia Lions of the Western Conference.

Cahill Stays

TORONTO (CP) — Despite having a record of only one victory in seven Canadian Football League games, the president of Toronto Argonauts insists he will not dump head coach Leo Cahill.

John Bassett, president and majority owner of the Argos, said in an interview he is standing by Cahill despite angry reaction from fans, especially after the team dropped its sixth loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats Sunday.

British Columbia Lions, running for three touchdowns as the Roughriders took a 24-13 victory to move into a second place tie in the Western Football Conference.

The Roughriders, with their fifth win in eight starts, are tied with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who have a 5-2 record, just behind Edmonton Eskimos, who are 6-1.

The Lions, on the other hand, let mistakes spoil what was a good effort in going down to their fifth straight defeat, bringing their season mark to 1-6.

Canny quarterback Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan, who was meeting with Rule success in trying to send speedy backs Bobby Thompson and Tom Campana outside the B.C. defence, switched his tactics in the final quarter and moved to power-runner Reed, who ran through, over and around the Lions for impressive chunks of real estate.

The bulky fullback ran for 111 yards on 17 carries, scoring touchdowns from 18, three and two yards out. Jack Abendschan was good on all three converts and jumped through a field goal from the 28.

Ted Gervais kicked field goals from 17 and 26 yards and added a convert on Jim Evenson's touchdown for the Lions.

Both coaches agreed that Lancaster's change in tactics turned the game around in the fourth quarter, with the Lions leading 13-10.

The Lions had a wide edge in statistics, racking up 27 first downs and 427 total yards, while the Roughriders moved the yardsticks 19 times in rolling up 362 yards.

Sinden Optimistic

Wide Ice to Our Benefit?

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Sinden is looking forward to the wide ice surface Team Canada will be playing on in Europe and suggested Tuesday night it could work to advantage of some of the Canadian skaters.

The Team Canada general manager-coach said before the game with Russia — a two-game series with Russia separate flights for Stockholm that the larger ice surface could benefit his big skaters.

Team Canada will work out in the Swedish capital, playing exhibition games against a select squad Sept. 16 and 17, before moving on to Moscow for the second half of their eight-game series with Russia.

The Soviets hold a 2-1 edge in games, with one game tied, after the opening four games of the series in Canada. The Moscow games are set for Sept. 22, 24, 25 and 28.

Sinden agreed with winger Ron Ellis who, though he's never played on an international ice surface, said "I like the thought of bigger ice. It suits me, as long as we don't go chasing all over and tire ourselves out."

"Ellis, of course, and (Yvan) Cournoyer and (Mickey) Redmond (Gil) Perreault certainly, and Frank Mahovlich, too," added Sinden.

The only note of dissent in the Canadian group seemed to be the reason why so many scoring opportunities were missed in the four games here.

Sinden wouldn't endorse the theory that poor knowledge of the Canadians made Vladislav Tretiak, the Russian's 20-year-old goaltending paraphernalia, look supreme.

"I really haven't seen him make a mistake yet," said Sinden. "As long as we don't let puck you've got to say it's skill.

"Credit the goalie, don't discredit the shooters.

But Canadian goalie Tony Esposito isn't a total believer where Tretiak is concerned.

"I see some guys, like my brother (Phil), make chances they'd never miss when they're playing hockey."

Two-a-day practices will be held Thursday and Friday and

FRANK MAHOVLICH

"We'll work out pretty hard on the day of the game," Sinden said of the benefit of anyone who might think the Canadians are treating the European tour lightly.

Canadian professionals seldom do anything except a light skate on game-day while the Russians engage in full, brisk workouts. Sinden, obviously, is not too proud to copy success.

Winger Frank Mahovlich missed Tuesday's flight with an aching knee and although he was to join the club for the games in Moscow.

Defenceman Serge Savard, who suffered a hairline fracture of the right ankle at Winnipeg, could also play against the Russians in Moscow, Sinden indicated.

Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' defenceman who has been sidelined while recovering from a knee operation, travelled with the team to Europe but his leg is still questionable.

Not making the trip were three young rookies who attended the Team Canada training camp and made the cross-Canada trip.

Defencemen John Van Boxmeer, goalie Michel Larocque and forward Bill Harris were originally included in the plans but now will rejoin their National Hockey League teams at pre-season camps.

Van Boxmeer and Larocque are with Montreal Canadiens and Harris, the junior goalie catch in last June's amateur draft, with the expansionist New York Islanders.

Spitz Hitting Jackpot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mark Spitz, who has collected more Olympic gold than anyone else ever, now is concentrating on hitting the jackpot in business.

In a copyrighted article in the Louisville Courier-Journal, Spitz said "It's been pretty hectic" since he won a record seven gold medals in swimming events at the Munich Olympic Games last week.

Spitz was interviewed by telephone from his Carmichael, Calif., home where he is resting following his Olympic feats.

"Right now I'm trying to find a good agent, and then it ought to be okay," said the boastful Spitz who has been offered various business opportunities, movies, television, records, product endorsements.

Several agents have contacted him, Spitz said, including Mark McCormick, who has represented such famous professional athletes as golfers Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus.

"The only thing is, Mark McCormick wants 20 per cent instead of 10 or 15," Spitz said. "That sounds high to me. If I make $10 million, he would get $2.5 million.

Games Good 'Investment'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands said Tuesday that while the costs of holding Olympic Games could be cut, the Games are worth the investment.

"Olympic Games are bound to entail a lot of money," he told the annual banquet of the Manitoba Sports Federation.

"But it must be remembered that in return for the outlay you get extensive tourist revenues, lasting athletic facilities and an incalculable amount of international goodwill."

The prince said costs could be cut by placing restrictions on the amount of accommodation provided for nations' sports unions and limiting the number of sports involved.

Crew Waits On Average

TORONTO (CP) — After losing two races in light air, Gordon Fisher, skipper of the Canadian defender Mirage, is hoping the law of averages will catch up with him in the Canada Cup sailing series.

"Unless the good old law of averages has been knocked over," a cocked hat, we should get some of the weather that is due to us," he said after Tuesday's race.

Fisher probably won't be happy unless they're rated casting small craft sailing as the Detroit challenger's yacht Mite with Lloyd Ecclestone at the helm won by a convincing 18 minutes and 30 seconds over a 21-mile triangular course in Lake Ontario.

The loss of the Canadian defender were pencilled with average September wind speed in mind. So far, the boat has lived up to her expectations but the weatherman isn't doing his part of the job.

Soviets Claim Socialism Won

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet news media claimed victory Tuesday in the Olympic Games for both Russian sub-teen and the "Socialist" system and chided the United States basketball and track teams.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said the fact the Soviets won more gold medals than anyone else—39 to 33 for the U.S.—was proof that the "Socialist" system is better.

Lyle Keeps Yankees in Running

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One game separates four teams today as Boston Red Sox, Baltimore Orioles, New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers head for the East Division homestretch in the best race the American League has had since 1967.

The Red Sox are in front with the Yankees and Orioles one half game behind and the Tigers one game off the pace.

Monday night New York trimmed Boston 3-2 for its fourth straight victory while Detroit edged Baltimore 3-2, ending a four-game Oriole winstreak.

In the West, Oakland maintained its two-game lead over Chicago after the Athletics bounced from behind to whip Minnesota Twins 7-4 and the White Sox were blanking Kansas City Royals 6-0.

In other action, Milwaukee Brewers swept a doubleheader with Cleveland Indians, 4-3 and 4-2, and Texas Rangers blanked California Angels 3-0.

It was the classic relief pitching by Sparky Lyle of the Yankees and Tornado's John Hiller of the Tigers that produced the key victories for New York and Detroit. Lyle worked the last three innings for Fritz Peterson, protecting a 4-3 lead and picking up his 33rd save of the season. Hiller pitched out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the ninth inning to preserve Woodie Fryman's triumph. It was his third win.

The Red Sox sent Peterson to the showers with a two-run homer by Ben Oglivie in the seventh that brought Lyle, now one save shy of the American League record for saves set by Ron Perranoski in 1970 and five away from the major league mark established by Wayne Granger the same year.

Fryman carried a 3-1 lead into the ninth inning against Baltimore but the Orioles picked him for a run and had the bases loaded when Hiller came on. He struck out pinch hitter Boog Powell and then Paul Blair bounced into a game-ending force out.

Matty Alou drew in four runs for the Athletics and Dagoberto Campaneris batted five innings of one-hit relief to nail down the victory.

Harmon Killebrew had a three-run homer for Minnesota. Dick Allen drilled a two-run homer in the first inning—his 28th of the year—starting the White Sox off to their victory over Kansas City. It was the second consecutive game in which Allen has delivered a two-run shot in the first inning.

Bill Gogolewski pitched 7 2-3 hitless innings before California's Billy Parker spoiled his no-hit bid with a double as Texas blanked the Angels. Gogolewski had not won a game since May 18.

George Scott's two-run single in the bottom of the eighth inning put Milwaukee ahead of Cleveland in the second game of their doubleheader, called by rain after eight innings. The rain washed out a three-run rally by the Indians in the top of the ninth.

In the opener, the Brewers rallied for two runs in the eighth to win it.

Reds' Bench Has Capital 'B'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Every team needs a bench to win a pennant. Cincinnati Reds have one with a capital "B."

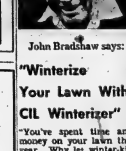
Johnny Bench hit a grand slam home run and drove in five runs Tuesday night as the Reds defeated Atlanta Braves 7-3.

"Now I've reached all the goals that I set for myself this season," said the Reds' wonder player after moving his team closer to the National League West pennant.

"I wanted to hit 30 or 35 home runs and at least one grand slam. And I wanted to have 100 RBI. But now I've changed my RBI goal. Now I want to have 125."

The catcher-outfielder now has 27 homers and 106 runs batted in and the Reds have a 14½-game lead in the West over Houston Astros.

Elsewhere, Montreal Expos Chicago Cubs 7-6 and rocketed into a 13-game lead in the East, San Francisco Giants defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 10 innings and New York Mets trimmed Philadelphia Phillies 4-3.



Ceco Laboy drove in four runs with a double, homer and an infield single to pace Montreal over St. Louis and give Steve Renko his ninth victory in four decisions in the Expos' nine-game series with the Cards in the East. Laboy's first homer of the year capped a four-run rally in the fourth inning off losing pitcher Reggie Cleveland of Swift Current, Sask.

"He threw me a high slider . . . It was right into my wheelhouse and was a good pitch to hit," said Laboy, who has spent most of the 1972 season on the disabled list or in the minor leagues.

Rookie Late Barnes tripled home two runs in the fourth inning to lead New York over Philadelphia.

Bench's grand slam in the first inning staked Wayne Simpson to a 4-0 lead, but the Reds needed Cesar Geronomo's home run and Bench's RBI-bouncer in a three-run ninth to cupel a four-run rally in the pull it out.

Accent on Speed Tonight at Frontenac

KINGSTON — The accent will be on speed tonight at Frontenac Downs after Ambro Buck set a track record last Sunday afternoon at 2:02 3-5.

There are 76 horses scheduled to race on the 36-race card and among the 16 are at least 10 horses that will wind up in the winner's circle.

In their efforts to reach their maximum they'll all be trying to break their own personal best, as so many pacers and trotters have in the past at the Downs.

The race which should go the fastest is the fifth on the card which has six pacers racing a mile for a purse of $600.

Earlydusk Jake and Steve Grattan are meeting for the third time in the Wednesday night spotlight. Earlydusk John has beaten Zorro Grattan once and the Stan Kosmanic-owned Trenton pacer has beaten John in the other encounter.

They'll be after the rubber match tonight, although the opposition will also come from Jim Dusty, Ruth's Daisy, Yankee Jed and I wonder.

Steve Taylor and Dinnis Emerson pitched for Uniroyal, allowing two hits and four walks. They struck out 10. For Plaza it was Brian Cronkright and Paul VanLeeuwen looking after the pitching. They gave up only two hits but walked seven batters while fanning 11.

Cronkright and Richard Manderville had the only Plaza hits while Emerson and Taylor hit safely for the winner.

Senior Hockey Takes Stretch

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

Belleville's Quinte set only stretched their Senior A hockey season for a month and finishing camp; they will still be playing longer at the closing end of their schedule.

Their Ontario Hockey Association game schedule with Oshawa, Guelph, Barrie, Hamilton, Owen Sound, Oakville, and Toronto Marlboros will keep the Quinte boys playing right into March this year.

Belleville's schedule is closer to being balanced than in previous years — 20 games remain, with eight of their 24 games against neighboring Empire Area, whom Belleville has been playing 10 out of 40 of their regular - schedule games.

The Quinte's will play each of the other six leagues entries six times, three at home and three away, instead of the 5-1 or 3-3 imbalance that has existed in other years.

This season will also mark a return to a Friday - dominated home schedule which was abandoned in favor of Saturdays last winter. There will be 11 home 8 o'clock Friday games, 6 Sunday 1.30 fixtures, one Saturday, one Tuesday with Kingston here, and a tentative Boxing Day Tuesday with Orillia.

But by far the biggest attraction in this season's Belleville hockey will be a Friday, Jan. 5 exhibition date with one of the European hockey clubs on tour against teams from the OHA Senior A League.

We've almost positive it'll be the Russians, — probably with a couple of players from their national team," said team spokesman Lionel Rutty. "They've also booked to play Orillia in Maple Leaf Gardens."

Meanwhile, coach "Wimer" Brown continues to put the Quinte's through their training camp paces at the Dick Ellis Rink, with four players signed to date. Last year's backup goaltender Jim Lacey and forward John McConnell have joined prolific scoring Al Pargeter and former defenseman Dan Creighton on the dotted line.

Spokesman Rutty also indicated that veteran defenseman Greg Marchen would be joining the Belleville camp as soon as Pembroke Lumbers' National Lacrosse League date is determined, and that blueliner Mike Rowe would also be back.

Some of us still can't believe our ears at hearing Phil Esposito criticize detractors of Team Canada's crummy showing in the first half of their eight-game series with the Russian national hockey team.

Here was a guy, whose annual salary, fringe benefits, and endorsements possibly exceeds the total income of the entire Soviet squad standing there with a straight face and telling Canadians they had no right to boo him or his teammates.

That's like telling an executive who's accepted a rubber cheque for a couple of million dollars to keep smiling.

Because that's exactly what Team Canada is paying Esposito if he is — a bad cheque. That cheque has been written for the game and Canada's Hockey League players were the best conditioned, most capable in the world, and cashed in the form of scoreboard ticket prices to fifth, perhaps.

Hopefully, their upset in front of their own financial backers will prompt the Canadians to bigger and better things in Moscow.

In addition to their season's ticket holders, Team Canada has also been a letdown to their sponsors, Imperial Oil, who took on the best part of promoting the hockey world series.

Right now, you'd be hard-pressed to pick a winner of the Montreal - Moscow tangle between Esposito and Phil Esposito here you say that.

Deadline for ballots, which can be sent to Box 3028, Station A, Toronto, is midnight, Oct. 7.

In announcing the award before the series, Labatt's president, W. F. Read said:

"Every member of the team is a hockey star and it will be a difficult job to pick the best, but who could be better judges than the fans themselves."

Who, indeed, Mr. Read, but don't let Phil Esposito hear you say that.

The first referee to sign a contract with the fledgling World Hockey Association has a local connection.

Ron Assaiante of Guelph, who will be doing linesman's duties in the WHA along with some refereeing, is the son of former Belleville resident Reg. Assaiante and the nephew of Wil and Betty Hayes of Carlsville.

Top Seeds Get Rare Holiday

MONTREAL (CP) — Today, and most of Tuesday, will be a rare holiday for England's Roger Taylor and one of their rare days off, as John Newcombe of Australia the World Championship Tennis will relax, down a few beers tour.

Thursday they'll be back at work. Taylor playing Seyed's Ismail El Shafei and Newcombe doing battle with Frank Froehling of New York City in second round singles play at the international tennis tournament here.

Both won matches Monday under much the same circumstances. Taylor, a left-hander, defeated fellow countryman and left-hander Mark Cox 6-4, 6-7, 8-6 while Newcombe downed fellow Aussie Bob Carmichael 6-4, 7-6.

In both matches, the players said poor line calls were featured. Taylor said most of the bad calls went against him. Newcombe said they were in his (Newcombe's) favor.

"And I don't see it getting any better until these people get the training," said Newcombe, the top seed at the week-long, $50,000 tournament.

In other singles matches on Tuesday's schedule, No. 2 seed Arthur Ashe of New York City dumped San Diego's Tom Leonard 7-6, 6-1; fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa disposed of England's Gerald Battrick 6-3, 6-4; Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., downed Australia's Allan Stone 6-3, 6-3, and Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Ca., beat Roy Barth of San Diego, 6-4, 7-5.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Important contacts are much easier to set up, but be sure you have a correct perspective on the basic situation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Talking about what you plan to do next drifts from planning to blocking if you aren't careful. Keep things free of side issues.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): For the single, today is a time of high stimulus, potential excitement... For those married, allowances for sensitivity must be made.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Flexible postures lead to practical arrangements ... getting stubborn merely ties up all progress. Pause for meditation.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Pride can lead you to skip quibbling over details, on many fine later a story in the fine print that isn't clear now.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It may seem that any available course to take has some extra problems attached to it. Be thankful for the help you do have.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There are factors at work to delay action. These helping you may not see the need for pushing off projects that interest them.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Casual agreements are taken more seriously than you realize. Negotiations get into a maneuvering sort of encounter.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Settle for nothing easy today. Get gather support toward a higher goal. There are possibilities beyond your early, limited plans.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Today's surprises are tomorrow's stock in trade. Even asking your services deserves a careful scrutiny as well as fair deal.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Bright ideas abound; the big question is: How applicable are they to reality? Fresh contacts bring a differing viewpoint.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Think of the background and probable motivation of those you do business with. Participation may not always be the wisest course.

Lactation Rare Without Pregnancy

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that the chance of death from smallpox vaccine is greater than the chance of contracting the disease.

I have put off having my 18-month-old son vaccinated for that reason. Our pediatrician does not give a report on the action but says it is entirely our decision. I haven't come up with information to make a wise decision. Can you help? Is the vaccination harmful to an adult or older child than for an infant?—Mrs. E.

Here's the background. Well within my lifetime we were still having smallpox epidemics. By virtually universal vaccination, we have reached the point at which smallpox is almost unknown in North America.

It is true that a few individuals have a severe reaction from the vaccine and even then died. The number is small—a few in many millions. But it is a fact that vaccinating is a greater risk than the risk of encountering the disease, because the amount of smallpox there is there is none today.

The success of giving up vaccinating for smallpox will rest. I would judge, on our success in eradicating the disease everywhere else in the world.

If, a few decades from now, most of our young people were without vaccination, and then the disease crept in from somewhere, new epidemics would be possible.

Can we achieve a smallpox free world? Let us hope so.

I dare say that it will take 18 to 25 years before we will be able to judge what the future holds. I myself, also like, if we did find smallpox creeping in, I would want my children to vaccination—and in a hurry.

The long-term problem of physician population dependent, therefore, on what happens in the future.

Present policy is to make vaccination optional instead of mandatory.

However, smallpox vaccination remains mandatory for travellers coming from parts of the world where smallpox still is known to exist. It is, as your pediatrician says, up to you to decide.

For the few who may have a bad reaction, there is there can be no adequate consolation. For the many who decide to vaccinate and all goes well, there is no harm done. And if—in some future years, smallpox begins to return, there will be thankfulness on the part of those who have been vaccinated.

There is, you see, no way, now, to be certain of what the future holds, but the decision to stop mandatory vaccination was thought out carefully and not made lightly.

As for me, I may be overly conservative, but if I had healthy young children now, I would have the: i vaccinated as a precaution a just what the future may bring. That's just my opinion.

I cannot criticize anyone who decides not to have it done. And I am sure that the small post-vaccination risk be closely watched in the years to come, as has indeed protective value was if here are signs of resurgence.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a woman becomes pregnant, does her period stop immediately or does she go on two or three months before she knows she is pregnant?—V.F.

Ordinarily the periods stop at once, but there are enough instances of an extra period or two to make this a less-than-positive sign of pregnancy. If in doubt, your doctor can make tests that will be definite.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful (tenderness) before menstruation is normal for a woman of 46?—M.W.

No, not uncommon at all.

Opening lead — six of diamonds.

By a strange coincidence — since the order of the matches in the Olympiad was determined by lot — Great Britain's first three opponents were New Zealand, Australia and South Africa, all former colonies of the Crown.

New Zealand and Australia each defeated the Mother Country 14 victory points to 6, and it was against South Africa that the British finally won their first victory of the tournament by a score of 13 points to 7.

Here is a hand from the Australia-Britain match where Tim Seres, Down Under star, displayed his virtuosity. Perhaps Rodrigue should not have doubled four spades — but he did, and he thereby pinpointed the way for Seres to make the contract.

Faced with a difficult opening lead, Rodrigue started with a diamond, declarer winning dummy's four and East's queen with the ace.

Fearing the worst — that West had all the missing trumps — seres led the king of spades at trick two and was greatly relieved to see East follow suit. He next won with the ace and returned the jack of clubs.

Seres took the king and led a club back, supremely confident that all was well. West won with the queen, cashed the ace of hearts and played the ace of clubs — which South ruffed.

It was now perfectly clear to Seres that West had the king of hearts. The A-Q of clubs and K-J-10 of spades simply could not justify West's double, nor could West have the king of clubs — for he would surely have led a club originally with the A-K-Q.

Accordingly, Seres played a diamond to the jack, a heart to the ace, and cashed the K-10 of diamonds, discarding two hearts from dummy. The queen of hearts lead now trapped West's king and permitted Seres in make four spades doubled for a score of 790 points.

Tomorrow: Seres Strikes Again.

Planning for Future

Stanfield Wants Canada Working

HALIFAX (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said in nonelection meeting here that continued high unemployment is one of the basic reasons the Trudeau government must be thrown out Oct. 30.

Statistics Canada reported earlier Tuesday that there were a 503,000 jobless in August, down from 543,000 in July but still above the 455,000 unemployed of August last year. Removing the normal seasonal drop in unemployment totals, it said, the seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate rose to 6.7 per cent of the labor force from 6.3 per cent in July.

Conservative leader told party members in his riding there is only one job for every 12 persons seeking work. Unemployment "has never before threatened to become a way of life across this country, a way of life for hundreds of thousands."

He also criticized the government record in dealing with inflation, declaring "it is our job to turn out an aimless government and get Canada back to work again."

"The Trudeau government has shown itself to be unworthy of continued trust because it has betrayed so much of the trust that Canadians extended to it based on its own promises of 1968."

He earlier told reporters in Ottawa that a Conservative government would stimulate the economy by cutting personal income taxes and also keeping the three-per-cent personal tax cut that would otherwise expire at the end of this year.

Economist Dr. Verne Atrill points to map during planning session of the Grat Plains Project in Toronto. Some of the best minds in Canada are involved in the project, tackling a problem posed by Prime Minister Trudeau, expansion and development of a country that has no place to go but north. Bid Being Made To Inform Voters

OTTAWA (CP) — There should be fewer bewildered voters Oct. 30 if electoral officials succeed in a campaign to inform voters of their rights.

Bright orange and purple pamphlets and radio and television spot announcements indicate a change in style among officials in the chief electoral office.

Formerly, voters have been left on their own to uncover the mysteries of voting procedures and their rights.

But this year, under urging of the Commons standing committee on privileges and elections, a public information program has been launched.

The result in the next few weeks will be a public bombardment with the Guide for Electors, radio and television advertisements, and a special guide for students away from home describing proxy voting.

The brightly-colored masterwork of the campaign is the Guide for Electors, which Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel says is a long overdue.

The guide is being delivered by postmen to 6.5 million households. Another 2.5 million are being distributed to political parties, chartered banks branches and returning officers.

The pamphlets are bilingual, with the texts written separately in each language, but they cover the same ground. Included are sections on who is eligible to vote, the lists of electors, enumeration, revision of voters lists, voting at advance polls, proxy voting, and how to vote.

Radio and television messages of a minute or less will cover enumeration, revision of voters' lists, advance polling, and election day.

Mr. Hamel says radio and television stations cannot be forced to use the messages, but only a few have refused.

Enumerators Are Scarce

OTTAWA (CP) — With 47 days left before the federal election, Chief Electoral Officer Jean-Marc Hamel reports only one major problem in his preparations—a shortage of enumerators in some urban areas.

The shortage is greatest in Vancouver, Edmonton and parts of Toronto and Ottawa.

This is in spite of high unemployment and the money paid those who collect voters' names, addresses and occupations for the voting lists. The government pays a basic salary of $35 plus 10 cents per name. With the usual 200 to 250 voters in a polling area, the enumerator can make $55 to $60.

Mr. Hamel says many of "the old pros" in Ontario who usually act as enumerators in federal elections are working on lists for the coming municipal elections there.

Commons Postmen Handle Propaganda

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons post office staff worked overtime until Tuesday clearing a deluge of campaign propaganda for incumbent MPs using last-minute free-mailing. privileges.

MPs are allowed four free mass mailings to their constituents each year, and those with such credit remaining made a last-minute rush on the post office following the federal election call 12 days ago. The mailing privilege expired Monday.

Not only was the mailing at government expense, but some of the campaign brochures were prepared by the parliamentary printing bureau, another subsidized service for MPs.

And, although members lost their constitutional status as MPs at the dissolution of Parliament, they continue to receive their $18,000 a year salary plus $8,000 tax-free expense allowance until election day. This is in spite of the fact they legally have no remotial function than their electoral competitors.

That's probably the biggest campaign advantage for incumbent MPs whose opponents often must abandon their jobs or professions for the duration of the battle.

Commons Law Clerk J. P. Maingot said Tuesday that federal MPs no longer exist, now that an election has been called.

"Legally, Parliament has been dissolved; since there is no Parliament, there can be no members of Parliament," he said.

Aside from their salary and mailing privileges, MPs retain their Commons offices and secretaries. Many of them use their Ottawa offices and the two secretarial workers provided at government expense as secondary campaign headquarters.

At their Commons offices they have unlimited use of free long-distance telephone calling and subsidized meals at the parliamentary cafeteries.

Just to make sure that incumbent MPs are not trundled off the campaign trail and into jail for non-payment of debts, they are protected from civil arrest for 40 days after dissolution. However, they still are bound by criminal law as they are even when the Commons is sitting.

A major parliamentary asset lost during the campaign is their free air and rail passes. The passes expire with old final trip to their home riding.

Quebec Prospers in Canada

PM Rejects Idea of Separatism

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has launched the Liberal government's campaign for re-election by firmly rejecting any thought of Quebec separation and making a strong pitch for federalism and Canadian unity.

He told a radio Rdiocer Tuesday that the answer to Quebec separatism is no and then, in his first major speech of the Oct. 30 election campaign, said Quebec can only grow and prosper within Canada.

The speech was made at a packed meeting of the Liberal constituency association of Montreal Mont Royal where about 900 persons reconstituted him tas their candidate.

Mr. Trudeau won the seat by a landslide in 1968.

Other business of the prime ministers' first day on the campaign trail included a reception, again packed solid with well-wishers, and meetings with federal cabinet ministers in the Montreal area.

He was joined for the reception and the nomination meeting by Mrs. Trudeau. She looked uncomfortable in the crush of the reception and had to leave the stage while he was speaking at night because of the heat. She returned later.

Today the prime minister and the rest of Canada even if a separatist party formed the government.

He said as long as Quebecers continue to vote in federal elections no one could pretend they want to leave Canada.

He told his nomination meeting that although in the past by French-speaking people may have needed to withdraw into themselves to survive, now they must broaden and expand their presence to live, progress and develop fully.

"This presence, the principally French presence of Quebec, Canada not only recognizes, but seeks to extend. Far from being a threat, Canada is for Quebec a guarantee of vitality.

"It is in Canada, it is with Canada, it is through Canada, that Quebec can most surely grow and prosper."

Pesticide Firms Charge 'Faddists' Sway Politicians

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Canadian Agricultural Chemicals Association said Tuesday the governments of some Western countries are bowing to the demands of "dilettante environmentalists" and "faddists" in framing their policies on the use of chemicals in agriculture.

A. J. Hoffer of Winnipeg told the annual convention of the association there were disturbing signs that governments are responding to this group of well-meaning, but woefully uninformed people.

"Through possible lack of political courage, perhaps even misguided opportunism, politicians have in some cases bowed to the impassioned and unwarranted demands of these groups and have legislated unwisely," Mr. Hoffer said.

Everett Biggs, Ontario's deputy minister of the environment, outlined his province's approach to pesticide control legislation.

He said new provincial pesticide regulations are being drawn up in Ontario.

"Under the new provincial rules, labels for more toxic pesticides will be licensed," Mr. Biggs said. "The licence will indicate what class or category of pesticide those outlets are permitted to sell and to whom. . . . Those designed for professional use only will be available to professionals."

Mr. Biggs said the inherent risk in using pesticides could not be glossed over.

"The damage to wildlife when such chemicals become concentrated in their food chain has been thoroughly documented . . . For that matter, there are cases right now of people suffering the consequences of pesticide abuse."

NATO Will Stage Exercise in Norway

LONDON (CP) — Troubled by the steady expansion of Soviet strength on Europe's northern flank, NATO considered this week begin a 64,000-man military exercise aimed at restoring a strategic balance in the area.

The exercise, code-named Strong Express, will include 200 ships and 700 aircraft taking part in combined land, sea and air operations in northern Norway.

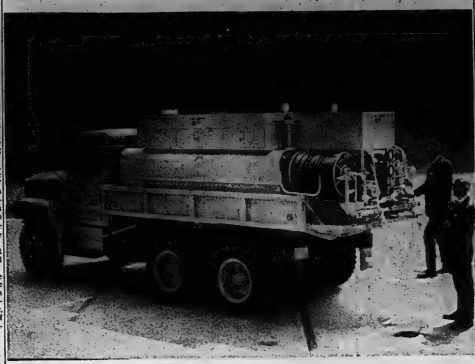
The Canadian contingent taking part will consist of about 5,000 troops from the 3rd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment in Petawawa, Ont., 3rd Battalion Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, Shilo, Man., and a detachment from 427 Tactical Helicopter Squadron, also in Petawawa.

CFB Trenton has been designated as the staging point for the Canadian airlift to Norway.

More than 130 flights by two Trenton squadrons and another from Edmonton will be required to deploy, supply and bring home Canadian troops. Edmonton's 435 squadron will be operating from Trenton throughout the exercise.

Strong Express, which begins Thursday and continues until Sept. 28, comes near the end of large-scale military manoeuvres in Czechoslovakia by East European members of the Warsaw pact.

Some military experts not directly associated with NATO say concern with Russia's northern strength may not be the sole reason for the Western exercise.



An equally important consideration may be a desire, especially in the United States, for a symbolic display of Western strength and solidarity just before the November 7 referendum on European Common Market membership.

The U.S., and perhaps some Canadian authorities, may hope to convince the Norwegians that their best safeguard for the future lies with Europe in association with North America through NATO.

Western war games envisage Soviet forces moving rapidly westward by land and air through the tip of neutral Finland and into Norway. Norwegian forces would then be expected to fight a delaying action as long as possible until NATO reinforcements could be brought in.

If the Soviet fleet had free access to the Norwegian sea, NATO communications into and out of Norway would be seriously threatened, so NATO commanders have to think of rapid tri-service deployment in the north to counter any sudden Soviet push westward.

Movements of reinforcements from the south is complicated by the terrain of Norway. There is no railway in the north and the one road link depends heavily on bridges and ferries which would be vulnerable to attack.

Ontario Deficit Above Forecast

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's economic performance improved in fiscal 1971-72 but was accompanied by a budgetary deficit higher than anticipated, the province's year-end financial report shows.

The new deficit of $519 million—about $160 million more than expected—was blamed on increased spending for winter works programs, capital projects, and family assistance.

But the statement, prepared by Darcy McKeough and his staff prior to his recent resignation as treasurer, indicated the deficit would have been higher had the economy not been so buoyant. The report for the 12 months ended March 31, 1972, was released Tuesday.

A treasury aide said in an interview the deficit was kept down despite the unexpected new spending—$178 million for last year's winter works program, and $32 million in income supplement payments to needy families.

The province's $70-million nursing home construction program was a major project under new capital rules, which also helped force the higher than anticipated deficit.

With these two payments alone, the deficit, originally estimated at $415,585,000, would have ballooned to $830,353,000. The aide said that the actual smaller deficit of $519 million reflects an "over-performance" in the economy and not tax increases.

The improved economic performance was reflected in corporate tax revenues which increased 8.4 per cent to $141,983,000 in fiscal 1971-72. Corporation tax revenue is expected to reach $432,854,000 in the next fiscal year.

The anticipated deficit for 1972-73, forecast in the budget of last April, is $397,800,000.

In final year-end figures released in the report, revenue of $4,901,813,000 is offset by expenditures of $5,323,884,091.

Revenue was up by $11.7 million, higher than expected, and the report said this reflects a "more buoyant tax picture."

Mr. McKeough said in a statement accompanying the report that the "rise in the budgetary deficit and the level of net debt is still well within the province's means."

At year-end, the net debt was $3.1 billion, or $276 per person, nearly two per cent more than the previous year.

Football Hazard

WEST COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A 16-year-old junior varsity high school player was electrocuted and five others slightly hurt Tuesday when the metal practice goal posts against which they were leaning swayed into a power line.

All were members of the Brookland-Cayce high school football squad.

If Nazis Had Won Theme of BBC Show

LONDON (CP) — Former prime minister Lester Pearson was seen on British television Tuesday night giving his opinion that if Britian had fallen to a Nazi invasion in 1940, those in authority here would have had to "come to terms" with the German occupation force.

The interview with Pearson came in the last part of a three-hour BBC documentary entitled If Britain Had Fallen, which set out to examine how Britons might have behaved in the event of a Nazi occupation. If such an evil befell Western Europe and the Channel Islands.

In answer to a question, Pearson said he did not think the British people would have compromised with the invaders, but added: "Anyone responsible for the security of the people would have had to come to terms. The alternative would have been extermination."

Asked if he thought there were any weak points in the British character which might have given way under such an experience, Pearson said there was a "smugness and complacency" that Britain could not be beaten. Reliance on this might have led to a refusal to take the steps necessary to adapt to such circumstances.

Although Winston Churchill's "fight-on-the-beaches" speech was stirring stuff, Pearson added, "you can't fight on the streets against a tank."

Also seen in the program was Canadian Privy Counsellor M. J. Coldwell, a founder and former chief of the CCF party. Referring to contingency plans to send the Royal Family and an exiled war cabinet out of England, Coldwell said he thought it would have been "embarrassing" to have had the King in Canada.

It would have made it difficult for a governor-general to continue, for one thing. The Royal family would not have been encouraged to seek refuge in Canada, Coldwell concluded.

Artificial Environment Unsuitable for Man

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Too many people believe technology will enable man to live in an entirely artificial environment, Dr. Donald J. Kuenen of the Netherlands said Tuesday.

"They do not realize that the fact that three astronauts can live for a few weeks in a space capsule does not mean that 3½ billion people can do the same on earth."

Dr. Kuenen, general director of the Research Institute for Nature Management in the Netherlands, made the remarks in a paper presented to a technical session of the triennial convention of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources.

"For quite a long time . . . we will need plants for food production."

Dr. Kuenen also is chairman of the union's commission on ecology.

All kinds of plants and animals must be reserved for the purposes of biological control, domestication experiments, gene pools, pharmaceutical products and the scientific study of the living world, he said.

"Further technological developments are necessary in many areas, but we must not make the same mistakes that have been made elsewhere, or destroy the potentialities of the environment.

"Technologically-advanced countries must reorganize their land use so as to restore diversity wherever possible . . . diversity must be safeguarded to leave the options open for meaningful future decisions."

Delegates, representing more than 80 countries, also were told that it should be immoral to stop developing countries from building basic industries "even though they may" cause some pollution.

OMB Approves Downtown Plan

Asians Facing Prison Camps

KAMPALA (Reuter) — President Idi Amin is reported determined that the Asians he has ordered out of Uganda must leave within the 90-day deadline or face a life in military transit camps.

A government statement Wednesday night reiterated the president's expulsion order, announced Aug. 5, after charges that the Asians were undermining the country's economy.

And for the first time the government specified the day on which the ultimatum expires—Nov. 8.

The statement warned that any Asian still in Uganda after Nov. 8, who had not been exempted from expulsion, would "have to be rounded up by the security forces and taken to specified military camps."

Earlier in the day the 51-year-old general—who headed the military coup which overthrew the government of President Milton Obote last January—flew over possible sites for the transit camps.

Wednesday night's statement gave 55,000 as the number of British Asian nationals in the country—a figure higher than most recent estimates.

Some observers took the figure of 55,000 together with part of the statement which referred to persons "who have at all relevant times been British citizens" as an indication that Uganda means to hold Britain responsible for Asians who claim Uganda citizenship—and thus exempted from expulsion—but who lose it in a current interior ministry screening exercise. Diplomats here have speculated that as many as 10,000 Asians could lose their Uganda nationality in the screening and be rendered stateless.

Pro Hockey Title Play Is Planned

LONDON (Reuter) — Plans for an annual world professional ice hockey championship and the formation of a five-country European League were announced today by a group of businessmen and sports officials.

Joseph Beach, acting president of the newly-formed European League, said teams from Sweden, Finland, Switzerland, West Germany and Britain will take part in the inaugural league series starting in October next year.

The winners of each year's European League will play the winners of the National Hockey League for the world professional title, he said.

Beach said that after yearlong negotiations it has been agreed that European League tennis will play a series of 30 home and 30 away games

Kissinger Ends Moscow Trade Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is returning from Moscow with good prospects for signing of a broad United States-Soviet trade agreement within a month or less, administration sources say.

At the same time, the sources cautioned against a report from Moscow forecasting the pact would produce $4.9 billion worth of U.S.-Soviet trade by 1977.

Kissinger said as he was leaving Moscow today that the report was "all speculation."

Improvement Area Okayed

By COLIN BRUCE, Staff Reporter

The Ontario Municipal Board has approved plans for passing a bylaw which will turn downtown Belleville into an improvement area, says Roger Porter, principal local organiser of the scheme.

The project will make it mandatory that all downtown firms paying business tax contribute to the cost of beautification of the city's central shopping core.

Mr. Porter, president of the Downtown Association, and his executive colleagues John Adams and Charles Bristol, designed the plan to raise $25,000 annually from the businesses involved. Through a management committee, these funds would be used to give the downtown section a facelift.

The OMB reported to Mr. Porter there were no objections to the scheme from local merchants.

The benefits of the plan will stretch over to Pinnacle Street for the merchants on its west side.

The improvement area is bounded on the north by the centre line of Station street and on the south by Bridge street.

On the list of priorities are the provision of increased parking facilities at lower cost to the motorist, the general beautification of parking lots and more intensive cleaning and maintenance of the sidewalks and road surfaces.

The plan will mean a 14 per cent increase in taxes for businesses.

All that stands in the way of the plan is the passing of two "routine" bylaws, that Mr. Porter believes will be heard by council immediately and be cleared without any problems.

These bylaws will make provision for a management committee and decide how members will be selected.

It will be the responsibility of the committee to create a budget to be presented to council for endorsement.

The members of the committee will be responsible to the businessmen and will allocate funds.

Mr. Porter anticipates there will be at least one alderman or city hall representative on the five-man group.

The downtown committee expects the paper work to be out of the way in time for funds to be available in the early part of next year.

The Downtown Association will remain a separate entity, said Mr. Porter, president of the group.

"In the past it was difficult to get large scale co-operation from downtown merchants," he said. "Now with the new bylaws, all businesses will automatically be members.

The management committee will relieve the association from seeking memberships and simply provide an annual, $5,000 budget to the Downtown Association, said Mr. Porter.

"Worst case of candidates disease I've ever seen!"

Statistics Give Lewis New Fuel

OTTAWA (CP) — New taxation statistics released Wednesday are expected to fuel the flames of the election-campaign debate begun by David Lewis, federal leader of the New Democratic party, and his charges of a "corporate tax ripoff."

Statistics Canada reported that corporations in Canada paid $183 million less in taxes during 1970 than in 1969. It said the main reason for the drop was a decline in corporate profits.

Both the government and opposition parties can find arguments in the new figures.

The government Hilary point to the decline in corporate profits, saying that this shows grants and tax deferments were necessary to stimulate the economy. The opposition can argue that the decline in corporate taxes means a continuation of the trend of individual taxpayers paying a greater share of total taxes.

Bail Refused

MONTREAL (CP) — Hans Willie Niepmann, 29, and Duncan Clark, 31, charged in connection with the seizure of an estimated $500,000 worth of liquid hashish, were refused bail Wednesday.

Generals' Stories Conflict

WASHINGTON (CP) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams and Gen. John D. Lavelle have told conflicting accounts of the circumstances surrounding unauthorized air strikes against North Vietnam, says the chairman of a Senate committee which has proclaimed both behind closed doors.

John Stennis, chairman of the armed services committee, said Wednesday the conflict "concerns the knowledge and extent of knowledge each had about those raids."

Senator Peter Dominick (Rep.-Colo.) said Abrams was unaware of the exact character of 28 raids ordered by Lavelle last winter and spring before President Nixon removed heavy bombing of North Vietnam.

Separatists Abandon French Outside Quebec

EDMONTON (CP) — Some Quebec independence movements are prepared to write off French-Canadians in other provinces, about 400 persons at the University of Alberta were told Wednesday night.

"The Quebec concept of independence is more vivid than the French-Canadian concept, which means that we don't give a damn about French-Canadians outside Quebec," said Pierre Bourgault, former leader of the now defunct Rassemblement pour l'Independence Nationale.

He was involved in a panel discussion with Robert Lemieux, lawyer-negotiator in the FLQ kidnapping of British Trade Commissioner James Cross two years ago; Jacques Chartrand, president of the United Front for the Defence of the French Language, and Alain Briecer, also a member of the United Front.

Davis Fixes Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis announced today a series of guidelines involving conflict of interest by cabinet ministers which he described as broader and more precise than in any other jurisdiction in Canada.

They provide:

—A prohibition from purchasing, directly or indirectly, land or interests in land in Ontario, or interests in land development companies doing business here. Excluded is land acquired for personal use for residential or recreational purposes.

—A private company in which a minister of his family have an interest cannot become contractually involved with the government.

—While holding office, a minister must request that a colleague act for his ministry in matters involving a personal beneficial interest that would bear on the discretion of the government.

—Ministers must abstain from day-to-day participation in any business or professional activity, or be a signing officer of any corporation.

—Ministers must disclose any change in their holdings of any types of property originally disclosed by them.

—Ministers and their families must divest themselves of any share interest in public corporations or, as an alternative, place those holdings in the hands of a trustee.

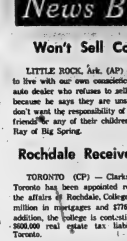
Mr. Davis told a news conference the guidelines are in the form of a directive and would not require legislation to make them effective.

Ulster Peace Talks Boycott Threatened

BELFAST (AP) — A conference to find a way to end the Northern Ireland bloodbath appeared doomed today after Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders threatened to boycott it and two men were gunned down in Belfast shootouts.

The men died in gunfire in two Belfast taverns late Wednesday night. Two other men, one an off-duty policeman who killed a gunman, were seriously wounded.

The Protestant Democratic Unionist party, led by Rev. Ian Paisley, threatened to withdraw from the conference unless the government holds a public inquiry into the killing of two men by army paratroops last week.



Although Britain's Northern Ireland administrator, William Whitelaw, said he will investigate, he is not expected to order a public inquiry.

In London, leaders of the Catholic Social Democratic and Labor Party reiterated that they will boycott the conference unless the British end the internment-without-trial regulation. Last year about 250 Irish Republican Army suspects before the talks began nine days from now.

But Prime Minister Heath is not expected to do that.

In the normally quiet country town of Carrickfergus south of Belfast, more than 300 Protestants rampaged through the streets protesting the arrests of 16 Protestants on arms and explosives charges.

As the ill were ordered held in custody at a special court in City Hall, seven police officers,

Hitler Planned to Deport All Military-age Britons

LONDON (Reuter) — If the Germans had successfully invaded Britain in 1940, they planned to deport every able-bodied man between the ages of 17 and 45 to prison camps across Europe, says a British writer in a book just published.

If London had been occupied, Hitler intended to dismantle Nelson's Column, which commemorates the English admiral's great victory at Trafalgar, and transfer it to Berlin.

If the Nazis had crossed the English Channel, King George VI would have taken refuge in the West Indies where his elder brother Edward had been appointed governor of the Bahamas after abdicating four years earlier.

In the autumn of 1940 both sides were bracing themselves for the ultimate conflict, a situation vividly described by journalist-author radio producer Norman Longmate in his book If Britain Had Fallen.

Montrealers Are Denied Hockey Tickets

MONTREAL (CP) — A protest has been lodged with the external affairs department on behalf of 18 Montrealers who had their tickets cancelled to the Moscow hockey games between Team Canada and the Soviet national team.

"I have contacted external affairs in Ottawa and asked them to make efforts on our behalf and get our seats into the hockey games," says Brian Gallery, president of the group, the Montreal Royals.

The club had reservations for at least one of the games in Moscow during a tour it planned of the Soviet Union starting next week.

However, confusion in Moscow left its members with a trip to Russia but no tickets to the games.

Intourist, the Soviet national travel agency which had promised the tickets, says it too will keep trying to help.

BARRIA

Arson Suspected In Barriage Fire

The Ontario Fire Marshal's office suspects some type of incendiary device may have been used to ignite a fire that destroyed the bathroom at Mel Barriage Landscaping Contractors yesterday.

A man was seen leaving the warehouse grounds at 680 Sidney St. North at approximately the same time as the blaze began. Only eight minutes separated the time the last Barriage employee left for home and the time the call was received at the Belleville Fire Department.

City police are investigating a possible connection between yesterday's incident and a break-in in which many of the contractor's records were destroyed. Company documents stored in the bathroom were partially wiped out by the fire and water damage yesterday.

Ontario Fire Marshal Paul McKerracher and Inspector Paul Stephenson of the Belleville Fire Department were unable to determine the cause of the fire despite two hours of intensive sifting through the wreckage. They forwarded samples of broken glass, floor tile and other materials to a Toronto laboratory where more extensive analysis will be done.

"There was an awfully intense heat," said Stephenson. "It all happened in such a short period of time. We couldn't tell if there was anything out of the ordinary."

But the witness who called firemen also reported seeing a broken window outside the bathroom through which black smoke was pouring.

A porcelain toilet and sink were shattered and several brooms and a vacuum cleaner destroyed. Both doors into the tiny room were little more than frames after the blaze and smoke blackened the one wall inside the warehouse.

Further damage occurred in the adjoining office where water gushing from the toilet and taps left the carpet soaking. An apparent short circuit put Barriage's two-way radio out of operation.

Firemen arriving at the scene shortly after the 5:13 p.m. call smashed remaining exterior windows and quickly extinguished the blaze, but not before $3,500 damage was incurred.

Nothing was stolen in the weekend break-in although many company records were destroyed. Barriage's is surrounded by a chain link fence, the front gate of which is left open during the week.

New Batawa Zoning on Way

WALLBRIDGE (Staff) — A zoning bylaw for the residential district of Batawa Development Corp. Batawa will be drafted shortly and it is expected to come before the new township council for its approval within the next few weeks.

The controversy over the minimum floor area for homes in the neighborhood has now been settled, township council was told Tuesday night.

Residents had favored a minimum of 1,000 sq. ft. while Bata Industries called for 800 sq. ft.

Bata's community development officer, J. W. Harris, told the council Bata officials met on the question of residential floor area and they now support the higher floor area requirement requested by New Bata ratepayers. Ratepayers felt the 1,000 sq. ft. minimum would ensure a higher calibre residential district.

Yardmen's Plan To Be Presented

Belleville city council will meet with representatives of the Canadian Yardmen Benefit Fund to discuss the feasibility of the Yardmen's proposed sports complex for the city.

The meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m., Monday September 18 at the Canadian Legion Hall on Pinnacle Street.

At the meeting with council the Yardmen will have a scale model of the proposed arena sports complex, architectural plans, plus projection slides and photographs.

Also at the meeting, sites for the complex will be discussed, together with the possibility of city-owned land being used to supplement property on which yardmen have an option.

Tables Turned On Politicians

MILFORD (Staff) — Prince Edward County bachelor Phillip Dodds yesterday turned possibly the oldest vote-winning trick against local politicians to save himself.

Although both George Hees, MP Prince Edward - Hastings and James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward - Lennox, assisted in judging the baby show at Milford fair, neither showed up sufficient courage to kiss a contestant.

Mr. Dodds bussed one of the tiny beauties and immediately became the show's most popular judge.

Other members of the judge's panel were Mrs. Raybourn Dawe, Sam Gentile and Mrs. James Dick.

Best baby boy in the show, open to Prince Edward County, was Steven Littler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Littler, RR2, Picton, and best girl was Beth Flake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Flake, Picton. Approximately 25 tots were entered in this popular event.

Candidates To Be Chosen

The PC nomination meeting for the federal riding of Frontenac, Lennox and Addington will be held in the North Addington Education Centre in Cloyne Sept. 25. Incumbent Douglas Alkenbrack, PC, will again seek the nomination with Lennox Reeve Cecil Kidd mentioned as a possible opponent. The meeting will be conducted by credited delegate vote only and Mr. Alkenbrack expects a turnout of about 800.

Senator Keith Davey will be the keynote speaker at the Liberal nomination meeting for the same riding Sept. 16 at 1 p.m. in Prince Charles Public School, Napanee.

Radio No Distraction

CANNIFTON (Staff) — Thurlow township council, taken to task in a recent editorial in The Intelligencer for allowing a radio in council chambers while a delegation was being heard, feels it can keep tab on hockey scores and still attend to public business.

Bristled by the suggestion that allowing the radio may have been an unwise diversion councillors yesterday were quick to point out that the radio belonged to the delegation not to council and that all present had agreed to its playing.

Councillors maintain that the delegation got a full hearing that is leading to a resolution of the road problem so hear that evening.

"The radio did not keep us from hearing with the delegation and the delegation appreciated the (radio) concession," said one councillor.

Councillors say they would rather have been at home watching the Canada-Russia game on television but insist township business was carried on properly during the evening in question.

"We are all Canadians (the council and the delegation) and the circumstances were special," a councillor said.

Private Fire Alarm Said Invading Privacy

AMELIASBURG (Staff) — Council Tuesday heard the dispatcher for the township's volunteer fire department accuse an alarm system of threatening to invade his privacy and assert his intention to take legal action.

Appearing as a spokesman for the firemen's delegation, Sin Meeks informed the councillors he sought the advice of a lawyer after learning a mechanical device had been hooked into his private telephone line. He said he would definitely go ahead with a court case unless the private status of his telephone line was restored.

Mr. Meeks is the official dispatcher for the Ameliasburg volunteers and is engaged by the township to alert 20 firefighters every time there is an emergency. A separate telephone line has been installed at his premises for this purpose.

The mechanical device Mr. Meeks complained about is located in a Redgerville residence. If a fire occurs in the home, the device automatically turns in an alarm to the fire dispatcher. It repeats programmed details including the homeowner's name, the address and the distance the property is situated from the village of Rossmore. The message takes one minute and 25 seconds to relay and is repeated until the dispatcher acknowledges the call.

Jim Stevenson a representative of the alarm system concern explained the installation had been programmed to alert firemen over the township fire department's telephone and as a safeguard the device was hooked into an alternative number which was Mr. Meeks' private line.

Mr. Stevenson assured Mr. Meeks his private line would be released. Mr. Meeks insisted he gave no permission for the hookup in the first place.

However, council expressed concern the alarm system could jeopardize the security of the other residents of the township.

"If two fires broke out simultaneously the one house could burn to the ground while the mechanical device monopolized the dispatcher's telephone," observed Jack Jones a member of the firemen's delegation. Also council wondered what would happen in the event the device broke down after it had been activated in the process of delivering the alert. The resident's phone would be out of action along with the dispatcher's, and an awful mess might develop, a councillor suggested. Regardless once the system is activated it ties up the telephone in the subscriber's home for five minutes according to representative Stevenson.

Reeve Russell Thompson suggested council approve installation of alarm systems provided they are connected to separate telephone lines. He urged the system in the Redgerville home be removed from the present setup until a meeting can be arranged with the owner.

Kampground Big Business

PICTON (Staff) — The Picton-Cherry Valley Kampground will represent a $1-million project at completion and is now providing a $15,000 monthly payroll in the county.

Carson Caverly, manager of the Salmon Point campsite, Tuesday told Picton Rotarians the recreation centre has been open for the past seven weeks and its development cost to date is $750,000.

Almost all contracts for work done at the recreation centre were let locally and it is hoped winter employment will be provided by the campsite.

Mr. Caverly said the KOA (Kampgrounds of America) is a franchise and the Kampgrime Corperation Ltd. holds the KOA franchise for Prince Edward County.

There are approximately 50 KOA camps in Canada now, and according to Mr. Caverly they represent "a prestige type of camping" with swimming facilities and standards for cleanliness.

The Picton-Cherry Valley campground makes reservations for visitors and features a mini-supermarket, a hardware department, an adult lounge, a snack bar, a laundromat and washrooms.

An Olympic size swimming pool and a wading pool also are provided.

Recreation forms an important part of the camping centre and tourists can enjoy horse and buggy rides, mini-biking, bicycling and other activities. An "authentic" playground complete with rubber tire swings and monkey bars has been constructed for youngsters. A full time social director is employed and possibly a fun fair will be scheduled next summer.

The daily charge to campers for a hookup with water and hydro is $4.

Mr. Caverly said a landing strip will be built at the campsite soon to permit fly - in camping. Visitors arriving in their own aircraft can rent tenting equipment at the canspcentre.

The campground manager was born in Belleville and previously operated Carm's Beverages in the Quinte area. Mr. Caverly is also a past director of the Prince Edward Flying Club. He was introduced by Rotarian Harold Cleave, club student by Picton reeve Albert Piroth who presented him with a copy of the book, The County.

City Delegation To Visit Twin City

The first of what is expected be reciprocal official visits in the "twinning" of Belleville and the city of Lahr, Germany, will be made Oct. 1 when Mayor J. Russell Scott and other municipal representatives will visit the German city.

Mayor Scott and Mrs. Scott, Alderman Ben Corke as chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission, and Mrs. Corke, along with representatives of the ANAF, The Royal Canadian Legion, and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will fly to Lahr on a Canadian Armed Forces plane from Trenton. They will return Oct. 7.

Announcing the trip at Monday's council meeting, Mayor Scott said the twinning of Belleville and Lahr was an excellent opportunity to open up communications between the two centres.

The understanding between officials of the two cities could be far reaching and could even lead to the establishment of subsidiary industry, Mayor Scott said.

Council Plans Seminar

Local union members will get a chance to brush up on provincial labor law and unemployment insurance at a one-day seminar next spring. The session could be the start of a continuing educational program similar to programs now under way in 40 other Ontario centres.

The Canadian Labor Congress, together with local labor councils, has sponsored schools for a number of years. But past efforts to initiate courses in this area have been unsuccessful.

"It's a new approach for us," said Jim Wiseman, executive member of the Quinte District Labor Council which will provide facilities for the seminar. The CLC supplies instructors and materials.

Officials hope for a turnout of 50 workers. The seminar will be conducted March 3 at Loyalist College.

Besides its weekend courses, which run each year from September to May, the CLC also conducts a five-week summer program at Port Elgin on a variety of union concerns.

Apex of the training program is the CLC's Labor College in Montreal. Most Canadian union leaders are graduates of this school which offers courses on such topics as social science, history and economics.

Promoters Ask More Wrestling

Belleville and district wrestling fans could be given the opportunity of seeing more of their favorite sport next year if plans of the promoters are followed upon.

Recreation arena committee members were told Tuesday that wrestling promoters were so enthused about the crowds attending the four bouts staged this year that they sought be asking for 10 dates next year.

"It all helps the arena budget," commented committee chairman Alderman Robin Jeffrey.

The Floating Population

Tuesday's report on Hastings County school enrolment raises some sociological questions which are difficult to answer with the community's limited resources.

One of the interesting connundrums was the comment there appears to be a trend where families are moving out of the east end of the city. In fact, at one school where the principal reported vacant houses in the neighborhood, attendance dropped so drastically that one teacher had to be transferred.

This is something which should be investigated more thoroughly. If this is the start of a pattern it would be desirable to know more about the reasons so that projections could assist not only the school board but city council to determine the needs of the community of tomorrow.

Such information might also have a bearing on the official plan being prepared. Are we going to have single family and apartment housing in the right places? Are the projected land patterns ideal? Are recreational facilities being planned in the right areas?

The school board does a certain amount of work in these directions to enable it to plan for schools. However, as the philosophy develops further that the school dollar and the city tax dollar should become more integrated, perhaps it would be advisable for the city to add further resources to aid school board research.

Something to Say

John Lecours comments to the Rotary Club this week on incentive grants, forgiveable loans and public shortsightedness bear consideration.

The Canadian National industrial development officer was outspoken in expressing his opinion of the value of the program. This fact is most desirable and not done often enough locally. In charting its course, this community could use more input from its citizens. Individuals should not be criticized for expressing views which may not be those of the majority (or the vocal minority). Instead the municipality should be pleased that a sincere opinion has been expressed and it should be grasped and examined for any positive benefits which it might contain.

Service clubs and community organizations should seek out the individual with something to say. They have the forum in which constructive comment readily can be made.

Rural Home Survey

We had not been aware, as Quinte Planning Board senior planner Richard Danube points out, that provincial policy is to "discourage rural non-farm living."

Certainly, if that is the case the policy is not very successful. How else do we explain the growing number of interest in rural properties and in building in the country — and all for the purpose of escaping from the city rather than the fulfilment of any desire to take farming up.

Of course if these people do a little farming as well that is all to the good, for there must be any amount of available land that is suitable for cultivation and which currently is going to waste for lack of the hand of man.

Meanwhile we are interested to see that the Planning Board is sending out questionnaires to more than 2,200 rural non-farm residents and more than 300 to 300 mobile home dwellers of Sidney and Thurlow townships. The questionnaires or surveys have to do with land use and the whys and wherefores of counting living accommodation needs, density and so on. When completed they will be followed by two surveys of urban and farm homes.

Outdoors in Fall

The past weekends have been some of the most pleasant of the summer. Hopefully the rest of September and a beautiful October would do much to erase some of the about our summer months.

What is beyond doubt, however, is that Fall in Hastings and Prince Edward counties will be worth enjoying.

Newcomers to the area — in fact those of us who have not explored our countryside — will be well advised to spend some time in the outdoors during the weekends ahead. It will be a rewarding experience.

We Take Expelled Asians, Give Uganda Aid Dollars

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Canadian immigration team is in Kampala, and any day now we'll be home we will be receiving Canada's volunteer quota of the 50,000 Asians being expelled from Uganda by General Idi Amin on what he calls an inspiration from God.

From Uganda, with no love from General Amin, we are getting that quota volunteered, estimated at between 3,000 and 5,000 refugees.

To Uganda, with what have to be best wishes for General Amin, we are sending $1.530,000 in foreign aid.

Only we do not call it "foreign aid" any more.

It has become known as "assistance" disposed by the Canam Agency, the new name for what used to be the "External Aid" division of the External Affairs Department.

The changed and less precise name is supposed to go down more easily with the overloaded taxpayers in the same way that what used to be known as "welfare," administered by the former Canadian Welfare Council has become "social assistance" directed by the re-named Canadian Social Development Council.

The thinking behind it is that the taxpayers will not grumble so much over paying increasing costs for welfare when it is called "social assistance" — or protest foreign aid for Dear Amin if it is labelled "assistance."

To the bureaucrats who make careers of building empires around what they know as "programs" designed to "redistribute wealth" as they call it, by giving away other people's money, "foreign aid" and "welfare" are distastefully provocative terms.

"Assistance," they say, is so much more socially acceptable" both to the often unappreciative recipients and sometimes reluctant donors who are given no choice.

To General Amin, the $1,530,-000 he is receiving from Canada is just for this year.

Last year, the Canadian International Development Agency gave Uganda $1,200,000 and two years ago $1,170,000.

Should this "assistance" now be cut off to a hungry General Amin that neither the Canadian government nor the taxpayers approve of what is quite clearly his practice of "black racism," in expelling the Asians?

"Oh dear no," says the Department of External Affairs. "there must be no suggestion of anything like that."

That would be "punishing General Amin, would it not?" asked an External Affairs spokesman, and plainly the way the diplomats think, that would be naughty indeed.

Never mind that Great Britain is cutting aid to Uganda and receiving a $56,000,000 "foreign assistance" loan to General Amin.

So while he hosts out the Asians — with several thousand coming here at the taxpayers' expense — Canada's foreign aid establishment is standing by with the $1,530,000 in various forms of "assistance."

In addition, the Canadian International Development Agency lets it be known, there are probably," as it is phrased, some long-term, 50-year "loans" with no interest for the first 10 years.

And speaking of empire-building in Ottawa — the bureaucratic process of dreaming up more "programs" to justify bigger budgets and larger staffs — few have outperformed the Canadian International Development Agency.

Back in 1968 it had what, in comparison, was a fairly modest budget of $209 million.

By 1970 it had grown to $364 million.

In 1971 it was up to $374 million with a staff of just on 700.

And currently for the fiscal year of '72-73, the budget has reached $483 million and the staff 900.

Sure it might be the right thing to do in the name of international charity.

But Mr. Paul Hellyer, "Doc" Hyrard, a 15-year veteran of Parliament, has an apity apt fit: "Doesn't charity begin at home . . . with 700,000 of our nearly two million jobless Canadians being below the government's own poverty line . . . with the 600,000 unemployed . . . and yet, with our underdeveloped provinces . . .?"

But underdevelopment does not exist with the Canadian International Development Agency unless it is in Canada and such other foreign and faraway places.

Bowling Produces Complete Education

Paula Sperber is 5 feet 6 inches tall, blond, bright, hazel-eyed — and generally considered the greatest woman bowler in the world. In the U.S. where she lives and where she constantly travels the long, dusty road, it's said that she's done as much for her sport as Bobby Fischer's done for chess.

She's put it in the minds of more people and made money at it, too, though this was not always the case.

In her first year as a professional at 19, she only made $218. In her second year she made a comfortable $5,000.

And this year? Paula, 23, won't estimate because this year's not yet ended. "And anyway," she says, "I'm not in it purely for the money."

She's having her first cup of coffee at Bill Murphy's Laurentian Lanes near Cote de Liesse where she arrived yesterday from her home in Florida. We're to play an exhibition game. Her mother is with her.

Two Bills Proposed

Noise Pollution Next on List to Demand MPs Attention

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Our legislators have been deceived for a lifetime and attention to the question of pollution. This attention has been focused chiefly on pollution of water, the treatment and disposal of sewage and industrial wastes and the pollution of air and land.

To meet the growing concern over environmental pollution the federal, provincial and municipal governments have passed many laws and regulations designed eventually to clean up present sources of pollution, prevent others from developing and provide methods by which accidental pollution can be overcome.

The next area that will come under scrutiny is another form of pollution—noise. Two members of Parliament have private members' bills on the Commons' order paper dealing with the subject. Bert Hoskins, the MP for the riding of Fort William, has introduced a bill to control excessive outdoor noise. The purpose is to direct the government to give consideration to the dimensions of the noise problem in our society.

"The time has come to introduce legislation to control excessive outdoor noise produced by surface transportation as this is an environmental hazard for a variety of physical and emotional ailments, including deafness, pain and nervous breakdown," Mr. Haslamal says.

Barry Mather, the MP for Surrey-White Rock in B.C., has introduced a private bill aimed at getting federal action to control noise in factories which hold contracts with the federal government. His bill would limit noise in such industries to 85 decibels on a noise meter. This level is said to be harmless to the condition when you can hardly hear conversation above the offending noise.

But don't look for any rapid action on the part of any government on the problem. Other forms of pollution are relatively easy to detect and measure. But excessive noise is more difficult to define and to control. What is noisy for one person may not be noisy for another and another. And many people are indifferent. A survey of over 1,000 people in Toronto last year revealed only 38 per cent felt noise was a matter of serious environmental concern.

A man who has had a lot to do with noise and its attempted control is Ottawa city solicitor Donald Hambling, QC. Ottawa has no fewer than three bylaws in this field but Mr. Hambling is not optimistic that they will ever be effective. One bylaw governs motor vehicle noise and another covers general noise nuisance. In recent years the Ottawa council passed a third covering such things as lawn sprinklers, lawn mowers and snowmobiles. In an effort to make this by-law effective, the Ottawa police were equipped with noise meters.

Mr. Hambling believes the police only act on receipt of a special complaint and even then, he feels the courts are reluctant to impose penalties.

"Our courts require proof beyond a reasonable doubt and not on a balance of probability. This places a heavy duty on a prosecutor to establish guilt in a breach of the anti-noise bylaw. Before the courts will regulate a conviction they must be satisfied in law the noise constitutes a public nuisance and the definition of a public nuisance has been the subject of reams of articles."

So, while Ottawa has been a trail blazer in the field, its legislator does not have much hope of achieving any significant results unless the very fact the by-law exists acts in some slight measure as a deterrent.

He believes the real solution lies with industry and the government which could pass laws controlling noise at the source or at the point of manufacture. Thus, makers of noise-producing equipment and machinery could be forced to build noise-absorption into their product before offering it for sale.

It's a complex question but one that will have to be faced as the cacophony of our cities rises to an unbearable degree. As one wit has said: If the wage of sin is death, then the wage of din is deaf.

Lame Brain Promotion Criticized

Brantford Expositor

Society and Canadian law tolerate homosexuality in private among consenting adults but a few foolish "revolutionaries" in Toronto have exposed all homosexuals to attack from understandably frightened parents. They have, in their newspaper, encouraged homosexuals to expand salacious and children sexually as part of an attack on the "oppressive" family structure.

Small wonder that one newspaper has called on police to prosecute the newspaper or editor for committing a crime—the homosexual seduction of a child and another newspaper has had second thoughts about its original support for a more liberal law on homosexuality. Small wonder that columnist Kenneth Bagnell questions the $14,000 federal grant to CHAT (Community Homophile Association of Toronto) on the basis that it is a group of homosexuals who work on the homosexuals' newspaper.

All homosexuals are not bad just because one, demanding "gay power" has been ejected from a mental ward, is arrested in a bank disguised as a nun. Nor are all homosexuals good if one accounts as an author or another as an entertainer as an obscene candidate. But their common denominator is left almost by straight society can only be damaged by this lame-brained promotion of the homosexual.

Who could blame parents for anger and frustration especially if they read about a recent case in which a school principal in Ontario was charged with 29 sexual offences against young boys? In connection with the same case, police arrested three U.S. men and accused them of recruiting boys aged eight to 14 giving them expensive presents and taking them on trips to New York, Hespeler, Preston, Kitchener and other southern Ontario centres.

Senior Citizen Units To Be Built in City

Ontario Housing Corporation will proceed with the erection of another 162 senior citizen units in Belleville, but the city should immediately ask for another survey to determine future needs.

This was the feeling of Mayor J. Russell Scott, who at Monday's council meeting said he would bring in a recommendation for another survey for senior citizen housing at the Bridge-Victoria site.

At this week's meeting council passed the necessary resolution asking OHC to provide 162 units of rental, family accommodation on a geared-to-income basis.

OHC has proposed that the 162 units be provided in two structures - one at the Albert College-municipal-provincial property on Washington Crescent, and the other on property on Bridge St. West, across from the Belleville fairgrounds.

But even with the erection of the proposed units, Mayor Scott feels Belleville will still be short about 300 senior citizen units.

If a survey taken now indicated the need, additional units for citizen housing might be constructed in about three years.

"It's taken that long to get the housing approved since the last survey was taken," he said.

The city has asked that a senior citizens' centre be included in the two structures currently planned for erection, and a meeting of OHC representatives with city officials will be held in the near future to discuss the request.

Land Use, Waste Disposal Lead Environmental Issues

Land use and waste disposal were identified at a public meeting on resource questions Monday as the leading environmental issues in this region.

The meeting, Man and Resources, was sponsored by the Ontario committee for man and resources as part of a Canada - wide program to document public opinion on natural resource problems.

Several local meetings have been held and these will be followed by a regional meeting in Kingston Sept. 28 at which information and views presented at the smaller group sessions will be compiled. A national meeting on resources issues will take place at Montebello, Que., this fall.

Don Colby, of Brighton, chairman of the Belleville meeting and a delegate to the regional meeting in Kingston, explained that the goal of data from each area of the country will be studied, becoming the basis for a national review of resource problems from which a series of decision guidelines are expected to result.

Colby indicates those involved with the national program in this area have learned one of the central issues locally is the use of the land itself - especially, the ways our rural land resources are utilized.

He said one major field of concern relates to whether farms should be broken up for subdivisions.

Problems related to waste disposal also aroused considerable interest at Monday's Belleville meeting. While discussion was wide - ranging, greatest interest was shown in the need for regulation of non-disposable containers.

The Brighton high school teacher said the views expressed last night on land use and waste disposal will be embodied for consideration at the Kingston regional meeting and ultimately become a segment of the larger national picture of popular sentiment on resource questions.

He said provincial natural resource ministries as well as federal departments dealing with resource and environmental questions will be watching the outcome of the series of public meetings with considerable interest.

Reports on the meetings will become basis for a national conference on resources to be held next year in Toronto. Government policy documents will follow.

Timing Determines Subsidy

The Ontario ministry of transportation and communications has reaffirmed its decision to make Pinnacle Street the connecting link between Highways 14 and 37 with Highway 2, but the city still has hopes of getting provincial subsidy for the rebuilding of Coleman and Moira Streets before the proposed new Pinnacle Street bridge is constructed.

The proposed bridge would be eligible for contributions under a connecting link agreement, while the intention of the province would be that the present highway designations on Coleman, Moira and Front Streets, remain until the completion of the Pinnacle Street route.

A July 13 letter from Gordon Carton, QC, highways minister, setting out the above, was included on this week's city council agenda.

Following receipt of Mr. Carton's letter, City Engineer Wilbur Purcell wrote the minister stating it was anticipated the city would want to reconstruct Coleman Street, Moira St., West and part of North Front Street to connecting link standards prior to the completion of the new Pinnacle Street route.

At Monday's council meeting, Mayor J. Russell Scott said the city would hopefully get connecting link subsidy on the reconstruction of Coleman and Moira Streets but urged that this be definitely ascertained before any construction program is commenced.

Since the receipt of Mr. Carton's letter in July, Pinnacle Street merchants have expressed concern over possible traffic pattern changes on their street, once it becomes a two-way highway connecting link.

They anticipate removal of parking which they say would materially affect their business.

The merchants have been told that plans for the Pinnacle Street route are far from final and that they will be kept advised of developments.

Budget Billing To Be Extended

The Belleville Utilities Commission is extending its budget billing service.

Total pensioners who are also veterans, blind or totally disabled will be eligible for the program once certification rules are established.

"It is our intention to institute the system as soon as possible," commission chairman Mayor J. Russell Scott said after approving the extension at Tuesday's BUC meeting.

He said persons in the full-pension category were just as important as senior citizens who have had access to the service since its institution Sept. 1.

Under the system, persons are entitled to pay their hydro bills on an equal monthly payment plan, with payment due on the first day of each month. The monthly amount charged is based on the previous 12 months' account.

BUC initiated the budget service after a senior citizens' survey revealed many persons did not receive their pension cheques in time to have the early payment discount.

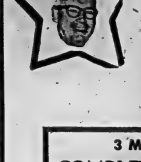
So far, 21 senior citizens have taken advantage of the offer.

All-Candidates Night Is Planned

The Quinte District Labor Council plans to sponsor an all-candidates night prior to the federal election Oct. 30.

The six candidates from Hastings and Prince Edward-Hastings ridings will be invited to the open forum session, probably during the week of Oct. 16. Negotiations now are under way to secure Centennial Secondary School as a site.

As outlined by Ian Reilly, chairman of the New Democratic Party co - ordinating committee for the area, a moderator would be drawn from the QDLC and a panel of local citizens selected to fire questions. At some point the audience would also be invited to participate.



So far only four men have announced their candidacy. In Hastings, Elridge Brethour will run for the NDP while in Prince Edward - Hastings, George Hees, Progressive Conservative, seeks re-election, George Cunningham contests for the Liberals and Richard Lunn is the NDP candidate.

Did you say COLD DUCK? Is this a name for a good Canadian wine? It is. It's a name for a crazy blend of red and white sparkling wines. It's very, very pink. Very, very sparkling. It comes in a very champagne bottle. Chilled then opened, it won't stay long in the bottle. Brights Wines

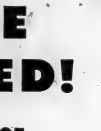
Reader Boosts Help of Association

By DORIS CLAIR

Dear Doris: "Worried ...&" Parents to have a similar problem to mine. I would like to offer suggestions to make individual decisions.

Can you accept his family as they are in spite of your different backgrounds? One girl wrote, "My mother will never settle for me marrying anybody less than the Prince of Wales."



Doll Plus Clothes

SLICK TRICK

This friendly little girl arrives with her own dawn-to-dark wardrobe. Fun to make! Your favorite child will spend happy hours dressing this wide-eyed doll with a 5-piece wardrobe. Pat. 7422; transfer, clothes patterns.

Seventy - five cents for each pattern — cash, cheque or money order. Add 15 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing and special handling — to Alice Brooks, care of The Intelligencer, Needlecraft Dept., 60 Front St., W., Toronto 1, Ontario. Ontario residents add 4 cents sales tax. Print Plainly Pattern Number, Name, Address.

• To store rubber gloves inside a cabinet, glue two spring-type clothespins in the inside of a door. Snap the clothespin onto one side of the cuffs and the gloves will stay open and well-aired.

Don't be pressured into an engagement you may want to break. Don't be pressured into sending John away. In the next two or three years you will grow up a lot and know your own mind better. And that's when counsels.

Dear Doris: At present I'm 13½ years old and five feet four inches tall. I would like to know if 127 pounds is too much weight for my age. I feel that I'm fat.

Well anyway I have this problem of overeating all the time. Enclosed please find 30 cents for your booklet on the safe sure way of reducing. — Pauline and Pat.

Dear P. and P. Yes it is; quite a bit too much. You feel fat because you are. Now it might just happen that one of these days you will start shooting up instead of out, and all that fat will melt away into solid bones and meat; and you'll be tall.

But it is chancy. Far better to change eating habits now and get used to enjoying the things which will nourish you well without putting on all that poundage. The way you handle it all, in teen years, will set your style for life.

I'm sending you the Sample Reducing Diet — best way I know to slim down painlessly. You choose what you eat, rather than how much.

(Let a Canadian social worker in on your difficulty. Doris may be able to save the day for you!)

Mind of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Can exercise solve mental problems?

YES; both physical and mental exercise can help a person solve a mental problem. The "mental up" feeling that can come to the muscles after a fast set of calisthenics pits the years of invigoration that can follow a simple mental workout may help break through the barriers of a "brain block." Just that new attitude and approach brought on by physical exertion may be all that is needed to solve a knotty mental problem.

Are some babies naturally cranky?

NO, but nearly all babies will be cranky at times—frequently for no apparent reason. Many a mother is driven almost out of her mind wondering what makes her baby so cranky when he is not hungry, thirsty, sleepy, too warm, too cold or in pain. She ought to relax and realize her baby has his moods, just as grownups do. Perhaps he doesn't feel he has enough love, or he may be down right bored—if only for the moment.

Is marriage more stifling then a job?

THAT depends on the individual. A woman, say, who has been hearing how marriage constricts a person's urge to "grow," may take an outside job in one of the "glamor" fields—publishing, TV, etc. Yet, reflecting on what she now knows from experience, she will wonder if she doesn't have more opportunity for expressing herself in running and directing a home than she has in performing the penancilian routine of the job she holds.

Ann Landers

Some People Not Affectionate

Dear Ann Landers: I think you were too hard on the young woman who begins letters to her in-laws with "Hi" instead of "Dear" and closes with "Love" instead of "Sincerely." Furthermore, I disagree with your notion that she did not feel warmly about her in-laws may have been incorrect.

Some people grow up without affection. They are not accustomed to words of endearment. It is difficult for these people to express themselves in tender terms, even though the feeling is there. My own father referred to my mother as "Mrs." when he spoke of her to others. She referred to him as "the doctor." After reading your column for several years I would bet that your family was a close one—and affectionate. Am I right?—San Diego Reader

Dear San: Yes, you are right. In all the years I was growing up I never once heard my mother or father call one another by their given names. My father called my mother "mamma"—and she called him "papa."

Many people have written to say I was too hard on the letter writer, and it may well be they are correct. Thank you for calling this to may attention and helping me see the situation in a more compassionate light.

Dear Ann Landers: May I add "bravo" to "Mad" who urged the reading public to get more facts about their education system and how they operate. I believe "Mad" made an error when he referred to unemployment compensation for teachers. A person can draw unemployment compensation only if his previous employer has contributed to the system which provide that compensation.

Most school systems and higher education institutions in the United States at least, do not contribute for teachers. A teacher who is out of work is out of luck—and usually out of money. Believe me, Ann, the rewards in teaching are not financial. The progress and growth of the promising young students are the only real satisfactions in the field of education.—A Teacher With No Regrets

Dear Teacher: In my opinion, education in the United States is a bad joke. Teachers are the most under appreciated group of employees in the country. They guide the destinies of the nation's most valuable natural resource—its youth. Yet when budgets get tight they are apparently the first overboard.

Every day I receive hundreds of letters from 10th, 11th and 12th graders that look like rain soup notes. We have a whole generation of kids in the U.S. who don't know how to read, can't spell and are not aware that they even should have a verb. This is what comes from overcrowded classrooms, teachers without certificates or degrees, and the permissive approach by incompetents who can't enforce discipline. I say there's a serious crisis in the field of education.

Dear Ann Landers: You told a girl who wrote to you about her boyfriend's sexy mustache and heard that it was a matter of taste, but that you didn't care for all that hair. My husband thinks you are great, so he went and shaved off his beard. I loved his beard and I'm furious.

People write to you for counsel, not personal opinion. Stick to your work, Kidde.—BiPaps

Dear Billie: Your husband should be interested in pleasing you, not too. Tell him to let it grow.

MR. AND MRS. VERNON L. FRASER

Fraser — Mundry

Rev. J. Leslie Dean officiated at the September 2 wedding ceremony in Tabernacle United Church when Patricia Ann Mundrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Mundrey of Belleville exchanged vows with Vernon Lougheed Fraser son of Mrs. Sadie Fraser, Trenton and the late George Fraser, Rev. J. A. Lougheed, uncle of the bridegroom, assisted. Soloist was Mr. Bob Burke and Mr. Jim Noakes provided the organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length creation of white antique satin with an empire bodice which was trimmed with Venice lace applique on the high collar and midway over the full Bishop sleeves as well as on the wide cuffs. A vertical row of the same lace applique threaded with pink satin ribbon extended from the neckline to the hem and her demi-belle skirt was softly gathered at the waistline with an edging of the same matching lace. Her Juliette cap which was edged with identical lace to the gown was attached to a cathedral length veil of silk illusion which was edged with matching lace to the cap. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and daisies.

Miss Bonnie Mundrey, the maid of honor, wore a floor length gown of blue chiffon featuring a sheer nearly-matching embroidered bodice. The same embroidery enhanced the high neckline and cuffs and extended down the bodice and around the empire waistline.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Judy Cowan of Mrs. Sharon Cook and Mrs. Linda Chappell all sisters of the bride, were dressed identically to the maid of honor except their gowns were sleeve and had pink respectively and they all wore large picture hats.

Flower girls, Misses Heather Scullion and Vicky Cook, cousins of the bride were attired in long white crimplene dresses trimmed with lace and pink ribbon and featuring empire waists. They carried baskets of baby mums and pink ribbon streamers to match their gowns.

Groomsman was Mr. William Fraser, twin brother of the bridegroom. Mr. Vaughan Cunningham, Mr. David Bell and Mr. David Ryder were the ushers.

For the reception held at the Canadian Legion Hall, the bride's mother wore a two-piece mauve and white crimplene suit with black accessories. Her suit was complemented by a corsage of cymbidium white orchids.

The bridegroom's mother selected a roble egg blue crimplene dress with silver accessories. A corsage of cymbidium white orchids enhanced her dress.

For the wedding trip to Nova Scotia, the bride donned a forest green blazer with multi-colored slacks completed by a white rose corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will reside at 38 Weeks Ave., Trenton.

Grefford — Blakely

At a late-summer wedding, Heather Marion, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Blakely of Madoc, became the bride of Lieutenant John Grefford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grefford of Ile Perrot, Quebec, in Trinity United Church, Madoc.

Rev. E. Hawken of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mr. Stanley Hawthorne of Madoc presided at the register, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Lynne Fennman of Kingston.

The bride entered the church wearing a white princess-style sleeveless gown of moire satin. It was enhanced with a hooded long sleeve coat, sweeping into a slight train and featuring an embroidered edging that need pearls. A cascade bouquet of red roses, cream carnations and white stephanotis completed her ensemble.

The maid of honor, Miss Pamela Hurd of Toronto, was attired in a fitted, deep-toned satin rust length gown of crystalline sheer, which featured a high ring collar and long flared sleeves.

The bridesmaids, Miss Jane Perry and Miss Anne MacDonald of Kingston, were similarly gowned in lighter-festa tone gowns of crystalline sheer. All attendants were matching velvet ribbon in their hair and carried miniature white lace umbrellas encrusted with pink rosebuds.

The bridegroom was attended by Lieut. Alvin Crosby of Bagotville, Quebec. The ushers, Lieut. Jean Yves Vachon of Montreal and Lieut. David Barton of Petawawa, all graduates of RM, were in military uniform.

At the reception held in the Victoria Centre, the guests were greeted by Mrs. Blakely in a floor-length sculptured polyester gown in muted shades of aqua on ivory with a wren sheer chiffon matching full-length scarf and accessories. A corsage of pink carnations completed her attire.

Assisting was Mrs. Crawford, who chose a floor-length gown in antique gold brocade satin, accentuated with gold sequin trimming. Toast colonel accessories and a corsage of deep red rose carnations complemented her ensemble.

Following a buffet-style dinner, dancing was enjoyed to the musical stylings of Stanley Hawthorne at the Lowry organ.

Departing for a honeymoon at Deer Lodge, in the Haliburton Highlands, the bride donned a white two-piece polyester crepe dress with gaily colored full sleeves, collar and yoke, pansy purple accessories, and a corsage of yellow button mums.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Calgary, Alberta, where John is presently serving as Administration Officer at the Canadian Armed Forces.

Pope Bars Women As Bible-readers service to lay Catholics provided they are men.

"In accordance with the venerable tradition of the church, installation in the ministries of lector and acolyte is reserved to men," the 74-year-old pontiff said.

The ruling does not actually prohibit women from Bible reading or from performing some altar services, but it bars them from formal investiture by a bishop to do so.

The ban was a setback to many in the church, from radicals to nuns, who had clung for a rule for women among church "ministers" in keeping with the modern principle of equality of sexes.

The Pope said he made the decision after "having taken into account the views" of bishops around the world

Will Take Uganda Asians

LONDON (AP) — Premier Olof Palme of Sweden left for Stockholm today after telling Prime Minister Heath his country will take up to 200 Asians expelled from Uganda.

Palme told reporters: "We have a slight unemployment problem in Sweden but it is not too severe so we can take a limited number of refugees.

"The main problem at the moment is where to put them. This should be ironed out soon."

Five Policemen Hurt Protecting Rightists

TORONTO (CP) — Five Metro Toronto policemen were injured and 15 persons charged Wednesday night after about 30 leftists stormed the door of a meeting hall where members of the Western Guard had gathered.

Five policemen were treated in hospitals for injuries and later released.

Fourteen men and a woman were charged with offences ranging from assaulting police-men and causing a disturbance to possession of a dangerous weapons.

Eighteen policemen were on duty when the demonstrators advanced along the sidewalks and street, many carrying placards and planks.

The right-wing Western Guard, formerly the Edmund Burke Society, had scheduled the meeting to discuss the topic "Keep Canada white."

During the 10-minute melee outside, demonstrators and police fought hand to hand at the doorway to the downtown hall and surged back into the street and into traffic-filled College Street with police and demonstrators rolling on the pavement.

Within 15 to 20 minutes of the first police call for help, the black fronting the hall was sealed off by more than 100 policemen who arrived on motorcycles, horses and in squad cars and paddy wagons.

After the arrests, there was no further trouble and the Western Guard meeting was concluded with about 25 attending.

Campaign Is Violent

NASSAU (Reuter) — The issue of independence for the Bahamas is generating enough political heat to make next Tuesday's general election the most explosive in the history of the scattered Caribbean islands.

Already, actual dynamite blasts have occurred at campaign meetings at three tranquil islands and fire bomb attacks have badly damaged four party headquarters.

Electrohome introduces the sound

We have old news. And we have new news.
The old news is Delicraft cabinetry and Electrohome stereo engineering. They're the reasons more Canadians consistently choose Electrohome console stereo than any other.
And they're still the best reasons for choosing Electrohome stereo today.

A full 90 watts of power, even in the lowest-priced Electrohome console stereo. A 125 watt chassis in our most popular console lines. And the ultimate: 200 watts of power, with magnetic stereo cartridge and pre-amp in the Santa Cruz, Carlton, and Cambridge models. (More stereo power doesn't mean more stereo volume; it means cleaner sound at normal listening levels. And that's important.)

The stereo is only the start.
Any Electrohome stereo, of course, is a complete performer in itself. But with Electrohome stereo accessories you can make it the start of something bigger.

Add an optional Electrohome 8-track, or cassette tape deck with recording facilities, for example.

Or exclusive Satellite sound that means you place the stereo console where it looks best . . . and the Satellite speakers where they sound best.

Or Electrohome extension speakers. Leave the stereo console in the living room while putting stereo performance in the recreation room.

Or Electrohome Environment, the system that covers your home to a concert hall. Accoustically speaking.

And later, even 4-channel performance, adaptor jacks are built into every new Electrohome stereo console.

If components are your bag . . . of sound, you can still choose Electrohome. From three component models, including the 125-watt model that features the all-new Electrohome automatic changer used in many 1973 Electrohome stereo consoles. So there it is. Old news. And new news.

But if you're thinking stereo, it's all good news. From Electrohome. And it's at your dealers now.

Workers Learn To Play Sick

TORONTO (CP) — Workmen's compensation boards itself to manipulation by some workers who learn to play the role, an Oakville, Ont., psychiatrist said Wednesday.

Eventually, the Workmen's Compensation Board doctors, the board and the family doctor all realize "they've been had," Dr. Peter Rowsell told a meeting of the Ontario chapter of the College of Family Physicians of Canada.

But, Dr. Rowsell said, they don't know how to get off the hook.

He said Wednesday doctors ignore what happens when the family of such a patient and fail to communicate with one another.

Manipulation of the social system, including welfare and taxpayer schemes, is epidemic and potentially destructive, he said. If youth is pampered with tax handouts "we're going to become a nation of manipulators."

In his office, Dr. Rowsell said, he sees the destructive effects of seeking something for nothing and the child-like resentment when it is refused.

Earlier, he told the doctors how some patients play the game of "doctor over the barrel," the tearful patient who returns constantly, forcing the doctor either to prescribe more medication he knows is probably useless or appear heartless and cruel.

Another psychiatrist, Dr. M. O. Vincent, said the meeting bereaved people should be encouraged to do their "grief" work.

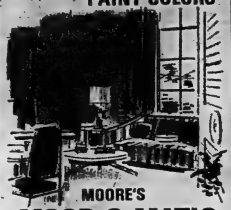
Dr. Vincent, medical superintendent of Homewood Sanitarium, said that when friends and neighbors find a new widow poring over old photographs of her wedding or her children in infancy or old holidays, they often tell her it is "morbid" and try to get her involved in new activities.

This is wrong, the psychiatrist said.

It is normal, healthy and necessary to express grief reactions, and failure to do so at the time of loss leads to subsequent problems, which may surface 20 years later, he said.

Subpoenas Suggested for Study of OMB

TORONTO (CP) — A New Democrat Party member suggested Wednesday that a subpoena may be the only way to force reluctant witnesses to testify before the legislature committee studying the Ontario Municipal Board.



Donald MacDonald (NDP—York South), former Ontario NDP leader, said the committee should seek out those persons reluctant to appear but who have had the most experience with the board, and subpoena them. "If that's the only way to get them here" he needs the comment at the committee hearing after Phil Givens (L—Toronto Forest Hills) said he knew of one lawyer who was reticent about appearing because he dealt daily with the OMB and did not want to prejudice his position.

Mr. Givens said his talk with the lawyer, not identified, convinced him that the committee was "not getting best" from some of the "most important people" traveled on a day-to-day basis with the board.

and the look of excellence in '73.

We know who the boss is.

The news in color TV this year is automatic color.

But the big news is Electrohome automatic color. Because it's the only one that lets you be the boss about color performance quality.

Look at it this way:

Some folks prefer vivid color TV reception, with tones that practically leap off the screen.

Others prefer subtle pastel colors. Who's right? They both are. And with Electrohome's new automatic color control, each can dial the color strength they prefer — and the Electrohome color control will maintain exactly that strength. For good.

So you enjoy your idea of great color performance. Not somebody else's.

More automatic reasons.

Naturally, there are other automatic goodies with Electrohome color TV for '73. All of which makes tuning fool-proof.

Including the only automatic fine tuning that locks in the best possible reception instantly. Every time. And keeps it that way. Scene to scene. Channel to channel.

And automatic tint control that does the same for color balance. No more purple faces or green hair. (Except maybe for horror movies.)

The remote chance.

All these automatic features meant that Electrohome engineers could develop an all-new remote control system for color TV that's as simple to operate as a light switch. But a lot more fun.

Try it at an Electrohome dealer's. (It's worth a trip in itself.)

Here's looking at us.

The real test of color TV, of course, is the performance. This year, Electrohome color performance comes in 19", 20", 22", and 26" sizes. Most with Electrobrite matrix picture tubes. Many in traditional and contemporary cabinets by Deilcraft, Electrohome's fine furniture division. And all with the extra assurance of excellence you expect in every Electrohome product. C'mon down and look over the complete '73 color TV line for yourself, at any Electrohome dealer listed below.

But do it soon. Because with all those automatic features, more people than ever will want Electrohome color TV in their home. Automatically. And while you're there, ask about the special Electrohome Football Action Lamp. It'll look great in a boy's room, the den, the rec room — anywhere in a football fan's home. And it's only $6.95, while supply lasts. Electrohome Limited, Kitchener, Ontario.

Condominiums, Open for Inspection

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

This week Belleville — and all Central Ontario — will be introduced to condominium living with the opening in the city of a 64-home condominium community on College St., at Prince of Wales Drive.

Not all the units are finished but one block will be done in the next few days for a three-day Open House scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Developer Maurice Rollins sees the condominium as the only way lower and middle income families can comfortably afford to own their own homes and is watching the reception this first project receives with keen interest.

"This project will be a kind of barometer for the region" says Mr. Rollins. The builder also has another Belleville condominium development planned for O'Hara Drive near Palmer Drive in the city's west end.

On O'Hara there will be 30 condominium homes in the $19,900-$20,900 range. However, those in the College St. project are priced substantially cheaper.

The prices range from $14,350 for a two - bedroom unit up to $17,750 for a four-bedroom home. Two varieties of three-bedroom condominium will sell for $15,200 and $16,500 — the latter with two bathrooms.

Rollins representative Robert Marcotte says the company really has no gauge of the response condominium living will get here. Two units are already sold on College St.

The firm has building permits to build condominiums in Port Hope now but wants to wait to assess how they go over in Belleville before launching an extensive condominium construction program throughout the region.

"We just do not know how they will go over in smaller cities," says Mr. Marcotte.

The condominium concept is not new although it has been a long time coming locally. It may present the ultimate answer to satisfying a broad range of the housing market.

"It's either this, or apartments," says Mr. Rollins, stating a personal preference for condominiums.

Through the condominium concept, householders buy the unit in a block of terrace-housing with each homeowner being a shareholder of common facilities and grounds.

The Rollins company will manage the development for five years after which a board of directors of unit owners will take over the management.

Each owner will pay a common cost of $23 a month — a fee that covers the expense of property and household maintenance. Cutting lawns, snow removal and garbage collection are included in the common cost, as well as building fire insurance and exterior painting and upkeep.

Monthly payments (including common cost) will range from $155 for a two-bedroom home to $186 for the four-bedroom. These payments may be reduced depending on income.

Mortgages will either be for 25 or 40 years and all are underwritten by government programs.

The range for downpayments is $711 for the two-bedroom unit to $881 for the four-bedroom home.

Rollins says he is spending $10,000 on landscaping of the site that faces a new municipal riverside park area.

"It is really Belleville's first planned community," says Jim Cathcart. Each block of condominiums will contain two, three- and four-bedroom homes.

"That way," says Mr. Cathcart, "the children will not all be concentrated in one area."

He believes many will find the common cost factor attractive. "All the residents will have to do is live there — just about everything is the way of maintenance will be looked after."

Low Cost Home Ownership Made Possible

Other dates to keep in mind are Decoration Day, Sunday, Sept. 24, next general meeting, Thursday, Oct. 12 and the guests from Montreal, Saturday October 14.

It was a near perfect weekend for the two invitational golf tournaments. Gents on Saturday and Ladies on Sunday, held at the Barrydown golf course. A little cool for the barbecue, but everyone enjoyed it and had a lot of laughs over some of the antics of the would-be golfers. Although a good turnout was on hand, a few more players would be appreciated for the next two tournaments which will be held in October. Watch the board and this column for more definite information. In the men's tournament, the results were as follows: Low Net, 1st Bob Brooks, 62; 2nd, Bob Bean, 66. Low Gross, 1st, George Christopher, 67; 2nd, and 3rd, tie score, Doug Campbell and Gerry Genereaux; 4th, Frank Freeman, 68. Most honest one hole golfer, John Doran, 11. Most honest golfer, Ed. The fall and winter sports, Dart league, Saturday darts, Mr. and Mrs. darts, Euchre and shuffleboard committees are meeting this week to arrange the schedules for the coming season so watch for announcements in the near future in this column and the notice boards.

Four comrades are still in Belleville General Hospital: M. Lennan, room 619; G. Carver, 732; J. Carr, 323 and J. Ronsky, room 612. Comrade A. McKenna is in room 13, Queen's S. C. Unit.

It was with deep regret the members learned of the passing of Comrade N. R. Lore. The sincere sympathies of all members are extended to his bereaved family. He moved from Bancroft some years ago where he had been President of the Bancroft Legion. His friends and comrades will miss him.

Lewis Unveils NDP Agricultural Policy

SASKATOON (CP) — The public treasury must be used to support family farms in the same way it has been used to provide millions of dollars to the corporate sector, New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis said Wednesday.

Mr. Lewis said the party's agricultural policy emphasizes the "corporate rip-off" theme of his campaign, and the Conservative farm income growth plan" is designed to preserve family farming.

He chose the Saskatchewan riding of Saskatoon-Humboldt—held by Otto Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian wheat board—to announce the party's agricultural policy which calls for a guaranteed price on all agricultural commodities, a halt to rural line abandonment and government ownership of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"I've been for many years that other industries and large corporations get large chunks of dough in the bonds and thousands of millions of dollars out of the public treasury," Mr. Lewis told a news conference.

"But the public treasury has never been willing to make the right kind of concessions to preserve and promote and encourage the family farm across the country.

"We believe that any concessions . . . from the public treasury, any grants that are to be made available from the taxpayers' money, ought to go to people, not to corporations."

Labelling Liberal government attempts to provide more income to farmers as only "nibbling poverty," he said the NDP program is designed to lower farm costs and boost farm income so farmers can enjoy a more comfortable standard of living.

The program has four main features:

—Guaranteed minimum prices for all commodities. The . . . plan will commit the federal treasury to assuring the farmer a guaranteed return on what he produces, based on the cost of production set in consultation with farmers.

—Lower farm costs through lower interest rates and cheaper farm machinery costs through setting up a price review board to which manufacturers would have to justify proposed increases, and low-cost credit for farmers.

—A comprehensive transportation system designed to meet rural needs including all plans to abandon rail lines.

—Producer-controlled marketing with all grains being placed under control of the Canadian wheat board and the purchase of farm produce by the federal government for overseas shipment, as part of foreign aid programs.

One of the detailed proposals calls for the introduction of a free milk program in schools across Canada to help rebuild the dairy industry.

Study Sought on Managing Polar Bears

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Long-term research in three areas of polar bears is the aim of representatives from five nations attending an international conservation convention this week.

Charles Jonkel of the Canadian wildlife service in Ottawa said Wednesday the group would submit suggestions to the triennial convention of the International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources.

If approved, the union would likely forward the suggestions to the governments of Canada, the Soviet Union, the United States, Norway and Denmark, all of which have polar bears in their territorial jurisdictions.

"The suggestions will seek agreements in terms of management and research among the five nations," said Mr. Jonkel. "We hope to get that part formalized and eventually we hope to add more things.

Nixon Says Ontario Finances Mismanaged

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, accused the Conservative government Wednesday of financial mismanagement because of the $539-million deficit the province compiled in the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Mr. Nixon, commenting in a statement on the financial report issued Tuesday by the government, said the deficit was "startling."

"This deficit is by far the worst ever bestowed by Ontario. The next largest deficit was in 1958 in the amount of $341 million. Our current deficit, when added to previous deficits, makes Ontario's net debt over $2.1 billion.

"When all commitments and borrowings including Hydro are taken into account, our total liabilities in 1972 are $8.9 billion. We spend $200 million in interest charges alone—well over $1 million a day.

"This is the time when taxpayers must compare the election programs of the Conservative government with the costs incurred."

In releasing the financial report Tuesday, the government said the deficit was about $162 million higher than anticipated and blamed it on increased spending for winter works programs, capital projects and family assistance.

INTELLIGENCER, THURS

Econom Here T

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau coped with a grip lesser and a heckler Wednesday as he defended his government's economic and employment policies and lamented a wearing of hands when abuse unemployment occurs.

In the first public rally of his election campaign, the prime minister told a Progressive Conservative rally in the university city:

—Canada, under his administration, has had its economy run in a better manner than any other country.

—Unemployment figures are down this week, while there is being a higher seasonably adjusted rate, there are other things that must be considered. Meanwhile, Canada's workers are being put to work at a rate far better than that achieved dur

Stanfield Says Aid Spread Thin

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield challenged federal measures in regional economic development as ineffective.

Mr. Stanfield, during a busy day of coffee parties and television interviews in Yarmouth and Sydney, called for a review of the government program of aid to depressed areas.

He charged that the vast areas eligible for such aid—almost half the country—scattered down the amounts available and made them ineffective in helping such areas of traditional disparity as Sydney.

He also said government financial transactions pay attention that alone does the economy and maintain high freight rates in depressed areas work against the regional economic development grants.

PM Rebuffs Stripper

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's speech to a campaign rally at London Gardens Wednesday was interrupted briefly—but not by the type of heckler one would expect to find at a political gathering.

Marjorie Cummings, a professional stripper, walked through the arena carrying a placard that read:

"Pierre, we're all with you. After your rally visit Tracy Starr's Strip Palace."

The prime minister, noting the statuesque blonde who exhibited her 36-22-36 figure in a brief two-piece outfit, paused during his speech to remark that "when I talk about the quality of life that isn't precisely what I have in mind."

Hellyer Sees Grit Minor Rule

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The Liberals will probably win the Oct. 30 federal election, Progressive Conservative candidate Paul Hellyer said Wednesday.

But Mr. Hellyer, a former Liberal cabinet minister who left the party and later joined the PCs, predicted the Liberals will form only a minority government and there will be another election in about a year.

Mr. Hellyer, who is running in the Toronto riding of Trinity, told a nomination meeting the performance of the Liberal government over the last four years has been "absolutely miserable."

He said Canada has one of the highest unemployment rates in the Western world, and stated a Conservative government would introduce wage and price controls rather than create massive unemployment through tight money policies.

Hold Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Old age pensioners who cannot pay their full living expenses in homes for the aged in Ontario will not receive the pension increases announced in June by the federal government.

A spokesman for the Ontario department of community and social services said Wednesday the $30-a-month increase for pensioners living in subsidized homes will be withheld by the province.

Reject Control

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Association of Homes for the Aged turned down Wednesday a resolution asking that some control be established over the $25 in spending money that elderly residents of homes receive each month.

Mr. Trudeau, speaking to a crowd that almost filled the arena here—estimates ranged between 5,000 and 6,000 per- sons—had no trouble dealing with a solitary heckler who de- manded to know when unem- ployment insurance benefits for July 14 would be paid.

The prime minister started his speech with a Statistics Canada defence of government economic policies.

He said "Canadians are earn- ing more, spending more, and saving more than at any pre- vious time in our history."

Canada's economic record in the last five years was better than that of any country and the country had passed through a worldwide recession in 1971 almost unscathed.

Although he did not mention this week's Statistics Canada estimate that the seasonally ad- justed national unemployment rate jumped to 6.7 per cent of the labor force in August from 6.3 per cent in July, he said the gov- ernment is seriously concerned about unemployment.

But Canada's latest force, which had grown in relative terms at 30 times the rate of the 35 major Iner-state indus- trial nations, was rising put to work at a rate far better than that achieved anywhere in the world, he said.

Binding Arbitration For Teachers Urged

TORONTO (CP) — A provincial study committee Wednesday proposed creation of a tribunal to impose binding arbitration on the province's elementary and high school teachers.

In rejecting the strike as a method of settling disputes, the committee — under Chairman Judge R. W. Reville, also said that work-to-rule tactics often used by teachers to enforce their demands were "not only unprofessional but illegal."

At a news conference, Judge Reville said work-to-rule was a breach of an individual teacher's contract but added it had been used by many professions. He did not know whether the tactic had been tested in the courts, but repeated the committee's assertion that work-to-rule was illegal and should not be continued.

He said the tactic under which work is performed strictly to regulations and procedure disrupts the entire school system.

Under the proposals, the tribunal of a chairman, one or more vice-chairmen and several part-time members would review disputes referred to it by one or both of the parties.

Post for Swann

MONTREAL (CP) — Peter Swann, former director of the Royal Ontario Museum, has been appointed the first director of the Sabbe and Samuel Bronfman Family Foundation, it was announced Wednesday. Mr. Swann served as director of the Ontario Museum from 1968 to 1972.

The tribunal's findings would be binding on both parties.

In a dissenting report, committee member R. S. Gwynedd, a Toronto lawyer, argued that there should be a deadline set bringing disputes to the tribunal.

Judge Reville said the majority opinion was that there should be no hour regulation to make the deputable cases before the tribunal.

The committee recommended that all areas of dispute, exclusive of salary and some items of compensation, be settled by a consultative process at the school staff and management level.

It also recommended creation of a professional research bureau to supply teachers and school boards with information and data involved in salary negotiations.

Mistaken

TORONTO (CP) — A 39-year-old woman patient committed suicide at the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry on the day psychiatrists and nurses concluded she did not need to be under continuous supervision, a coroner's jury was told Wednesday. Frances Coffey, of Caledon, Ont., was found hanging from a cloth belt looped over a closet door in her room July 17, testimony said. A nurse had seen her walking in a hallway about five minutes before.

Tour Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The energy department announced Wednesday a team of petroleum experts from China will open a three-week tour of Canada Monday.

Test Too Good

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The newspaper Trud reports that police investigators gave a surprise spelling test to students here who had sailed through entrance examinations to a Moscow institute.

Some made between 60 to 100 mistakes and now are serving labor camp terms for bribing school officials. The entrance officer was jailed for 15 years and 12-year terms were given three teachers, the newspaper says.

Can Fill Lots

HAMILTON (CP) — The Ontario government is overruling the Hamilton Region Conservation Authority and will allow Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. and Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. to fill in 75 acres of water lots in Hamilton harbor on their bayshore property.

Flag Books

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Canadian flags are attention-getters at a public library here.

The city flags are attached to books by Canadian authors to publicize the library's Read Canadian campaign, which continues through October.

Students Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Medical students of the University of Toronto Wednesday appealed with Ontario health officials to reverse what they described as the province's "myopic decision" concerning their living allowances and stipends.

The plea, in a four-page brief, referred to the government's decision announced last April 14 to impose tuition fees and eliminate living allowances in several health-science teaching programs.

Tough Anti-hijack Proposals To Go to Aviation Authority

WASHINGTON (CP) — A set of wrangling in a 33-nation international meeting here.

The vote was 9 to 4, with two abstentions, but it might have been 10 to 1 if the United States and Canadian delegations had not decided to force an end to a protracted procedural debate.

Only Canada and India openly opposed to the draft proposal on the ground that the subcommittee had not given any consideration to the text.

The other opponents and the two abstainers indicated they would probably have supported the draft if their procedural points had been taken into account.

The draft was approved only after several delegations made clear that, in forwarding it to the legal committee for study, they were in no way indicating their approval of it.

However, the subcommittee's final vote was regarded as a victory for the draft sponsors, in particular, Canada and the U.S., had been pressing hard for a concrete measure to encourage more subcommittee after nearly two years of inaction on the question of anti-hijacking measures.

The draft calls for a graduated series of steps and "punitive measures against countries which, "contribute in any way to a threat to the safety of civil aviation"—a phrase covering countries which, harbor or help hijackers and saboteurs—calculating in a potential end to air traffic to the offending country.

Canadian officials said the proposal establishes the "principle" of tough enforcement; provisions originally proposed by Canada and the U.S., while refining the procedures to be followed against offending countries.

Business Not Defended

TORONTO (CP) — News papers have paid little attention to defending business against its critics, A. Z. Pengelly, director, corporate marketing and community services, Warner-Lambert Canada Ltd., said Wednesday.

Mr. Pengelly told delegates to the 36th conference of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association of Canada that he becomes angry when he reads coverage of the evils of business in so many newspapers.

"I see much feelings on the occasional federal leaders of the new Democratic Party (David Lewis) shooting his mouth off on his favorite corporate issue" he said, "but I see very little defence of business."

Taylor Gives Impromptu Lesson

MONTREAL (CP) — Roger Taylor will have a very special roster in his section today when he goes up against Egypt's Ismail El Shafei in second-round singles play at the International Tennis Tournament.

One of the ball boys at the week-long, $50,000 tournament, 11-year-old Allan Berg, thinks Taylor is something special.

"He's the greatest," the youngster said Wednesday after Taylor held on for a complete workout during a break in play.

The English player practised for about 20 minutes with the boy and exchanged notes.

"We don't usually do this very often but I was young Al I'm sitting around all day waiting for a chance to get on the court and I said why not.

"Your pro aren't just money vultures.

Taylor's practice round came at a break in a heavy schedule which saw three seeded players eliminated in second round singles play.

Australia's Ken Rosewall, Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia and Bob Lutz of Thorsen, Calif., all went down in straight sets, bringing to five the number of top-ranked players out of the quarter-finals.

Mark Cox of England and Australia's Ray Ruffels were crowned earlier.

Rosewall, seeded 11th, took it on the chin from fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa 6-1, 6-2. The lanky Drysdale kept the usually accurate Australian at bay with a powerful baseline game and was never in trouble.

The ninth-seeded Lutz fell 6-1, 6-4 to No. 6 Tom Okker of the Netherlands while seventh-seeded Pilic fell 6-4, 6-4 to Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex.

In the last singles match of the day, second-seeded Arthur Ashe of New York City blew past Australia's John Alexander, 6-2, 6-4.

The tournament winds up Sunday with the singles and doubles finals. The singles winner will collect $19,000; the runner-up $5,500. The doubles winners will split $1,500.

In doubles play Wednesday, Emerson and fellow countryman Terry Addison pitched up a 7-6, 6-1 win over San Diego's Tom Leonard and Ray Barth, while Borowiak and Pakistan's Haroon Rahim were beaten 5-7, 7-5, 7-5 by Bob Carmichael and Ruffels.

Lutz's defeat because of the knee injury left Ashe without a partner and enabled Rosewall and South Africa's Bob Maud to advance in the second round.

Boaters Airborne

Driver Ray Caselli, right centre, of Reseda, Calif., hits the water as his boat, "Panic Mouse", top leaves the water at high speed during a race at the Airport Marine Stadium near the Oakland International Airport. Caselli escaped serious injury, but Vern Amaral of San Lorenzo, Calif. driving "Rapid Fire", had to be taken to Alameda Hospital when his boat smashed into debris of the first craft. Hospital officials said Amaral suffered a broken arm and possible internal injuries. He was reported in satisfactory condition. (AP Wirephoto)

Mahovlich Missing

Orr May Play Swedes

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Team Canada, a team of National Hockey League stars en route to Moscow for the second half of their eight-game series with Russia, arrived Wednesday night with Bobby Orr, but without Frank Mahovlich.

Coach Harry Sinden told a news conference that Orr, just cleared from a knee operation, will work out with the team today and may play the Sept. 22 game series with the Swedish national team here Saturday and Sunday.

"We expect Orr to start light scrimmaging with the team starting Thursday," Sinden said. "There's an outside chance he may start here."

Team Canada needs all the breaks it can get, which is the main reason for the two games here prior to the second half of the series against Russia. In the first half, Team Canada won one, tied one and lost two.

"We're determined to regain control of the series in Moscow and to gain the edge in this series," Sinden said.

Mahovlich, of Montreal Canadiens, was left behind with a leg ailment and a bum stomach. He may rejoin the team before the Moscow series.

"We welcome the opportunity to play here and to work out on the larger ice surface," Sinden said.

The NHL players, skated off their feet by the fleet Russians in Canada, face the added problem of ice rinks in Moscow much larger than those in North America.

The average North American rink is 200 feet by 85 feet. In Europe, the length is approximately the same, but the switch-skating European teams will have an extra 15 feet of width in which to operate—a total of almost 3,000 square feet more skating room.

BOBBY ORR

In addition, the area behind the goals is about three feet deeper in Europe.

Sinden, who made no excuses for his team's performance in the opener, said: "We'd like to see our own game come alive."

Alan Eagleson, listed as Swedish information sheets as "headleader for Team Canada," said they are not taking the Swedish club lightly.

"On the basis of the last information under which we operated with the Russians, we don't trust anyone anymore, he said.

Can Sinden Be Heard?

SHELO, Man. (CP) — Rudy Pilous, former National Hockey League coach, says he doesn't envy the task of Harry Sinden in coaching Team Canada.

"He hasn't got a chance," said Pilous.

"How is he supposed to tell those guys anything? The average salary on that all-star team is probably in the 150,000 bracket. Do you really think they listen?"

Pilous, who coached Chicago Black Hawks in a Stanley Cup in the early 1960s, said it's becoming increasingly difficult to coach professional hockey players.

"You can't discipline a Canadien pro today. They have the player association and, quite frankly, it's far too powerful."

Pilous said the Russian team, which won two games tied one and lost one in the first half of the eight-game series played in Canada, is well disciplined.

"Regimentation, that's what they've got, and through that regimentation they have coordinating. That's why they've progressed to the point where they can get on the same ice surface as any Canadian team."

Open Purse Increased

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Open golf championship's prize money was increased to $175,000 Wednesday night, with $25,000 going to the winner of the 72-hole event. The announcement was made jointly by the Royal Canadian Golf Association and the tournament's sponsor, Peter Jackson Tobacco Ltd.

It marked the second time in three years the Canadian Open purse money has been increased by $25,000.

The 1972 tournament at nearby Richelieu Valley Golf and Country Club July 26-29 pays the Canadian Open in a more favorable position on the PGA calendar, midway between the British Open and the U.S. PGA meets.

In recent years the Canadian championship had been held early in July and conflicted with the British Open a week later, which forced many of the top stars to pass up the event to work out in England to accustom themselves to the difference in time zones.

Two Win Swims

BRATISLAVA (CP-AP) Lesley Cliff and Wendy Cook of Vancouver won first-place honors for Canada Wednesday in the 10th international Czechoslovakian Grand Prix swimming meet.

Miss Cliff took two firsts, winning the 400-metre individual medley in five minutes 13.9 seconds and the 100-metre butterfly in 1:07.1.

Miss Cook won with 1:03.3 in the 100-metre freestyle.

Ace Close

INGLEWOOD, Ont. (CP) — Veteran Moe Norman, who said this year he'll retire from competitive golf at the end of the season, took dead aim Wednesday at the Ontario Professional Golfers' Association title starting today at nearby Rolling Hills.

Norman, of Gilford, Ont., won most of the prize money in the pro-am tuneup with a four-under par 68 at the Chicopacoway Country Club.

He carded six birdies and almost won a car on the 12th hole when his tee shot landed inches from the hole and rolled about six feet past. He holed out for a birdie.

Cowboys Big Question Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Dallas Cowboys are the big question mark again in the National Football League's National Conference.

Despite the loss of No. 1 quarterback Roger Staubach, Dallas should do quite well this year—probably making it to the playoffs as the No. 4 team from the NFC.

But look for Washington Redskins to win the East Division, with the Cowboys a close second.

Minnesota Vikings appear to be an easy winner in the Central Division but another tough race shapes up in the West between San Francisco 49ers and Los Angeles Rams.

Here is how the final NFC standings will probably look.

East Division: Washington Redskins, Dallas Cowboys, St. Louis Cardinals, Philadelphia Eagles, New York Giants.

Central Division: Minnesota Vikings, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, Chicago Bears.

West Division: San Francisco 49ers, Los Angeles Rams, Atlanta Falcons, New Orleans Saints.

There are several reasons why Dallas won't win the NFC East, one being George Allen's Washington Redskins.

The Cowboys lost running back Duane Thomas in a trade with San Diego Chargers, but they still have Calvin Hill and Walt Garrison. But that won't be quite enough.

Dallas' Doomsday Defense has been one of the best in the game, but this may be the year that age starts to catch up with such stalwarts as Bob Lilly, Chuck Howley, Cornell Green and Herb Adderly.

With Sonny Jurgensen rejoining the Redskins, who also have Billy Kilmer at quarterback, Allen's crew will be tough. The Redskin' Over-the-Hill Gang could falter some, but not enough to keep Washington from winning its first division crown since 1945 when Sammy Baugh was quarterbacking the team.

Zuger New Ticat Scout

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats announced Wednesday that quarterback Joe Zuger has rejoined the club as a scout for the remainder of the Canadian Football League season.

Zuger was Ticats' quarterback for 10 seasons before a shoulder injury last year put him on the sidelines. He tried a comeback this year but his shoulder still gave him problems and the club dropped him.

Zuger then tried joining Detroit Lions in the National Football League but a new NFL rule introduced this season forbids a player from joining the NFL if he has played in or been in a CFL training camp in the same year.

He now will finish out the season with the Ticats before going back to Detroit next year as a punter and backup quarterback.

Dolphins Still AFC Team to Beat

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Jets will replace Baltimore Colts as the team battling Miami Dolphins for supremacy in the East, long-suffering Pittsburgh Dolphins for supremacy in the East, long-suffering Pittsburgh Steelers will emerge as the power in the Central Division and San Diego Chargers will rush headlong into the Oakland-Kansas City scramble for Western division honors.

That's the way this National Football League season shapes up as the American Conference opens regular-season play Sunday.

Miami's Dolphins, of course, are the team everyone will be trying to tame, but it'll be a rough task.

Miami made it to the Super Bowl last season only to lose to Dallas Cowboys.

Pittsburgh's Steelers, never a champion in their 40-year history, have been rebuilt by coach Chuck Noll from a pool ing team to a potentially explosive one, and quarterback Terry Bradshaw is the man who can light the fuse.

Here, then, is how this prognosticator expects the AFC's regular-season standings to wind up:

East Division: Miami Dolphins, New York Jets, Baltimore Colts, New England Patriots, Buffalo Bills.

Central Division: Pittsburgh Steelers, Cincinnati Bengals, Cleveland Browns, Houston Oilers.

West Division: Oakland Raiders, Kansas City Chiefs, San Diego Chargers, Denver Broncos.

Offensively, the Dolphins are about as strong as any team in the league, with quarterback Bob Griese throwing to Paul Warfield and Marlin Briscoe, and handing off to breakaway runners like Jim Kiick, Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris.

A healthy Joe Namath, naturally, is the backbone of the Jets, and he's healthy again. With receivers Rich Mayard, Ed Bell and rookie Jerome Barkum and running backs like Emerson Boozer and John Riggins, New York will boast a strong challenge.

Bradshaw has come of age with the Steelers, and with receivers such as Ron Shanklin and Dave Smith, plus runners such as Preston Pearson

Smear Upset by Als' Switch

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference say they have come up with a bona fide player to help shore up their defence, but the move has prompted all-star middle linebacker Steve Smear to ask to be traded.

The Alouettes Wednesday signed five-year National Football League veteran John Huard, who sat out most of the 1971 season with an ankle injury, to a multi-year contract.

Huard will be middle linebacker Sunday when Alouettes host to British Columbia Lions at Molson Stadium, coach Sam Etcheverry said.

Smear, asked to move to defensive end, the position he played in 1970 when the Alouettes went on to win the Grey Cup, was unhappy.

Smear, who is on the final year of a three-year contract, said he asked to be traded.

Mirage at Mercy of Winds

TORONTO (CP) — Mirage, the Canadian defender, was putting up a grim battle against her American challenger early today in the Canada's Cup sailing series, but was relying on the mercy of the marine weather forecast for assistance.

After out-maneuvering Dynamite from Detroit, Mich., Bayview club in a cold-shrouded start, Mirage took an early lead of about half a mile in the freshening winds on the first of six legs of the 177.6-mile long distance race, which ended in the deciding one.

But by 11 a.m. Dynamite, skippered by Lloyd Ecclestone, had reduced Mirage's lead to 100 yards on the third leg of the six-leg Triangular Lake Ontario course.

The official marine weather forecast at 8:30 p.m. called for southwest winds at 20 to 25 knots, becoming northwest 20 to 25 Thursday morning, a prediction favorable to Mirage which is regarded as more of a threat than Dynamite in rough to heavy blows.

But the winds lightened before midnight with the Mahon weather office forecasting winds NW 10 to 20 knots until about 3 a.m.

Mirage, which must win to stay alive, held a three-quarter mile lead on the second leg as she rounded the second marker at Thirty-mile Point, halfway between Youngstown and Rochester, N.Y., at 9:13 p.m. She was five minutes and nine seconds ahead of Dynamite, on a close reach with wind velocity at 15 knots.

Her advantage diminished as the yards fell between the pair, mile to close the gap on the third leg, but Canadian skipper Gordon Fraser was hoping fervently that the marine forecast for winds of 20 to 25 knots throughout today would hold true.

The American challenger has won two 21-mile races and will take the cup if she wins the long-distance event. If Mirage, of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club, can maintain her lead, a third 21-mile race Saturday will decide the series.

The first two races were worth one point each. The distance race which officials estimate will finish about 10 o'clock tonight if the winds keep up, is worth two points.

Trainmen Track Down Title

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

CNR trainmen had been pushed off the track once this year, but delivered a roundhouse right in the playoffs that brought them the Industrial Softball League championship.

The "right" belonged to pitcher Mark Sheridan who recorded his third consecutive playoff victory over Mead Johnson Wednesday. The 6-5 win gave CNR a 4-1 win in the best-of-seven final series. The two teams had been deadlocked for the "B" division pennant at the end of the season, but Meads managed a 1-0 sudden-death playoff win that gave them the first place trophy.

Sheridan, who was the losing pitcher in that game, came back to haunt Meads in the finals. After the teams had split the opening two games, the big right-hander hurled back-to-back shutouts to give CN a 3-1 lead on the series.

He wasn't as sharp Wednesday, but still managed to hold on in the 6-5 victory. "It was a team win," he conceded. "They (Meads) were hitting the ball hard tonight, but we were catching a lot of them. I've been pitching better towards the end of the season. My control's been improving," acknowledged the four-year Commercial League veteran who sat out last season.

Meads managed 10 hits off Sheridan last night, but strategic seven rubbers on base that helped account for their eventual 6-5 defeat. The CN hurler struck out eight batters and walked only four. Gerry Holoway started for the losers, giving way to Ken Osborne in the sixth. They allowed 10 hits and six walks while fanning two batters.

A three-run rally in the sixth jumped Brian Trainors into a 6-3 lead that they managed to protect for the win. Two walks, a double by Zane Plumbe and Barry Tamlin's triple were keys to the rally. The three-run cushion allowed them to withstand solo homers by Ken Lesanik and Gary Genereaux in the late innings.

Sheridan and Brian Trainors collected two singles each for the Industrial Champs with the other hits going to Jim McHurter, Zane Plumbe, Homer Thomas, Tamlin, Mike Fahey and Ron Marshall.

Jim Sopha had a homer and two singles for Mead Johnson followed by Blaine Young with three base hits.

CNR manager Cam McKenna lauded his team's all-round play, while singling out his mound staff of Sheridan, Perry Soule and Brian Plumbe for special plaudits. It was the first industrial title in five years for the Trainmen.

Mark Sheridan was out on this play at first base, but it was Mead Johnson who went down to defeat last night. Sheridan hurled his third consecutive win, a 6-5 verdict Wednesday, to give CNR the Industrial Softball League championship. The Trainmen defeated Meads 4-1 in the final series to square accounts with their season - long rivals. Meads had edged CN for the "B" division pennant during the regular season.

Yardmen Tykes At High Hurdle

Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund tykes have only one obstacle standing between themselves and an all-Ontario finals berth — but that obstacle is a big one.

The BYBF team is slated to meet the Toronto tyke champions in the Ontario Baseball Association tyke "A" semi-finals. Opening game of the series is scheduled for Saturday at Dale, 2:30 p.m. with a return engagement in Toronto Sunday.

The fifth face to sign with Belleville's senior hockey Quintes is a new one in city fans. St. Catharines' native Bruce Cameron, newly-employed in the city as a Loyalist College Athletic Officer, became the newest member of the Quintes Wednesday night.

Quintes Won't Look Windfalls in Mouth

Belleville's senior A hockey entry hasn't been exactly prone to windfalls in the past few years, but they hope the law of averages has started to catch up with them.

The Quintes have announced the signing of the fifth member of their 1972-73 roster. St. Catharines' native, Bruce Cameron, who literally fell into their lap as a Loyalist College Athletic officer.

The blondish, 25-year-old left-winger played last winter with Queen's University and for four seasons before that as a teammate of Belleville's Pete Fleming at St. Lawrence University.

Cameron had Junior B. experience with St. Catharines and Dixie, and some Junior A groundwork in his home town.

He joins Al Ferguson, Dan Creighton, Ron Jury, and John McConnell as those who have signed up for this season's 44-game Belleville senior hockey schedule.

The Quints hope to get their first taste of pre-season exhibition action a week from Saturday in a game with the Central Pro League's Fulsa Oilers, pending approval from the Ontario Hockey Association.

Faces Familiar At Frontenac

KINGSTON — Belleville harness racing followers would have found themselves among familiar faces at Kingston's Frontenac Downs Wednesday.

In the featured ninth race it was Zorro Gratton, a standout at the Quinte Raceway this season, beating out former Belleville track record holder Early Lakes John, while Al Vance was third with Ruth's Daisy.

"You gotta make him shave! I almost suffocated during that last ride!"

Alemite Familiar Ground

Neither Cardinal nor Oshawa Falcon TV will be on home grounds Friday night, but both clubs will have a working knowledge of Belleville's Alemite Field.

Cardinal performed here in the opening round of Senior "B" playdowns when they ousted Dervelin Motors, while Oshawa's fond memories stem from the June Belleville Senior Softball Tournament where they bested Rollins Construction to win the "A" championship.

The teams will be meeting in the third and deciding game of their OASA series, starting play at 8.30 p.m.

Plane's Square Peewee Series

Plane's Concrete tykes did not let age stand in their way Wednesday as they edged Gagne Masonry 7-5 in the second game of the Thurlow Minor Baseball peewee finals to square the series 1-1.

David Blakely, John and and Tom Masterson all saw mound duty for the Thurlow OBA tykes, while Gary Sedgley and Will Gagne hurled for the peewees. Top Plane's hitters were Rob O'Brien and Brad Sullivan with two singles each. For Gagne it was Saunders with a pair of homers and Asbely with a single round-tripper.

The third game of the series is scheduled for Sunday, 2 p.m. at Harmony Public School.

Smith Heads Minor Softball

There will be a Smith forging the Belleville Minor Softball fortunes next season.

Don Smith was chosen as the new minor softball president for the 1973 season, although he will officially take office Oct. 15th. Serving as vice-presidents will be Albert Vandief from the West Hill and East Hill representative Bert Trice.

Ted Sprackett will be secretary, with Clif Belch as treasurer; Dave MacMullin as league statistician and Tom Graves as equipment manager.

The officials will be on hand Saturday for the Belleville Minor Softball Awards Day at Alemite Field. Presentation of crests and trophies will commence at 12.30 p.m.

COUGARS SIGN GOALIES

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association increased their roster to 24 players by signing two goalies Wednesday. They are Andre Gill, 23, 19-season netminder for Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, and Paul Menard, 20, who played for Verdun Maple Leafs in the Quebec Junior Hockey League last year.

Red Sox Haven't Slipped

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston Red Sox ascended to first place in the American League East Division race a week ago and have been steadying leftover nerves.

Steadying, that is, if you consider the No. 2 spot. Since the Red Sox gained first place Sept. 7, the runner-up position has been occupied by three contenders—Detroit Tigers, New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles.

They continued to shuffle the standings Wednesday night when the Red Sox drubbed New York 12-2.

The Red Sox, who had a half-game lead Tuesday, now hold a one-game advantage over the Tigers, who beat the Orioles 6-5 Wednesday night. The Orioles and Yankees are tied for third, 1½ games back.

Oakland Athletics remained the team to watch in the West, beating Minnesota Twins 8-6 to grab a three-game lead over Chicago White Sox who lost 6-5 to Kansas City Royals.

Milwaukee Brewers trimmed Cleveland Indians 3-1, and California Angels nipped Texas Rangers 6-5 in the other games.

Boston, held hitless through four innings by Rob Gardner, broke open the game with a four-run fifth inning that sent the Yankee leftbander to an early shower.

After the Yankees chased Boston starter Lynn McGlothen on Felipe Alou's two-run double in the seventh, the Red Sox came up with three more runs in the eighth off reliever Ron Klimkowski.

Detroit rallied for five runs off Dave McNally in the fifth inning, three on a homer by Frank Howard and one on a balk by reliever Doyle Alexander, to overcome a four-run deficit and beat Baltimore.

"This is the first time, that Howard has really ripped the ball since he's been here," said Detroit manager Billy Martin, whose team acquired the slugger in a recent deal with Texas. "He was like the others on this team—over-trying."

Howard has had 13 career home runs off McNally, but insisted that he doesn't hit him that well.

Also-rans Ending on Silly Note

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is September in the National League and with the division races all but clinched, this has become the silly season for the also-cans.

Philadelphia Phillies and New York Mets put on quite a show Wednesday night.

The Phillies came out on the short end of an 11-6 game that lasted three hours, 25 minutes—the longest nine innings in baseball this season.

The game featured 11 pitchers, 17 walks, 28 men left on base, two wild pitches, a passed ball and two errors. But most of that was as funny as the frantic contact less search staged by rookie catcher Bob Stone of the Phillies.

Elsewhere, division leaders Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates continued to win. The Reds scored an 8-6 victory over Atlanta Braves in 10 innings and the Pirates beat Chicago Cubs 4-3. Houston Astros edged San Diego Padres 5-5, St. Louis Cardinals topped Montreal Expos 5-4 in 11 innings and San Francisco Giants whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 7-1.

Johnny Bench's 33rd home run of the season broke a 1st-inning tie and pushed Cincinnati past Atlanta.

The Braves had bounced from behind to tie the score on solo home runs by Hank Aaron in the seventh and ninth innings. The two homers gives Aaron 39 for the year and 669 for his career. They also gave him 38 homers or more in 14 major league seasons, breaking a record he shared with Babe Ruth.

Roberto Clemente cracked three hits including a tie-breaking home run to move the Pirates past the Cubs and closer to the East crown.

Clemente connected in the seventh frame against loser Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., 20-11, as the Pirates registered their 16th victory in the last 18 games.

Fresh hitter Jorge Roque cracked an 11th-inning homer to give St. Louis its victory over Montreal. It was the first major league homer for the rookie, who was batting .063 before he connected.

Kinsmen Teams Clicking

Wednesday was a banner night for Kinsmen minor baseball teams. The Kinsmen peewees moved into the city finals with a 13-3 romp over Legion 26, while the Kinsmen bantams were edging Richard Ellis 12-11 in the opening game of their final series.

Dave Bennett and Paul Marsiesan threw six-hit ball for the Kinsmen peewees, striking out four batters and walking seven. Mound duties for the losing Legion squad were handled by Garry Drake and Marty Henderson.

Scott Hunt and Randy Bell paced the winners with a double and single apiece while Steve Irwin collected a double. The losers' only extra base hit went to John Laperriere.

In the bantam final opener it was Mike McClelland and Peter McBride pitching Kinsmen to a 13-11 win over Richard Ellis peewee representatives. The winners walked 10 and struck out the same number, Howie Gunn and Gary Stapley took the loss.

Top Kinsmen hitter was Mike Crawford with a homer and single followed by McClelland and John Heidstra with a triple and single each.

Plane's Concrete took some of the bounce out of Uniroyals tadpoles with a 3-1 Wednesday win to force a fourth game in their city final series. The win left the team with identical 1-1-1 marks in what was to have been a best of three series.

Brian Cronkright and Philip VanLanteren hurled the win, getting key support from batsyrnate Richard Manderville whose two-run homer proved to be the difference. The winners allowed three hits and no walks, while striking out 17 Uniroyal batters.

Craig Reeves and Stevie Emerson took the loss, giving up four hits and seven walks while fanning 11.

Michael Gaugh had a single and double for the winners with Manderville and Cronkright collecting the other hits. Emerson and Alan Tompkins tripled for the loser with Steve Taylor getting a single.

Plane's will be shooting for their third consecutive title pole championship when the teams meet Monday in a 5-6-5 battle at Park Dale.

Hopalong Cassidy Dead at 77

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor William Boyd, who rose to stardom as the cowboy Hopalong Cassidy, is dead at 77.

A spokesman at a South Laguna Beach, Calif., hospital said Boyd died Tuesday night from complications of Parkinson's disease and congestive heart failure.

Boyd's portrayal of Hopalong, a "good guy" who wore a black hat but was a paragon of virtue, was the longest-running characterization in Hollywood history.

Boyd rode the range on his horse Topper for a quarter of a century in movies and on television.

"Hoppy," a character half-conceived by writers, half by Boyd, didn't smoke, drink, swear or kiss girls. He carried villains rather than shot them.

The responsibility of being a children's hero transformed Boyd, onetime playboy, into a philanthropist devoted to strengthening the fibre of American youth.

He would say: "When you've got a good looking up to you, when you've got parents saying what a wonderful guy Hoppy is, what the hell do you do? You have to be a wonderful guy."

Boyd came to Hollywood as a young man and appeared in films such as The Volga Boatman, King of Kings and Two Arabian Nights. He became a confirmed idol of the 1920s.

Dazzled by success, he spent freely, gambled heavily and lived lavishly.

Then, in 1932, the good life screeched to a halt. A Broadway actor named William Boyd, now dead, was arrested at a drinking and gambling party. In the morning papers the Hollywood Boyd's picture was published in error. An apology was printed later, but Boyd's career plunged downhill.

He was a has-been in 1935 when a Paramount producer offered to star him in a series of cowboy films. Boyd asked for a few changes in his role, then made the first Hopalong Cassidy movie.

The movies were popular and Boyd quietly bought up all television rights to the idea. In 1948 the first Hoppy movie appeared on television and Boyd had his jackpot.

Adversity No Stranger to Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A year ago, Ann-Margret was undergoing the effects of a show business career that had suddenly turned hot.

"I've been feeling so much tension, such pressure," the Swedish - born entertainer said.

"It's a definite signal. I'll work through the year because I've got commitments. Then I'll quit show business. At least for a year. Maybe forever."

Now Ann-Margret may be forced to end her career.

On Sunday night she fell 22 feet from a scaffolding on which she was to make her entrance at a Lake Tahoe hotel-casino.

She suffered five facial fractures, a broken jaw and a broken left arm. She underwent facial surgery Wednesday at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre.

Her doctor said the operation was a success. He predicted complete recovery, but he said he didn't know how long it will take.

Ann-Margret's hard-driving ambition stems from her childhood. Born April 28, 1941, in Stockholm, she lived most of her early years alone with her mother. When the girl was eight, they joined her father near Chicago, where he had been working as an undertaker.

She has said she still has nightmares from sleeping in the same room with dead bodies awaiting burial.

At 16, she failed to win as a singer on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour. Then, after a year at Northwestern University, she went on tour with a small band. It had little success, but people were impressed by the voluptuous, red-haired Nordic beauty with the straight-forward singing style.

Among them was comedian George Burns.

He was impressed and took her to Las Vegas, "where she was a riot."

But something went sour. That changed with Carnol Knowledge.

Mike Nichols directed her in a somewhat overripe sex epic, and she stole the film. The performance won an Oscar nomination. Her career carefully guided by husband Roger Smith, formerly of 77 Sunset Strip, boomed higher than ever.

Remarked George Burns: "I know she will pull through. She's a gutsy girl with a lot of spunk. She deserves the best."

New Shows Boggling

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's fall season kicked off this week with the promise of enough specials, good movies, new series* and public affairs efforts to put the hard-core viewer in a home for the befuddled.

The first of the new regular series, ABC's The Rookies and CBS's The New Bill Cosby Show, arrived Monday night. Both have the ingredients for success but need immediate first aid in the writing department.

Rookies, about three fledgling cops in the big city, is sort of a Mod Squad in blue.

The Rookies' initial effort concerned an attempt by two of them—played by Georg Stanford Brown and Michael Ontkean—to avert a bloody ghetto rumble between two youth gangs.

Brown is the street-wise black cop and Ontkean the innocent, college-educated product of white suburbia. Both would rather rap with their mouths than nightsticks.

A good premise, but the plot went this way:

Ontkean, as officer Willie Gillis, volunteers to convince one gang that rookies are rotten. He challenges them to join in a basketball game and afterward "maybe sit down and rap a little bit."

Whereupon the gang raps him sharply about the head and body.

Brown (officer Terry Webster) subsequently moves in and gains the gang's confidence. When the rumble proves inevitable, he persuades the warring parties by means of ridicule to drop their switchblades, pipes and chains and fight hand-to-hand.

To add a further note of unreality, both gangs are racially integrated.

On the positive side, the acting by the show's regulars is excellent. The only things The Rookies need for survival are better stories and a shift from the two powerhouses opposing them. Monday nights—Laugh-In and Gunsmoke.

The New Bill Cosby Show, fighting ABC's pro football and NBC's movie fare, had the help of Harry Belafonte and Sidney Poitier and should have been a great premiere effort. No such luck.

Belafonte's singing was first-rate, but most of the show's comedy skits were limp, restricted only to Cosby's zany monologue on the junk kids eat and Foster Brooks, whose drunk-act defies description.

Despite its generally wan start, the Cosby show probably will get better in subsequent offerings. It doesn't lack for talent among the regulars and it has two of the most gifted men in the music business—Quincy Jones and bassist Ray Brown—handling the bandstand chores.

But it could use some more help from its 14 writers.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, Sept. 15 — Aries (March 21-April 19): A moment of truth arrives, all you've pretended lately comes up for redemption. Let nobody rush you into closing a contract.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Nothing should put you off your earlier decisions. Discussions brought forward from yesterday make little progress. Should be abandoned.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Although inconvenient, the laying aside of your own plans may be worthwhile. Let others speak for themselves.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your sympathies and/or involvement with the critical moments of others tend to tire you. Be careful with mechanical things.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Much depends on your doing only those things which you can live with later. A burst of temper sometimes clears the air.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Select your course early and stay with it, first things first. Expect emotional conflicts as unaccustomed subjects. Be alert.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Those accustomed to you seek opposition for its own sake. Distant people are even more of a problem. A harsh answer will do.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Speaking is suggested as a solution of some problems, so doesn't really work. Getting to the causes is the answer.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Your energies are running so effectively others can cope with you only partially, may diverge from ordinary expectation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Jan. 19): Resistance provokes you to use drastic methods or find a new and more direct approach to almost all obligation.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your efforts at leadership defeat themselves today. Let others carry the ball for the time being, and learn from observation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Other people have awkward encounters. The delays offer a chance to re-think your approach to almost all obligations.

Some Favor Delay In Vaccinations

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD.

Some other letters about whether to have a child vaccinated against smallpox make me think some further details, in addition to my previous remarks, will be helpful.

One letter:

Dear Doctor: My daughter is nine months old and our doctor advised us that she will be ineligible for smallpox if we fail. However, almost all the other doctors in our community no longer give the vaccine. They feel that the reactions to the vaccine are worse than that smallpox is no longer a threat. We don't know what to do.—Mrs. M.L.

...If you read yesterday's column, you know that I still lean in favor of vaccinating against smallpox—but with certain exceptions.

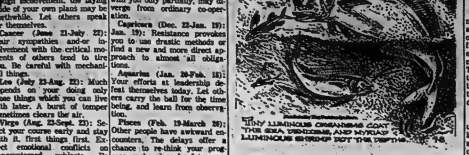
It's true that some infants have severe reactions to smallpox vaccine, and one has to be particularly cautious with children who have eczema or are known to have severe allergies. One of my pediatric consultants says he saw one fatal reaction in a child in 17 years—I saw a child with eczema personally in 25 years of practice. Both of us remembered such a case. But then, it's a long time between cases, and it has been a case of smallpox here.

While many physicians have called for smallpox vaccinations, following the view of the Centers of Disease Control and the Academy of Pediatrics that the risk of vaccine is greater than the risk of smallpox, there are others who believe in vaccination, remembering what happened when we still had smallpox epidemics. The correct answer will come only after we see what happens in the future.

There is this change in viewpoint: Many physicians feel that vaccination can well be postponed until a child is 12 to 18 months old. By that time any allergic reactions, and oculi, vaccinating is safer.

For the healthy child, I still lean toward vaccinating, having in mind the resurgence of measles and rubella, for which vaccine is available, that has become negligent after the first enthusiasm for vaccination has waned. For another, I have been impressed by the number of older folks who had "fakes" with smallpox vaccination despite having been vaccinated years before. The immunity fades with time.

At present I have a preference for vaccinating healthy children and omitting it in children with eczema or allergies. There are the ones who are more likely to be troubled by the vaccine.



Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 66, have high blood pressure, am not overweight but am nervous. I have been told by a few people that the pills I am taking will make me get out of my mind. The medication is a tranquilizer, and I take one to three times a day as needed, but don't always need three.—Mrs. T.A.

You're in a lot more danger of getting out of your mind by listening to those crepe-hanging friends because tranquilizers certainly will not do it.

Your nervousness contributes to your high blood pressure, so those "friends" are doing you no good, and may be doing you some harm by making you more nervous than you are.

Note is Mrs. McG.: Yes, there are medications used for high cholesterol. Clofibrate brings some reduction, varying from patient to patient. A form of thyroid is used in many cases. But it is essential to follow a low-fat, low-calorie diet, too.

Witness Tells Inquest How Club Set Afire

MONTREAL (CP) — Ollen Eccles, held on a coroner's warrant as a material witness in the Sept. 1 fire which killed 37 persons at the Rue Isled Club, said Wednesday in reply to a prosecutor's questions he saw two companions enter the club with a can of gasoline immediately before the fire broke out.

Corfixing himself to one-word answers in questions by Stephen Cuddihy, Crown prosecutor, the 34-year-old Eccles repeated affirmatively when asked if he saw James O'Brien and Marc Boutin run out of the downtown club shortly after entering it with a can of gasoline.

In his only statement that was more than a bare answer to Mr. Cuddihy's questions, Eccles told the coroner's inquest: "Boutin and O'Brien said they'll see how we play it cool."

Asked, whether this meant they intended to set the place on fire, Eccles answered affirmatively. He admitted he did not try to stop the two.

He also gave an affirmative reply when asked whether he and his two companions had earlier had an argument with the doorman who would not let them in to the club because it was crowded.

Eccles said he was drunk the night of the fire.

Questioned on their activities after the argument with the doorman he said that he and his companions returned to his car in a nearby parking lot, drank some beer and emptied a container of water.

When asked whether the three then went to a downtown service station and filled the can with gasoline, Eccles again answered affirmatively.

Eccles also confirmed his father worked at the service station and let them fill the car's gas tank and the can themselves.

Still replying briefly to questions by Mr. Cuddihy, he denied hearing any discussion about setting a fire but said it was the idea of the other two men.

Both O'Brien and Boutin are being sought by police across Canada after coroner's warrants were issued for their arrest.

When asked whether his stayed in the car when they returned to the Rue Isled, Eccles said "yes." He admitted seeing flames inside the club as his companions ran from the building and they all fled in his car.

Further replies by Eccles to the prosecutor's questions established that the three then went to another club for 1½ hours. Eccles said he last saw Boutin and O'Brien at a park near the second club. He then left the others and drove to his home where he was later arrested.

The courtroom was cleared of other witnesses during Eccles' testimony.

When he appeared briefly during the morning session he was told he would be held until the end of the inquest, 44-year-old Robert Livingstone, who lost his daughter in the fire, rushed toward the witness box yelling: "I'll break your jaw. I'll kill you, you bastard."

Eccles was whisked from the courtroom before Mr. Livingstone, whose wife was trying to restrain him, reached the front of the room.

Police quickly overpowered and removed the man.

Pushed Wife to Stop Slaps

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court jury Wednesday found Kitchener lawyer Edward Benjamin Middleton, 35, not guilty of manslaughter in the death of his wife.

Middleton testified that he pushed his wife, Shirley Ann, last June 29 to "stop her slapping me and to get a bit of fil.

Earlier, court had been told that the day after the incident the couple went to work together and it was not until the following night his wife became peace." Her body was found in the living room July 1 by the couple's 11-year-old daughter. An autopsy revealed death was caused by brain hemorrhage.

Earlier, court had been told that the day after the incident the couple went to work together and it was not until the following night his wife became

Universities Paying More Attention To Courses Dealing with This Country

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian universities are placing a steadily increasing emphasis on courses about this country, says the head of a one-man commission set up to investigate the Canadian-content situation.

Prof. Tom Symons, commission head and former president of Trent University in Peterborough, Ont., made the comment in an interview Wednesday.

He said that Canadian content has gone from almost negligible four or five years ago, to marginal as recently as two years ago, to "a quite substantial item in the curriculum" now.

Sponsored by the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada and financed by a $100,000 grant from the Canada Council, the Symons commission is to study, report, and make recommendations on the state of teaching and research relating to Canada in Canadian universities.

Prof. Symons said that taking an inventory of Canadian content is the commission's first task, and good co-operation is being received from the country's 69 universities and affiliated colleges.

"We're probably doing more and better than we realize," said Prof. Symons about Canadian-content programs.

But the increased interest in Canadian studies is not uniform in all the academics, including Robert Page, a history professor at Trent University, who has run a check on the undergraduate courses of 32 universities across the country.

Prof. Page said in an interview that he looked at four culturally sensitive departments—English, history, political science and sociology—and found only six universities with "significant strength" in all these areas. They were McGill, New Brunswick, Carleton, Trent, Toronto and Guelph.

His findings will be presented in a paper to an Edmonton conference Sept. 14-17 of the Committee for an Independent Canada.

His survey found that Trent has the highest percentage of Canadian courses—26 per cent. Carleton offers the largest number of Canadian courses—47.

Prof. Page said he found 16 universities with weakness in Canadian content in one or more departments, but he uncovered "a general nation-wide pattern of sufficient strength in Canadian history and in political science.

He found many universities weak in offering a variety of Canadian literature courses. A low priority was given to French-Canadian literature and the situation in regard to Canadian sociology courses was even worse.

Spokesmen for several universities, however, indicated that Canadian content courses are extremely popular with students.

Ottawa Students Protest Teachers Working to Rule

OTTAWA (CP) — About 400 students at one Ottawa high school stayed away from classes Wednesday to protest a work-to-rule campaign by teachers who are bargaining for a new contract with the Ottawa board of education.

A separate walkout was also staged by about 250 school secretaries, members of Local 1460 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, who are also bargaining for a contract with the board.

A board spokesman termed the secretaries' walkout illegal and said the earliest date they are entitled to strike is Sept. 24.

The students' boycott occurred at Canterbury high school as student representatives from Ottawa secondary schools were scheduled to meet and discuss strategy for a province-wide general students' strike Friday.

Walter Pitman, dean of arts and science at Trent, said the university's first Canadian studies course this fall, called Canada and the Land, is "very much oversubscribed."

Ben Shek, a French teacher at the University of Toronto, said a major reason for increased Canadian content is that students have been getting more say on curriculum committees in recent years.

A spokesman for Glendon College in Toronto says "courses with Canadian content are tremendously popular."

Oshawa Students Drop Walkouts Over Teachers

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — High school students in Ontario County decided Wednesday at a mass rally to hold no more walkouts to protest a work-to-rule campaign county teachers have been conducting since the start of the academic year.

About 700 students from 16 schools attended the rally. A committee with representatives from various schools was organized to run athletic and social activities which have been cancelled so far this year because of the work-to-rule campaign.

Student spokesmen said they thought the walkouts had accomplished nothing. They have been held at each of the 16 schools on a rotating basis to show their concern about the lack of a contract settlement between teachers and the Ontario County board of education.

There are about 2,000 high school students in the county.

Senate Okays SALT Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a U.S.-Soviet five-year agreement to limit nuclear arms, and called in advance for any permanent treaty to provide numerical equality in intercontinental

By a vote of 88 to 2, the Senate Thursday sent the amended resolution of approval to a conference with the House of Representatives which passed it Aug. 18 without the "equality" language.

The agreement, and a companion treaty limiting defensive weapons in the United States and the Soviet Union, was signed by President Nixon in Moscow May 26. The defensive treaty was ratified by the Senate Aug. 3.

The interim agreement on offensive weapons freezes intercontinental ballistic missiles to those deployed or under construction, an estimated 1,618 for the Soviet Union and 1,054 for the United States.

The Soviet submarine force would be limited to 62 with 950 missile launchers; the U.S. underwater fleet would be restricted to 44 submarines and 710 launchers.

Senator Henry Jackson, winner in a month-long battle to write guidelines for subsequent U.S.-Soviet negotiations, said he is not concerned about whether his equality amendment survives the Senate-House conference.

"The vote of the Senate is the crucial thing," Jackson said. "What is involved is a future treaty upon which the Senate alone will act. The Senate has spoken."

The Jackson amendment, adopted 56 to 35, calls upon the president in continuing strategic-arms-limitation talks SALT to seek equality in "levels of intercontinental strategic forces."

Jackson defined intercontinental strategic forces as land-based ballistic missiles and intercontinental-range bombers.

Club Exit Locked

MONTREAL (CP) —A laboratory chemist said at a coroner's inquest Thursday that one of two safety exits in the Blue Bird Club was locked when 37 persons died in a fire Sept. 1.

Jean-Jacques Ravary, of the Quebec Medico-Legal laboratory, said he found the lock still in position when he examined the building to determine the origin of the blaze.

He said the locked door was near the washrooms and halfway down a flight of stairs leading from the second-storey dance hall to the downstairs lounge.

Earlier Thursday, Patrick Eccles, whose son Miles is held on a coroner's warrant in connection with the fire, said he saw Miles and two others that night of the fire when they filled a container with 45 cents worth of gasoline at a service station.

He identified the two others as Boots and O'Brien. Marc (Boots) Bostin, 24, and Jimmy O'Brien, 22, are being sought by police across the country.

Mr. Eccles, who works at the service station, said: "While I talked with my son, Boots poured the gasoline in a white plastic jug . . . and put the container in the car."

"I didn't know what they wanted it for.

"I also told Miles to go home because he was drunk, but he said he was happy and didn't want to go home," Mr. Eccles said.

Renault Seeks Leave to Ignore Safety Rules

ST. BRUNO, Que. (CP) — A provincially-financed automobile assembly plant here will close next month unless the federal government gives it permission to continue production without meeting safety and pollution-control regulations, a company spokesman says.

The Renault cars it assembles do not comply with new federal regulations on safety and pollution control, due to come into effect next month, and the company is looking for a special dispensation.

The plant is operated by SOMA—Societe de Montage Automobile—a wholly-owned subsidiary of the General Investment Corp., a Quebec government agency.

Even if permission is given, the plant has only enough business to stay open until March.

Renault has said that it doesn't want to continue to have its cars assembled here unless the government pays a cash subsidy for each car.

Mr. Deschamps said he will not consider subsidizing operations.

Freighters Spill Oil Off Beaches

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Two freighters collided in the Atlantic, leaving a major oil spill that threatened the North Carolina coast today 10 miles from the pristine beaches of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

One man was missing and believed dead in the engine room of the bulk carrier Republica de Colombia, rammed amidships late Thursday by the American freighter Transhawaii.

Four injured seamen from the Colombian vessel were taken by coast guard helicopters to hospital in North Carolina.

The two ships were welded together by tangled wreckage, and a coast guard spokesman said that if the vessels were separated, the Republica de Colombia would be in imminent danger of sinking.

The Colombian ship was evacuated and her crew taken aboard the Transhawaii.

During the night, the coast guard reported a large oil slick surrounding the two vessels and classified the spill as "major."

Cement Firm Seeks Licence

By MARGARET BAYLOCK and LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporters

PICTON—The court hearing into charges against Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. and Triad Truckways was adjourned today in Picton provincial court.

Judge J. L. Clendenning of Belleville set Oct. 26 and 27 as the date for the hearing of charges brought against the two companies in connection with sand removal operations at Sandbanks Provincial Park.

Meanwhile it was learned the reason Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. has ceased quarrying operations at the Sandbanks is that it lacks a licence under the Pits and Quarries Act.

The act, now effective in Lavell township, requires a licence and a bond up to $100,000 for rehabilitation of the site. The rehabilitation plan must be filed with the government.

Bruce Price, vice-president of the Picton cement plant, says his company has applied for a licence and is now using sand stockpiled at the plant.

He says a fine of up to $5,000 a day is possible under the act for quarrying without a licence.

Toronto secretary, Mrs. Anita Raynor has jointly charged the cement company and the truck company on two counts under the criminal code of interfering with the lawful use and enjoyment of personal and private property and on two counts of emission of sound under the provisions of the Environmental Protection Act.

Five lawyers, representing both the prosecution and the defence asked in court today for an adjournment until Nov. 13 because of difficulty in assembling expert witnesses. They had suggested earlier in a note to Judge Clendenning that proceedings could be transferred to Belleville for his convenience.

But Judge Clendenning ruled out a change to the Belleville court because of the apprehension in Picton over the consequence of the court case.

Because the cement plant employs 250 people in the community the people of Picton are concerned about the outcome of the trial, he indicated.

"Where there is no publicity there is no justice," said the judge.

The company ceased sand hauling July 14 as a flurry of lawsuits descended upon it. It began hauling again Sept. 5 and stopped again the next day. At that time plant manager John Clark told The Intelligencer "we don't need any sand right now." He added that the quarrying shutdown was "within the scope of normal operations".

Any French Canadian Can Succeed - - Marchand

MONTREAL (CP) — Any French Canadian who wants to succeed in Quebec and in Canadian society can do so if he adopts a positive attitude, Jean Marchand, regional economic expansion minister, said Thursday.

He criticized French-speaking Canadians who feel "minority group restrictions." Such a feeling is an ill-founded pessimistic attitude, he said.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prince Edward Island has taken over Newfoundland's unhappy status as Canada's poorest province, personal income per-capita statistics released Thursday show.

High Failure Rate Reducing Paroles

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Fewer paroles are being granted to prisoners because the failure rate is too high, the chairman of the national parole board told the first annual conference of the Provincial Judges Association Thursday.

T. G. Street also denied that the board was interfering with the judiciary's function by granting paroles to prisoners long before their sentences were completed.

He said more than 40,000 persons have been paroled from federal prisons since 1959 and 8,200 of them have returned to prison—a failure rate of 15 per cent.

During the 1950s the number of paroles each year tripled, he said, but last year 1,000 fewer paroles were granted, and so far this year the number is 700 lower than the average several years ago.

"I think that we perhaps reached a plateau, and took a little beyond it," he said. "We may now cut back because we were not prepared to accept a failure rate as high as it was."

Worms Delay Jet Takeoffs

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of slithering worms briefly delayed takeoffs Thursday on the main runway at Cleveland Hopkins International airport when they covered a portion of the 9,000-foot-long strip. Rain waterlogged the grassy area on either side of the runway, forcing the worms to seek dry, higher ground. They crawled on 3,000 feet of concrete at the southwest end of the landing strip and were spotted when a DC-10 jetliner started sidling after touchdown. The airplane came to a stop safely and a mechanical broom was used to whisk the worms off the runway.

IRA Chief Captured

BELFAST (AP) — British troops rammed a hijacked car Thursday night and captured an Irish Republican Army chief who escaped from a prison ship eight months ago.

Jim Bryson, regarded by army officers as the second most-wanted man in Ulster, was grabbed with five other IRA men after an army armored personnel carrier rammed their car in a Catholic district of Belfast.

Meanwhile, terrorists set off a bomb in a car parked outside a hotel in a Roman Catholic district of Belfast, killing a man driving by in another car and injuring 49 persons in the hotel. It was the first fatality from a guerrilla bomb in two weeks.

There was some speculation that the bombing was the work of Protestant guerrillas and not the Roman Catholics of the Irish Republican Army, since the hotel was popular with IRA men and members of the Catholic Civil Rights Association.

Elsewhere, gunmen wounded three British soldiers and an Ulster militiaman. But troops claimed they hit some guerrillas. Belfast also had eight bomb blasts, but no one was hurt in those.

Building's Booming in Belleville

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

What's the biggest single industry in Belleville from the standpoint of the number of persons employed?

Ask anyone associated with the building business and he will tell you that the construction industry is the hands-down winner.

In fact, one estimate is that up to 2,500 persons are directly or indirectly involved in the local construction industry in Belleville and area, either as builders or suppliers.

That is far more than the number employed at Northern Electric," stated Maurice H. Rollins, the Quinte area's leading builder.

Northern Electric is generally considered the city's leading industrial employer.

Speaking for his own company, Mr. Rollins said his firm employs 150 persons directly while another 250 work for him exclusively as employees of sub-contractors.

Another 150 to 200 persons employed by other sub-contractors work for, the trade generally as well as for Rollins construction.

Other building firms such as Charles Lambert and Don Keller have their own construction crews.

The above figures don't include the number of people engaged in commercial or industrial construction generally, nor those employed by contractors, who build sub-division streets and sewers, nor city or utility installers servicing new buildings or housing subdivisions.

Neither does it include the lumber dealers and other building supply firms.

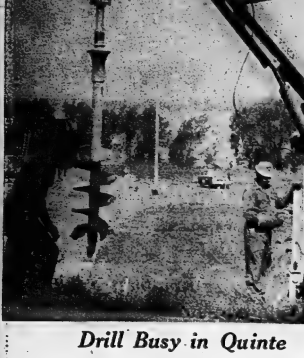
Nor does it include the furniture and appliance dealers or the people who sell the new draperies for windows.

Mr. Rollins suggested that despite the high unemployment figures listed for across Canada, there was no need for building tradesmen in the Belleville area to be idle.

In fact, he said it was almost impossible to hire local bricklayers, plumbers, or electricians.

Again, speaking for his own building operation, Mr. Rollins said he had even found it necessary to bring in workers from Peterborough to work on local jobs.

Mr. Rollins' home building operation extends from Kingston to Cobourg and north to Peterborough. Within that area Belleville - based employees work as far afield as Trenton or Campbellford.



"At one time, most of the labor used on Kingston, Peterborough or Cobourg jobs was Belleville based, but due to the labor shortage, the policy now is to hire local labor for these jobs — where possible."

In the past year — from September 1, 1971 to September of this year, Rollins Construction has completed approximately 600 homes or apartment units in the area covered by his firm. About 50 per cent of this building volume has been in Belleville.

Already since Sept. 1, Mr. Rollins is digging basements and commencing foundations for 100 more living units, considered as part of next year's work.

Records at the city hall building inspector's office show that permits for the construction of 299 single family homes and 448 multiple family units, including apartments, were issued in Belleville in the past 12 months. Permits listed was from Aug. 1, 1971 to Aug. 31, this year.

The residential construction projects planned for the near future include the 114-unit apartment structure announced this week for Palmer Road opposite Loyalist Secondary School, and 162 one-storey senior citizen units proposed by the Ontario Housing Corporation.

Drill Busy in Quinte

It may take years to happen but if construction continues at the present pace the land mass of the Quinte area could resemble one big Swiss cheese with the automatic equipment shown here in operation on the Fredericksburg Rd. in Amelisburg. Holes for installation, some of them eight feet deep, for hydro and telephone are being drilled into the landscape at the rate of over 2,000 a year.

Allen Gets Confidence Vote

TWEED — Council members of this village have full confidence in their Reeve Barbara Allen.

This was shown this week when they declined to accept her resignation, tendered as the result of a "misunderstanding" which could have been considered a conflict of interest.

"Although I have committed no wrong and am in no way involved in any conflict of interest, the misunderstandings that may have arisen make my position as reeve untenable," Mrs. Allen said in her letter of resignation.

But under the circumstances, council members have voted not to accept the resignation and later Mrs. Allen expressed gratification at the unexpected support.

"I am still reeve of Tweed," Mrs. Allen said yesterday.

The suggestion of conflict of interest on the part of the Tweed reeve arose as the result of the sale of a piece of property in which Mrs. Allen had a part interest as shareholder and secretary treasurer of Tweedview Ltd.

Reeve Allen said the transaction between Tweedview Ltd. and Don Woods, took place at her request after other alternatives had been explored and exhausted.

Mrs. Allen said she would dispose of her interests in Tweedview Ltd.

Mr. Woods proposed location of fuel storage tanks at the site at the corner of Highway 37 and the Sulphide Road. The tanks are now located at the corner of River and McGarnon Streets near the site of a proposed senior citizen housing development.

But some Tweed residents are objecting to the proposed new location of the tanks and a petition bearing the names of 52 ratepayers has been forwarded to council.

Council has now requested that the storage tanks not be located at the proposed site.

Sandbanks

Hallowell township was named a designated area under the pits and quarries act on March 1, 1972. The Act's implementation has also prevented quarrying by Picton Power Concrete and by Mc-Farland construction at other sites.

On the day Hallowell was designated, the government appointed Dr. Walter Towell of Toronto to make a report and recommendations on the cement company's operations on its 18 acres leased from the province in the park.

Dr. Towell reported that the amount of sand the company could take from the site when the act became effective would be reduced from about 128,000 tons to 94,000 tons.

He recommended that the company surrender all rights to the lease in exchange for being permitted to remove 128,000 more tons from the site within two years.

He further recommended that the province waive the provisions of the pits and quarries act on site rehabilitation if the company would agree to renegotiate its lease.

Mr. Price said the company could not operate without sand from the Provincial Park site. All equipment at the plant is geared to use of this sand. But James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward-Lennox has said he doubts that employment at the plant is threatened at this time.

Noting that the government and Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. are now negotiating the recommendations of the Towell report, Mr. Taylor said this morning that he hopes neither the company or the government "raises the spectre of mass layoffs."

"Don't start playing with people when you're negotiating", he said. "I hope the company doesn't use workers and their families as a pawn".

The company, he said, "is not going to negotiate itself out of a plant".

"The fact they are negotiating means the company can function without the said; otherwise, why talk?"

Mr. Taylor said he plans to be at Queen's Park Monday when the Environmental Law Association releases its report on the Sandbanks.

Civil Servant's Appeal Upheld

The Federal Court of Appeal, ruling Thursday in the case of a Belleville man, John Robertson, decided that 65 and not 60 is the retirement age for federal public servants.

In a judgment from the bench, Chief Justice W. R. Jackett said that an order-in-council passed by the federal cabinet in 1968 giving deputy ministers the discretion to retire public servants at age 60 was beyond the cabinet's powers.

Under the order-in-council, deputy heads were empowered to retire their employees who passed their 60th birth d a y merely by giving them six month's notice.

Employees who did not receive such notices continued to work until the 65th retirement was compulsory without special permission.

Mr. Robertson, a collection officer in the Belleville customs and excise office, was informed by his deputy minister in January 1971 that he was being retired at 61 under the regulations.

He took the matter to the Public Service Alliance of Canada which said it had no jurisdiction to hear the case.

Using union counsel, Mr. Robertson then filed a statement of claim, to the Federal Court's trial division, seeking reinstatement.

Mr. Justice A. A. Cattanach found in favor of Mr. Robertson, saying the Cabinet acted beyond its powers.

The Government then appealed to the court's appeal division.

Mr. Robertson said he did not know what Justice Jackett's decision would be.

"I'm very pleased he said. "But I really didn't know."

Should the federal treasury board, which is responsible for hiring public servants, accept the court's decision, Mr. Robertson would be entitled to more than one year's back pay — about $10,000 — and his former job.

C. R. D. Munro, Assistant Deputy Attorney General, said Thursday that an appeal against the ruling might be made to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Federal government is Canada's largest employer with more than 400,000 persons in its service. No estimates were available as to the number of people who were illegally retired early by the government.

Mr. Robertson, who lives at 208 Farley Ave., has been working as a temporary clerk at the Unemployment Insurance office since his dismissal.

Full-scale Probe Into Fire, Theft

Every available resource is being used to determine a motive for the robbery and fire at the Mel Barriage Landscaping and Contractors Limited, said city police chief Douglas Crosbie today.

A robbery last weekend was followed by a fire in the washroom facilities of the building which Chief Crosbie will not dismiss as "vandalism" will "will fall damage by youngsters."

"We are treating it as an extremely serious set of occurrences," said the chief.

"There is nothing to indicate that robbery was the motive for the weekend incident," said the chief who was at a loss for words on any possible motive for the acts.

"Anything I can say would be pure conjecture," he said.

"One we establish beyond a shadow of a doubt what the motive is, we will be able to proceed with the investigation," said the chief.

Debris from the blaze was shipped to the Attorney General's Centre of Forensic Sciences to establish what light on the cause of the blaze.

No report has been received.

"We will use the full resources of the department and if necessary will bring in further assistance," said the chief.

Special Education To Be Discussed

"Where are we going in special education?" is the question to be debated by a panel of school board officials next Tuesday night at 8 p.m. at Quinte Secondary School.

Director of Education Eric Runacres, Hastings county board of education chairman Harold Williams, superintendent E. T. Morris and Marmora St. School principal Burle Jampers comprise the panel.

The event is a joint meeting of the Council for Exceptional children and the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities and the public is encouraged to attend.

Justice Rules Tickets Confusing

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

The validity of the uniform traffic ticket in Ontario was thrown into question Thursday following the ruling of an Ontario Supreme Court judge who threw out a charge of careless driving against a Trenton area motorist.

Mr. Justice Maurice Lacourciere ruled that the way in which the information on a ticket was laid against Peter Fry of RR 2, Trenton, was "duplicitous." He reversed a July 11 conviction by Provincial Court Judge T. Y. Wills of careless driving.

Peter D. Ticktin, the Belleville lawyer who launched the appeal, said the ruling could have important repercussions.

"In my opinion, they will have to come up with a new ticket," he said, "I wouldn't use the form for anything."

Mr. Justice Lacourciere upheld Ticktin's argument that the ticket — presently in use by all Ontario police forces on Oct. 1, 1971 — was confusing to the accused when a charge other than speeding has been laid. In his five-page summary, he stated:

M. Caswell of St. George's Anglican Church officiated with interment in St. George's Cemetery.

"The problem is that the ticket information must clearly bring home to the accused the offence with which he is charged: I am of opinion that the accused, on the ticket, is charged with speeding, as well as careless driving.

"For any offence other than speeding the printed portion of the information is duplicitous, as well as confusing, unless the informant, who signs the ticket, crosses out the offending printed portion."

The uniform ticket, used for more than 300 offences under the Highway Traffic Act, states that the accused "did commit the offence of speeding ... or ..."

The officer charging Mr. Fry had written careless driving in the space following "or" on the ticket.

But Judge Lacourciere said that under the Summary Convictions Act, where the information relates to more than one matter of complaint, each offence shall be set out in a separate count.

The judge indicated he was not in favor of clients crossing out portions of the form.

"I am not unmindful that I am dealing with provisions and regulations made under a penal statute which must be strictly construed," he said.

Unless the Crown were to successfully appeal the decision in another section of Supreme Court, Judge Lacourciere's ruling means that almost all traffic tickets issued in the last 30 days could be successfully appealed, said lawyer Ticktin.

Several police forces around the province — including Belleville city police — have gone back to the old method of issuing long, detailed summons for offences other than speeding pending Thursday's decision. The police have 21 days in which to serve the summons before the statute of limitations runs out.

The Supreme Court ruling coincides with a decision by Provincial Court Judge John Clendenning Aug 28 in Belleville involving a similar careless driving case. Ticktin, counsel for Kenneth Bansell of RR 6, Belleville, used the same argument that Judge Wills had earlier overruled.

Approximately 3,000 uniform traffic tickets are issued in Ontario every day. Ticktin said.

The building nearing completion is William R. Kirk School, the Hastings County Board of Education's new facility for retarded children. The single-storey structure is located at the corner of Palmer Rd. and West Bridge St.

Wagner and the PCs

The following is translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Even if Claude Wagner has not officially been given the title of Quebec lieutenant of the Progressive Conservative party, it has quickly become evident that he is much more than a mere candidate and will fill the role unofficially. . .

Mr. Stanfield has said that Mr. Wagner would probably receive many invitations to speak outside Quebec during the campaign for the Oct. 30 election, but he would try to keep Mr. Wagner in Quebec as much as possible. Already the former Liberal cabinet minister is playing a special role. . .

Mr. Wagner is a pragmatic man whose actions and decisions are well calculated. He is also an excessively ambitious man who does not take well to playing second fiddle. He gave us a striking example of this at the last Quebec Liberal party leadership convention where he could not accept defeat, preferring to slam the door behind him.

If he agreed to join the Progressive Conservative party, which incidentally better meets his personal ambitions, it is because he saw in it the chance to attain his goals. . .

Claude Wagner could become a serious candidate to succeed Mr. Stanfield, especially if the old lion of the prairies decides to take him under his protective wing.

Surely Mr. Wagner would not have an easy task trying to make party also harbors another deserter whose ambitions and behavior strangely resemble his own: Paul Hellyer.

Since the beginning of Confederation, the Conservatives have never had a French-speaking leader while the Liberals have their third in Mr. Trudeau. . .

It would not be easy to break this anglophone continuity. Mr. Wagner will be called on to show his mettle during the current campaign. One thing is certain, the challenge does not seem to scare him. — Sylvio Saint-Amant.

Courts Needed

City council's decision to join with the Hastings County school board to provide four double tennis courts adjacent to the Dick Ellis Arena should do much to ease the demand.

Tennis has had a major upsurge in the past few years as a form of participatory recreation, certainly a healthy swing, if one might phrase it in that fashion.

If the school board is able to go ahead with its proposal to build handball courts on the east side of the arena, a project that was envisaged when the arena was built, it will be a further step forward in producing for this city one of the finest concentrations of athletic and recreation facilities in Eastern Ontario.

A pause to see what is available should make Bellevillians pleased with recreational planning. Thanks to the provincial government an excellent swimming pool and an all-weather track are available at Ontario School for the Deaf for limited community use; the school board has gymnasium, cafeteria and swimming facilities at Centennial School; the city has provided the Dick Ellis Rink and upcoming are joint projects, are the tennis courts, and the second phase of the football and soccer fields and the softball and baseball diamonds.

The wisdom of concentrating the facilities in the 52-acre school-recreation site is beginning to pay dividends as well as the second 114-suite apartment building in the neighborhood is now under construction and population density is climbing quickly.

Road Renovations

Bellevillians have for years complained — and rightly so — about the condition of the city streets. This summer they have proved just how stoic they can be.

Road improvements have tested the cool of even the most sanguine of drivers — and it is not over yet. Hooking up the down-the-river sewer to the city trunk line will necessitate disruption of traffic on Dundas street between Pinnacle and Front streets for 50 working days.

But better days are ahead. Once the present work is completed it will do much to soothe the jangled nerves of the tired motorist. So, cheers, it's a matter of grin and bear it — and wait until next year.

Munich Massacre Will Haunt Games for Years

By CT FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The massacre at the Olympic Games in Munich is certain to have far-reaching consequences in widely-separated parts of the world, ranging from Montreal to the Middle East.

At once, the after-effects of a public drama may prove to be long-lasting, although memories of tragic events like the Olympic slaughter tend to be cruelly short. The conditioned served by instantaneous television relay of such disasters, despite the arousal of immediate emotion inspired by developments of this kind, TV audiences often are overwhelmed by subsequent broadcast irrelevancies which quickly blot out memories of whatever might have gone before, no matter how horrendous.

Thus tragedies such as the bloodbaths in Vietnam and Northern Ireland swiftly take on an unreal, half-remembered quality at the hands of the latest rush of televised horrors.

But with the Munich killings, the aftermath is not only a question of electronically-conveyed shock on a mass scale but also one of starkly concrete ramifications, political and otherwise.

In the case of Montreal, scheduled site of the next Olympics, the massacre may at least mean the need for vastly increased security arrangements in 1976.

Moreover, even before the Munich murders, arguments were being put forward in some quarters for a complete cancellation of the Olympics.

For instance, the Communist-supporting Spectator magazine in London said in an editorial Aug. 26:

"So highly organized and manipulated are the Olympic Games now and so set rumour in their character from any thing that can be called sport, that nothing about them is worth preserving and maintaining which conflicts with the need for introducing rationality, reality and decency into the conduct of nations towards one another."

Even if this kind of abolition movement peters out instead of gaining ground after the killings in Munich, the murders will have cast a deep shadow over plans for 1976 in Montreal.

The Canadian city thereby is likely will find itself faced with the challenge not only of providing for security on an increased scale but also of breathing joy back into the badly-secured Olympic tradition.

Elsewhere in the world, on the other hand, the results of the Munich deaths promise to be even more immediate.

There are fears, for instance, that the murderers will provoke Israel into major assaults against Palestine guerrilla bases near its borders.

And the renewed bitterness engendered by the Munich tragedy has again inflamed feelings on the Arab side too.

As a result, the Middle East area is once more dangerously tense, and primed to stir world-wide worry.

In Europe itself, an emergency atmosphere prevails again at key airports. In West Germany, this crisis feeling is compounded by political considerations.

Besides being worried about the impact on the Olympic tragedy on relations with both Israel and the Arabs, the West Germans are assessing its effect on the general elections they are holding later this fall.

The main electoral question now is whether Chancellor Willy Brandt, so conspicuously involved in the ill-fated negotiations with the terrorists at Munich, will suffer politically, instead of gaining from what he had hoped would be a glitteringly-successful Olympic showcase.

More important for the West German people is that the Munich disaster will prove to be a dangerously demoralizing experience for a country still haunted by the ghosts of a catastrophic past.

Britain Cool to Higher Gold Price

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

France is reported to be attempting to persuade her European neighbors to support the idea of a higher official gold price, at least for the purpose of European debt settlements, but Britain, for one, isn't offering much encouragement.

In fact, British authorities are understood to be trying to cool French impatience at the lack of progress in strengthening the world monetary structure, realizing that sharp public outcries at this stage might be interpreted as interference in United States political affairs during the American presidential election campaign.

Some Washington commentators have reported that the Nixon administration would deeply resent economic pressures from Europe at this stage, warning that the crisis of such embarrassment might be U.S. reluctance to support, a the result of major international trade bargaining next year.

Nevertheless, France seems to be determined to test the strength of European co-operation during various European and other international meetings scheduled for the next few months. She has openly called for some form of concerted European action to fight inflation, while privately pushing for progress on more sensitive issues, such as the gold price and more acceptable methods of meeting international payments which in turn touch on the exchange value of the U.S. dollar and its convertibility into gold.

With European partners and their prospective new monetary heavies to hold a summit conference in October, the French position seems to be that such a meeting would be useless unless it is able to discuss and reach conclusions on vital economic issues.

Undoubtedly, President Georges Pompidou will press this point when he meets shortly with German Chancellor Willy Brandt during the Munich Olympics. The question is also likely to arise when in turn Brandt meets with British Prime Minister Heath at the Olympics later.

Brandt is in a delicate political situation. He is likely to be faced with national decisions later this year with a shaky administration, hit by various revaluations, and a need for all the support he can get at home and abroad. Even so, it is unlikely that he would openly support a gold-price campaign at this time, realizing this would infuriate the Nixon administration.

The British view is that adding another tier to the existing two-level gold system would increase payments complexities, even if this additional system is to be European.

Britain would rather see greater emphasis on the use of special drawing rights, the form of additional credit or paper gold administered under the International Monetary Fund. Indeed, she has recently paid off her remaining short-term debt to the fund, she used the drawing rights. Italy has been using U.S. dollars to pay off her currency debts to European partners. France is reported unhappy about the paper gold and strongly opposed to accepting more U.S. dollars and the heavy surpluses hanging over the world.

Two members of the staff of the Ontario Intelligence were honored by their colleagues with the presentation of presbyterian gifts. Brown was a member of the staff for six years.

Twelve boys of the Belleville Wolf Cub brigade who since Aug 28 have been camping at Concession Lake, Prince Edward County, are back in the city after the vacation. Sports Should Be Part Of Our Foreign Policy

By JOHN D. HARRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

If you don't think sports will or should have a permanent place in our foreign policy after Munich, think again.

The best reason is the next venue for the next summer Olympics, Montreal in 1976.

Care to guess what urban terrorist crisis that city might experience during the next four years? After the FLQ crisis in 1970 and the terrorist bombings carried out all through the 1960s, we can't assume all will be placed.

Can you name any other major Western country where a public figure, publicly and unashamedly praised the Arab terrorists for killing Israel's athletes at Munich? There was one Richard Charnizon, the revolutionary trade union boss in Montreal. He recently returned from the Middle East as the guest of the Palestinian National Liberation Front, a branch of which organization carried out the Munich murders.

Montreal is the city which poured millions into Expo 67 and Man and His World, but found only enough money for one public housing program between 1959 and 1969 in the slums which spawned the FLQ and separatists.

Montreal was the seat in 1968 of a so-called hemispheric conference, a continental meeting of Black Panthers, pro-Castro revolutionary groups, FLQers, provided an international network, a kind of United Nations of Terrorists, in a reality. Will it be the Montevideo of North America?

It appears that world alliance of terrorists has already begun. Why did Chartrand really go to the Middle East? A few weeks ago Colonel Qadafi, Libya's fanatically Moslem and oil-rich dictator president public offered funds to Northern Ireland's embattled IRA for guns to hold off the British troops.

Will Ottawa be in the initial stages of negotiating separate nationhood for Quebec by 1976? Will the Parti Quebecois win the next provincial election, inevitably put the province on that route? All within the realm of possibility in the latter half of this decade.

Then there is that dismal, dismal tale of how badly we perform in sports Olympics after Olympics. This time we went home with two silver and two bronze medals, our big Russian neighbors with whom we say we have so much in common, with 33 gold medals and over 80 in all.

Canada? No gold medals and one of the bronze, a third in the equestrian event, our first medal ever in Olympic sailing. Want to hear more? This country hasn't won a gold medal in track and field or swimming since the 1928 Olympics in Amsterdam.

The answer is a sports Local Incentives Program, or Opportunities for Youth subsidy, to use the jargon of the Trudeau government for handouts to Salutists, community development sellers, that is a genuine, almost mandatory commitment by the state in sports, to begin at the financing level.

Or else, why send Canadian athletes to Munich who are clearly below world standards?

In 1976, unless we do something soon, it will mean disaster for us in our own country. What is it we really care about in this affluent, docile nation? Does sport really interest us?

Cablevue Programming Challenged

Editor,

The Intelligencer.

At long last Cablevue has announced a change. Almost all car and electronic manufacturers advertise each year 'more perfect models'. For years we have paid faithfully and waited patiently for updated gear that would improve reception from the cable. Instead, the engineers at the tower must know and report the technical excuses when either channels 6 or 8 on both come in very poorly, to say nothing of the intermittent reception from either 11 or 12. We know that channels 2, 7, 8, 10, and 13 come in moderately well from a simple roof aerial. Decided improvements to the offered outlets there has existed a real desire for an additional TV station or stations. The TV Guide a few weeks ago listed in an advertisement over two dozen cable companies that distributed the program of an Ontario Educational TV Station. Anyone reading the OECA — Channel 19 — offerings can appreciate the hopes of many would people who do not understand why the listed areas stopped just west of Quinte. We also listed in an advertisement from Hamilton. A Toronto cable firm offers one that changed music — a boon when guests arrive. A Montreal firm provides one channel with an instant weather stream, alternating views of a clock, barometer, wind gauge, dial thermometer, and humidity.

There is no scarcity of ideas for improved and additional services especially when the offerings are higher than for most areas.

But Cablevue is about to make a change. Channel 4 from 9 to 11 will no longer come in poorly; it will be blacked out. As compensation and at practically no expenditure, the Quinte area will be given the Ottawa Channel 4 programs. Toronto, but not until the games in Russia are ended and the Argos game on Sept. 16 and 23 on CFTO are over. Desereonto is no hotbed of hockey fans, nor ears can bring in signals from that outlet some 11 or so miles away.

Are we too lenient to the local cable organization? It is hardly necessary to give up CFTO in order to get the second CTV station and no promise of improved reception.

Watchdog Should Abolish Secrecy

Editor and Publisher

Newspapers are sometimes known as the public's watchdog on government, but it appears that sometimes they bark more than they bite and sometimes they don't bark at all.

In northern Illinois press by Northern Illinois University shows that in spite of a state "open meetings" law secret meetings prevail illegally because of the lack of initiative on the part of newspapers. If this situation exists in Illinois, it does also in other states. The Illinois Open Meetings Act provides a memorandum of the press must be given advance notice of public meetings if it makes an annual request for notification of such meetings if it makes an annual request for notification of such meetings. The study revealed that only 39 per cent of the newspapers said they made annual notification requests of all public bodies in their circulation coverage areas. Under the law, since no requests for notification of meetings are made, the public bodies are relieved from the responsibility of notifying the press of meetings and the practice of secrecy continues unchecked. The difficulties confronting a small or medium sized newspaper in trying to staff the numerous meetings of local governmental bodies is understandable. But unless the local watchdog goes through the motions, instead of trying to keep local government "honest" secrecy will prevail. The Illinois study reveals that when newspapers have told their readers about illegal secret meetings of local government the practice was stopped in 42 per cent of the cases. So the job isn't too difficult.

Unemployment fell to an estimated 503,000 in August down from 543,000 in July, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday. The total labor force dropped to 9.27 million from 9.37 million in July. (CP Newsmap)

Stanfield Says 'Chicken Socialism' Trudeau's Answer to Unemployment

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — Robert Stanfield tossed the "chicken socialism" into the Oct. 30 election pot Thursday, saying this is a measure Prime Minister Trudeau has adopted as a counter to the unemployment situation.

In a campaign swing through northwestern Ontario, where his Progressive Conservative candidates ran behind the New Democrats as Liberals swept the scene in 1968, Mr. Stanfield widened his attack on the unemployment statistics under the Liberal regime to include the "chicken socialism" label.

As he described it at a news conference here and a party rally later, it is because Mr. Trudeau, by implying that it isn't necessarily good for someone to work hard rather than being unemployed, has undertaken "sort of a chicken-hearted effort to revise the work ethic."

The Trudeau position means one of two things," Mr. Stanfield said. Either he was trying to impose "some kind of chicken socialism on the country" or he was trying to "get result from this election at the expense of the working people."

The prime minister was giving the impression that those who are able to work aren't making much more contribution to the country than those who aren't working."

He tied his charge to a Statistics Canada report of a few days ago that the income Canadians receive from sources other than directly from work is growing. Such income, including welfare and unemployment insurance benefits as well as pensions, at mid-year was running at 12.5 per cent of total income compared with 11.3 per cent through 1971.

In a short but spirited speech to about 500 supporters jammed into a convention room here he said the cost of unemployment under the Trudeau government—it was 6.1 per cent of the labor force in August—is showing up in higher welfare payments and a faster outflow in unemployment insurance benefits.

The government refused to say just how much would be paid out in unemployment insurance this year, he said, but there "are indications it will be $500 million more than was forecast."

The whole unemployment situation "is disastrous." Mr. Stanfield said, and amounted to "trembling we have to stop" on voting day.

He noted that Mr. Trudeau had been quoted in the press recently on the kind of Canada he dreamed about.

"If I had a record like him, I'd ask the people to dream too.

"But I want Canadians to wake up."

In a bid to have supporters change the party's fortunes in the four Liberal-held ridings from Thunder Bay to the Manitoba border, Mr. Stanfield said: "You've got to work to win, and I'm expecting you to work."

Earlier Thursday he visited Kenora, centre of the Lake of the Woods tourist area near the Ontario-Manitoba border.

He told supporters there that the federal government could do more to encourage tourism, suggesting improved surface and air transportation facilities for sportsmen.

The tourist industry "hasn't been doing as well as it should," he told a crowd of about 150 that turned out for a coffee party.

Better transport facilities would open them up to more Canadians.

Mr. Stanfield called for creation of a national water and pollution standard. This would ensure that some areas did not become havens for pollution industries.

Opening up more tourism areas has to be balanced with a regard to protection of the beautiful areas of the country for future generation, Mr. Stanfield said. Such areas amounted to "a national asset."

The federal government also should create an environment council, a group of citizens who could act as "a national conscience" on handling of matters related to the environment.

Committee for Independent Canada Holds Edmonton Policy Conference

EDMONTON (CP) — The Committee for an Independent Canada, formed more than two years ago to provide a voice for nationalists, began a three-day conference today, devoted to policy development.

Foreign control of Canada's economy, all levels of education, the north and the nation's news media all were scheduled for discussion by 250 delegates from across the country.

The issue of foreign influence, however, was the overriding topic, arising in many other areas of concern: sources of capital, trade union control, corporate development, publishing and broadcasting.

Edwin A. Goodwin, a Toronto lawyer elected chairman of the CIC at its first formal conference in Thunder Bay last year, explained in an interview Thursday what problems the non-partisan committee faces.

"Canadians as a whole aren't screaming from the hilltops, but there's a very deep seated resentment."

This resentment, he said, includes most of the above mentioned fields, and stems mainly from American domination of Canada's resource, entertainment and manufacturing industries.

"We are not, and we're not composed of, people who are anti-U.S., British or Germany," Mr. Goodwin said.

"We recognize the contributions that have been made but the time has come to call Stop!' We have to put the self-interest of Canada first."

A director of five major Canadian companies with widely-varying products and as active Progressive Conservative for many years, the 54 year-old chairman predicted Canada would be "bankrupt" in 10 to 15 years if capital continued to flow out at the rate it has been for the last decade or so.

Between 1963 and 1968, he said, only 9.5 per cent of the "American" money invested in Canada was really from U.S. sources. The rest was from Canadian banks, profits from Canadian subsidiaries and depreciation allowances.

With this in mind, three major policy papers scheduled for discussion at workshops reconvening Canadian majority ownership of all large foreign-controlled subsidiaries in the country within five years, establishment of a screening authority which would block foreign takeovers, elimination of any tax, privileges for resource-based industries and establishment of a commission to supervise foreign-owned companies.

Another paper recommends a substantial tax—33 per cent or more—on Canadian energy resource exports, separate Canadian and American oil economies, development of a national rather than continental energy policy and an end to the export of Canadian water.

Solutions Advanced By Lewis

TORONTO (CP) — David Lewis, national New Democratic Party leader, outlined a series of measures Thursday he said would slow down inflation, alleviate the housing problem, put the unemployed to work and even provide a tax cut for corporations.

Mr. Lewis listed the various steps he said would improve the condition of the average Canadian during a noon-hour public forum before about 70 people in a church.

He said controls on the price of food and land speculation, coupled with a decrease to about six per cent on mortgage interest rates, would go a long way to help the average working man cope with the cost of living.

Mr. Lewis suggested that if the government started a massive program of building homes, urban public transportation systems, waste treatment plants and day care centres, it would "put everyone to work."

In an earlier discussion with Robert Kaplan, Liberal member for Toronto Don Valley in the last Parliament, Mr. Lewis said he could agree with a tax cut to about 40 per cent for corporations so long as the taxes were paid.

"But what I don't agree with is huge corporations making huge profits and getting away without paying the nominal tax rate because of concessions and loopholes in the tax system," he said.

Caouette Gives Security Plan

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette of Quebec City his Social Credit party has a social security program to replace current welfare schemes which would provide at least $1,200 a year to all over the age of 18, whether they work or not.

The Social Credit leader said present welfare plans encourage "laziness, dishonesty and fraud."

Plan Rebates

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Wagner told a Progressive Conservative rally here Thursday the party would introduce $70 million in tax rebates if elected in the Oct. 30 federal election.

System Changed

Turner Says Lewis Beating Dead Horse

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner continued his cocker-attack Thursday on criticism by David Lewis, federal leader of the New Democratic Party, of the "corporate welfare system."

Speaking to a Liberal nomination meeting in the riding of Thunder Bay, Mr. Turner called the system of grants and tax deferments to corporations necessary to protect Canadian jobs.

"Mr. Lewis is really beating a dead horse, because many of the complaints that he now is levelling against the tax system of this country were directed against the tax system as it existed in the 1960s.

"There were shortcomings. The government recognized the shortcomings. Parliament plugged some loopholes and tax reform now is an accomplished fact.

The text of his speech was released before delivery.

In the address, Mr. Turner said: "The maldistribution of hundreds of thousands of existing jobs held by Canadians from coast to coast vitally depend on the existence of the federal measures condemned by Mr. Lewis, many of which are necessary to help Canadian industry compete against foreign companies that enjoy substantial assistance from their own governments.

"More than 25 cents of every dollar received by Canadians comes from foreign trade, he said.

Planning Is Compromise, All Must Give Some Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — Ernest Trudge stands somewhere between fiery citizens' groups and hard-nosed developers and politicians clashing over planning of Canadian cities.

"Planning is a compromise," says Mr. Trudge, national director of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

He says developers, politicians and citizen groups must take an over-all view of the needs of their cities with every one giving some ground.

"CPAC's role is to tell every one to forget their own narrow interests and take this broader view, he said in a recent interview.

"This is a very unpopular role," but will be reflected in the association's annual meeting in Calgary Sept. 17-20.

One of the main events will be a daily planning session for an imaginary western city with conference delegates assuming roles of citizen group representatives, planners, developers, politicians and Indians.

Th aim is to give delegates an idea of the many views and interests that must be considered in building a city of 200,000 from scratch in an oil rich area in the West.

Arrive Sept. 24

OTTAWA (CP) — The first plane load of expelled Ugandan Asians is expected in Montreal on or about Sept. 24 and an immigration department spokesman said Thursday there will not be a limit to the number Canada will accept.

Up to Friday, the emergency Canadian immigration station in Kampala had accepted 181 Asians wanting to come to Canada with the qualification that they pass medical examinations starting today.

Resigns Today

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia announced Thursday he will hand in the resignation of his 20-year-old Social Credit government today and turn the power over to the New Democratic Party.

Gets 5 Years

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Francois Alfred Levesque, 70, was sentenced to five years Thursday on a charge of manslaughter.

Court was told Levesque had a chronic lung ailment and could not be expected to live more than two years.

Levesque originally was charged with non-capital murder in the shooting of Aurel Proux at Serpent River, 110 miles east of here, June 17. He pleaded guilty to the lesser charge last week and was remanded for a medical examination.

Back Union

TORONTO (CP) — The 530 strikers at Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Ltd., at a final meeting of their union local Thursday, accepted the fact that the plant was closing.

And even though their jobs are gone, the strikers gave their negotiators and the international union, the United Auto Workers, a standing vote of confidence.

Fund to Keep Orphans Together Not Doing Well

MONTREAL (CP) — A trust fund for four children orphaned by a fire at the Blue Bird Club two weeks ago has not lived up to expectations, one of its organizers said Thursday.

Ross Murray, director of the suburban Verdun Equal Rights Movement, an organization founded to help welfare residents, said in an interview.

"People don't seem to know where to send their donations, so we haven't received as much as we had hoped for."

Betty Bowles, 16, oldest of the four, said after her parents' funeral that she would fight attempts to separate the children and place them in foster homes. Her parents died in a blaze that killed 37 persons.

She, her brother Kenneth 14, and sisters Ivy, 11, and Linda, 7, are living with their grandmother until a larger home can be found.

"We were hoping to raise enough money to get them off welfare, and keep them together, for at least a year," said Mr. Murray.

Firm Charged

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police said, Thursday Gray Coach Lines Ltd. has been charged with operating an unsafe vehicle in connection with a bus accident last month in which 34 passengers and a driver were injured.

Police said a summons was served Wednesday on a company official and the case is to come in traffic court at nearby Aurora Oct. 4.

Teacher Fined

PEMBROKE (CP) — A high school teacher from Oakfield, Ont., convicted two months ago of assault, causing bodily harm to a 13-year-old Renfrew area girl, was fined $300 or one year in jail in court here Wednesday.

Thomas Charles Rymer, 32, was ordered to report to a probation officer once a month and must undergo periodic psychiatric treatment for three years.

The girl was struck on the head with a blunt instrument July 12 by a man who stopped his car to ask directions. The man dragged the girl towards nearby woods but an oncoming car frightened him. He released the girl and ran to his car.

Saltfleet is near St. Catharines.

Duke Fined

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Oakville businessman George Clinton Duke lost a 17-month court battle Thursday when he was convicted of driving with more than .08 per cent alcohol in his blood.

Provincial Court Judge William Sharpe fined Duke $200 and suspended his driver's licence for three months.

Duke was charged in March, 1971, after a sample of his breath was found to contain .18 per cent alcohol.

In August, 1971, Duke obtained a court order prohibiting trial on the grounds he had been refused a sample of his breath for his own analysis.

The Crown appealed the order and won.

Duke's lawyer, Harvey Dalton of Toronto, then appealed the decision to the Supreme Court of Canada but it was upheld. The Supreme Court ruled that the rejection of the act allowing a person to analyze a sample of his own breath had not yet been proclaimed as law because a Solicitor had not been develope.l.

$300 a Month

TORONTO (CP) — A 21-year-old Windsor, Ont., man has been awarded $300 a month for injuries which will confine him to a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

The Criminal Injuries Compensation Board made the award Thursday to Robert Monforton, whose neck was broken and spinal cord severed in an attack in Windsor March 3 last year.

Given Life

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Robert Thomas Nightingale, 22, of Dorchester, Ont., was given mandatory life sentence Thursday after being convicted of non-capital murder in the slaying of Clifford Harvey Bell, 44, of London.

Nightingale had pleaded not guilty.

Bell's body was found April 4 in the trunk of a rented car in a driveway near a students' residence. He had been shot in the head.

Oppose Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The Consumers' Association of Canada Thursday attacked a proposed plan to regulate egg production, a move it said will drive up egg prices.

Verdict Later

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal reserved judgment Thursday on an appeal by businessman John Stratton, who is seeking to dislodge Premier Robert Bourassa's Liberal government.

The case involves a March, 1971, incident when the aldermen's wife sold two houses for $195,000 and took back mortgages for $125,000. She had paid $31,150 for the properties.

Ald. Grys sat as a member of the city's planning board and as a chairman of council's building and development committee during approval of zoning changes involving the houses. He voted for the rezoning and disclosed no direct or indirect conflict of interest in the matter.

Annoyed at GM

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Angry auto workers in this city urged officials of the United Auto Workers union Thursday to recommend strike action against General Motors of Canada Ltd.

Spokesmen for the workers said the strike should be called in an attempt to block General Motors' intention of integrating the company's sickness and accident benefit program with unemployment insurance.

Workers claim the move would save the company millions of dollars at the expense of the taxpayer, cut up workers' unemployment insurance credits and be a "flagrant violation" of the collective agreement between the company and union.

Teachers Stay

TORONTO (CP) — The dismissal of 11 teachers has been temporarily retracted by George Brown College, but they and others may still be dismissed at the end of the month.

C. C. Lloyd, college president, said in an interview Thursday he will present the board of governors with a balanced budget shortly, but to do so more than the original 11 teachers will have to go.

Plan Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Thursday he has agreed to a federal-provincial conference on proposed amendments to the National Housing Act.

The meeting could be held early next year, Mr. Basford said in letters to provincial ministers in charge of housing.

It's the time for a change of pace. It's the time of new moods, new modes. It's that gloriously crisp, brisk season. There's a reflection of that quickened tempo . . . in all the new fashions for the family, for the home. Everything is fresh and exciting . . . from the classic fashions to the casual. It's time to go lively into Fall!

Church Groups

ST. ANDREWS PRESBYTERIAN WMS

The regular September meeting of the Women's Missionary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was held in the church parlors.

Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. W. N. Clendenan, Mrs. A. Bell presided and welcomed all back after the summer recess.

The topic of study was "Malawi" East Africa, which concluded the study on Africa. The presentation was given in the form of an interview with Rev. Mrs. Brian Crosby the first Canadian Presbyterian to serve in Malawi.

Mr. and Mrs. Crosby first went to East Africa in 1958 under a co-operative ministry for a two-year period. At present they are home in Canada on a brief furlough but expect to return to Malawi before the end of this year. The Crosby's particular assignment was working with youth in Likubula House, a youth centre, beautifully situated on a 27-acre mountain slope. Here young people receive training in school teachers and teachers in Christian work.

Malawi compares in size to southern Ontario with a population of 4,000,000. The official language is English. The natives for the most part engage in farming, while the Asians are the traders and industrialists.

In urban centres the African Presbyterian Church continues to grow and many are added to its roll, but in rural areas the progress is slow and disheartening. The pastor and school teacher are the only educated in the community.

The worship service was led by Mrs. P. Boody and Mrs. H. Dredger. A Mission weekend is planned for Oct. 15 when Rev. and Mrs. Desmond Howard will be guest speakers.

Suitable used clothing was suggested for Evangel Hall, Toronto and Scott Mission.

Miss F. Matthews asked members to remember the Council meeting and those responsible for planning, which meets the last week in September at Ewart College, Toronto.

Mrs. Kane reported calls made to the hospital as well as home calls to sick and shut-ins.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Is the human dynamo usually happy?

9-26

YES, but only, as a rule, if it is his interest in a particular activity that has earned him the reputation of being a human dynamo. On the other hand, if such a person keeps going endlessly only to impress someone, he is apt to think that the human dynamo title is beginning to pall. He starts to think that everyone expects him to continue his tireless pace without realizing the effort it cost him to build up his reputation.

Should a wife apologize first?

YES, unless her husband can get in the first words of apology about a fight. It is not a question of "ladies first," either. It should be a gentleman's privilege, with both husband and wife trying to live up to the meaning of their love. If they did that, if each of them just treated the other as the other, their early running dispute would be over who makes the first move to patch things up after a marital scrap, maker or breaker.

Can education ruin common sense?

NO; the educated person has been trained to use his natural talents and reasoning abilities in conjunction with the knowledge he has acquired. Of course, he doesn't necessarily have to spend years and years in school either, to be considered well educated. Indeed some so-called well-educated students are not truly educated because they make the mistaken idea that what they learned in school is a substitute for common sense.

Senior Citizens Stop Briefly

MARMORA — A number of senior citizens from Cleveland Ohio, made a brief stop in Marmora last Tuesday and were welcomed by a Marmora citizen on behalf of the village.

Most of the group were making their first trip to Canada and expressed their delight in the beautiful country in halting English as many of them came originally from Yugoslavia.

The tour left Cleveland at 7 a.m. on Aug. 25 paid a brief visit to the Toronto C.N.E. and were on their way to Ottawa and Montreal when they stopped at the Dairy Freeze in Marmora for refreshments.

The citizen who welcomed these people and who prefers to remain anonymous, promised to send a copy of a local paper to the Travel Bureau.

Successful Living
Amount Should Not Be Read

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Lately I attended a money shower for my girl friend, who will be living in England. The envelopes were opened by the mother of the bride-to-be and the giver's name with the amount of money enclosed was given out.

This to me was a personal gift and could have been embarrassing to the parties involved. The reason given was that the money had to be changed anyway into British currency.

I would still like to know if I am right or wrong. — Shower Guest

Dear Guest: What has the British currency angle got to do with it? For my money, it wouldn't count as amount and name read out.

If the shower were made up of an assortment of gifts, it would be considered a faux pas to leave a price tag on or tell the bride-to-be how much you paid for something. We don't put a price tag on our regard for people; and sometimes the most thoughtful gift is the one which costs the least.

When the whole shower consists of money contributions, with statements made about how much each one gives, it becomes too commercial for words. Far better for a collection to be made and a much wanted article purchased, wrapped and presented.

If, because of shipment difficulties, the bride-to-be preferred it, money could have been given in a single cheque with a greeting card containing signatures of all contributing.

Dear Doris: I operate a small farm and live in town in order to look after my 80-year-old mother. I also have a 35-year-old brother living with us. When I asked him is move he pointed to a knife and said he would stay as long as he liked; that before he left he would shoot me.

My mother gets very upset over his behavior. Though I am just 40 I am not as strong as he is. I went to the police. They said they can't help but got no help. — Just Tommy.

Dear Tommy: Even to threaten anybody is a criminal offence — and you have been threatened more than once. How could police, lawyer and doctor not have made this clear to you?

There's no reason in this world to put up with a 35-year-old brother who refuses to pay his way, upsets his mother and threatens you in your own home. Off with you to the police station and find your brother be removed. Be firm, about it.

It's either that or a couple of nervous breakdowns for you and your mother before much longer.

Dear Doris: I know what hickies are. But how do they actually form? Why does a guy give a girl a hickey? — Just Sixteen.

Dear Sixteen: If you were to apply your mouth to your own arm and suck for a few seconds, you would probably form a hickey, which is a little round red mark. What you have done is pull some of the tiny blood vessels to the surface until several little blood spots form the red mark.

A boy should have better manners than to do this to any girl. He is probably trying to show that he "owns" the girl and that he can put his "brand" on her — that is, they brand cattle.

When there is mutual respect and some dignity this sort of thing does not happen.

'Christian Development' Theme at UCW School

"The first characteristic of christian development is to be concerned about the present, as Jesus was when He went about doing good. What we are, What the world is now, is important, not just preparing for the future." So said Dr. Harriet Christie, as she spoke on the theme, "Christian Development" to the School for women of the United Church held at Quinte-Mo-Lac Sept. 8 - 16.

Dr. Christie, who is deputy secretary of the Division of Mission, listed four other characteristics which are also basic: To be freed by the truth, free to be and to find depths of joy, compassion and creativity. Caring — a special kind, having a more sensitive conscience. Struggle — allow ourselves to struggle, to doubt, even despair and find what God is saying in His world. Celebration — we are involved in a life which comes from God so celebrate with our whole being'.

On Friday night Dean Evelyn Redpath and leadership development chairman Mrs. C. R. Thomas welcomed about 220 enthusiastic campers from the Quinte Conference and launched the school with the introduction of the theme. On Saturday morning Dr. Christie introduced the adult study theme, "Jesus of Nazareth, The Galilean Ministry". This is an exploratory work into the teachings of Jesus as given in the synoptic gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke.

Each of the seven presbyterials in the conference presented one facet of the theme "Our church at work". Linda say dramatized a marriage counselling session and asked the question, "Is the church meeting its obligations in strengthening marriage?" Scarlsbourg wondered how the church could help the Indian with his greatest problem — the white man. What can it do to help overcome racial prejudice and legal inequalities, and at the same time help preserve Indian culture.

Both Belleville and Renfrew explored the church's role with youth, from Sunday morning nurseries to what is needed to make young people feel at home in church. Belleville felt the problem was finding interested and dedicated leaders for various groups.

Renfrew presented a "Hot Line' show where Tina, a lively and creative teen-aged church member attempted to answer questions frequently asked by young organizations. The church needs youth and youth needs God Kingston used posters and displays as visual aids to demonstrate the need for concern for both mentally and physically handicapped. They ended with the prayer "Help us to be aware".

Many ideas were presented by Peterborough for creative leisure, considering the increased leisure time many people will have. Oshawa's presentation was on creative retirement with the key word being "preparation". Many interests were given from hobbies to health, in government and social services available.

In the evening after a presbyterial presented a skit around the camp fire. Mrs. Hilda Toll contributed the joy of the campers by her leadership in music. Mrs. G. Gale got some information on literature and the new materials for sale. At the close Sunday the campers broke into groups for Bible study or to discuss the presentations.

On Sunday morning a morning communion service was conducted at breakfast by Dr. Christie. Bible study by Rev. V. Zufelt and worship by Mrs. Toll and a team from the Toronto conference brought the program to a close.

Ann Landers
Hair Transplants Not Always Successful

Dear Ann Landers: I've heard a lot about bald-headed men who are going in for transplants and some of them are not happy about the results. The gentleman I am writing is bald as a goose without hair and I don't mind his baldness in the least. He seems to have the idea that if he had a full head of hair he would look younger. (He is 11 years my senior which bothers him, but not me.)

Will you please tell me whether hair transplants work out well and if they are worth the time and money and pain? I hear there is a good deal of all three involved in the procedure. Thank you—West Coaster

Dear West: Some men have had excellent results with the transplanting of hair, others have been disappointed—and still others will tell you they deeply regret having tried it.

Because transplanting is an office procedure any physician who wants to attempt it can do it.

This means there is a good deal of experimenting going on, and some of the experiments are dismal failures.

Not all transplanted hair plugs grow. If too many plugs fail, one sees empty spaces. They cannot be covered up and the head is an unsightly mess. If the doctor lacks surgical skills and tries for an extreme effort he might produce a hairline that is unreal in appearance or even grotesque.

My advice to anyone who is interested in this: Talk with someone who has had a successful transplant. Learn the name of his doctor. Make an appointment for a consultation. (Not all men are good candidates). If you decide to do it, lots of luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, age 60, and my sister died two years ago. Her four children are now 13, 14, 15 and 16. Her husband had a woman friend on the side for many years. Everyone knew about it, but it wasn't even public. A month before my sister died I moved into their home and took care of her and the children. Her husband came and went like a boarder.

Now the oldest son is getting married and I thought for sure I would take the place of his mother in the ceremony. I was informed that I will be seated with the rest of the guests and my brother-in-law's "whatdaycallit" will be seated in the mother's place.

The bride's family is planning a big reception and a church wedding with all the trimmings. Should I say nothing and let the barbet take over? — Just Sick About It

Dear J.S.A.I.: Go as a guest and say nothing. The parents of the bride undoubtedly discussed the plans with the groom and his father and they made the decision

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young woman, 22, and I work in a large office. There are seven men in the place but I'm one that interests me. So—I eat lunch and go shopping with the girls, who are nice.

The problem: A woman about 10 years older than I) has been friendly, in fact, too friendly. I suspect she may be a lesbian. She has no masculine traits but she behaves toward me as if she were a fella. I'd hate to do her an injustice but she makes me uncomfortable. What should I do?—????

Dear ????: Why spend time with anyone who makes you uncomfortable—for any reason if you are uneasy in this woman's presence, cool it.

Parents Win School

SCOTLAND, Ont. (CP) — Three hundred and fifth protesting parents have won their battle to have a new public school constructed in this village of 600, 15 miles south of Brantford.

Brant County board of education voted to construct a new school, rather than ban students to Brantford, after receiving a petition from the parents.

The board planned to abandon the existing school in Scotland because it would not have been economically feasible, to renovate it. The board also considered an addition to St. Anthony Daniel separate school.

A board official said Thursday there were too many problems involved in the alternate plans and that the best solution was to construct a new school.

Polymer To Aid Atomic Program

OTTAWA (CP) — Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. and Polymer Corp. Ltd. have agreed in collaborate on the development of advanced processes for the production of heavy water, the energy department announced Thursday.

Polymer Corp. will build and operate experimental facilities at Sarnia, Ont. If progress is favorable, expenditures of up to $2 million a year on the project are expected.

Research on heavy water production has been carried out at the Chalk River, Ont., nuclear laboratories for several years.

Heavy water is used in the Canadian nuclear power system and permits lower costs by efficient use of natural uranium fuel.

Canada has heavy water plants at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., Douglas Point, Ont., and Glace Bay, N.S.

Both AECL and Polymer are Crown corporations.

Professor To Review Claims

TORONTO (CP) — Prof. T. C. Graham, former director of the University of Toronto's school of business, was appointed Thursday to review the research material of both parties in the contract dispute between Ontario Hydro and Local 1788, Canadian Union of Public Employees.

William Dickie, assistant deputy minister of labor, made the appointment in an attempt to break the deadlock on at least one of the key issues standing in the way of settlement of a strike that is nearing into its 16th week.

Prof. Graham will serve as chairman of a subcommittee drawn from the negotiating teams of Hydro and the union that will review the research material of both sides concerning the stand each has taken on wages in the dispute.

Seven Years Given Seller Of Heroin

TORONTO (CP) — Tullio Manza, 36, of Toronto was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary Thursday following a conviction for selling 58 capsules of heroin to an undercover RCMP officer.

Judge William Lyon, in handing down sentence, said Manza was involved in selling heroin for profit and supplying hundreds of capsules to someone who in effect would be a "street man."

The judge said this indicated Manza was not at the bottom of the scale in the drug trade.

"I think the sale of heroin is heinous offence," Judge Lyon told Manza. "People turn to crime to get money to buy heroin and determine to others is the primary consideration."

De Havilland Strike Settled

Spokesman for Local 112, United Auto Workers, which represents the 900 strikers, said a ratification vote is scheduled Sunday.

Band Likes It Here

TORONTO (CP) — King Biscuit Boy moved his beer mug to one side, placed both elbows on a table in the smoke-filled, bar and said: "Man, we have to get some hit records."

He pushed his steel-rimmed glasses over the bridge of his nose and said: "To reach a larger audience you have to get on the charts."

To that end, King Biscuit Boy said he is going to be writing more material for his band of the same name and attempt to release a single by next spring.

Until then, the 34-year-old whose real name is Richard Newell, will be taking his five-man group from coast to coast, playing the bars and concert halls, building on what he calls "our following."

The Hamilton-based blues and rock band has played across Canada and is a member of United States cities since it was formed a year ago.

In September they head east for a 16-day tour of cities including Moncton and Saint John, N.B., and Halifax.

When they get back, there will be a short rest and a two-week western tour with stops in Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

"It's great in Canada, man," said frizzle-haired Earl Johnson, the 21-year-old guitar player. "Every time you play, you get paid."

It's something that doesn't always happen south of the border.

"We gave up in the States, man, basically," said Earl. "We didn't have a good agency, man, and we got ripped off on seven or eight jobs."

"We like playing in the States," said King Biscuit Boy, "but we never got paid for 50 per cent of the jobs we did.

"Florida is bad, man. We lost a couple of thousand in three or four jobs."

"We're making really good money in Canada, now," said Earl. "You can really make good money in the bars."

"And we always sound better in clubs," said King Biscuit Boy. "The acoustics are better than concert halls, and you don't have to play so loud."

"And the drunker you get, the better we sound," said Earl, barely smiling.

"That's a hot one," said Kim Fraser, 28-year-old bass player.

Then they gathered up drummer John (Bubba) Myles, 27, and 28-year-old pianist Garnet Zimmerman, walked past the maze of tables and clambered onto the stage.

King Biscuit Boy clasped his harmonica in each hands, glanced around at the rest of the band, and with a shout sent the blues-laden tone into action.

King Biscuit Boy's raspy voice boomed out and the tiny dance floor became crowded.

The band that's looking for a hit was making one.

John White:

Service Industries Key to Prosperity

TORONTO (Special) — An advertising campaign could be the key to economic prosperity in eastern Ontario says John White, provincial minister of industry and tourism.

In an interview with the Toronto bureau of The Intelligencer Mr. White said he is not convinced that dealing out money to manufacturers is the only way to cure the problem.

"Giving these grants of money to prospective employers has improved conditions to some extent. But I'm not personally satisfied that there isn't a better way to do it," said Mr. White.

Since its creation six years ago, the Ontario Development Corporation has directed $23 million to eastern Ontario, mostly through performance and term loans. Most of this money was intended to increase employment in the area.

Still, eastern Ontario remains the province's biggest unemployment problem. About five per cent of the province's work force is without jobs. But the number in the eastern sector climbs to between 10 and 20 per cent.

The Cornwall area is among the hardest hit by unemployment. Latest figures show 17 per cent out of work in the city and 11 per cent in the surrounding area. Its average wage, like most other centres in eastern Ontario, is about 10 per cent below the provincial average.

"Eastern Ontario has great advantages for both tourism and service industries," said Mr. White.

The area is within close reach of the industrial and tourist centred in Toronto, Montreal and upper New York State, which is much to Mr. White's ministry is planning methods of attracting both industries and tourists.

The government's conception of service industry classifies everything from the hairdresser to the motel keepers, restaurant owners, and others, including the people who furnish the rooms and raise the beef for market and events.

HON. JOHN WHITE

al consumption. These are examples of the distinction between many industries and the tourist business which is why the two governmental departments were merged in Premier William Davis' cabinet realignment last April.

"We've put together a very ambitious program to recognize for Ontario the historic percentage of the tourist dollar which the province has enjoyed," said Mr. White.

The government's last in a series of five economic studies on regions of southern Ontario will deal with the eastern part of the province. It is scheduled to be released next month and will probably echo Mr. White's suggestion that historic attractions be developed to the utmost.

Rural, rustic retreats like Upper Canada Village are encouraged by the government to contrast with man-made complexes such as Ontario Place and Ontario Science Centre, both in Toronto.

"For a variety of reasons, we have been prepossessed with the secondary sector of industry. We were closing our eyes to the service sector where new employment is taking place," said Mr. White.

New emphasis on service industries has affected the Ontario Development Corporation. Its size is to be increased soon from nine to 13 members with more than half being new newly appointed. Several will come from the eastern Ontario area.

"It will make for a larger, more heterogenous representation," said Mr. White. "There will also be a strong service sector."

ODC officials now have the authority to approve DI s and s up to $10,000 in size. This eliminates the considerably number of applications and submissions which were previously required.

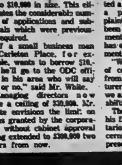
"If a small business man in Carleton Place, for example, wants to borrow $10,000 he'll go to the ODC office in his area who will say yes or no," said Mr. White.

Managing directors now have a ceiling of $30,000. Mr. White envisions the limit on loans granted by the corporation without cabinet approval being extended to $300,000 two years from now.

The minister added, "Both before and after a plant locates somewhere, the allegation is made that the loan induced them to settle there."

In the case of Lee Shoes, a clothing manufacturer granted a government loan to build a plant in Cornwall,complaints from competitors have been directed to the government. One Toronto clothier has organized a protest movement to block the loan.

"We recognize the validity of complaints coming to us from some Toronto manufacturers," said Mr. White, "but we are trying to guard against shifting employment."



The creation of new jobs is his first concern. Eastern Ontario is the area that concerns him the most at the present time.

Barn Saved

TRENTON (Staff) — Local firemen managed to save the main barn on the Wilbur Post-town property at RR4, Trenton in Murray township, when they were called to a fire that had consumed two sheds near the larger building in the noon hour on Wednesday.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis reported it was necessary to call in a tank truck from the Brighton Fire Department as a back up water supply.

Yesterday, faulty electrical wiring resulted in firemen racing to John Young's home at 30 Baptist St., and confining an accident to a small hole in the back kitchen of the residence.

Roger Cooke: Exotic Fare

New Store Caters To Picky Palates

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Got a yen for chocolate covered ants or grasshoppers or French fried baby bees?

If the shop in Belleville will soon open to accommodate your tastes. Called Cooke's Gourmet World, it is owned by Roger Cooke, whose taste buds will closely resemble that of the nationally known Cooke's store in Toronto.

Mr. Cooke, son of the owner of Cooke's Restaurant, decided to branch out with a business of his own after gaining experience in his father and grandfather.

"I've had a taste of staying in the family business or going out on my own", he says. Mr. Cooke's decision was one of building something of my own and not sitting back and amassing things."

Belleville is more up and coming than other areas, in Mr. Cooke's opinion and didn't have a shop of the caliber he plans.

A major factor in my craving here is the great friendliness of the people of Belleville, adds.

Cooke's Gourmet World is located on Front St., in the premises formerly occupied by Dorothy Clarke's Station-ery.

Mr. Cooke expects to open for business Saturday but it will be two weeks to a month before his full line of stock is in place.

He will offer the same personal service that his father and grandfather provided generations of Kingstonians, and will cater to wine and cheese parties, make up fancy fruit and delicacy baskets and run a delivery service.

His store will feature an amateur wine maker's department, a basket section and 100 varieties of cheese.

A specialty will be two-year-old cheddar cheese, virtually the same product as that offered in the Kingston store. The cheese comes from factories within a 30 mile radius of Belleville and is naturally aged for two years.

"Raw milk cheese is the secret," he explains. Cooke's Gourmet World will carry a full range of food, candy, teas and coffees from almost every country in the world.

Cooke's in Kingston, on which the new Belleville business is modelled, has been in operation in its Brock St. location for 18 years.

It originally catered to officers of the British garrisons, who had developed exotic tastes during their years of service in the outposts of Empire.

Hugh Cooke, who had begun as a stock boy in the store, bought it in the early 1920s and the family has built Cooke's into a gourmet shop known across Canada.

His own shop in Belleville, says Roger Cooke, will be "a greeting place for many things". He will instal a full delicatessen department layer and has visions of a chain of Cooke's Gourmet World eventually.

He is married, with a son and daughter, and Mrs. Cooke works for a Belleville lawyer.

Car Wrecked Driver Unhurt

TWEED (Special) — A Corbyville area man was uninjured yesterday although his car was twisted into the shape of a pretzel after it left the control on Highway 62 just south of the Ridge Road and took out 50 feet of steel barriers and guideposts.

Joseph Archibald Wickens, RR1, Corbyville, was northbound on the highway about 2:07 Sept. 13 when the accident occurred. He was alone in his car, which sustained $700 damage.

Rain Robs BUC

Heavy rainfall is costing the Belleville Utilities Commission money.

The commission lost an estimated $22,000 in revenue during June, July and August, the result of a decline in output of 91.34 million gallons of water from the same period last year. Rainfall, meanwhile, was up from 3.87 inches in 1971 to 3.86 inches this summer.

The result was fewer people drinking water, less lawn sprinkling and a decline in the number of fires. BUC manager Neil Britton told a commission meeting Tuesday.

Total distribution over the three-month period was 694.5 million gallons of water.

Safety Conscious Bosses

J. W. "Bud" Stewart, left, manager of Provincial Lewyt in Picton, and John Clarke, manager of Lake Ontario Cement Ltd., after presentation at his plant. Clarke was on hand to accept IAPA presentation on behalf of LOC for 500,000 accident free manhours.

Picton Plant Shows Way

The three keys to industrial safety are co-ordination, communication and co-operation.

That advice comes from J. W. "Bud" Stewart, plant manager of Proctor-Lewyt Division, of SCM, the Picton company that last year had the second best record of accident reduction in Ontario.

Speaking to a senior management meeting of the Belleville - Trenton section of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association at the Faurest Seasons Hotel Wednesday, Stewart described the system that has led to 18 months of accident-free performance.

He took over the Picton operation in February 1970 and found himself in trouble.

"I had been plant manager for about 60 days when a worker broke his arm in three places. About three or four weeks later, a teenager involved in an accident had two fingers amputated. When I visited him in hospital, I saw the skin and bones. That was a lesson to me."

Stewart's solution was to call on the IAPA for advice, a difficult assignment since the 147,000 square foot factory employs 218 persons and makes considerable use of heavy machinery.

Several programs were implemented immediately. A safety and welfare committee with rotating leaders was established, safety regulations were set down for foremen and employees, and authority was given to dismiss potentially hazardous machinery at a moment's notice.

But more importantly, Stewart made safety a perpetual concern. He now issues silver dollars every six months to safe workers, has a monthly draw for a pair of safety shoes and shows motivational films on proper conduct around the plant.

"These programs aren't expensive to the company and they save money in the long run," he told the managers.

With 200 ton presses a fact of life for the appliance manufacturer, Proctor-Lewyt recently received a detailed safety program from its New York head office.

"But we were already one years ahead of them," said Stewart.

In fact, the United States has a $27.5 million in-plant safety program under way, although Stewart feels Canada still leads the way.

Dog-lover Protests Dogcatcher's Methods

CANNIFTON (Staff) — A Thurlow dog-lover mustered bulldog spirit yesterday to bring her case to the township dogcatcher to the attention of Thurlow township council.

Mrs. R. J. Bromley, an owner of three dogs, charged that dogcatcher Clifford Cassidy had used his position for personal grievance. Cassidy had visited the family residence on Elmwood Drive to check dog licences.

Bypass Vote Issue

TWEED (Staff) — Ratepayers of this village will be given the opportunity at a municipal election in December of saying whether they would be in favor of Highway 37 bypassing the municipality.

Village council this week voted for the bypass question to be put on the ballot and a referendum be held in conjunction with the 1972 municipal election.

"It's been a political football for years," stated Reeve Barbara Allen. "One faction wants the bypass and the other doesn't."

Increasing traffic on Highway 37 is a matter of concern for many residents but it is felt the economic effect that a bypass might have on stores, restaurants, service stations and other businesses must be given consideration.

Reeve Allen said there has been no approach by the Ontario ministry of transportation and communications to construct the bypass but noted a possible route was surveyed at the time the highway south of Tweed was rebuilt and communities such as Cannifton - Corbyville, Plainfield and Roslin were bypassed.

Council members felt that a referendum was the best way of giving the public an opportunity to express their opinions on the matter.

and vocal advocate of the Ontario Humane Society, has been instrumental in bringing about an investigation of treatment of impounded animals in Thurlow that resulted in a shakeup in current practices.

The dogcatcher's wife woman has lived in Thurlow only since the summer and insists she does not have dog bugs because Cassidy had told her she should wait until January 1972. Yesterday township councillors had said their three dogs required tags and she bought them minutes after.

She said Cassidy came down "as an official . . . and threatened me. The next time he comes to my property I will call the police."

Cassidy had followed the practice of using his barn as a pound for stray dogs but an investigation by authorities determined it was unsuited for animals.

Although council approved securing a new pound-keeper Wednesday, one councillor expressed the personal view his dogs were better off where they were.

Said Don McKeown, "the dogs had a lot better place in that barn than they will have at Tucker's kennels . . . they had freedom there."

After Mrs. Bromley made her presentation to council yesterday, councillors hired Don Tucker of Stirling as the new poundkeeper. Cassidy will remain as dogcatcher until the end of the year but he has told councillors he doesn't want the job after that.

Tucker maintains a pound for several area municipalities, including Trenton.

Before leaving, Mrs. Bromley told township council "don't you hire Mr. Tucker . . . his pound is over-run. How do you expect him to cover Thurlow?"

She advises the council to hire the Ontario Humane Society but councillor Fletcher Reid told her council had investigated Humane Society service twice in the last five years and had determined it would be too expensive.

Mrs. Bromley promised to secure a full report for council on Humane Society service and costs. She won from council a pledge that they would sign an agreement with the society if it didn't cost more than the present service.

However, councillors believe the Humane Society would be top costly in view of their past research on the subject.

Through the new agreement with Tucker approved yesterday, Tucker will collect a fee of $10 from dogowners to retrieve their dogs from him within three days. If nobody picks up a dog the township will pay him $20.

After three days the poundkeeper is free to "dispose of dogs" or sell it, keeping the revenue. He must inform the dogowner personally or by registered mail that his dog is in the pound if the dog is wearing a tag.

Steinberg's Strike Two Chains Face Strike

Steinberg's Miracle Food Mart in the Quinte Mall is one of 50 centres where members of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers union may strike Sept. 28.

The Belleville store employs 50 persons, 30 of them full time.

The union will announce the strike deadline at membership meetings to be held from Sunday to Tuesday by the company's 1,500 full-time and 2,000 part-time employees, who will be urged to reject Steinberg's wage and contract offer.

The offer includes a 15 per cent wage increase over two years.

Meanwhile, 2,000 Dominion Store employees also face the outcome of mediation in a dispute between the food chain and the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees' Union. Some 1,000 warehouse workers currently are on strike and the mediation will determine whether there will be a settlement or strike by store workers.

Belleville Steinberg manager Robert McGall, the store's only non-union employee says his store is in the same position as Dominion's.

"We're asking for the same as Dominion. It's something we can never talk about."

One of the union's charges has been that while productivity has increased over the past three years by 15 to 20 per cent, the number of employees has remained the same.

McGall countered by saying the Quinte outlet has added the produce section since opening in August of 1971.

Other stores affected in the Steinberg's dispute are in Toronto, Oshawa, Hamilton, Hamilton, Barrie, London, Sarnia and Windsor.

Contentious issues include wages, work load and job security, union demands for a union - administered industry fund plan, improvements in sick pay and in vacation and statutory holiday benefits.

Vic Pahe, president of the Ontario Retail Council of the union, said yesterday that retail is his organization having more than a 15 per cent wage increase over two years, but it also rejects a percentage application of any size for everyone because it would widen the gap between the higher - paid and lower - paid workers.

Cashiers, nearly all women, receive $138.50 a week after 27 months' service, grocery clerks mostly male, earn $138.50; meat cutters get $178.50 after 36 months' experience and part-timers start at $1.65 an hour and advance to $2.15 after two years. Full-time employees work 40 hours; part-timers from 2 to 24 hours.

Mr. Pahe said the cashiers were the ones most likely to take criticism from customers because there is not enough service.

"In all other debate about food prices I've never heard anyone consider the plight of the employees in the stores," he said.

City Grants Reconsidered

The Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services will "review" Belleville's three grant applications under the community centres act which could see the grant cut off through a change in government policy.

Under the changed government policy communities with more than 25,000 population are deemed ineligible for community centre grants.

But at the time of the policy change the city had already embarked on three projects with the understanding that they would be eligible for the grants.

These were the Pinnacle Playhouse on which $2,500 of a $18,000 grant was still owing; the Hillcrest Athletic Field on which a grant of $3,845 was claimed and the Centennial Athletic Field which is being developed jointly by the city with the Hastings County Board of Education.

"Taking the view that it was unfair the grants should be cut off after projects were started, the city accordingly requested the ministry to reconsider projects for which grant applications had already been filed.

Since then several other Ontario municipalities, including Waterloo and Chatham have made the same request.

The Ministry has admitted that the new government policy might pose certain difficulties for some municipalities and has asked that new applications be made for projects started before the policy change.

City Treasurer Frank Mersfelder said that all the new application forms are now being filled out and will be returned by Tuesday this week.

The amount the city is claiming under the reapplication is $15,545.

Church Organizes Course on Coping

The stresses and strains of modern life are sending shudders through the framework of family life. So St. Thomas' Parish intends to apply a little reinforcement before the structure collapses.

It is offering a course on the family and how to cope with the effect of modern society on all its members, from infants to grandparents.

The first session is being held Sept. 25 at 8 p.m. in St. Thomas' Parish Hall, and organizers hope to attract people from all sections ofthe public. They especially want to reach men, teenagers and young people contemplating marriage.

A film will be shown at each session and a guest speaker will preside over meets.

The first session will focus on the pre-school aged child and the speakers will be Dr. Edith Peterkin and Mrs. Sheila Richards, social worker with the family and children's services of Hastings county.

At each succeeding session an older age group will be the subject of discussion, preceding up to the senior citizen category.

Theatre Guild Seeks Special Events Licence

City council will be asked to grant permission for the Belleville Theatre Guild to apply for a liquor licence for the Empire Playhouse.

The licence would be to allow the sale of liquor at openings and at special events during the 1972-73 season.

The request of the Theatre Guild was considered by the recreation - arena committee Wednesday and the committee recommending to council that the guild be allowed to apply for the licence.

The committee also approved of the request of the Rotary Club of the city of Belleville Memorial Arena and the Dick Ellis Rink on Dec. 30 for its first annual skate-a-thon. Proceeds of the event would be to raise funds for the youth of arena.

The committee is awaiting delivery of a new ice scraper for use at the Dick Ellis Rink. The old Schomberg scraper has been stripped of parts and will be sold for salvage.

Mirage Skipper Gambled to Win Some Off-course Weather

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian defender Mirage tacked away from her course to the finish and found widening weather to win the distance race Thursday in the Canada's Cup sailing series.

The Toronto boat, which has a hull configuration resembling a guided missile from the waterline up, rocketed on a beat to the gun to defeat Dynamite, the challenger from Detroit, by five minutes and 22 seconds.

The race, which started Wednesday, was worth two points in the best-of-five points series and the Canadian win forced a deciding race Saturday over the Lake Ontario triangular course of 21 miles.

Dynamite showed she was expansive in light airs, winning the opening race Monday by one minute and 53 seconds and the second by 18 minutes and 10 seconds on Tuesday.

But the 177-mile distance race threw a mixed bag of wind and weather at both crews as they sailed twice around a triangle from Toronto to Whitby, Ont., to Olcott, N.Y.

And Mirage got just enough of the breeze to sneak the lead in tap up the miles. The big question being asked around the Royal Canadian Yacht Club today is: "What's the weather for Saturday?"

Canadian Norman Gerbes Fisher of Toronto admitted Thursday night he took a calculated gamble 10 miles from home when he tacked away from course to seek the wind that brought him home a winner.

"But it was possible under the circumstances," he said.

Cover passenger Peter Pennoyer had spotted a line of wind approaching from the southwest and Gerbes took the weather seconds. Instead, anything went better than even in a hole a quarter of a mile behind Lloyd Excalibur in Dynamite.

The position we were in at the time was not going to take us anywhere. But to get to the wind, we sailed through a flat calm which nonetheless isn't the thing to do if you want to win a boat race."

Excalibur said he didn't see the windshift coming and by the time he was able to tack to the weather, Mirage had her star-cut rancher sat and drawing.

And when the two sloops had settled on courses for most of the haul to the gun, Mirage was in command about half a mile ahead and to windward.

At the start, at 10 knots, Excalibur had to split air out of the mainsail to keep Dynamite's forward rail above water.

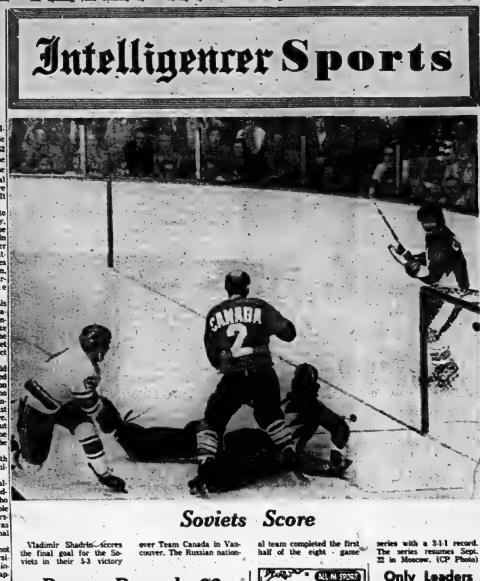
Keon Leaf Again

TORONTO — The most welcome sight to the Toronto Maple Leaf brass wasn't one of the 62 players who did check into the NHL team's training camp. The sight that helped ease general manager Jim Gregory's nerves eyes was a simple signature. It read: Dave Keon.

The Leaf captain came to terms with the club Thursday, signing what is estimated to be a three-year contract worth in the neighborhood of $135,000 per season. Keon had been threatening to join former teammates Bernie Parent, Jim Harrison, Guy Trottier, Rick Ley and Larry Hillman in jumping to the World Hockey Association.

He had been negotiating this summer with the Ottawa Nationals at the WHA, but contract talks apparently broke down two weeks ago when the Nationals were unable to meet some of the proposed contract demands.

Leafs' King Clancy who did most of the signing work noted that "all negotiations with Keon were on a friendly basis, no yelling. We wound up the winner and I'm glad to be the last of the old crew around here. Dave is next to me. Without him it wouldn't be the same. He's an inspiration to the team."



Keon will be playing his 12th season in a Maple Leaf uniform.

Meanwhile, veteran goaltender Jacques Plante headed a list of 62 players who checked into Toronto Maple Leafs' pre-season camp Thursday and announced he was mentally fit for the National Hockey League season.

Plante, however, was not ready to predict he was physically fit to play 70 games, indicating only: "I'm ready (tapping his head) up here."

The 43-year-old goalie's stablemate of last year, Bernie Parent, was another nine no shows at camp. He was one of five who have joined the World Hockey Association.

In addition to the loss of Parent to Philadelphia Blazers, the Leafs' exodus to the WHA includes Jim Harrison (Alberta Oilers), Guy Trotter (Ottawa Nationals) and Rick Ley and Larry Pleau (New England Whalers).

Soviets Score

Vladimir Shadrin scores the final goal for the Soviets in their 5-3 victory over Team Canada in Vancouver. The Russian national team completed the first half of the eight - game series with a 3-1-1 record. The series resumes Sept. 22 in Moscow. (CP Photo)

Beman Records 66 Without Hot Putter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former amateur king Deane Beman has a one-stroke edge in the $110,000 Greater St. Louis Golf Classic with action likely to get even hotter before the week's end.

Right behind Beman in the Professional Golfers Assoc ation event is Lee Trevino, who Thursday matched a flick of six Beman birdies but also three-putted for a bogey.

Beman fired a six under par 66 over the 6,344-yard, par 70 Norwood Hills Country Club layout with Trevino, the tour's second-leading money winner, looking over his shoulder at 33-35—68.

Alone in third place at 33-31—64 was second year pro player Chuck Thorpe, who hit 17 straight greens in regulation strokes after bogeying the first hole.

A cluster of players tied at 67 for fourth place numbered Toronto's Ben Kern, veterans Bob Goalby, Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Will Homenuik of Winnipeg was still in the running with a 68. Back in the field at 72 was George Knudson of Toronto, Ken Fulton of Montreal with a 73 and Gary Bowerman of Toronto at 76.

In addition to his six birdies, Beman was within range of hunting par on 18 holes but missed four putts within eight feet, missed three from one to diums range and felt a 20-footer put an inch and a half short.

"Give me a foot and maybe I would have had a 56 or a 58," he said of his putting.

"I had a green-in-one here one time!"

Only Leaders Break Par

TORONTO (CP) — Four players—the only ones in the field to shoot sub-par scores—shared the lead Thursday after the opening round of the Ontario Professional Golfers' Association championships at Rolling Hills golf club.

Gary Cuthford of Toronto Marktand Wood, Gary Slatter of Burlington Springs, John Delorme of Toronto Withers and Bruce Murrah of St. Catharines each carded one-under par 71, in a driving cross-wind gusting to 40 miles an hour.

Viren Sets New Record

HELSINKI (AP) — A jubilant throng of 47,000 track fans welcomed home Finland's Lasse Viren Thursday, and the double Olympic gold medallist rewarded them by blazing to a world record 13:16.4 clocking in the 5,000 metres.

Viren, who won both the 5,000 and 10,000 metres at Munich, clipped two-tenths of a second off the world record set six years ago by Ron Clarke of Australia.

England's Dave Bedford was first, missed three times on a distant second to Viren in 13:30.8. Viren, who broke the 10,000-metre record held by Clarke in the Olympics, also is the record-holder in the two-mile run.

Bobrov Won't Forecast

MOSCOW (AP) — Avoiding confident predictions and hedging his bets, the head coach of the Soviet national hockey team said Thursday Team Canada will be "another team" when it faces the Russians in Moscow.

Coach Vsevolod Bobrov guarded his appeal in a surprising 5-1-1 win-tie-loss record against Canada's top professionals in the Canadian half of an eight-game series. But he told Soviet newspapers the Canadians had been "complacent" and out of shape.

"I think that we will have to meet a Moscow another team," Bobrov said. "The matches will be very difficult."

Bobrov confirmed that Soviet coaches, players and fans already had "fallen" themselves for the five Prague shootout in Canada. He said that place was going to Moscow because of the fans' "unsupportive" and "aren't on strong."

"I don't agree with that," Bobrov said.

Of course the Canadians are not gods as many of our fans thought. But they are undoubtedly first-class players."

The Canadian fans were "cold" at first and "settled down on our players," Bobrov said in a separate interview in the Communist party newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda. But after the first game he added, "the Canadians realized that we people, and strong sports- Just like this, and came to play."

Opinions Vary on Ice

STOCKHOLM (CP) — The state of Bobby Orr's left knee and the wide open spaces of the ice sheet at the Johannesberg Arena were two prime concerns Thursday as Team Canada took its first workouts in Europe.

"I feel fine, but" said Gilbert of New York Rangers as he wheeled across a surface almost 300 square feet larger than any he's used to in North America.

Ron Ellis of Toronto Maple Leafs and Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens were two other speedsters who found the increased elbow room to their liking.

But goalkeeper Ki Johnston of Boston Bruins clagged by coach Harry Sinden to play one of the two weekend games against the Swedish national team—has reservations.

"There is three feet more space than we're used to but had the ice been smaller, I would have said," Johnston said.

"And there's seven feet less distance from the blue line to the goal line. An attacking forward takes one stride across that blue line and he's in a prime position for a shot on the net."

The rink here, similar to the one in Moscow where the Team Canada-Russia series resumes later this month, is 15 feet wider than North American rinks.

One player who ordinarily might benefit from the increased area is Bobby Orr, but the Boston rearguards is worried a new left knee.

Orr worked out with the team during morning drills, given the knee the first real test it has had since post-season surgery.

"I'm real happy with the way the leg is coming," he said, "I has come along real well in the week. There's still some pain, though. It's not ready yet."

Sinden said he likely would dress Orr for the games Saturday and Sunday, but said it was up to the player whether he played.

A more immediate problem to Sinden was the large ice surface.

"It means a lot of an adjustment for everyone. We won't be able to carry the puck as much. But then, they won't be able to come up in front of our net as much.

Czech Series Arranged
HOPKINS, Minn. (AP) — World Hockey Association president Gary Davidson said Thursday final arrangements have been completed with the Czechoslovakian Amateur Hockey Association for a six-game series between the Czech national team and a WHA all-star team.
The games scheduled: Jan. 3, at Quebec City, Jan. 5, in Winnipeg, Jan. 7, at St. Paul, Minn.; May 18, 20 and 22 in Prague.

WHA Creates Openings
LONDON, Ont. (CP) — In a dialogue with one of their regulars sidelined through injuries, Brooks played five weeks with the Blazers then was sent to Boston Braves of the AHL as back-up support for young Daniel Bouchard.
"I knew the (Boston) Bruins (of the National Hockey League) were grooming Danny to play for them eventually so I didn't mind being backup," Brooks said Thursday.
"But I was promised all along by Bep (Braves' coach Bep Guidolin) that I'd get to play. As it turned out, he used me fairly regularly the last half of the season.
"I felt I played fairly well. Maybe the Bruins felt the same way."
The Bruins did, and Brooks was invited to the Boston camp here for a chance to give the big team goaltending support behind veteran Ed Johnston.
The opening was created by the departure of Gerry Cheevers for the WHA Cleveland Crusaders. Cheevers left after Bruins had protected him in the NHL and Bouchard was grabbed up by the new Atlanta Flames franchise.

Price Morris Packs It In

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

In 17 years of weightlifting, Price Morris never got tired.

Laziness was a theory the stocky Frankford strongman couldn't afford in a sport that required him to lift a ton or two of steel in a couple of hours' training.

But today, Morris is tired — sick and tired.

"I've had it," the five-time Canadian champion sighed, announcing the end of his competitive weightlifting career.

What prompted his decision was the lack of support — both financial and moral — that has seen many other amateur athletes in this country fall by the wayside.

For Morris, the last straw was having to take three weeks' leave of absence without pay from his job as a Trenton public utilities lineman in order to attain his last unachieved weightlifting objective — competition in this month's Olympic Games.

"That was one of four goals I set myself," said Morris, who had carried the colors of Belleville's Apollo Barbell Club to World Championship, British Commonwealth, and Pan-American contests.

"When I was in Munich, other members of the Canadian team just couldn't believe I was supporting myself at it.

Morris didn't make enough for the 1,000-pound lifting total he compiled in Munich to place him 23rd out of the 25 heavyweight entries.

But he did admit the actual Olympic competition was an anti-climax after he had recorded the biggest total in Canadian weightlifting history with a 1,085-pound effort in May's Canadian Championship and Olympic trials in St. John's Newfoundland.

"If I'd done my best, I'd have placed about 12th in Munich," he noted. "But — I don't know — I just didn't have my heart in it. I just wanted to get home."

The outspoken Morris used his disappointment in world-calibre competitions as more than a means of bringing home medals like the four bronze from last summer's Pan-American Games in Cali, Colombia and the bronze from the 1970 Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh, Scotland.

His athletic travels have been an education and have helped harden Morris's strong opinions about the status of so-called amateur sport.

"I'd like to see the Olympics become the competition for the best athletes in the world — the very best. There's no way we can keep sending young Canadians to Russia against European professionals.

"It was all right for Avery Brundage to push the Olympic code — he was a man of millions bucks.

"The only way we can hope to do anything at Olympic Games is to be training our athletes six and eight hours a day like they do in Europe. That's the only way I could have continued in weightlift.

But I'm not bitter. I think there's no sense knocking my head against a wall."

Morris said that his retirement as an opportunity to lash out at the "exploitation" of amateur athletes.

"Sure, we got equipment bags, warm-up suits, running shoes, and a bottle of cologne when we landed in Munich. But companies could spend millions of dollars to get that kind of advertisement. And it's a tax write-off for them. Going to the 250-seater Rotary Club in Frankford.

"I imagine residing with 'it head of cattle and cleaning out 60 pigs every day will give me plenty of exercise."

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Yesterday's repercussions are still with you, uncertain or changeable. Stretch out routines to make them more restful. Drift through the weekend, with time spent in reflection over recent past.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Indulge that streak of laziness. It will give your unconscious a needed rest for restoration, and new inspiration.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Get out of the workweek mood, take a vacation, at least you'll basically. Think about changes several times before making them.

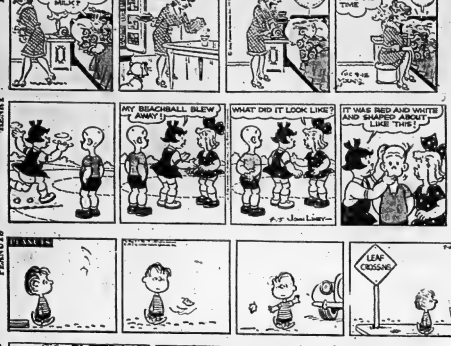
Cancer (June 21-July 22): Take a more personal interest. Do something that is of no great quality, but which you've wanted to try in a dull time.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Extra effort is a requirement today, even if all you want is to drop off the mainstream for a respite. Take it all in stride.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The fun of doing what you do may be the main reward available, rather than any financial returns. Share favorite stories.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Just turning around to move away from the past is enough to achieve new. Keep in touch with loved ones, whether near or far.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Indulge that streak of laziness. It will give your unconscious a needed rest for restoration, and new inspiration.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Just turning around to move away from the past is enough to achieve new. Keep in touch with loved ones, whether near or far.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Despite an early start, overtime is inevitable. No matter what you do—you get into a bind. Today's work is never yo.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Try letting everybody alone to make his own choices. And it gives you more time and energy to pursue your own goals.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): A judicious mixture of busy spells and loafing spells gets you through this long day, with something done on most of your goals.

Thrush Infection Caused by Fungus

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby is six weeks old and has suffered with a condition known as thrush he "white mouth" since birth. The doctor recommended a mild medicine which doesn't seem effective. Can you tell me the cause of thrush, and if there is a more effective remedy?—Mrs. C.F.T.

Thrush is a mouth infection caused by a fungus and it is not uncommon. The fungus is everywhere, and can occur in the cleanest of nurseries—although these days the ailment is reported to be decreasing in frequency.

Careful cleansing of the mother's breasts can help if the baby is breast-fed; bottle nipples should be cleaned as carefully in the case of bottle feeding.

The "purple medicine" with out question was a solution of gentian violet, the standard treatment for thrush and usually effective within a few days. Thrush can recur, requiring repetition of the treatment. In a case combining for six weeks, one might suspect that secondary infection is involved. Antibiotic treatment might be necessary if the secondary infection is of a bacterial nature.

Thrush is an ailment which affects the newborn or infants in the immediately following period. It must be assumed that in some cases the infection is acquired as baby moves through the birth canal.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A doctor told me that sinus trouble and all types of headaches were caused by an allergy. What is your opinion on that?

If the doctor said that some headaches and some cases of sinus trouble were caused by allergies, he'd have been completely right. Are you sure that isn't the way he worded it?

Specifically, allergy can be extremely important in the lives of sufferers, causing swelling of the tissues, irritation, heavy flow of mucus, and in such cases it is relatively fruitless to try other kinds of treatment rather than attacking the allergy.

Desensitization treatments can help; so can judicious use of antihistamines. But the real key to the problem in such cases is to find out what things to touch off the allergies and then make every effort to stay away from them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am curious what might happen to Black people have a disease, sickle cell anemia. Now when there is a biracial child, what could come of that?—E.J.B.

Well, sickle cell anemia is by far more prevalent in black people, but it is not confined to them. Furthermore, not all blacks carry the sickle-cell trait.

Keep in mind that carrying the trait is not the same thing as having the disease. The trait can (but not always will) be passed on if one parent carries it. When both parents carry the trait, then children can (but not always will) have the disease.

To answer your question as best I can: There would be some chance in four of a child inheriting the trait if one parent carried it.

If eventually the child with the trait married another person with the trait, there would be a possibility of offspring with the disease.

Sickle cell anemia is not totally understood on either count though, for whatever historical reasons, it is primarily a disease of blacks.

Newcombe Advances

MONTREAL (CP) — Top seeded John Newcombe of Australia whipped New York's Frank Froehling 7-5, 6-4 Thursday night to advance to the quarter-finals in the International Tennis Tournament here.

The two played evenly through 11 games before Froehling lost his serve in the 12th and bowed out 7 - 5. Newcombe broke Froehling's serve in the second, fourth and sixth games en route to his convincing, second-set win.

In other second-round singles matches Thursday, Egypt's Ismail El Shafei swept England's Roger Taylor 6-2, 6-2; Australia's Ray Emerson downed Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., 3-6, 6-3, 6-2; and Chicago's Marty Riessen dumped Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico 7-6, 6-3.

Today's singles action in the week-long tournament will see second-seeded Arthur Ashe of New York go against unseeded Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex.; sixth-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands play fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa; 11th-seeded El Shafei facing fifth-seeded Riessen and big unseeded Emerson against Newcombe.

The winners will advance to Saturday's semi-final round. The finals in singles and doubles are to be staged Sunday with the singles winner pocketing $18,000 and the runner-up $5,000.

The top doubles team will receive $1,200; the losers $800.

England's Mark Cox and Graham Stilwell advanced to the quarter-finals in doubles play Thursday along with the Australian duo of Bob Carmichael and Ray Ruffels.

The Cox-Stilwell tandem rallied to defeat Taylor and Drysdale 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 while Carmichael-Ruffels dumped John Alexander and Phil Dent of Australia 6-3, 6-4.

Desjardins Leaves Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouett eco-captain Pierre Desjardins announced his retirement from the Canadian Football League team Thursday.

Desjardins, sidelined with a knee operation during last year's pre-season camp, never returned to action and this year more injuries during training kept him out again.

His retirement ends a seven-year pro career.

Peterborough Off and Running

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough 'POOs took a first-period lead and never looked back Thursday night, defeating Richmond Road Runners 13-9 and capturing the opening game of the best-of-seven Canadian Junior A lacrosse championship.

The second game in the series for the Minto Cup will be played Saturday in Peterborough.

Warriors Meet West

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Brantford Warriors defeated Peterborough Lakers 13-10 Thursday night to win the best-of-seven National Lacrosse League Eastern Canadian championship 4-3.

Brantford will play in the Mann Cup finals against either Vancouver or New Westminster in one of three cities. The first game will be Sunday night.

Clemente Makes Safe Prediction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Pittsburgh Pirates are 15 games ahead of the pack, Roberto Clemente will go out on a limb. He thinks his team will win the National League East.

"I think we'll clinch first," said Clemente after socking two hits to lead the Pirates over runner-up Chicago Cubs 5-2 Thursday. "If we don't do it in St. Louis, I think we'll do it in New York."

"It's a good bet that the runaway Pirates will win their third straight division pennant, be one of those two cities within the next week or so. Any combination of Pittsburgh victories or Chicago losses totaling three will secure a title for the Pirates.

Clemente himself zeroed in on a personal magic number, the 3,000 career hit level.

"The way he's swinging, he'll have 3,000 in three or four games," said Pittsburgh Manager Bill Virdon. "And the way we've been playing, that's about all it will take us to clinch the title."

Clemente collected eight hits as the Pirates swept a three-game series from their closest competitors and now is 14 shy of the 3,000-hit plateau.

In Thursday's other National League games, Houston Astros defeated San Diego Padres 10-6 and St. Louis Cardinals turned back Montreal Expos 6-3.

Only two games were played in the American League Thursday night, Milwaukee Brewers nipped Cleveland Indians 4-3 in 10 innings and California Angels beat Texas Rangers 4-1.

Winning pitcher Bob Moose gave up only three Chicago hits before being literally knocked out of the box. Moose led the game in the seventh inning when Joes Cardenal ripped a single off the pitcher's right hand. Ramon Hernandez finished for the Pirates.

Bob Gibson notched his 19th victory with a seven-hitter to lead St. Louis over Montreal.

"I think I can get 20 wins this season," said Gibson, who started out the year with five straight losses. "But it depends on how many more starts I have."

The Astros kept their flickering hopes alive in the NL West. They picked up a half game on Cincinnati, now trail the Reds by seven games.

Nobody Laughs at Luis These Days

BOSTON (AP) — At the ripe old age of 33, Luis Aparicio is playing and acting like a happy-go-lucky kid, confident of appearing in the World Series with Boston Red Sox.

Most observers smiled politely when he predicted last month that the Red Sox would win the American League pennant. Others laughed openly. But nobody is laughing now as Boston leads the American League East.

Aparicio has played with pennant winners in Baltimore and Chicago during his 17 seasons in the league. The most durable shortstop in major league history despite weighing only 160 pounds, he is providing the spark in Boston's surge after missing several weeks with a broken finger.

When he rejoined the Red Sox Aug. 4, the club was in fourth place with a 49-49 record, 9½ games behind. Since then Boston has posted a 25-14 record in charging into first place in the topsy-turvy race.

Aparicio is hitting only .251 but remains a strong threat at bat.

"He's still the best shortstop in the league," Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte said.

Black on Black

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Umpire Art Williams of Bakersfield, Calif., will become the first black umpire in National League baseball history, league president Charles S. Feeney announced Thursday.

The major league's first black umpire was Emmett Ashford, who retired from the American League staff two years ago and now works for the baseball commissioner's office.

Leafs Even

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs scored four runs in the second inning and went on to defeat Brantford Red Sox 16-3 to tie the best-of-seven Senior Inter-County Baseball League final 2-2 Thursday.

The fifth game will be played in Toronto Sunday and the sixth here Tuesday. Neither team has won on its home field.

Ministers Must List Holdings

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario cabinet ministers will be required to disclose all land holdings and stop speculating in land under still new guidelines laid down Thursday by Premier William Davis in a bid to end conflict-of-interest situations.

Mr. Davis told a news conference that all 28 cabinet ministers also must divest themselves of corporation shares and have no direct or indirect participation in a business or profession.

All cabinet ministers, he said, have been ordered to file full reports, to be made available to the public, on their land holdings—with the exception of their homes, cottages or vacation retreats. They also must file with the clerk of the legislature information when their land is sold and the buyer must be named.

"The guidelines constitute a precedent," Mr. Davis said. "The determination to impose them is my own."

Cabinet ministers won't have one month to heed the new rules which Mr. Davis admits won't "cover all possible situations" resulting conflict of interest.

But they are broader and more precise than any previously enunciated by any comparable jurisdiction, federal or provincial, in Canada, or to my knowledge anywhere else."

Mr. Davis said the new policy outside income of cabinet ministers is based on the establishment of guidelines involving conflict of interest by private members of the legislature.

Mr. Nixon said in a statement he thought such guidelines necessary even though private members "rarely have access to information or powers which might benefit themselves."

He was commenting on an announcement earlier in the day by Premier William Davis about establishment of conflict-of-interest guidelines for cabinet ministers.

Stephen Lewis, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, called the guidelines "a first step" that eventually could be extended to all members of the legislature.

Outside income of cabinet ministers, he was "impressed that serious consideration has given" to increasing the $35,000-a-year salary of ministers.

"It's a very legitimate question," he said. "I haven't given any consideration to it yet."

Mr. Davis said a three-man committee headed by Dalton Camp, which is studying the role of the legislature, will examine the question.

Mr. Davis said disclosure will be necessary for any land holdings, direct or indirect, shares or debt interests in private companies, partnerships or proprietorships in which ministers are principals, and for any changes in property holdings already disclosed.

There is a loophole, however. A minister could hold land or investments outside Ontario and not come under the guidelines.

A company in which a minister has an interest will be prohibited from obtaining a government contract. Speculative corporation shares must be disposed of through sale or through a trustee who would have control over the investment without interference from the minister.

This is what the industry describes as a "blind trust" in which a person is told only of how the investment is progressing, but has no say on how the capital is invested.

Asked what would happen if a minister was told by his trustee that his investment is doing poorly, Mr. Davis replied:

"I guess he would have to get another trustee."

A minister, however, could withdraw funds or place additional funds under the trust arrangement without affecting his status in cabinet. Even members of a minister's family with shares must dispose of them.

The trustee must be licensed under the Loan and Trust Corporation Act of Ontario.

Guidelines Are Urged For MPPs

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, called Thursday for the establishment of guidelines involving conflict of interest by private members of the legislature.

Mr. Nixon said in a statement he thought such guidelines necessary even though private members "rarely have access to information or powers which might benefit themselves."

He was commenting on an announcement earlier in the day by Premier William Davis about establishment of conflict-of-interest guidelines for cabinet ministers.

Stephen Lewis, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, called the guidelines "a first step" that eventually could be extended to all members of the legislature.

Cattleman Says Consumers Victimized by Supermarkets

TORONTO (CP) — Both producer and consumer are victimized by the pricing policies of supermarkets, Charlie Gracey, Toronto manager of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association, said Friday.

He said the price of beef should have been going down for at least a month, on the basis of declines in the price paid to the farmer.

"Instead, it has been going up steadily since the middle of June," he said in an interview.

Three years ago, his association launched a monitoring system, "primarily to understand what is happening to our product."

Weekly reports on beef pricing at major supermarket chains in the Toronto area show that Prime and particular steaks which sold for $1.16 in the last week of May cost $1.34 in the same outlets last week.

But at the end of May the supermarkets were paying $52 a hundredweight for a side of beef they could get last week for $52.

Instead of passing the saving on to the consumer, the chains have increased retail prices about four per cent, according to the association's figures.

In a letter to food chains, Mr. Gracey called for a review of their pricing practices.

"We are forced to the conclusion that your pricing policy people are prepared to victimize both consumers and producers by sensing higher margins during a period of declining farm gate prices," the letter said.

Spokesmen for the retail grocery chains did not question Mr. Gracey's figures but said they were taken out of context.

F. C. Kennedy, president of A and P, said there is no evidence to support the claim that producers are hurt by current retail prices.

Keith Padden, vice-president, merchandising, for Loblaw Groceterias Ltd., said that last May supermarket margins on beef "were so modest they were written in red ink."

A Dominion Stores spokesman said that at current prices "we probably lose money on meats."

And a spokesman for Miracle Food Mart said: "As far as we're concerned, Mr. Gracey's statement is unfounded."

Israeli Planes Bomb Guerrilla Stronghold

Israeli warplanes bombed an Arab guerrilla stronghold deep in Lebanon today while tanks and infantry conducted a search-and-destroy operation inside the Arab state, the Tel Aviv command said.

The planes hit the guerrillas' southern Lebanon headquarters at Nabatiye, 30 miles north of the Lebanese frontier and about the same distance from Beirut, a spokesman said. About 200 guerrillas were encamped in this area, he added.

All the planes returned safely after the 11 a.m. attack, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, tanks and troop-laden half-tracked vehicles were in action on the ground.

Supported by artillery, the ground forces penetrated 10 miles into Lebanon and hit 10 villages, the spokesman said. He added that "several" guerrillas were killed or captured.

Houses harboring guerrillas in these villages were blown up, he said. He said the Lebanese army clashed with the Israelis who were still inside Lebanon five hours after the raid began.

Scott Explains

Municipalities Split on OMB

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — Reduction in the power of the Ontario Municipal Board is high among the priorities of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario, Dr. Russell Scott, association president, says.

But Dr. Scott, mayor of Belleville, Ont. for the last five years, said in an interview Friday that the OMB "should not be stripped of all its functions."

The general practicone said his association does not agree with the city of Toronto's executive committee which called Friday for the OMB to be stripped of its power in zoning changes for development and municipal borrowing plans for specific projects.

Dr. Scott, in Timmins for the first meeting of the association's board of directors, said:

"The OMB is an appeal court for citizens over the municipal council. Some sort of appeal court is needed."

He said the association executive is divided over the period it will take, and action it will demand, concerning the OMB. He feels the OMB's authority should be reduced as the powers of municipal government increase and municipalities acquire maturity.

Dr. Scott, involved in municipal politics for 19 years, said the OMB began "as a tireacial watching in the Depression." "That was how it acquired power.

He said the OMB's authority now extends to all municipal fields including housing planning and financial matters.

Pilots Annoyed At Obstruction Over Hijacking

WASHINGTON (CP) — A labor subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization ended two weeks of labor on an anti-hijacking treaty Friday, with qualified satisfaction among delegates about their progress but with anger from spokesmen for airline pilots.

The International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations — 30,000-member body which had an observer at the meeting, issued a statement expressing "frustration" at the "dilatory or obstructionist" tactics of some delegations.

It held out the prospect of "unilateral action" — such as the worldwide pilots' strike last summer — if an international treaty against air piracy is not delayed.

A representative of United States pilots named the delegates of the Soviet Union, France, Chile, Egypt and Tanzania when asked which countries had "obstructed" the meeting.

It's been hijacked!

Barriage Employee Kidnapped

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said the reason for the abduction was not clear, but said everything indicated it was related to the suspended arson at the Barriage office.

One man is said to have been in the car at the time of the abduction but was later joined by two others.

Two children of the abducted woman, aged seven and nine, were taken from school by the father as a precautionary measure after the abduction was made known.

Police Chief Crosbie said the investigation was continuing and police were "not overlooking the fact that it could be linked to the Toronto construction industry."

The recent brushin and fire at the Mel Barriage Landscaping Ltd. on North Front was together with the kidnapping yesterday of a female clerk, has led police to believe the incidents may be related to the Toronto construction industry unrest.

The female office clerk whose name was not released by police was kidnapped Friday about 9 a.m. outside an east end drug store and was later released near the Point Anne lane.

Before being let go the woman was told not to contact anyone until 10.30.

The woman was not injured, police said. Nor did she tell the abductors anything.

However, an eye witness is said to have called police who picked the woman up on the Point Anne lane shortly after 10 o'clock.

'No Regrets' Says Bennett

Bennett Steps Down

VICTORIA (CP) — A two-week political mourning period ended in British Columbia Friday when 41-year-old social worker David Barrett was sworn in as the province's first New Democratic Party Premier. No one wore crape, but even those who voted his downfall Aug. 30 had some degree of sympathy for William Andrew Cecil Bennett, who formally resigned earlier in the day after 20 years in the premier's chair. Mr. Bennett gave no hint whether he will resign his seat as an MLA or sit as opposition leader.

Lawn-mowing Banned, Mower Was Drunk

LUNDAR, Man. (CP) — A man clocked at 10 miles an hour on a self-propelled lawnmower has had his driver's licence suspended for six months. Oscar Christenson, 38, was also fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a self-propelled vehicle while he was drunk. RCMP said Christenson was weaving down the main street of this north central Manitoba community on his riding lawnmower, after cutting swaths across his neighbor's lawns.

Paternalism Over

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP) — State Secretary Gerard Pelletier said Friday the government now lets native people themselves work out, resolutions to their problems. "The paternalistic attitudes of yesterday have no place in our society," he said when he officially opened a new Indian Friendship Centre.

Utashi Reach Spain

MADRID (CP) — Three Yugoslav gunmen freed all 83 passengers from a hijacked Swedish jetliner in Malmoe today and flew in the plane to Madrid, where they surrendered, an airlines spokesman said.

The gunmen and six Croatian prisoners, freed by Sweden in exchange for the passengers, descended from the jetliner and quickly gave themselves up, it reported.

The nine were driven off to police headquarters.

The Swedish plane's four-member crew, including two stewardesses, were allowed to leave the plane in Madrid before the surrender of the nine.

There was no official confirmation of reports here that the hijackers had asked Spanish government officials for political asylum.

The plane took off from Malmoe, Sweden, today after the 83 passengers and the captive crew might were released in return for the release of the six Croatians from Swedish jails and about $240,000 in ransom.

Airport officials said they anxiously watched the airliner as it flew southward across Germany, then France, and finally touched down at Madrid.

The flight from Malmoe to Madrid took just under three hours.

Admitting "we had to yield to blackmail" to save the Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme predicted that no nation would accept the sky pirates. They were believed to be Croatian Ustasha, a group that supported the Nazis and the Fascists in the Second World War and has been agitating for Croatia's independence of President Tito's Yugoslavia.

Palme said the hijackers broke a promise to release the two pilots and two stewardesses, who were still aboard the plane after more than 15 hours on duty.

Two Satisfied Customers

Mrs. Joan Phillips of Toronto with her aunt, Mrs. June Aylesworth of 25 S. Church St., Belleville, took advantage of what they described as "the sale of the century in apples" at Gordon Roblin's orchard.

You Can Buy the Tree with the Apples Under Ameliasburg Orchardist's Scheme

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

AMELIASBURG — "A bargain anyway you look at it." is the way Ameliasburg orchardman - real estate salesman Gordon Roblin refers to his unique method of selling part of his apple crop this year.

Mr. Roblin's unusual offer appeared in a newspaper advertisement earlier this week.

Under the heading "The Big Red Apple Sale" it read: "Pick 'em yourself for $1.50 per bushel or really save and buy a treeful. Yonigan cut the tree up for your fireplace when you are done."

"In the deal the buyer gets clean, well colored, good sized McIntosh fruit along with the sweetest of any variety of wood when it burns," Mr. Roblin pointed out. "The wood alone is worth the price of the apples."

Mr. Roblin expects to dispose of 80 trees with their apples through this sale.

If the effort fails then he proposes to bulldoze the trees out of the ground. "They have reached the age when it's not economical to tend them properly," he explained.

Some of the trees to go bear 16 to 20 bushels of better than average fruit. "But at the price the market brings today it doesn't pay to trim, spray and fertilize the trees and then harvest and store the apples they produce," he said. "Anyway I really haven't got the time to spend in this connection," he added.

All one needs to provide to get in on this new idea in "pick yourself" undertakings is transportation to the Roblin farm on the Rednerville road south of Belleville and one's own containers. Also a sharp handsaw and a strong arm if one intends to take the wood home with the fruit.

The advertisement so far has stimulated wide interest and yesterday Mrs. Roblin received a specific inquiry about wood for the fireplace from one woman.

A woman drove down from Toronto when her aunt phoned from Belleville to tell her about the sale. She took back a station wagon loaded with apples to prepare for her freezer. She didn't want the wood. To her the trees looked beautiful and too healthy to destroy.

Brotherhood Is Said Most Important Duty

John Irvine came to Belleville last night with a message and the message was brotherhood.

The one-time member of the House of Commons and former deputy mayor of London, Ont., was addressing the annual "Ladies' Night Dinner" of the Past Masters, Masters and Wardens Association of Prince Edward District Masonic lodges. Mr. Irvine was Grand Master from 1963-1965 and currently serves as Grand Secretary.

"The most important duty we have as free masons should be to interest all people in a firm and sincere belief in the brotherhood of man and fatherhood of God," he told 350 persons from 11 lodges gathered in Cuddihee Hall.

Continuing this theme, he described the roots of masonic thinking.

Its bases are reason and equity. Its principles, benevolence and law. And its religion, purity and truth. "Free masonry is not a religion but there is a religion of free masonry."

Fresh from a northern Ontario summer, during which he found a fishing spot so active "you had to bait your hook in shore," the retired appliance dealer said he was glad to be back in this part of the province.

"People are different here."

he said. "You're more friendly and, I think, genuine."

After graduating from Queen's University, Mr. Irvine lived in Lodge until his retirement in 1961. He has since moved to Burlington and now spends much of his time addressing masons around the province.

Before concluding, he issued a warning about complacency. Individuals

"We must protect ourselves against a formidable enemy who does not subscribe to the forces of evil. If we preserve our way of life, we won't be slung along the path of apathy."

The next meaningful situation is an insult to our intelligence."

Mr. Irvine, who made the journey with his wife and son, was presented with a print of Quinte cheese after his speech.

Pollution Abatement Cost Northern $200,000

Northern Electric Co. Ltd. has agreed appropriated $200,000 to be the past two years in the installation of pollution control equipment at its Belleville plant.

A trustee of the equipment installed and action initiated for its efforts in controlling pollution was directed to be sent to Northern Electric.

The pollution control measures at Northern were carried out from May 1970 to August this year and are now complete, according to plant manager C. A. Drez.

The program at Northern included a "jye-check" to ensure that only rain water and nominal amounts of cooling water are discharged into storm sewers. All process water is discharged into the sanitary sewer system. Improvements have been made in land drainage ensuring that runoff water doesn't get into the sanitary sewer system.

Special equipment has been installed to reduce the discharge of copper - bearing solution in the plant.

Paint residue holding tanks have been installed, while zinc plating baths have been changed in a new process reducing the average discharge of cyanide to drain to less than 1.8 PPM. Zinc plating at the works has been discontinued.

Cleaners, paint thinners and alcohols are shipped to chemical refiners in Toronto.

Also steam boilers at the plant have been converted from coal-fire units to combination gas - oil - fired units which considerably reduces the amount of fly ash and sulphur dioxide emitted to the atmosphere.

Employment News

Many have heard about the Federal Government Local Initiatives Program (LIP). Belleville-Madoc, Bancroft, Marmora and other surrounding towns last year had several projects approved including such things as day care centres and the laying out of the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail.

There is nothing stopping others this year of getting together, determining a need in the community and organizing to meet this need.

The Local Initiatives Program could be likened to a grown up Opportunities for Youth. It is directed to adults who are unemployed and who want to create their own jobs and want those jobs to be worthwhile ones.

Perhaps there is a need to help and work with children who have learning difficulties or disabilities. Children often need special attention; someone to listen to them read; someone to take over a class for a while so the teacher can concentrate on a few of the many needy children; perhaps a chance to do some homework after school hours with a person there to guide them; to be taken on special outings, to become more aware of what goes on around them and many more things I'm sure you could think of.

That is only one example. The Canada Manpower Centre is prepared to direct you to areas of the community where you can determine such a need if you have no specific idea of your own at this time. The need is a desire to create a worthwhile job and to put the effort into drawing up the details of the project. You could gain valuable experience managing such a program; the change employer and being responsible throughout for successful completion. You and your workers would be able to earn approximately $180 a week while accomplishing all this. Contact the local Canada Manpower Centre for assistance and information.

Mary Dunkley Celebrates With Students

PICTON (Staff) — Mary Dunkley, Prince Edward County's "Miss Dove", Friday celebrated her 101st birthday at Picton Manor nursing home surrounded by former students recalling school days with her.

Miss Dunkley, who taught elementary school in the county for nearly 50 years, was the first woman member of town council.

Her students remember her for her dedicated approach and her kindness and humor which she blended with discipline in the classroom.

She and her sister Elizabeth were two of Prince Edward's best known teachers and the former served as principal of Mary Street school for several years.

Miss Dunkley, now blind, still retains her school teachers' clear enunciation and speaks clearly as she recalls the past.

Her room at Picton Manor yesterday was filled with greeting cards and flowers, a large cake decorated with the words "Happy Birthday Miss Dunkley."

She received a pot of chrysanthemums from Dr. and Mrs. R. K. Eccles and a bouquet of red roses from Mildred Irwin, former owner of the nursing home.

Her cake was the gift of a friend, Mrs. Laurence Burford of Picton.

Miss Dunkley has several nephews and nieces still living who remembered her birthday with cards and good wishes.

Province to Call Planning Tune

Provincial authorities are bolstering the hopes of Quinte Planning Board municipalities that some solution may be found to the double levy situation in which several QPB members pay to support both county and Quinte planning.

Brighton and Brighton township, paying to both Northumberland - Durham and regional planning, may receive an answer to whether their planning should be handled by the combined counties-or the regional Quinte board in a probe now on the alter. Quinte municipalities have been told this matter will go before the minister for consideration.

In a meeting with provincial authorities last week, the heads of QPB municipalities were told again that for problems to be set in proper context, they should await the release of the Northumberland - Durham study on the restructuring of municipal government.

This study, the provincial ministry had said, will have an indirect bearing on the future of Quinte region. Indications are that this report will be a conclusion - studded sequel to an earlier report on the combined counties published two years ago by the firm Municipal Planning Consultants.

This study suggested that Brighton and Brighton township are oriented toward the Quinte area and not to the rest of Northumberland-Durham.

There is considerable uncertainty among officials of the Northumberland municipalities in QPB as to what role the pending report will set for their future. Will it cement them to Quinte or increase ties with the county seat at Cobourg?

One provincial official told QPB mayors and reeves Thursday that Port Hope - Cobourg will grow substantially.

Those attending last night's meeting at the Sidney township offices were given little in the way of additional knowledge on the destiny of Quinte. They had hoped that consultations with provincial civil servants would lead to an indication of privileged information on what provincial planners envisage for the region.

What they have to date, receiving, aside from a clearing of the air on the double levy situation, is a series of discussions on the benefits of staying in QPB, at least for the time being.

One argument presented for staying with QPB is that existing official plans for Brighton, Brighton township and Trenton will be "dovetailed in" with others pending for Belleville and its adjacent townships as well as Frankford village.

Speculation is that the report on Northumberland-Durham that is still "more than a month away from release" will lead to first steps being taken to establish a regional government for the twin counties.

Hees Critical Of Grant Policy

In an address to a Progressive Conservative nominating convention in Sudbury Thursday, Prince Edward - Hastings MP George Hees took both New Democrats and Liberals to task for their industrial development policies.

Hees said he disagrees with the NDP position that helping businesses to locate in slow-growth areas is wrong.

The former trade and commerce minister during Mr. Diefenbaker years said grants to industry are both "fair and sensible" but he criticized the present government's approach to industrial incentives through the department of regional economic expansion.

He called Liberal leaders "fuzzy - minded theorists . . . who have no practical business experience."

The Prince Edward - Hastings MP cited aid to the pulp and paper industry as an example of ill-advised assistance to industry. With the pulp and paper market facing a serious over-supply situation, he said, DREE has provided two companies with nearly $30 million to build new pulp and paper mills in Alberta and Ontario.

He concluded the government must make sure "the product which will be produced is in good demand."

Municipal Election Changes Outlined

Changes in municipal election procedures were outlined yesterday to municipal clerks from Hastings and Prince Edward counties at an area meeting held at the Four Seasons Hotel.

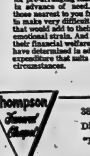
Approximately 60 municipal clerks and treasurers from townships and urban areas in the two counties attended the meeting, addressed by T. W. McEachern, superintendent of the municipal administration branch of the municipal affairs department.

One of the more important changes in the election act, according to Mr. McEachern, is that no longer will nomination meetings as such be required.

Instead, nominations will be made on special forms signed by 10 or more qualified electors. However, if municipal councils with a nomination meeting they may still be held.

Under the new regulations, nominations will be accepted for a five-day period-ajfrom Nov. 9 to the 13th. They are to be accepted at the clerk's office during normal working hours.

Following the five-day nominating period, election proxies for those unable to vote for health reasons may be handed out.



Municipal elections will be held December 4

In Belleville, two advance polls will be held, both at city hall. First of the two advance polls will be Monday, Nov. 27 and the second Dec. 2 between the hours of 11 a.m. and 8 p.m.

About Time

Who else could have got away with it for so long?

Referring of course to the high sounding educational experiment called Rochdale College which has been one of the decade's most successful botched enterprises.

But finally, authorities appointed a receiver for the college which owes $4.3 million in mortgages and another $775,000 in interest on unpaid mortgage payments. In addition, the college has still not paid 600,000 in city taxes and is contesting this in the courts.

And what happens when the receiver stationed its personnel on the premises? A veiled suggestion from the college council that students leave their quarters and the representatives of the people of this province are likely.

It is about time the Rochdale thinkers realized the pendulum of the '70s has started its swing back. What could be used is a little touch of the thinking of law-and-order Judge Claude Wagner, the judge who left the Quebec bench to join the PC election campaign.

Olympics 1976

The world has just seen completion of one of the most horrible and terrifying Olympics in the history of sport. As to whether the Olympics should be continued is not the point. What must be put forth is that the Olympics in 1972 cost Germany $650 million dollars. Despite the fact Mayor Drapeau of Montreal claims it will cost us a mere fraction of this amount, one wonders if we can possibly escape with anything less than the amount Germany spent.

How can Canada do for $150 million what it cost Germany four times this much. Add to this the natural inflation for the next four years and Canada could be facing a bill of almost one billion dollars.

It is hard to believe that this country, which at present has more than half a million unemployed and where we freely admit that many of our citizens live below the poverty line, should consider for one moment expending this kind of money on the Olympic Games.

Canada cannot afford the luxury of staging a production of this magnitude.

Progressive Move

Thursday's approval by the Ontario Municipal Board of the request of the Quinte Town Improvement Association to levy an additional tax on their businesses indicate the sincerity of these merchants in their desire to improve the downtown core of the city.

The $23,000 that is raised annually will be used to improve the beauty of the main business section.

The merchants' move, coupled with the aggressive actions of the parking authority in its successful move to acquire additional lands to improve the parking situation, augurs well for the future of the city's downtown hub. A co-ordinated approach — and there is every indication this is the design — coupled with the natural investment of the city through city council actions might just be the answer to maintaining the economic standards of the business district.

Flowers That Bloom in Spring

It was with a touch of nostalgia that a seven o'clock in the morning trip down Front Street Friday was made. There, city employees, using a fork lift and a flat bed truck, were taking away our boxed trees and flowers.

Happily enough they will return next Spring, no doubt blooming profusely and helping us to forget the hard strains of winter.

Nevertheless, it was a moment of sadness.

Davis Guidelines

Premier William Davis' guidelines for his cabinet ministers may be interpreted as tough and stringent, but they are most welcome. Possibly, too, it can be said that the guidelines may prevent some worthy candidates from seeking office.

However, as in most decisions of a broad-reaching nature, it is the best interests of the majority which must prevail. The integrity of those holding public office must surely be above reproach but also must

Not Co-ordinated Yet

Image-Makers Haven't Yet Changed PM Entirely

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Liberal soothsayers tell you they are doing a makeover of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

From the gay, carefree, bachelor playboy politician who played the election by ear four years ago to the sober, serious, strictly business statesman of today.

That is what they say — but maybe they forgot to consult fully with the man himself, or make sure he would go along quietly and co-operatively with their plan to cool the hot image.

Oh sure, they — or perhaps it was his wife Margaret — persuaded him to trim the hair that used to hide his ears and curl far down over his collar.

And yes, he is wearing business suits, shirts of solid color, sometimes even white, and ties new in public instead of those shorty outfits that looked more like Hawaiian in The Bahamas than Parliament Hill in Ottawa.

But as Tailor and Cutter, the male fashion magazine might put it, they have not got their man fully co-ordinated yet.

Catch him the other day in that Canadian Press two-part-head, and then feet — shot of him in the midst of the West Coast dock strike squeeze?

Top half was the very proper Trudeau, shirt, tie, business suit . . . bottom half was open-toed sandals peeking out from under slightly flared trousers.

While they may be getting somewhere in making over their man outwardly, the Liberal image-polishers can't get inside him.

And that is where it counts. Like the other morning.

Maybe it was because it was so bright and sunny after a summer of rain.

Or maybe PET was just feeling well, just so ding-dang good he could not hold it all in.

So he let himself go.

And if the House of Commons staff on the West VIP Door of the Centre Block had not seen it with their very own astonished eyes, they swear they would never have believed it.

But in the midst of carrying what are traditionally supposed to be the heavy, man-breaking burdens of state, the Prime Minister seemed enormously exhilarated. He ran straight up the wall.

Six feet up?

Popping out of his limousine, he whipped around in a small tight circle working up momentum and then made his up-the-wall dash, zipping out over on the perpendicular stone face.

Then, hanging there for a second or so, "like some monkey-ass goat," as the goggle-eyed Commons staff members described it, he dropped lightly down on his toes in a knee-bending bounce.

He was wearing his political businessman's suit, shirt and tie — and those open-toed sandals.

And except for two very small stone ledges offering only tiny, sloping toenail-holds, it had to be a straight up the-smooth-stone-wall perpendicular sprint.

Then what did the Prime Minister do?

He stood there laughing at his staring staff, then spun through the revolving Commons' door, related a pop-eyed witness who saw it all, and gazelled it up three flights of stone stairs to his office.

"Man," exclaimed one of his body-guards, "is our boy in shape!"

And with that he walked over and scrached on the stonewall at the high-time mark, six feet off the ground where the exuberant Prime Minister had perched.

The image-shiners are making over a man like this?

They have to change more than the clothes.

Rubber Stamp Was End of McKeough's Career

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

It was a name on a rubber stamp, and it's a tragedy.

The resignation of Treasurer Darcy McKeough, which presumably will go through, is a tremendous loss to the people of Ontario.

It is such a waste and apparently so stupid.

For there was no question of any venality on the part of McKeough. He wasn't profiteering or using his office for personal advantage.

He — not even the most bitter opposition critic — has ever suggested that.

What happened — all that flapped — was that he overlooked the fact that the sub-division plan for some property in which his family holding company had an interest would have to be rubber-stamped with his name.

But even though a rubber-stamp it was his name.

And so the province loses the services of one of the most able men it has had in years.

Loses them because he is a man of high honor.

And because for years now Progressive Conservative governments have been slipshod in recognizing the dynamite in the conflict of interest question and doing something about it.

Lord knows they have had enough warning.

In the 50s there were the highways and natural gas scandals blazing across front pages for months and other matters of not so much prominence.

Premier Frost took care of the people involved at the time, but he did nothing about correcting the basic situation and reviewing the whole problem of conflict of interest and drawing a clear set of rules regarding it.

In the years of Premier Roberts one of his ministers was publicly pressurized for his land holdings. Perhaps there was more underneath. We don't know. But certainly there was this one instance to warn the leader that a potential explosion was abubbling in conflict of interest.

But neither Frost nor Roberts did anything about it. And neither did Premier Davis until a newspaper landed it in his lap with the Dalton Bales charges.

Why did they not act?

In Frost's day one of his ministers had his law office working for developers while he was administering the Planning Act.

Did Frost not know this? It was quite widely talked about at the time.

Perhaps he did, perhaps he didn't. But even if he did he would probably not have done anything publicly about apparent conflicts over conflict.

Because this would have looked like a black eye to his party. This probably has been the main reason why there has not been action before now.

It and the smut security that it can't happen to us which a party gets that has been long in office.

Now Darcy McKeough pays for this. If there had been clear rules he certainly wouldn't have overlooked the danger in a rubber stamp

It's a shame.

People Not Reacting

Galt Reporter

Cigarette smoking is a major public health problem in this country. Cause of chronic bronchitis, emphysema, lung cancer, heart disease, and other serious illnesses. More than 200,000 people die prematurely each year from smoking related diseases. How can we combat this enormous problem?

Our society, says U. S. Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld, has been tremendously successful in solving some public health problems. When no responsible action was demanded of citizens. For example, we have purified our water supplies, banned eyelash-eaters, prevented sewage from entering our drinking water, pasteurized our milk, made certain that meat products did not transmit trichinosis or tuberculosis. We immunized our citizens against smallpox, polio and measles.

But how about when the responsible action has to come from people themselves? When people must exercise and choose proper diets to avoid obesity and arterio-sclerosis? When they must restrict alcohol intake? When they should quit smoking?

Speaking specifically about smoking, the Surgeon General says, "What is the role of government beyond education, when education seems to do the job?" There are almost 45 million Americans still smoking.

The surgeon general considered two possibilities: limiting the amount of tars and nicotine in cigarettes; and raising the cigarette tax. Although the surgeon general has not suggested banning the manufacture and sale of cigarettes, some prominent health experts have. Bub the spectre of prohibition casts a dismal shadow over this proposal.

Action has already been taken by 29 million ex-smokers. To find out how to join this group, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Building Canal Immense Task

Kingston Whig - Standard

The Rideau Canal is a unique historical site that extends for 123 miles. What fascinates those who care about such matters is the brilliant way in which a small force of Royal Engineers in the nineteenth century brought the smoothly functioning Rideau Canal system out of a wilderness of bogs, lakes and inland land. Prisons Are Not Hotels

Granby La Voix de l'Est

Maximum security prisons designed for the most hardened criminals are not and never can be palaces or hotels. The courts do not send criminals to these institutions so that they can live comfortably until they are set free.

A lawyer's duty is to defend the conditions at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary are inhuman and it is a prisoner's duty to ensure that the laws are aware of the situation, he said, the government will have to close the institution down.

Is it really the hard conditions that lead prisoners to escape or are they a matter of determination to regain their freedom?

It seems that in the last few years a great deal of importance has been attached to the prisoner's lot, their comfort in jail and their rehabilitation even if it's a question of a criminal who will never reform.

If one attached as much importance to the lot of their victims, to the consequences of their crimes, one would perhaps be a little more sympathetic with those from whom society is protecting itself by placing them behind bars.

We doubt that, taking into account the character of criminals, they are subjected to the inhuman conditions described by the lawyer.

Let us hope that the current inquiry will only reveal the real cruelties of these escapes, that those responsible will be punished and that the necessary steps count the character of criminals security.

Five-Year Decline

Uruguay Example of Democracy Destroying Itself

JOHN D. HARRIGAN
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Tiny Uruguay battered and split by terrorism and the worst urban guerrilla outbreaks in the Western Hemisphere, is a sad example of how a democracy can destroy itself.

There have been many other democracies in our time, where fate as a genuine democratic state was sealed by outside external events. Czechoslovakia carved into pieces at Munich in 1938 to save a peace which didn't exist, always comes to mind.

The democracies of Western Europe, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark and Norway which themselves lost their freedoms under German occupation in the Second World War, also come to mind. But again they were victims of military conquest and war.

Uruguay, often styled "the Switzerland of South America," has lost her democratic prosperity for reasons more subtle and difficult to grasp, but in the long run, just as destructive.

A decade ago, this small, Spanish-speaking republic, tucked between her giant neighbors and Argentina particularly, was still able to pay her way through her staple beef and wheat exports to Western Europe and North America.

Her political parties battled for power in more or less the same fashion they do in Western European democracies. When the right presidential candidate was missing, political consensus was sophisticated enough to permit a council of nine to rule in place of a president.

Uruguay was earning enough and had a broad enough middle class base to launch a moderate welfare state, providing free services and a national pension scheme.

At the same time, her big neighbors were experiencing extremist governments of one kind or another, Brazil switching from a pro-Marshall Democrat president to the present regime of military generals and Argentina a populist pendulum between elected and self-appointed military regimes.

Suddenly, over a five year period, democracy in Uruguay fell apart. No one can give categorical reasons why, because it did not happen through the Latin American pattern of revolutionary change.

Something inside the Uruguayan people withered away. Their sense of achievement died up. The cities became the major suppliers of goods and services. The once much vaunted social services ramified. Laws were passed permitting retirement pensions to begin at the prime of a man's career.

A group of young lawyers, doctors and journalists organized themselves into the militantly neo-Marxist Tupamaros — who saw the decay as a sign of corrupt government and were seeking public support.

Named after an Indian chief tortured and murdered by the Spanish in the 18th Century, they first performed the glamorous role of stealing from the rich and giving to the poor. Cases and gambling dens were prime targets at the start. Their antics won public praise.

But not suddenly. They also choosed into killers, and major kidnappers of the second order, who sealed off portions of Montevideo for days at a time to prove their strength against organized police and military forces.

Today, Uruguay has full press freedom, severely controlled only by the threat of the Tupamaros are almost a city state within a state. Thus, Uruguayan democracy remains a dried husk. No one knows how to rejuvenate it again.

Toronto Theology Professor Takes Issue With Pope Paul

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Joanne Dewart, a professor of theology at St. Michael's College here, said Thursday she is totally opposed to the keeping of women from functions in the church."

She was one of several women religious leaders to comment on Pope Paul's recent restriction of all forms of formal church ministry to men.

"Granting that women are as much Christians as men, granted that the apostles were men because of the Jewish background from which they came, I oppose the movement to put women in a secondary status," she said.

"I don't see women as having that distance to rule from men. Some are suited for teaching, some are not. Some are suited for work in parishes, some are not."

Mrs. Glen Lucas, wife of a minister and former president of the Anglican Right-hod Church Women Associated of Canada, believes that if women are given proper theological training, there is no reason why they cannot be ordained.

Sister Mary Ann Donovan of St. Joseph's College School, completing her doctorate in theology, told of a woman calling her Thursday moving when the news of Pope Paul's statement arrived.

"She was in tears because she was 'so frustrated,'" Sister Mary Ann said. "She had been hoping for encouragement.

"We need an expanded role for women. I don't think that whether one is a man or a woman should be a norm for being ordained a priest. It is history and culture that bar women working in the ministry of the church."

Admitting that the papal statement may have sounded negative, Most Rev. George Cardinal Flahiff, archbishop of Winnipeg, an internationally recognized spokesman on the question of women in the church, emphasized his view that no real change had come about.

He said a study on the matter has been initiated in Rome and until its results have been declared terminated, "all that we're before—permissions for women to read in church, in certain circumstances to distribute communion, still stands.

"What the Pope is saying," Cardinal Flahiff said, "is that anyone who would like to have these things signified, made permanent by ordination—this additional thing is for men only."

We Err as Did Babel Builders

Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

The account of the building of the Tower of Babel is given in the 11th chapter of Genesis and comes before the call of the patriarchs. More than once it led to be debunked and rebuilt. After the death of Hammurabi in the 18th century BC the Hittites tried to raze the mighty structure to the ground. Nebuchadnezzar had it restored in the 7th century BC. Its history certainly points back into the dim past.

The first fact which impresses me about the story is that it tells of a great edifice which failed to be 'achieved. Those primitive people said, "Come, let us build ourselves a city," and a tower with its top in the heavens, and let us make us a name for ourselves, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the earth.

They wanted to prove what human genius could accomplish. Unfortunately, they were hung-ing builders. What could be done at the outset divided them in the long run. Something fundamental went wrong and they were confused in more than one language. The heaven on earth which they planned became a sort of hell.

What of moderns? With centuries of evolution mushrooming everywhere, when was there ever more knowledge? With medical laboratories even predicting brain transplants, what is behind the potential of science? With hot lines between world capitals, who need be afraid of war? And with so many leisure hours, people are just bound to be happy that no elderly person goes unvisited or no new family is left out of things. Is it not simply grand? What nonsense! How unrealistic can one be?

We have been bungling build-ers, too. Dr. Harold Toynbee says that we all should realize and confess, "In the social and political fields, the battle for humanity against the ruinate savagery of human nature has to be fought by every human being, in his own soul. All mankind is responsible for man's inhumanity to man and will all need forgiveness before the light."

There is a story that, centuries ago, the Pope of Rome had a dream. He saw St. Peter's swaying in the wind, threatening to fall in ruins. Then he saw a little man run toward the swaying cathedral and prop it up with his hand. The Pope awoke in tears. The next day a man wearing a peasant's garb obtained an audience. His Holiness was amazed to recognize in the visitor the man whom he had seen in his dream.

"What are you going to do?" asked the Pope. "I am going on a great adventure," was the answer. "What is that adventure?" the Pope questioned. "I am going to save the Church," was the reply. "How are you going to set it?" the Pope inquired. "By obeying Jesus Christ," was the determined answer. The name of the person was Francis of Assisi.

Given such dedication each of us can so pull his own weight, in one way or another, as to save tottering homes, tottering churches, tottering administrations, tottering ethical standards in lives of folk whom we love, and a tottering world.

Now, since we have failed, it could be the better part of wisdom to inquire why those ancient builders bungled. They did not fail because of the madness of their project. Surely it is not mean or evil to build one as a goal the use of all possible powers of nature and man nature for the improvement of man's lot?

No more did they blunder for lack of effort. They put their best thought and ambition and zest into making their plan come true. The fact that they bungled things is not a reason that they took the easy way. They not only wished to have a modern city, but a matchless tower, but they willed these things. They put their efforts where their mouths were. Why, I repeat, did they blunder?

They blundered because they tried to leave God out. That left the mix their own devices. Nature abhors a vacuum. Thus, putting themselves in, they lost communication with or interest in their fellow men. Men as Gods! It was and remains an impossible task. The wreckage is growing all around us.

Lord Fisher of Lambeth World Figure in Church

SHERBORNE, England (AP) — Lord Fisher of Lambeth, former archbishop of Canterbury, admitted to hospital Thursday after suffering a stroke, died early Friday.

As archbishop of Canterbury, he was primate of the Anglican Church from 1945 to 1961 and was raised to the peerage after his retirement.

Lord Fisher retired in 1961 as leader of the world's 40 million Anglicans to a country parish in Dorset, but he remained an influential figure in the church.

The Most Rev. Geoffrey Gordeau Francis Fisher rose from being a country clergyman to head of the Anglican Church when he was 57. He was one of the youngest men ever to mount the ancient stone throne of Saint Augustine who founded the church.

It was a meteoric rise for a man who never served as a parish vicar or curate, but who was named bishop of Chester when he was 42.

By 1939, he was bishop of London, one of the top sees in the Church of England. As such he served by his side during the Second World War crises. He was archbishop of Canterbury.

Lord Fisher was probably the most widely known archbishop in history. His administration began with the television era in Britain and lasted through the history and era in which the Queen has played an unspoken role.

During the London blitz, Lord Fisher worked exquisite charm on bombed-out Cockneys in his crowded London diocese. Once more published visit by him he opened the doors of his Fulham Palace residence to 200 people who had lost their homes in Pond and did much to improve relations between the two major churches.

Lord Fisher, a brilliant administrator who established a tradition of a globe-trotting primate, often visited Canada and the U.S. promoting transatlantic co-operation.

The former primate was outspoken on many subjects, from advocating trade with mainland China to opposing pre-nuptiveness and condemning the opening of a Playboy Club in London.

For China, he said: "You don't trade without trust and anything that encourages the beginnings of trust is good." He added: "I have never thought Christianity to say you can't have anything to do with god less people."

MR. AND MRS. RAY SARLES

Sarles – Cotten

St. Mark's Anglican Church in Bonarlow was the scene of the August wedding when Joyce Ann Cotten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cotten of RR 5 Stirling exchanged vows with Murray Ray Sarles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Sarles of Picton. Rev. John Lombard officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Harry Neal rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Mary Dracup.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of crystal sheer with an empire waistline accented with Alencon lace and featuring a scissor front, full sleeves and a wedding band collar bordered with lace. The A-line skirt fell into a chapel train edged with Alencon lace. A long silk illusion cathedral veil fell from her wedding headpiece. She carried a crescent bouquet of white orchids with purple throat, white gladioli florets and ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Joan Wilson, twin sister of the bride wore a floor length gown of pink floral georgette with a picot taffeta trim. Her gown was styled with a tight fitting bodice, high round neckline and long full sleeves. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli florets and ivy entwined with white satin streamers.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Shirley Blackburn, sister of the bride and Miss Leona Sine were dressed identically to the matron of honor. The flower girl, Miss Heather Sine wore a gown similar to the bridesmaids but styled with puff sleeves with a daisy trim.

David Sarles, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Douglas Plumpton and Douglas Cotten, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the bride's mother greeted guests wearing a rose forrest polyester knit dress with a lacey knit trim on the sleeves and neckline, a matching sleeveless coat, white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations enhanced her ensemble.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a blue floral dress of imported delustred satin with a matching sapphire coat. White accessories and a corsage of blue and white carnations completed her dress.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a floral printed dress of polyester crepe with a sleeveless navy coat. A single white gardenia with stephanotis corsage accented her ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sarles will reside at RR3, Belleville.

WEDDING

BRUMMELL – URQUHART

It was a Highland Scottish wedding recently, at Clarkson Road Presbyterian Church when Sheila Janet, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Urquhart of Mississauga became the bride of Bradley Philip Brummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Brummel of Belleville.

The bride in her white lace gown and veil, wearing an Urquhart tartan sash, carrying a bridal cascade bouquet with trailing heather walked up the aisle with her father, who was dressed in kilts, to the music of Amazing Grace played by bagpipes and organ.

The bridesmaids, sisters of the bride — Jennifer and Joanne and Sheila Wright were gowns of blue, pink and yellow with similar bouquets and tartan ribbon streamers. The bridegroom's niece and nephew, Tammie and John Maxwell, children of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Maxwell of Bloomfield, were flower girl and ring bearer.

Andrew Pesar of Vancouver was best man. The ushers were Andrew Plummer of Grimsby and the bride's brother, John Urquhart, who was dressed in kilts.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur Morgan and the couple came down the aisle to the tune of My Bonnie Lassie.

The reception was at the Urquhart home where Mr. Urquhart opened the festivities by offering the Quaich in a two handled silver cup to the oldest piper. Among the out - of - town guests were Sheila's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bruce Urquhart and her great-uncle Lt. - Col. Jessie Urquhart of Ottawa.

Following a honeymoon trip to the coast of Maine, the couple will reside in Toronto where the bridegroom is in his fourth year architecture at Carleton University.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL WEBSTER

Webster – Webb

Rev. Laurie Sidherland and Father James McGillivray officiated at the September 2 wedding ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Janice Carolyn Webb and Michael Joseph Webster. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Webb of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen Webster of Kingston. Bob Leslie provided organ music during the ceremony.

The bride given in marriage by her father selected a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and peau de soie accented by a high collar and full Bishop sleeves with wide cuffs. A semi-attached open skirt of lace in a cut-away effect formed its own train. A shoulder length four tiered scalloped veil fell from her flower headband. The bride carried a Colonial bouquet of red roses and white mums.

Maid of honor, Miss Judith Webb, sister of the bride, selected a pink chiffon over taffeta gown. An empire waist, scooped neckline and full sleeves which were embroidered with lace highlighted her dress. A matching shoulder length veil fell from her pink flower headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white and pink mums.

Groomsman was John Webster of Kingston.

For the reception which was held in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. Hammett, Foster Ave., the bride's mother received guests wearing a floor length apricot crepe sheath gown enhanced by a mandarin collar, long sleeves and a beaded side accent. Gold accessories and a white carnation corsage completed her dress.

Hormones, Histerectomies and Doctors

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I could write a book on hysterectomies. Ever since mine I have been going through hell: and myself and my husband fall apart at the seams.

If ovaries are left, with me 32, why prescribe hormones? A specialist discontinued them saying they were the source of my problem. I don't trust anyone now.

I ache all over from the top of my head to the tip of my toes. What effect would hormones have if you took them and didn't need them?

Don't tell me to see a doctor: that is where it all began. Send me your pamphlet "Facing Facts" (38 cents excluded). — Pamphlets.

Dear Pamphlets: "Facing Facts" is on its way. This article was written in consultation with a gynecologist who is a very special kind of doctor.

Hormones have been known to help a great many people, but they must be individually prescribed depending on your special condition.

Many, many women have improved in health and in sex relations after hysterectomies which makes me think you have some special problem and need a doctor more than ever. If you don't trust your present one find another.

Dear Doris: My boys (age seven and eight) are doing very poorly at school.

I don't know anything about discipline. They seem to be so unorganized and getting worse. My husband is an oldfashioned Italian fellow who also very strict. He says the boys are like me, careless and irresponsible.

My husband says a school should take care of their own problems, but I feel I must some rules on how to help the boys because I have a two-year-old daughter and I don't want her to be undisciplined like them.

If they fail at school, then their father will hit them. — Where To Turn?

Dear Where: You shouldn't have to carry this whole responsibility, and then take blame from your husband. He has a business to run, but the boys are his job too.

Hitting people, criticism, punishment — this makes people obey out of fear — but it does grow loving and helpful adults?

As for seeking help, what's wrong with a PTA with a social worker? If your boy was sick, you'd call a doctor, wouldn't you?

Loving discipline means making a few simple rules, then being firm about them. Consult with your boys and together agree on what punishment goes with which disobedience. Be consistent.

Your children are not and need the control you are not giving them right now.

Dear Doris: Should the wedding cake face towards the bride and groom or the guests? We had a wedding the other day and I faced the cake toward the bride and groom until it was time to cut the cake.

Then the waitress turned it so it was cut in the back and looked nice for pictures to be taken. Was this proper?

Also, should the waitress serve the head table from the front or work from behind the head table groom? — Newlywed's Friend.

Dear Friend: The wedding cake should face the guests. The waitress serves the head table the way she does the others — working from behind each guest, including the bride and groom.

Ann Landers

Second Wife's Regrets

Dear Ann Landers: I am a second wife who is looking back at her mistakes. Perhaps this letter will save some other second wife from being as foolish as I was.

George and I were long-time friends. His wife died within weeks of my husband. We decided to marry a few months ago. We moved into my home instead of his. George and I agreed that his daughters could have whatever they wanted from his place. Many lovely antiques, paintings and silver were picked over by the girls. We kept nothing.

This home reflects my history, my family background, my taste—and nothing of George's. Now I regret not having saved a few of his treasures for conversation pieces. I feel like a thief. "That painting belonged to George's mother. Let him tell you about it."

If I had it to do over I'd have insisted that George keep everything and dole out the treasures one by one. They would have been appreciated instead of taken for granted.—No Name

Dear N.N.: You make more than one point in your letter. I think your last sentence is the most revealing. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is 13, dependable, and we were proud of him—until five months ago when he started to date this girl, who is also 16.

Burt started coming home as late as 1 a.m. after keeping the girl company on babysitting jobs. I didn't like it and said so. He told me I had a dirty mind. When I came home from shopping and found Burt and the girl locked in the house, I raised some question as to what they were up to. I was informed that if anything was going to happen it could happen in a car or in the bushes or what have you. Again I was told I had a dirty mind.

I came home from a meeting at 2:30 p.m. and Burt and the girl were sitting in the car, necking like crazy. At first I thought it was just him at the wheel. When I got nearer I saw that she was sitting on his lap. That did it. I told her this was indecent behavior and she was not welcome in our home.

Now my son is not speaking to me.

All signs point to sex between Burt and this girl. I've been told it is none of my business. If the girl gets pregnant will it be my business then?

I am sure other mothers are having this trouble. Please help us all.—Generation gapped

Dear Gapped: Your son is what I call "mother deaf." He has tuned you out. Get professional counselling. Burt is not going to change his behavior unless you change yours. He needs counselling too, but he would probably refuse it until you learn how to handle your anger and frustration.

Dear Ann Landers: A nephew who lived with us (he had trouble with his parents) moved into our home last year) died unexpectedly. In the last week several letters arrived, addressed to him by name. Should we pass them on to his parents, destroy them, or return them to the senders? If you say return them, should we write on the envelope "Deceased" or "Party not known."—Sad Aunt

Dear Aunt: The letters should be returned to the senders. The most considerate approach would be to write a personal note advising the sender that the boy has passed away recently of an illness. Your note should be attached to the unopened letter and mailed in your own envelope.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

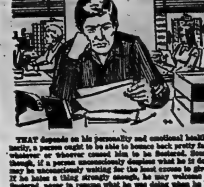
RIVER VALLEY — River Valley Women's Institute convened at the centre on Thursday, September 7 with 23 members and three visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Alex Bush and Mrs. Ross Bush were the hostesses. Mrs. Jack Bush, the Resolutions Convener, introduced the guest speaker, Robert Ord a barrister in Belleville who performs the legal duties in Sidney Twp.

Mr. Ord based his very informative message on what women should know about by law. He stressed that everyone should make a will and have it properly executed and have an executor appointed who understands your affairs. It is far more expensive for the court to administer the estate if there is no will. Another point noted was: a marriage causes a forfeiture of wills become invalid. Mr. Ord discusses succession duties, capital gains tax, and property held jointly and other noteworthy items regarding the law.

Mrs. John Mowat voiced appreciative thanks and presented a gift to Mr. Ord.

During the business period, a committee was appointed for the Scout banquet. It was announced that the Trent Valley Area Convention will be held in the Northminster United Church, Peterbrough. The theme will be 'Union With Action', Mrs. Roy Tucker, President of Hastings West District will visit the River Valley W.I. on October 5.



During the social hour, refreshments were provided by Lois Hoard, Hazel Morgan and Helen Brooks

Mrs. Ernest Carr expressed thanks.

Master of Your Mind

by ANNE CAMPBELL

Can a flustered person function?

THAT depends on his personality and emotional health. Ordinarily, a person ought to be able to bounce back pretty fast from whatever or whoever caused him to be flustered. Sometimes, though, if a person unconsciously despises what he is doing, he may be unconsciously waiting for the least excuse to give it up. If he takes a thing strongly enough, he may welcome getting flustered, never in earnest that he was doing when he became flustered.

Do parents resent school discipline?

MANY parents will say: what discipline? Some others, though, do resent a teacher who can discipline their child. They resent the teacher's ability to hasten their progress in "on the line" willingly, something the resentful parents cannot do even with threats, punishment or bribes. Some parents resent the teachers, too, for being able to discipline the child without "downgrading" either the child or the parents.

Is it safe to rag a meek husband?

YES; a woman ignores a meek husband realizes how domestic being she can be if she nags him. If he is indeed meek, the wife knows she could seriously damage his personality if he is the sort who is meek just up to a point, his nagging might bring her swift a change in him. If he changes from a strong, give-and-take man, his sudden meekness in the face of her nagging should warn his wife to be on the lookout for clues to his mental health.

WHAT TRAVEL-BOOKS NEVER PRINT

"Good company in a journey makes the way to seem the shorter." — Izaac Walton.

Travel-books are books with facts about places, but without mention of all the coincidences; the unusual things that happen when one travels," observes Mrs. Victor (Mary) Simonds, 185 Dufferin Avenue.

For example, she speaks of a recent visit to Scotland with her family, and says:

"We visited Stirling Castle. There we noted many soldiers in Red Coats, guarding about the castle-grounds. We learned that a movie was being made 'on location' entitled 'Kidnapped'." Which by the way (at time of writing) was being shown in Belleville.

"While in the Castle," continues Mrs. Simonds, "another tourist came up and enquired if we were Scottish.

"I answered that we were from Canada, but of Scottish blood.

"What part of Canada are you from?" she asked.

"I told her Belleville, Ontario.

"You wouldn't by any chance know a friend of mine who lives in Belleville?" she wished to know.

"And did you?" we ask.

"I could only answer with an amazed 'Yes, we do!' for she named a Belleville acquaintance of ours."

Later, after speaking with Mrs. Simonds, we met and spoke with a much travelled Belleville visitor, a house guest of Miss Leona Riggs, 21 Queen Street. She is Mrs. Phyllis Elling of New Jersey; who has just returned from Iran from a visit with her son (and his family) who is employed by an oil company there.

While travel-books (as Mrs. Simonds mentioned) speak of such enchanting places perhaps it is safe to say none will have recorded that:

There were four passengers on the freighter Mrs. Elling took to Iran. They discovered each lived within a 50 mile radius of one another on land.

During her four day stay in Reykjavik, Iceland (where Mrs. Elling lodged with an Icelandic family, where there is no pollution problem, where natural hot springs supply homes with heat and flowers and vegetables grow in hothouses in warm soil of the hot springs), she missed the opening of the Fisher-Spassky chess game due to the late beginning, for her plane left Belleville station, a hours before the game finally began.

Then it is the surprising, little human touches and encounters that keep the world akin — which never seem to find the way between the covers of a travel book.

Pass true — and thank you, Mrs. Simonds.

Michigan Housewife Shops Once A Year

ROMEO, Mich. (AP) — To save time who she goes grocery shopping, Mrs. John Koss of Almont makes up a list—13 pages long. But then, Mrs. Koss does this once only a year.

Mrs. Koss has been buying groceries in gross quantities ever since she decided to start college three years ago. The only items she buys on a weekly basis are meat, produce, bread, milk and eggs. The milk, eggs and bread are delivered and several months ago her husband purchased a steer and had it butchered.

High School Football Gap Could Widen

By ERIC EMERSON

At Centennial, the senior Chargers have 32 players out for this year's team which is faced with the unenviable task of knocking off Quinte or Trenton for a spot in the Western Division playoffs.

"We've got a pretty good offensive line, so we should be able to run the ball," explains coach Pat Carty.

"We've been stressing conditioning, particularly sprints, during the pre-season workouts and they're starting to work into shape."

Phil Ennion will be on the other end of Centennial's forward passes this season, making the transition to quarterback from offensive end. He'll have hard - running fullback Rob Vanderwater in the backfield while Colin McIntyre, another of the eight returning veterans will anchor the defensive line.

At Moira and BCI the football problem is quantity rather than quality. Both schools have a number of standouts returning this season, and both have had unusually small turnouts. They figure to be in a three-way fight with Napanee for Eastern Division honors.

Hugh Cook's defending divisional champion Trojans have a number of top players back from last year's team, but have had only 25 candidates attending pre-season practice. Seven of these played for Moira seniors last summer.

BCI faces a similar problem. "We've got 27 good ballplayers, but that's all we've got. Injuries could really hurt us," informs head coach Bill Miller. The Collegians got off on the right foot with a 48-0 pre-season win over Picton. "We don't have much size, so we're going to have to rely on quickness," said Miller. "Against Picton we were closing up the holes pretty quickly and we had six or seven men in on some of the tackles."

Roll-out quarterback Peter LeBaron will be one of the 15 returning veterans along with standout fullback Rick Bell and two-way lineman Keith Watson.

Napanee coach Eric Bartlett, whose team was one of the pleasant surprises last season, predicts a gloomy outlook for this year's blue-and-gold. "Right now, we look like we could be one of the league's weak, dark horses," he forecast. "we've lost the majority of good linemen."

The Napanee seniors started out with 60 players attending the first practice, "but a lot of them have been packing it in," noted Bartlet. Six of last year's team will be returning to action.

At Centre Hastings, first-year coach Barry Pyear has had problems assembling a full squad. "It's a little better now," he related. "We've got about 24 players out now. It's tough to get them because we've had losing teams in the past and because there are so many other sports going on at the same time." A total of 18 Centre Hastings seniors in turn from last season, but that is balanced by the fact that eight players will be getting their initial taste of football action.

The Madoc school opens Bay of Quinte action Tuesday against Trenton.

Bayside coach Dan Lietaer admits that "inexperience will probably be our biggest problem," as his school fields a senior team for the first time. Among the, quality players he'll have on hand will be John Loder, a standout with Moira's powerful junior Trojans and Al McIntyre, one of the top Bayside juniors.

"There's nothing surer, the rich get rich and the poor get poorer; in the meantime, in between time — ain't we got fun".

The 1972 Bay of Quinte COSSA senior football league would certainly appear to justify these and song lyrics. League powers from Quinte Secondary and Trenton are indeed getting richer in football talent while early indications are that weak sisters such as Picton and Centre Hastings are going to remain just that.

The "fun" should be supplied by the middle - of - the - road teams like Moira, Centennial, BCI and Napanee. Will they present a serious threat to the gruesome twosome or sink to the precarious position that some football programs find themselves in?

With five Bay of Quinte championships in six coaching seasons and 15 returning players from his 1971 COSSA champions, Quinte's Rick Locke can be taken at his word when he predicts that "we're going to be fairly strong this year."

The darkest shadow on the Saints' bright title hopes appears to come from Trenton, where coach Tom Nigro admits that, "this is probably the biggest team I've ever fielded." The black - and - gold clad Tigers defeated Quinte 16-8 last year during the regular season, handing the Saints their third loss in seven seasons.

The Saints' most noticeable loss from last season won't be stellar running backs' Paul Hall and Bill Kirkham or tough defensive ends Wayne Harrison and Mike Whalen or even their entire starting defensive backfield. It will be offensive coach Jack Simms. "Hunk" Puddicf at Quinte since the school was built. He is principal of Trenton high school this year.

The offence however will be in the capable hands of Paul Peddon, winner of the Hec Creighton Trophy in 1970 as the most valuable collegiate player in Canada. "Sergeant Peddon" as he's affectionately known by the troops has been placing a heavy emphasis on pre-season conditioning.

"We've been lucky enough to replace one football fanatic with another one. They're both really dedicated," smiled Locke concerning the coaching switch.

"We've got our entire offensive line except for centre back and while all of our defensive backs are green, they may be faster than last season. We'll have to see how they perform in a game," says Locke.

He picks Trenton, "who are always tough" and Napanee as possible teams to beat while, "Bayside may surprise some people."

At Trenton, the Tigers are combining eight first stringers from last season, some helpful transfers and graduates of last year's junior champions into what could be their best team since Nigro's 1969 COSSA championship.

"I know that we've got talent this season, but I'm not certain about the over-all quality. We lost some good ball players like Steve Spaul and (Jim) Ransom," advises Nigro. "I think we've got more depth than we've had other years," he adds.

Among the returning Trenton players are offensive scatback Duncan Armstrong running back Don Armstrong, quarterback Dave Harvey and centre linebacker Chris Hyatt. Transfers Brad and Garth Mitchell are among the most impressive physical specimens on the Trenton team. Both brothers range in the 230-pound neighborhood.

Holding Jr. Tigers May Not Be Easy

Bay of Quinte COSSA junior football entries may find it a little easier to hold the Tigers this year, but they'll probably pick up as many claw marks testing the defending champions' defence.

Trenton coach Joe DiCrese feels that this year's junior Tigers are "comparable to last year's, although pretty well all of our offensive line has graduated to senior." Last year Trenton bested Bayside in the junior championship game.

Trenton will return 12 veterans from last year's team with eight of them slated for the defensive squad. Carrying much of the offensive burden for 1972 will be quarterback Dave Lewis, fullback Mark Peters, end Paul Whaley and guard Doug Sheridan, the four second year starters.

Bayside could once again prove to be Trenton's most formidable opponents. "We've got a pretty big team this year," notes head coach Gord Smith. "we usually average about 175 pounds on the line." Smith, whose team made it to the finals in their first year of play last season, will send his team against Centennial in their opening game next Wednesday.

The Chargers head man, Pat Asselstine feels that his team is, "fairly husky. We have some big boys. They haven't been hitting that hard in practice but I'm hoping they will once the competition starts." Only four Centennial juniors return from last year, including quarterback Rob Dedora and flanker Kevin Solmes.

Quinte had about 70 players out to their initial practice and according to coach Barry Turpin, "we should have more size than last year, but it's hard to tell about ability."

Moira's Dave Sneddon is in the same quandry. "We've got about 60 boys out, but there's really no way to tell just how good they are until we've played a few games." A total of 12 members of last year's eastern division champions will be suiting up this season. Defensive tackle Brian Spencer and halfback Mike McClelland figure to rank among the top players.

Picton coaches Don Cummins and Joe Scott have about 35 candidates from which to pick their starting line-up for Wednesday's meeting with Moira.

BCI's junior Collegians will return a total of 18 players this season including 1971 standouts Russ Simonds, Larry Wilson and Brian Roach. Napanee will not field a junior team this season, with Albert College moving up from the "A" ranks to fill their Eastern division position.

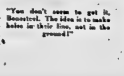
Who's That Knocking?

Head-knocking is part of the preparation for a successful football season and the 1971 Bay of Quinte COSSA champions are taking that route towards defence of their titles. Pete Hastings of the junior champion Trenton Tigers is jolted by the gang tackling of his teammates in a scrimmage session (top), while Quinte Secondary seniors, Stu Bodreiman and Richard Niles get a workout on the heavy bag (bottom). Both teams will be attempting to repeat as high school football champions when the season gets under way Tuesday.



Ray Johnston Bids For Spot In Golden Seals Chain

Ray Johnston is bidding to make the California Golden Seals organization a "family affair" this season.

James, who said later he expected to be cut by the National Hockey League club even before the regular game, got help in the intra-squad game from Tom Cassidy, the Seals' No. 1 junior draft choice last June who was with Kitchener Rangers of the Ontario Hockey Association Jullior A Series. Al Payeti and Tim Jacobs.

Scoring for the Greens were Peter Vipond, with two, Morris Mott and Harland Monahan.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — California Golden Seals announced Friday they had signed veteran defenceman

"You don't seem to get it, Beauvieu. The idea is to make holes in their line, not in the ground!"

night, but was held scoreless in a game won 6-1 by the Golds.

He would be the second brother to join the California chain. Joe, another member of the talented Peterborough family, played for the Golden Seals last season. A third brother, Jim was the Eastern Ontario Junior B scoring lead er last year and is bidding for a spot with the Petes of the OHA Junior A League.

Bobcat Scores for Seals

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Ed Dick Redmond. No details of the signing were disclosed.

Redmond, brother of Detroit Red Wings' Mickey Redmond, scored three goals Friday night, leading the Golds past the Greens 6-4 in a rookie warmup game at California Gold Seals training camp.

Redmond, brother of Detroit Red Wings' Mickey Redmond, last year broke two offensive club records for defencemen of 35 assists and 45 points.

Bobcats Sign Former Rivals

Paul Lavender, Ken Holmes and Larry McQuaid will be cats of a different color this season, Belleville to be exact.

The threesome signed this week with the Belleville Bobcats to compete in the Toronto Metro Junior B league. It will be a different role for the former who helped backstop the Bobcat last winter as members of the Picton entry in the Eastern Ontario Junior B league.

Lavender, a centre, and Holmes, a left winger, have seen Junior B action with Picton and the Trenton Golden Hawks, while left winger McQuaid was the leading Picton last season.

They join the eight players already signed by the Belleville Bs which includes Tim Yoho, Dave Horwood, Bill Jarket, Rick Mercier, Rob Foster, Neil Turner, Wally Durand and Bob Moore.

"We're looking pretty good right now," cuncceded coach Moe Hunter who will be eyeing a number of the 30 or so candidates on hand for the Belleville scrimmages.

The B's have a Sunday practice slated for 6.30 p.m. and plan to stage an intra-squad game when they move next week to the Memorial Arena. Their first exhibition test will come next Friday when the Peterborough Lions journey here for a 9p.m. bat tle.

The Bobcats also have an exhibition game with Kingston's Jr. A Junior "C" entry on tap provided they can be slated to face Toronto St. Michael's on that date.

Double Trouble

Ken Holmes and Paul Lavender are two of the players the Belleville Bobcats are hoping will trouble opposing Toronto Metro Junior B netminders this season. The pair, who played with Picton in the Eastern Ontario Junior B League this season, have signed to perform with the Bobcats in their first season of metro competition. The Belleville B's will open their exhibition schedule next Friday against the Peterborough Lions.

Kilmer To Open For Redskins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There is something about Washington, Redskins coach George Allen recently said of quarterback Billy Kilmer, "I don't know if it's charisma or whatever".

That, perhaps, explains why Allen has named Kilmer to start Washington's opener Monday night against the fierce Vikings in Minnesota.

That game wraps up the first weekend of National Football League action. The rest comes Sunday, with Miami Dolphins at Kansas City Chiefs, Philadelphia Eagles at Dallas Cowboys, Atlanta Falcons at Chicago Bears, Green Bay Packers at Cleveland Browns, Houston Oilers at Denver Broncos, Cincinnati Bengals at New England Patriots, New York Jets at Buffalo Bills, New Orleans Saints at Los Angeles Rams, New York Giants at Detroit Lions, St. Louis Cardinals at Baltimore Colts, Oakland Raiders at Pittsburgh Steelers and San Diego Chargers at San Francisco 49ers.

When Kilmer was with New Orleans and Allen was coach at Los Angeles, "we played them twice a year," Angeles recalls. "The Saints should never have been in those games, but Bill made them close. The guy has a burning desire to win."

So when Allen switched to Washington, his first trade was for Kilmer—and it couldn't have been a better one. No. 1 quarterback Sonny Jurgensen suffered a shoulder injury, Kilmer took over, led the 'Skins to five straight victories at the start of the 1971 season and a final 9-4-1 record, Washington's best in 25 years.

There's bound to be a difference in the Vikings' moving and scoring this season with Frank Tarkenton back. Last year, relying heavily on the defence to pull them through, they averaged less than 18 points a game and yielded less than 10.

Now they've got the scrambler and Tarkenton, after spending five seasons with the Giants, has been impressive back with Minnesota, where he spent his first six pro years.

Miami's visit to Kansas City has the Chiefs sky-high. In their last meeting, the Dolphins pulled out a 27-24 playoff victory in the second period of overtime.

The Cowboys, with Craig Morton at quarterback have strengthened their new-what game. The Eagles, with Ed Khayat beginning his final full season as head coach, hope they can maintain the momentum that made them respectable last year, when they won four of their last five games.

Abe Gibron, making his debut as the Bears' coach, will probably have Jim Harris as a rookie Roger Leswan in the backfield against the Falcons, led by Bob Berry.

A thundering ground game is in store as Cleveland sends Leroy Kelly and Bo Scott, formerly with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference, against Green Bay's John Brockington and MacArthur Lane. In Denver, it's a debut for two coaches as Bill Peterson sends his Oilers against John Ralston's Broncos.

Virgil Carter will quarterback the Bengals since Ken Anderson has jammed fingers on his throwing hand. The Patriots, with Jim Plunkett, are at full strength.

Coaches Stick To Guns

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Success didn't spoil Jack Gotta or Jerry Williams.

The respective coaches of Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats are going with the same lineups that registered victories in Eastern Football Conference action a week ago.

The Riders tripped up Montreal Alouettes 28-22 while Hamilton stopped Toronto Argonauts 22-18.

This afternoon at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa, it was the rugged Rough Rider defence again trying to snuff out Hamilton's exciting offence spearheaded by rookie quarterback Chuck Ealey.

That game was carried on the CBC-TV's eastern network.

The other weekend game in the east goes tomorrow at Montreal where the Als are host to British Columbia Lions in an interlocking Canadian Football League game to be seen on CBC's national network.

Both games are scheduled for 2 p.m. EDT kickoff.

Ealey came in for praise Friday from Ottawa general manager Frank Clair who, in a disjointed fashion, couldn't understand why 2,000 seats were still available at the Park.

"I think they would want to see that Hamilton quarterback," offered Clair. "He's exciting and he's going to be a good one."

Stacking up against Ealey and the Tracts is the stingy Rough Rider defences assembled by George Brancato, the former CFL player and now the astute overseer of the Ottawa defensive.

The Riders have yielded a meagre 14.5 points a game in compiling a 5-1 won-loss mark, their lone loss coming on a 17-16 setback to the Tracts on Ian Sunter's last-play field goal.

Olympics In Jeopardy

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Unless severe changes are made in the Olympics, the Games have only eight to 12 years to live, the president of the United States Track and Field Federation predicted Friday.

Carl Cooper, just back from the Olympics in Munich, said the Games will go the way of their ancient counterparts, banned in the fourth century by a Roman emperor.

"I think the Olympics are doomed for several reasons," Cooper said. "First, they are becoming too political. Every country is trying to outdo the other."

Two other factors that could cause the Games' downfall are the huge expense of housing them and dissatisfaction, especially among American athletes, with amateurism rules, he said.

Palmer Cools Yankees, Red Sox Still in First

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Palmer cuddled a bottle of domestic champagne and plopped off the cork. Victory No. 20.

"I told the clubhouse boy to get domestic for us, I can wait for the Imported stuff, until after we win the playoffs and the World Series," said the Baltimore Oriole pitcher after beating New York Yankees 3-1 Friday night.

Unless the other three contenders in the American League East race do a fast fadeaway, Palmer may have to wait longer than he thinks for expensive champagne.

Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers and the Yankees no doubt will have something to say about the outcome of the zany pennata Twins stayed Kansas East race before it's over.

As a result of Friday night's 4-3 victory over Cleveland Indians, the first-place Red Sox continue to hold a one-game lead in the hottest pennant chase since 1967.

The Tigers are in second after a 2-1 decision over Milwaukee Brewers while the Orioles remain 1½ games behind third place. The Yankees are in fourth place, 2½ games back.

The situation is a little more certain in the West where Oakland Athletics command a four-game lead over Chicago after beating Texas Rangers 12-2 while the White Sox were losing 7-6 to California Angels in 11 innings.

Elsewhere Friday night, Minnesota Twins edged Kansas City Royals 4-3.

Staked to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Boog Powell's three-run homer, Palmer was tagged for Johnny Bench's homer in the seventh and departed in the eighth after giving up a single, Grant Jackson came in to preserve the victory.

In the last four games, Powell has knocked in 10 runs with three homers.

Reggie Smith, who's been hot for Boston of late, doubled home the winning run with two out in the ninth inning for the Red Sox. Earlier, he hit a two run homer.

Norm Cash came through with a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth to help Detroit keep pace with the Red Sox.

Mike Epstein drilled a three-run homer and Matty Alou belted a three-run double to power Oakland's victory. The Athletics scored seven unearned runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Leo Cardenas drove in the winning run with an 11th-inning bloop single as California beat Chicago behind Rudy May's six-hitter. Dick Woodson and Dave LaRoche combined on a three-hitter for the lead Minnesota over Kansas City.

"I'm tired," said Carlton, who surrendered 10 hits. "My arm was dead. I just didn't have it."

Still the gritty lefthander hung on to tie Chicago White Sox's Wilbur Wood as the top winner in the majors this season.

"Yeah," grunted Carlton, "but he pitches every two days. I'm not going to be with him."

The difference, however, is that Wood is pitching for a contender. The tall-end Phillies have the worst record in baseball with just 26 victories and Carlton has won almost half of those.

Even though they lost, the Reds remained eight up in the National League West and were not go knocked off by Los Angeles.

Claude Osteen tossed four-hitter to run his life-time record against the Astros to 21-11.

Pittsburgh's magic number is two. The Pirates remained at third Simmons drove home four St. Louis runs, three of them on his 20th homer in the fifth and Reliever Jim Hickman tagged a grand slam home run and Jose Cardenal and Billy Williams also connected, leading Chicago past New York. Mets Pappas run his record to 14-7, winning his eighth straight.

Fred Wrecks Red Machine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don't try to sell that Big Red Machine stuff to San Diego's Fred Norman. Or this little San Padres' left-hander. Cincinnati's powerful National League West leaders are about as scary as a pixie kiddie-car.

Cincinnati, boasting one of baseball's most awesome attacks, has lost only 11 games all season to lefties. But four of those defeats have come against Norman, the latest a 1-0 decision Friday night in which the Padre pitcher struck out 16.

The victory evened Norman's record for the season at 9-9, 4-4 against the Reds.

Elsewhere Friday, Philadelphia Phillies topped Montreal Expos 5-3, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Pittsburgh Pirates 10-4, Los Angeles Dodgers trimmed Houston Astros 4-3 and Chicago Cubs routed New York Mets 9-3.

Norman's mastery of the Reds has been contagious for the Padres. San Diego, running into got knocked off by Los Angeles.

Claude Osteen tossed four-hitter to run his life-time record against the Astros to 21-11.

John Bench and get away with them."

Steve Carlton struggled to his 20th victory of season as the Phillies whipped Montreal. Willie Montanez drove in three runs and Greg Luzinski tagged a two base measure homer for the Phils.

"I was tired," said Carlton, who surrendered 10 hits. "My arm was dead. I just didn't have it."

Trevino in Contention

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Steady Beman and Don Bies while Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino traveled a spectacular path in the $150,000 Greater St. Louis Golf Classic Friday.

Beman, aiming at his first Professional Golfers Association title of the year, widened his lead to two strokes with a three-under 33-34—67 over the par-70, 6,550-yard Norwood Hills Country Club course.

Trevino, thanks to what he called a "lucky break" at No. 13, carved a 31-35—66 that left him second, just ahead of Bies.

At the midway point, Beman owned a 64-67—131, tying him for the low 36-hole score on the PGA circuit this year.

Trevino was positioned at 133 and Bies moved up to third with a birdie-speckled front nine producing 68-65—134. Abner Kreft the Texas Rangers 12-2 Stadler of the 72-hole test, Ben Kern of Toronto led the way with a 70 Friday for 137.

Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg had a 69 and 139 followed by two Toronto golfers at 143, George Knudson with a 71 and Gary Bowerman with 67.

Ken Fulton of Montreal, with his second successive 73, would up at 146.

For Trevino, the 13th hole, lined at the right by houses held nearly as many thrills as his meteoric rise to golf riches the last five years.

He hit a drive off the heel of his wood that was seemingly headed for play. But, as luck would have it, the screaming ball hit a trash box at the boundary and stayed inbounds.

"I couldn't believe it!" Trevino exclaimed. "I started to reach for another ball and the marshal said, 'You're okay.'

I said, 'You've got to be kidding. That ball's got to be in somebody's bedroom or rolling down the street!'"

Fortified by the fortune, Trevino birdied the next hole, bogeyed the 15th and birdied No. 17.

Asked if he intended to pay for damage to the trash box, the British Open champ quipped: "If they want to charge me, they can take it out of the $30,000 first prize I'm going to win."

Team Canada Wins -- Against Team Canada

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Team Canada, here to prepare for the second half of its eight-game series against Russia, played an intra-squad hockey game Friday.

Assistant coach John Ferguson broke a three-game losing streak when his Red team skated to a 5-5 tie with the Whites, handled by injured Boston superstar Bobby Orr.

Head coach Harry Sinden watched from the press box and said later: "I guess that shows we don't pass the puck too badly ourselves on a large ice surface like this."

The real losers were about 4,000 fans who paid $1 a ticket to watch the performance. The game, which started at 2 p.m. was advertised as starting at 3 and many fans were late.

One plus was the play of Serge Savard of Montreal Canadiens, who was injured during a workout in Winnipeg prior to the team's departure for Vancouver for the fourth game against the Russians. Savard skated well and took a regular turn in the intra-squad game.

Sinden said he would name his lineup for today's game against the Swedish national team following a stiff workout scheduled for the morning.

He said he wants to start Ed Johnson in goal either today or Monday against the Swedes. The Canadians go to Moscow for games Sept. 22, 24, 26, 28.

Savard assisted in the first goal Friday, firing from the point on to the slick of Yvan Cournoyer's stick. The victory was Rams' eighth in as many starts. Pan Rangers put the Whites up 2-0, Dennis Hull of Chicago Black Hawks made it 3-0 before the Reds could get untracked.

Ron Ellis of Toronto Maple Leafs started the comeback with a 20-foot blast. Then Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer fired a picture shot to the upper right corner.

Johnston, who replaced Ken Dryden early in the second period, fed a pass to Red Berenson of Detroit and the Red Wings centre scored on a solo rush up the middle.

Paul Henderson of Toronto and Mickey Redmond of Detroit traded passes before Marcel Dionne of the Wings and Henderson, again pulled the Reds into a tie in the last minute.

Ferguson, who now has three losses and one tie in three intra-squad games, pointed to the play of Dale Tallon of Vancouver, nominally a right-winger for the Canucks, who started flying on defence for the Red team.

Peterborough Panthers Plastered In Junior Football Tilt

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

	Undefeated	Scarborough
Rams	scored three touchdowns	in the second quarter and wal-
loped	Peterborough Panthers	43-1 in an Ontario Junior Football	Conference Eastern Divi-	sion game Friday.

At Scarborough, Guelph Gryphons scored first-quarter lead, increased it to 15-1 at the half and was ahead 36-1 after three-quarters.

At Burlington, the Braves counted two touchdowns in the first six minutes of play and went on to a 17-12 win over Sarnia Lakers. It was the fifth victory in eight games for Burlington while the Lakers have lost six of eight.

At Peterborough, Scarborough Sprint Inc. an 8-0 first-quarter lead, increased it to 15-1 at the half and was ahead 36-1 after three-quarters.

Who's in First?

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember back in April when the club owners dismissed games lost in the baseball player strike?

Those lost games could be a vital, and controversial, part of both American League races come October.

Contenders in each of the East and West divisions don't have uniform schedules as a result of the decision and could conceivably lose a pennant because of it.

There's a disparity between the four contenders in the red-hot East race. Detroit Tigers play 156 games, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox, 155, and Baltimore Orioles, 154.

The schedule is also irregular in the West, where Oakland Athletics play 155 games and Chicago White Sox 154.

Making things all the more interesting is the probable, down-to-the-wire finish in the East, where no more than three games have separate the top four clubs for weeks.

Of course, there are several possibilities, but consider the Lackluh in cities such as New York, Boston and Baltimore if the teams in the East all wound up with the same number of losses.

Then that division race would look like this on-Oct. 4, the end of the regular season:

	W	L	Pct.	GBL
Detroit	82	71	.536	—
New York	81	71	.533	½
Boston	81	71	.533	½
Baltimore	80	72	.526	1½

In the West, people in Chicago no doubt would be considerably unhappy if both the Athletics and White Sox wound up losing the same number of games.

If that happened, the final outcome would be:

	W	L	Pct.	GBL
Oakland	90	63	.581	—
Chicago	89	65	.578	½

Since the division titles will be decided solely on a percentage basis, a team could win fewer games, but still win a pennant. For instance, a Baltimore night finish with an 81-70 record and Detroit with 85-71 and the Orioles would win the division by a fingertip percentage—.54545 to .54467.

The office of the baseball commissioner recognizes the problem, but is keeping hands off.

"We have discussed it and decided to let things go as is," said a spokesman for commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "It's a problem, but we'll have to take our chances with it."

A special seven-man commission will be appointed by the president to assess the objectives of the Olympic movement and the role of the U.S. Olympic Committee in organizing and administering U.S. participation.

The propsha was adopted by voice vote as an amendment to a bill authorizing a $15.5-million federal grant to help build facilities for the 1976 Winter Olympic Games, to be held in Denver.

The bill is subject to consideration in the House of Representatives.

Duncan's Fading Stamps Face Red Hot Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Calgary Stampeders have won only two games this season but head coach Jim Duncan—outwardly at least—has not let it ruin his sense of humor.

As Duncan says, the only thing the Stampeders are doing different this year is: "We're losing."

Duncan's Stampeders face the highly explosive Winnipeg Blue Bombers today in one of two Western football conference games this weekend that may help clear the picture atop the league.

The Bombers are host to the Stampeders while Ikgaa-leading Edmonton Eskimos venture into Regina to meet Saskatchewan Roughriders Sunday. Edmonton now has 12 points followed by Saskatchewan and Winnipeg each with 10 points. Calgary with four and B.C. Lions with two.

Duncan spent hours Friday night exchanging jabs with reporters. Who will start as the Stampeder signal-caller against Winnipeg?

"Barclay Allen. Why not Barclay Allen? He's listed as a quarterback."

Duncan admitted a certain amount of complacency may have set in following Calgary's pre-season victory over the Canadian Football League All-stars, but refused to attribute the Stampeders' problems to that.

The Calgary head coach cited uncountable breaks against the Calgary club in games that seven games this season, shaking his head in disbelief.

The Stampeders added Doug Woodlief, a middle linebacker, to their line-up Friday and activated defensive halfback Floyd Priester.

"Woodlief may see some action in the middle also," said general manager Rogers Lewis. "We'll work him in gradually."

The Winnipeg staff, however, refuse to discount the Calgary club.

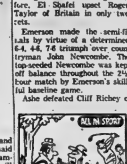
Both coach Jim Spavital and manager Earl Lunsford said the defending Canadian champions, despite their record, will be tough.

"We have to come up with our best football game of the season if we hope to win," Spavital said.

The Bombers added Canadian Mel Smith to fill out their active roster and go into the game healthy except for the absence of defensive halfbacks Doug Strong and Larry Kerchuk.

Edmonton coach Ray Jauch is struggling to keep the Eskimos in first place despite injuries to six regulars.

"It's no good feeling sorry for ourselves," we have to take the approach we can win despite injuries. Besides, we have our annual September crisis. don't we?



Usually the Eskimos face a losing season by mid September but in recent years whole scale changes have resulted in television winning streaks.

"They make only good play, or a series of good plays, and then we'll have a breakdown."

Familiar Names Absent

MONTREAL (CP) — A lot of familiar names will not be around this afternoon when the singles semi-finals are played at the International Tennis Tournament.

But then again, a couple, will. Two of the familiar names belong to Arthur Ashe of New York City and Australian Roy Emerson. The second-seeded Ashe will play Tom Okker of the Netherlands while Emerson meets Jaidip's surprising Ismail El Shafei.

El Shafei caused one of three surprises during Friday's quarter-final round when he dumped fifth-seeded Marty Riessen of Chicago 7-6, 7-6. The night before, El Shafei upset Roger Taylor of Britain in only two sets.

Emerson made the semi-finals by virtue of a determined 6-4, 4-6, 7-6 triumph over countryman Owen Newcombe. The top-seeded Newcombe was kept off balance throughout the 2½ hour match by Emerson's skilful baseline game.

Ashe defeated Cliff Richey of Dallas, Texas, 6-3, 6-4 while Okker dropped South Africa's fourth-seeded Cliff Drysdale 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

In doubles action, Okker and Riessen combined to defeat Emerson and Terry Addison of Australia 5-7, 7-6, 6-3, while South Africa's Bob Maud and the Ken Rosewall of Australia scored a 7-5, 6-3 win over El Shafei and Brian Fairlie of New Zealand.

Ashe will play Okker and El Shafei will meet Emerson in this afternoon's round with the winners advancing to Sunday's final. The singles champion will receive $18,000 and the runner-up $5,000.

All four players in the semi-finals already are guaranteed $2,500 each while the players they defeated Friday received $1,000 each.

The doubles draw for this afternoon will feature the Australian pair of Ray Ruffels and Bob Carmichael going against the second-seeded Okker-Riessen one in more match and Rosewall facing the British pair of Graham Stilwell and Mark Cox in the other.

The doubles winners will pocket $1,800, the losers $800.

Thirty-two players were originally entered when the $50,000 tournament began last Sunday. One, Mike Belkin of Montreal, dropped out before play got under way because of an injury.

Mackasey Explains Handling of Asians

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey said Friday the government's original estimate of accepting between 5,000 and 5,000 expelled Ugandan Asians still stands, although no quota has been established.

But there is a limit of sorts, he said in a telephone interview during the last day of his New Brunswick holiday.

"There is a limit—I'd have to explain to you how there's a limit."

There's no limit on the number of applications that we accept but there's a difference between applications that we accept and an ultimate decision. not only to accept the application, but land the person as an immigrant."

Mr. Mackasey had been asked to clarify information from department officials that no ceiling applies to the number Canada will accept.

He listed the immigration point system, medical examinations and the necessity of Ugandan exit permits as some of the factors that can prevent the arrival here of prospective immigrants.

But the minister did not rule out the possibility that a firm quota might be set once there is a clear indication of how many of the 55,000 expellees want to come and can pass immigration standards.

The emergency immigration station in Kampala has more than 7,000 application forms and 800 of the Asians have been accepted, subject to passing the medical examinations which started Friday.

The minister would not say whether a limit might exist on the number of charter aircraft seats that will be made available to move the Asians from Uganda.

"Theoretically, we don't know how many planes are going to be allowed to take off—still carriers under the Ugandan government."

President Idi Amin of Uganda, who ordered the expulsion, has said all those forced to leave the country must fly out by East African Airways, of which Uganda has part ownership. The Canadian government now is negotiating landing rights for Canadian aircraft but officials here said an agreement has not yet been reached.

NUDE NEGOTIATIONS

MANCHESTER (CP) — Twenty attractive strippers would not wear a new pay deal suggested by their nightclub employer, Joseph Smith. He proposed to drop the pay rate to £2.50 from £3 for five minutes stripping in return for more work. The girls picketed outside several Midlands clubs in protest and one, blonde Tiffany Jones, said: "We intend forming a strippers' union to make it worth while taking our clothes off."

Saskatchewan Man Sues Over Release of Killer

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP) — A Saskatchewan farmer who is suing the Saskatchewan government for negligence in the release of a man prison chief particulars of the negligence in Queen's Bench court Friday.

The writ against the government was issued on May 31 by John Allan Pearson of Spirit wood, who said the government was negligent in releasing a prisoner, who subsequently shot and killed the farmer's 15-year-old son July 30, 1971.

Mr. Pearson claimed more than $1,000 in damages.

The writ alleged Stephen Burton Skaife was suffering from a "mental disorder when released and the government was negligent in not informing Mr. Pearson of Skaife's mental illness.

Skaife, working as a hired man for Pearson at the time of the incident, was charged with non-capital murder and found guilty of the lesser charge. He was found not guilty by reason of insanity and now is confined at the discretion of the provincial cabinet.

Mr. Pearson's statement, filed in court Friday, was in response to a government request.

He said the provincial government because he was complaints of illness from the time he was a small child.

Skaife, during his childhood and early youth, was a patient at a Saskatoon clinic for persons with mental or learning disabilities.

Mr. Pearson said Skaife reportedly was interviewed on several occasions by an employee of the social welfare department, a provincial agency.

Skaife "displayed gross symptoms of emotional instability, such as killing pets and destroying the property of other persons.

In 1963, he said, Skaife "criminally wounded his sister with a rifle, for which he received a term of imprisonment. . . .

"The circumstances of the crime were such that the government employees who investigated the offence were convinced that he was a dangerous psychotic tendencies.

"While incarcerated . . . he repeatedly demonstrated his mental and emotional instability by attempting, on numerous occasions, to commit suicide by swallowing broken glass. On two occasions, he attacked other prisoners and on each occasion received serious injuries himself. . . ."

Mr. Pearson's statement said he was a result of "these incidents, Skaife was, on four occasions, committed for observation to an institution maintained by the defendant (the Crown) in Regina for treatment of psychiatric diseases.

"He was described by at least one of the physicians who examined him as a person dangerous to himself and to others. . . ."

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, Sept. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19): Being home over Sunday may be more formidable than putting in a day's work. There's much to do that you aren't ready to tackle.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Anything with wheels is a potential hazard this Sunday. Prayer is the preferred cause to leave others to their own devices.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Volunteering for physical activity brings you up short on energy just when you're to move nimbly. Pace yourself.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Dictative tendencies are at work. Where duty takes away temporarily, or vice versa, do nothing to make things more dramatic.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): A little ingenuity should get you out of habits, into a different mood. Physical fitness deserves your care and attention.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): With moderation you can balance your progress to do battle for practically all your regular interests. Keep moving.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You should be consistent despite the whims of others. Having them free to change plans. This may mean doing very little.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Listen to all opinions but act on those for the time being. There are social sensation you shouldn't skip, people to remember.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It may seem that you have worn out your welcome in some places. Solitude can give you a better perspective on your projects.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Morning incidents provoke a second thought, perhaps bright ideas. The rest of the day is for working out the finer nuances.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't be surprised if those you want to help are resitive, sensitive, and in no mood for advice. Find something else to do.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Let the social world turn without you while you get the facts, line up plans and budgets, seek guidance in prayer, meditation.

Monday, Sept. 18

Aries (March 21-April 19): This promises to be a relatively quiet Monday. For millions it is a solemn and sacred day dedicated to soul-searching.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your thinking should include some review of your life. The thought may occur that in some small ways, you are fortunate.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your feelings lead you away from routines. Installing corrections proceeds well, until you find a flaw and head on idea what causes it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Making rounds should be simple enough that you can make a mental inventory of resources, relate them to a larger frame of reference.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Spread yourself to be genial, outgoing. Gather about you family and relatives, try for reconciliations where they're needed.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go beyond the trivia of daily living to see the broad picture in your place in the world. You can help others by being co-operative.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Original thought springs in pace with your life rhythm. Do the unavoidable routines seriously and well. Romance is favored.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Routines comes naturally as you concentrate on what you do and why you do it. A great day for having old habits babbed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec 21): If you can invest for the next week a fresh point of view. Get out for a roundup of your friends and family.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can have almost anything reasonable for the asking. Begin an organized demand for the rewards you feel you have earned.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You tend to come out ahead on just about anything open for action today. Select a definite area of initiative. Share bob bies.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep digging out the information you need. Any effort at self-improvement will gain with a little more determination.

To Your Good Health

Pacemaker User Wants to Dive

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you know if it would encounter serious problems to scuba dive? I have an implanted pacemaker but am in excellent health. Normal swimming, racing and water skiing have no deleterious effects.

I can't seem to find an answer to the scuba question. I have asked many people and doctors. No one seems to know the answer, short of a test in a decompression chamber under observation.

I am 41, active, first pacemaker implant six years ago.—L.A.

I can't give you any positive, no-qualms answer but I'll give you my opinion.

As active as you are, you certainly are a living example of how well pacemakers can work for patients with certain types of heart trouble.

But all the same, you have to recognize the fact that scuba diving has many built-in hazards closely related to air and gas pressures.

Pressure changes can affect the body's tissues, organs, as well as, under some unfortunate circumstances, causing bubbles in the blood.

Some of these difficulties would have no relation to the heart; others could. The fact that you have a pacemaker is an indication that you do have a health problem. Your health isn't "perfect," no matter how vigorously active you are with the pacemaker doing its share.

You might get away with scuba diving, I suppose, but if under circumstances you could be in serious trouble.

Temperature changes, as well as pressure changes, may affect your heart rhythm—and the purpose of a pacemaker is to compensate for faulty heart rhythm.

Talk to the specialist who is in charge of your case. Try out experiments in a decompression chamber if you can afford what would be a rather expensive type of experimenting.

But my advice, on the basis of my knowledge of hearts as well as some of the factors of scuba diving, is this: Be thankful that your pacemaker is doing such a good job for you, and forget about scuba diving. It has risks far greater in your case I feel that you'd be tempting fate.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband recently had a vasectomy and now has a sperm count of zero. The doctor says pregnancy is impossible, but wants to make a second count. If pregnancy is not possible, why the second count?—X.Y.Z.

A second test is one way of being double sure.

PM Defends Regional Grants While Stanfield Criticizes Aid

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Prime Minister Trudeau delivered a hot-key defence Friday of federal grants for regional economic expansion, Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield made qualified criticism of the same grants.

Meanwhile, the man who turned the political spotlight on such aid to private industry, New Democrat Leader Lewis Lewis, shifted his criticism to the federal public service, hinting that several top civil servants would find themselves out in the cold if an NDP government were formed.

Mr. Trudeau said in Fredericton, Que., that regional expansion grants will continue and perhaps be widened. He described the role of his government as taking from the privileged to give to the underprivileged.

In Grenby, he faced an audience of 200 in a 5,500-capacity arena. Liberal organizers said the small turnout was partly due to Friday night shopping.

The prime minister's Grenby speech, which he described as "not inviting," was a comprehensive review of his government's regional development program.

A related theme of his Quebec tour was the benefits of federalism. He sheered at the separatist Parti Quebecois, saying it is trying like a "parasite" to use the federal election campaign to make itself heard.

He added that the PQ "is making itself heard less and less and does not have the courage to present itself in the federal election."

Conservative Leader Stanfield also took a swipe at a smaller party, saying the Conservatives and not the NDP are the party to vote for if the government is to be thrown out.

"We are the alternative," he declared during a radio interview in Portage la Prairie, Man.

In Brandon, he said that "reasonable incentive grants, property supervised," are an integral part of the fight against regional disparity.

But he added that the government has made no progress in four years in lessening such disparity.

Asked for his reaction to NDP charges of "corporate tax ripoff," Mr. Stanfield replied that he has not heard the NDP premiers of Saskatchewan or Manitoba make any "serious comment" on Mr. Lewis's charges.

Corporations should be rewarded with incentives for taking risks in underdeveloped areas, "but I am not in favor of any private industry getting away without paying taxes."

Mr. Lewis told reporters in St. John's that if he were elected prime minister, he would ensure that his advisers had the same general objectives as he did.

It would be better to change advisers than build up a "personal power" as Mr. Trudeau did by expanding staff in the prime minister's office.

Mr. Lewis also said the government's "doctrinaire" policy of using high unemployment to fight inflation was presumably based on the advice of civil servants.

Caouette Sure All Would Work Even If Subsistence Provided

TORONTO (CP) — Real Caouette, national Social Credit leader, said Friday no Canadian will be able to resist the urge to work at a paying job under his party's guaranteed annual income plan.

Mr. Caouette, making his first stop outside Quebec in the current federal election campaign, told a news conference the plan will work because it will provide all Canadians with a basic income over and above what they earn elsewhere and cost less than the welfare system.

"I can't see a man getting $3,600 in a social security plan and refusing another $3,000 that he can earn in a job," the Social Credit leader said.

Mr. Caouette's plan, much plank in his election platform, would pay every Canadian a guaranteed income of $1,200 for a single person at age 21 and $2,400 for a married person, plus $200 for each child.

He said it means that a man with four children who earns $5,000 would have a total annual income of $8,000, counting the $3,600 he would receive under the Social Credit scheme.

The plan would replace the current welfare system which he said will cost Canadians $30 billion in 1973. He says his plan would cost only $18 billion.

"Under the system now we tell you guy, if you want welfare, you shall not work. Under our plan, we tell the guy "if you work, the money you earn will be added to your social security payments.' So I don't see anyone staying at home if he can make more money working as long as he isn't penalized for it."

Yardmen Unveil Plan For Sports Complex

Colin Brooks

Yardmen's Sport Project

Lottery Helps Meet Costs

By Maurice Switzer
Sports Editor

Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund organizers officially unveiled their proposed $5 million sports complex today and appeared to have the answers to all but one question: how much will it cost the Belleville taxpayer?

After a press conference describing the proposed 27 - acre project in the east of the Canniffon Road near the city's industrial park, members of the Yardmen's organization became less defiant when questioned about the proposal's financial aspects.

The Yardmen, who fostered the idea of the sports complex about 14 months ago as their monthly lottery — one of the largest in the country — began to swell their coffers, were questioned about the exact commitment they expected from Belleville citizens.

"We want to put this over to the citizens and see how they react," BYBF secretary treasurer Ernie Belanger told his Legion Hall audience, which included members of city council and various sporting groups.

"However much the people want to put into this project, the Yardmen will be willing to put into it."

Uganda 'More-or-Less' Halts One Invasion from Tanzania

KAMPALA (CP) — Uganda announced today it has "more or less repulsed" one of the invasion forces it said attacked from neighboring Tanzania Sunday with the aim of stopping Ugandan plans to expel thousands of Asian residents.

Tanzania denied launching an invasion of its East African neighbor but reported that two planes, believed to be from Uganda, bombed the town of Bukoba in northern Tanzania today.

A Uganda military spokesman said government troops halted an enemy force at Mbarara 100 miles southwest of the Ugandan capital of Kampala and collected two bodies of 23 invaders—three of whom were identified as Israelis.

"The enemy side had heavy casualties," the spokesman said. "As of midnight, our troops had more or less repulsed the enemy from Mbarara."

He gave no information on fighting reported at other areas of the border between Uganda and Tanzania, which share the eastern shore of Lake Victoria. Uganda announced Sunday invading Tanzanians had seized three Ugandan towns.

Nine government soldiers were killed at Mbarara and bodies were "scattered all over," the spokesman said.

He said the Israelis were identified from documents on their bodies and some had been active in The Congo in 1964. Earlier Ugandan reports had said white mercenaries were among the Tanzanian invaders.

Radio Tanzania reports heard in Nairobi, Kenya, said that Mbarara had fallen to dissident forces.

Sunday the military spokesman said Mbarara army barracks, where the 3,000-strong Simba (Lion) Battalion is based, was surrounded. Troops and government reinforcements were putting up strong resistance, he added.

The spokesman said today a number of prisoners had been taken, including a Captain Oyili, whom he identified as a cousin of former president Milton Obote.

Obote has been living in exile in Tanzania since his overthrow

Israeli Soldiers Home to Pray After Search-and-destroy Raid

From AP—REUTER

Israeli soldiers ended a 22-hour search - and - destroy mission against Arab guerrillas inside Lebanon and then returned home Sunday night to begin Yom Kippur, the holiest of Jewish holidays.

Premier Golda Meir said three Israelis were killed and six wounded, while a Lebanese army communique said the Israelis lost 18 dead on Saturday, the first day of the operation. The communique also said eight Lebanese soldiers were killed. 12 were wounded and 26 are missing.

The Israelis said they searched 16 Arab villages during the operation and air forces had bombed and rocketed eight guerrilla encampments and two headquarters. Two key bridges over the Litani River were destroyed.

The raids were a reprisal for the killing of 11 Israeli Olympic team members at Munich and guerrilla raids in recent weeks across the Lebanese border, which have resulted in killing of at least three soldiers.

"I can assure you we will pursue and root out the terrorists wherever they may be," Prime Minister Golda Meir said in a radio speech at the beginning of Yom Kippur.

One of the main aims of the Israeli operation was to push the guerrillas back from the border area and force the Beirut government to take action in policing its own side of the frontier.

Israeli officials reacted sheepishly to Palestinian-Arab reports that the Lebanese army had issued an ultimatum to the guerrillas to quit the border area.

A senior staff officer in Tel Aviv said he did not think the Israeli operation had rendered the guerrillas incapable of operating from Lebanese territory "unless the Lebanese government so desires."

Israeli sources did not exclude a new guerrilla attack soon since they said the guerrillas usually made every effort to launch an operation after an Israeli blow for prestige reasons.

Grills Won't Run

By Lenny Williamson
Staff Reporter

Belleville's "Friendly Milkman" has retired from political life.

Lee Grills announced this morning that he will not be in the running for the Conservatives in the Oct. 30 federal election.

In an emotion - filled statement to the press, the 68-year-old Belleville politician who represented Hastings in parliament for 12 years, said he had decided to step down from active political life "while the riding is in a strong position.

"This has been a very difficult decision — otherwise I wouldn't have left it so long," said Mr. Grills. "I have had hundreds of calls of support for my running again. I trust I have made a worthwhile contribution to my riding and to Canada."

No other field of endeavor has offered him "more challenges and rewards than my experience in the Canadian parliament" he added.

Mr. Grills first entered public life in 1946 as a councillor in the township of Sidney. He served as deputy - reeve, reeve and warden of Hastings county before running in his first federal election in 1953. Mr. Grills was defeated by Frank Pallwell but returned to take the riding in 1957. He has represented Hastings ever since, except for the two years between 1963 and 1965 when the seat was held by Robert Temple.

Montreal Suspects Arrested

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Montreal men, arrested here by chance during a drug raid, are to be returned to Montreal today for questioning in the Sept. 1 night club fire there that killed 11 men and injured 53 others.

Sgt.-Det. Claude Legault, one of two Montreal homicide officers who arrived here Saturday night to take the pair back, said Sunday the return of James Michael O'Brien, 24, and Joseph Marc Boulin, 22, will depend on airline schedules.

He said Det.-Const. Claude Sanfacon questioned both men briefly about the Blue Bird Club fire, which investigators say was set with gasoline in the entrance.

O'Brien and Boulin were arrested about 1:30 a.m. Saturday during a city police RCMP raid on a house.

The raid was made after police received a tip that the house was the centre of a drug-trafficking operation.

The officers didn't know the catch they'd made until the two men were brought to police headquarters.

There the tipoff came when one of the men was unable to spell the name appearing on an identification card found on his person.

Police said O'Brien was using the alias of Thomas Drakeho and Boulin was using the alias John Mark Robb.

Protestants Raid Catholic Enclave

BELFAST (AP) — Four British soldiers were wounded, three of them critically, by guerrillas in Northern Ireland Sunday after Protestant militants served notice they will intensify their war against the Irish Republican Army.

Two men died in weekend violence that carried Ulster's bloodletting into the normally peaceful port of Larne north of Belfast for the first time since sectarian strife exploded three years ago.

Large gut by baptism of fire when about 300 Protestants, some hooded and wearing paramilitary uniforms, besieged the Roy Ramon Catholic enclave in the town.

The rioters, some uniformed like the extremist Ulster Defence Association, burned down a Catholic house after hounding out a family with 12 children and a 90-year-old grandmother. Looters raided a furniture store. Many other Catholic homes were damaged.

Mac Smith Seeks PC Nomination

Mac Smith, well-known city school trustee, has thrown his hat into the political ring this morning with the announcement that he will seek the Belleville Progressive Conservative nomination.

The retirement of Lee Grills who held the Hastings riding seat, prompted Mr. Smith to decide.

"Since Lee stepped down, I've been approached by a number of people inside and outside the party, encouraging me to be a candidate. So I'm going to go," he said.

"I heard Leslie Frost say years, has served on the Hastings County board of education for four years and is now vice-chairman.

In connection with school boards has made me aware of the needs of the riding," said Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith is a veteran of 4½ years of active service overseas with the Royal Canadian Artillery. He is a member of the Bay City Masonic Lodge, is a past warden of St. Thomas Church and a member of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario.

He has had a long and active career with the Conservative party, serving seven years as president of the Belleville Progressive Conservatives and as a campaign manager for Lee Grills.

Mr. Smith is concerned about unemployment, inflation and "the welfare mess we're in."

"There are other means, through incentive programs to help Canadians to work to achieve their own economic independence," he says, "and pollution is a concern to all citizens."

MAC SMITH

"I have a feeling that since there is nothing to running a government in Canada it takes common sense. I think I will bring a common sense approach to my activities."

Mr. Smith, 48, is president of Harry Smith Fuels and has been active in the community work. He is immediate past president of the Ontario Public School Trustee's Association having served as a trustee for 20 years. He was chairman of the old Belleville Public School Board for four-

The Littlest Cowboy

Dreams of John Wayne and the old west swim through Kevin Meagher's head as he watches Sunday's Belleville Shrine Club Quarter Horse Show at the fairgrounds. Entries from Ontario, Quebec and New York State competed in 14 classes during the day-long affair. Kevin, 11, of 34 North Park St., was one of fourdreds of cowboys, young and old, who turned out to watch the spirited horses parade around the judges ring.

Jack Ellis Joins PC Aspirants

Jack Ellis announced this morning that he was going to contest the federal nomination for the Progressive Conservative party next year," in Madoc.

A long-time supporter of Lee Grills, "Hastings MP for 13 years, Mr. Ellis said, "I have supported Lee since this first time he ran for the post of reeve of Sidney Township many years ago. Since he has now declined, I am very much in the running."

Mr. Ellis, if successful in his bid for the PC nomination, will have capped his 11-year involvement in Quinte municipal affairs, which was highlighted by his successful municipally campaign and term of office from '63 to '67.

During his time as mayor of the city, Mr. Ellis created an executive committee comprised of the wardens of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties and the mayors of both Trenton and Belleville, which contributed to the rapport between county and suburban areas. He was named Citizen of the Year in 1968.

"I have lived and worked here in Belleville for the past 25 years and the harmony between these two bodies has improved greatly," said Mr. Ellis.

For two years, Mr. Ellis left the city in his work with the National Concrete Producers' Association.

Travelling the length and breadth of the country from Vancouver to Newfoundland numerous times with his work,

Mr. Ellis said, "he had more in touch with the entire spectrum of the country than a local politician could have.

"My first concern in this area where we live, but I can also grasp the scope of problems on a national scale," said Mr. Ellis.

"I have a feel for the entire country," he said.

JACK ELLIS

"Until he (Mr. Grills) made his announcement, I couldn't possibly make any statement," said Mr. Ellis.

Married, 62 years old and born in Campbellford, Mr. Ellis, while serving as alderman and later as mayor of the city was chairman of the public utilities commission and held membership of a number of civic committees.

He was also vice-president of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves.

As a speaker he has made appearances at the conference on local government in both Queen's and Trent Universities.

Mr. Ellis also retains chapter memberships on the Quinte Executive Committee of Social Community Services and was charter president of the Belleville Industrial Consultation.

Benefit Fund Will Provide Base for Complex Financing

brief statement before the press conference, indicated a plebiscite would be required on the city's share of the proposed capital election if the Yardmen expected taxpayers to assume the cost of acquiring 21 city owned acres of the proposed site, they either must launch as maintaining the complex.

Ted Brantton, president of the Yardmen's fund, indicated construction of the complex would not likely be under way, in any event, before April. "We can't do anything until there's an election," said Mr. Brantton. The meeting was told the Yardmen's option on the remaining 46 acres of the proposed site runs out November 1.

Brantton also told the meeting that, although the Yardmen were counting on sizable federal and provincial grants, no commitment of any definite nature had been made to this point.

Hub of the complex would be a 300-foot square "Quinte Sports Centre" including the 1972 converted Olympic specification swimming pool and diving tank, a warm Canada's a 1,000 seat Lockey arena with an indoor track around it, perimeter, a gymnasium, an auditorium capable of seating 800, three squash and one handball courts, and a restaurant.

The cost of including exclusive of such fringe extra complicated pool timing equipment, would be $4,300,000. Another $300,000 would be required to provide an athletic field, tennis courts, children's playground, lawn bowling greens, and four parking lots to accommodate some 800 cars on the site.

After several questioners, including Farm Address Don Whalen, pressed the Yardmen spokesmen about what financial assistance they expected from the city, several attempted, without success, to explain their position.

"Our main concern is to keep our commitments to other community organizations that we have been catering to," said Belanger, who last week resigned to The Intelligencer that the monthly lottery had pumped $750,000 into various Belleville projects and organizations since its inception 7½ years ago.

"I think Belleville taxpayers should be asking them selves how much money this project would bring into their community, rather than how much it's going to cost them," insisted Belanger.

This prompted president Brantton to inform the meeting that he had been told a week ago that land option had been taken out for construction of a 220 room hotel near the proposed site of the sports complex. "Now I don't think because employees are going to put up a hotel there to host money," he noted.

Alderman Art Meegan as associate director of the Yardmen's Fund, took a crack at explaining the group's financial expectations. "There's about half a million dollars gathering back interest, waiting to go towards this project," he said.

"And by the time construction would start in April it would likely be a million. We want to ask explaining that various individuals and industries are willing to contribute."

Spokesman Belanger added: "We could operate any portion of this as a great commercial site, without anyone's help, but we wanted to get the community involved."

Architect Fred Roundtree told the meeting the complex would need a maintenance staff of no more than 17, while at times, as few as four could supervise activities.

A similar but less extensive project his firm had designed for Sudbury showed a user rate of no less than 300 persons at any given during a 13 hour daily operating period, he said.

The site, between Adam Street and McFarland Drive, had been chosen so as not to interfere with any recreational facilities in the city's south end, and would benefit from the proximity to Highway 401 and accessibility to city public transportation and services.

Grills

During his parliamentary career, Mr. Grills became known across Canada as Belleville's Fiery Fireman. The nickname was given him the slogan of Lee Grills Dairy, the firm he operated for 23 years after he left the fire department.

"I am quite concerned about some of the legislation and the downward trend in the dignity of the House of Commons and in our parliamentary system over the last four years," said Mr. Grills today.

Of his personal political philosophy, Mr. Grills said, "I've always thought that after election day is over we should raise our thoughts above party politics and serve all the people in the riding."

"I have never asked anyone how he voted—I tried to serve all my constituents equally. I got an average of 500 telephone calls a month and it certainly adds to a wonderful public relationship.

"I have stepped down from active political life Mr. Grills said tribute to his wife, now in the intensive care unit at Belleville General Hospital with a heart condition.

"She has been my running mate," he said. "She ran the riding for me and campaigned for me every day. A deep concern for her health has influenced my decision."

But Mr. Grills will not give up politics entirely. He will be in there after the Conservative nomination meeting working for the election of the PC candidate.

MacKinnon Liberal Standard Bearer

NAPANEE (Staff) — Peter Kinnon, a seed breeder from Bath, will be the Liberal candidate in Frontenac - Lennox and Addington riding in the Oct. 30 federal election.

MacKinnon, 41, had no opposition in winning the nomination at a riding association meeting here Saturday.

The incumbent member is Douglas Alkenbrack, PC.

MacKinnon, who was nominated by Napanee solicitor James Madden, said the thing that most attracted him to the Liberal party was its approach to Canadian unity.

They have shown more strength and initiative than the other parties," he said, citing the government's approach to northern sovereignty the FLQ crisis and offshore drilling rights as examples.

On the latter subject, he commented:

"I understand Robert Stanfield has come out in favor of the provinces. Perhaps the provinces should also be responsible for the coast guard (and all the other maritime expenses)."

MacKinnon, whose farm is only two miles from Millhaven Prison where 14 prisoners recently escaped, said he would push for stricter prison security if elected.

"There was a road block on our corner where I met many prison personnel. I was impressed by the lack of internal discipline. It must be tightened for the security of those working within."

Chairman of the Ontario Wheat Producers' Marketing Board from 1966 to 1968, MacKinnon also stressed the need for long term adjustments in federal agricultural policy.

The father of three called himself a "member of the silent majority" who had sgon government mismanagement but had "never really done anything about it."

He promised to conduct his campaign "with complete honesty and integrity."

The meeting, at Prince Charles School, was attended by about 150 people, although 575 were eligible to vote.

Off to A Slow Start

Harry Rollins
Former Mayor Dead at 71

Former mayor of Belleville and active in many phases of community life, Wilmot Harry Rollins, died in Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. He was 71.

He had been ill in hospital for the past 10 weeks. He lived at 342 Foster Ave.

Mr. Rollins was a member of city council from 1938 until 1942, was mayor in 1943 and 1944 and then returned to city council as alderman in 1951 and 1952.

He served on the public utilities commission from 1953 until 1965 and was a past chairman of the Belleville Harbor Commission.

Mr. Rollins, known to many as the Senator, had a keen interest in the affairs of agriculture, was a director of the Belleville Agricultural Society for many years. He was president of Belleville Fair for five years and was a life member of the society and had been honored with a provincial agricultural award in 1954.

He was a member of the Wheat Street Debating Club for many years and also served as its president.

An ardent sports enthusiast, Mr. Rollins took a keen interest in softball and became a director of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association in 1937. He was an honorary president of the association.

Mr. Rollins was a life member and past president of the Belleville Kinsmen Club, while fraternally he was a life member of The Belleville Lodge AF and AM No. 123 and of the Grand Lodge.

He was active in provincial and federal politics and was past president of the Belleville Progressive Conservative Association.

HARRY ROLLINS

Born at Ivanhoe, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Washington H. Rollins and had lived at Tweed, until he moved to Belleville in 1926. He had worked for the former Hounton Lumber Company for 25 years and for the past 11 years had acted as a bailiff.

Barrage Probe Continues?

Police are continuing their investigation into last week's series of mishaps at Mel Barriage Landscaping Contractors.

"We've been working on it all weekend," said Chief Douglas Crosbie this morning.

He reported nothing further has occurred since Friday's kidnapping of a Barriage office clerk. The woman's name was not released.

Police have little to go on in their search for the two abductors since they were masks all the time they were in contact with the woman.

The kidnapping followed a break-in the previous weekend and a premeditated attack at the Barriage warehouse Wednesday.

The woman was picked up in front of an east end drug store Friday morning and released unharmed shortly after on Point Anne lane.

Trailers Converge

Imagine 3,700 camping trailers parked on one lawn.

That was the situation last spring when 12,000 members of the Wally Byam Caravan Club got together in Louisville, Ky., for their annual international convention.

There weren't quite as many as 3,700 trailers in Belleville last weekend — only about 50 — but the display is still impressive. They were lined up in three files at the Quinte Exhibition fairgrounds beside their meeting hall, Ben Bleecker Auditorium.

Officially, the three-day affair was a business convention for the club's Ontario unit. But Friday afternoon, many members were away to tour Corby's Distilleries and the whole gang attended the square dance at Centennial Secondary School Saturday.

Unit president Dave Wyelie, a Port Colborne insurance salesman and owner of a 31-foot mobile home, says the club has weekends such as this throughout the year.

"During the winter we went to one in Florida. Later we may go to Elmira for a maple syrup carnival." He also named "several other points around the province where the brushed aluminum mansions have converged.

Why mansions? A tour of Wyelie's trailer revealed all the accoutrements of a fine home, complete with four-speaker stereo, multi-level lights, bath and shower, air conditioning, every cupboard space than a laundry and even a built-in bar.

The club, made up of owners of Airstream trailers, began in Nova Scotia during the mid-50s and is named after one of Airstream's founders, Wally Byam. Most of the visitors are Ontario residents but some have come from Michigan and New York, with a couple all the way from Florida.

Earl Allen of Trenton organized the weekend.

Two Break-ins On Weekend

City police reported two break-ins over the weekend.

Cash amounting to $10 was stolen from Finkle Crane Rental Ltd., on Dundas St., after entry was gained through a window.

Thieves also took a portable television from the home of C. L. Hurtubise, 239 Dufferin Ave., sometime Friday. They forced the rear door to get in.

Competition has never been keener for the Trillium Awards, said a spokesman for the Belleville Horticultural Society today, while releasing the names of the 30 successful gardens.

Harry Rollins

There must have been many a moment of sadness in Belleville homes this weekend with news of the death of Harry "Senator" Rollins.

The former mayor of this city and one of its most colorful individuals was known to thousands. And a considerable number of those thousands have good reason to think back at kindnesses done for them over the years by Harry Rollins.

He was a man of outspoken comment who enjoyed life. No one questioned his political beliefs. There was no room for doubts there. He will be truly missed at the ancient and unique Belleville gladiator pit — the Wharf Street Debating Club. His barbs and retorts set the pace.

Mr. Rollins was a dedicated sports fan. Hockey night in Belleville was not complete if Mr. Rollins was not in attendance at his centre seat along the rail.

Over the years he developed a character which was his alone. He brought a compassion to his job which belied his gruff exterior. He was a friend of Belleville and to his wife and family we say it for this community that Belleville will miss him.

The Disappearing Orchards

Credit must be given the enterprising Amelisburg resident who is not only luring area residents to his orchard to pick their own fruit but he also says they can buy the tree and cut it down for firewood.

Unhappily it is a sad but true commentary on what is happening to the area apple orchards that many owners are either cutting the trees down or letting once well-tended farms go to seed.

The farmer will tell you quite truthfully that operating an apple orchard today is a risky and not so profitable business. Help is all but impossible to come by — an unusual circumstance when employment is at the present high levels. But whatever government regulations practically encourage workers to take advantage of present lenient unemployment and welfare kitties it should come as no surprise that workers are scarce.

Some farmers have found one solution by banding together into co-operatives, erecting costly storage facilities and getting into the marketing end of the business as well as being primary producers.

Another pressure is that of residential demand where quite frequently the apple orchard is on prime land eyed by developers and would-be house buyers.

If a halt is going to be called to the trend before too many of our area orchards disappear, governments and area municipalities must arrive at some solution within the next few years.

A Mixed Up Time of Year

Boaters are competing on the Bay of Quinte, Cannifton youngsters are playing a baseball playoff against Sarnia, the Team Canada is playing Sweden at hockey and the U.S. pro football season opens.

It was a great weekend for sports enthusiasts. For the wife who is not a sports nut it heralds the start of another long season before the television set.

Cheer up ladies, the football season will be over by the third weekend in January. Then you can look forward to the rest of the family really getting serious about hockey.

City Crossovers

Three years ago, when William Wills was running as a candidate for municipal office, one of his platforms was to clarify the position of Belleville's inappropriately named "crosswalks."

Today, despite dozens of near accidents involving pedestrians and automobiles, appeals to council, letters to the editor, no action has been taken.

Council has been told that Police Chief Douglas Crosbie is undertaking a major survey of the safety requirements for North Front Street. Perhaps he will be able to include some definitive recommendation for the Front street and Pinnacle Street crossover areas which depend for pedestrian safety on the good will and eyesight of the motorist.

The Weekly Frustration

The post office department could do one little thing which might improve its image and acceptability with the public.

It could keep the blasted stamp machine full so that on Sunday night your quarter doesn't come bouncing back.

Military Potential Worries Peking

North American Market Feeds Japanese Prosperity

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign News Analyst
Thomson News Service

Japan once thought she could guarantee her raw material sources of supply by military conquest. The Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere of all-too-recent infamy failed only as long as the bayonets of the Imperial Japanese Army could support it.

Under its ruthless direction, Japan between 1931 and 1945 invaded and conquered her Asian neighbors who were storehouses for rice, copper, oil, tin and sugar. It collapsed with Japan's defeat in August, 1945.

Today, however, Japan is a greater economic power than she was capable of reaching under the imperial coalition of industrial trusts and the military. Without guns, terror and a ruthless imperial ideology, Japan has become a world economic power, her industrial and technological influence in former conquered areas greater than ever.

The old empire which never reached beyond Asia—and touched Canada only to the extent of an unexploded torpedo on Vancouver Island's unprotected West Coast in 1942—would never reach into the heart of Western Canada, like her new, non-military industrial empire.

The farthest reach eastward of the new industrial empire are the bulk consumer markets of booming California, the revived coal fields of Western Canada.

The former is a major foreign customer of Japan's capacity to outdo Detroit in car production. The latter is a major extension of Japan's voracious needs for the raw materials to keep the consumer industries supplied for home and foreign buyers.

Canada's western coal industry, which was dead, has been revived solely by Japan's urgent need for coal to manufacture steel and feed fusion-action plants. Another side effect of Japan's industrial extension into Canada has been the urgency to rebuild West Coast ports with the up-to-date bulk cargo facilities required to move the coal.

Though Japan had to agree to United States pressure to buy more specified kinds of American goods and bring about a Japan—U.S. trade balance, the result of the Nixon-Tanaka talks in Hawaii, the United States is already concerned about the Japanese ability to use their trade success in world diplomacy and international politics.

Can Japanese industrialists, who have broken all records as builders and exporters, also serve as the foreign-policy field? An early test will again be in Asia as Japan makes closer to the People's Republic of China, in negotiations for diplomatic recognition, which will be based largely on trade deals.

Peking appears to be worried about a few old-fashioned Japanese developments, chiefly the large "self defence force" which now includes a sizable military capacity. Under the 1953 peace treaty between Japan and the United States, the former country renounced war and a military establishment forever.

Yet Japan today is a military power of some importance in Asia, a result of the need during the Korean War to develop an internal police and para-military system to protect the still privately-owned mines from Communist subversion.

Japan's modern military appears to pose no threat to Peking and certainly does not participate in Japan's international trade relations. But the fear is there nevertheless, a "bogey-boo" from a heartless military past, that Japan might use it some day in her own interests.

Wagner On Trail For PCs

Montreal Gazette

Conservatives elected only four candidates in Quebec in the last federal election but they did obtain 21 per cent of the popular vote. There has been, since then, considerable disenchantment with the Liberals. It needs to be given focus, however, if it is to result in any significant gains for the Conservatives. Claude Wagner appears the obvious choice to meet that requirement.

His popularity, if anything, has increased since he took his seat on the bench. He can be counted upon to campaign with straightforward vigor. He is a staunch federalist so there should be none of the prevarication with the fine print of constitutional issues that blunted the Conservative effort in the last election.

He is concentrating his campaign on the failures of the Liberals, specifically the failure "to deal with the heart-rending problems of poverty and unemployment which are the direct result of government policies." The approach is populist, its target specific to rural voters. In some ridings, it may do no more than split the opposition vote with the Creditistes; in others, it may be just what is needed to give the Conservatives the edge they want.

Fitting Epitaph For A Pioneer Wife and Mother

Owen Sound Sun - Times

A countryman was looking about an old rural cemetery, seeking traces of his pioneer ancestors buried there more than a century ago. He came upon evidence of the hard life of the early settlers in Ontario. There were tombstones, for instance, which recorded the deaths of young children, perhaps from diphtheria or some such plague of those times.

One headstone, however, cheered the observer immensely. It bore an epitaph offered by a husband to his deceased wife. The roughly carved letters read: "She made home pleasant." What a wealth of wonderful meaning those four words contained!

This unmarked thin pioneer "She" was indeed transformed a clean, neat log cabin and also she tended her family well, in sickness and in health. But above all, they involved she was a woman of pleasant disposition, cheerful, optimistic and kindly.

This was no shrewish wife, making the lives of those around her miserable with her petty carping. Nor was she one to complain ceaselessly about her harsh lot amid all the deprivations of pioneer life. She made her home pleasant because she herself was pleasant.

This simple epitaph on the old tombstone has a lesson for all those still alive. We can create pleasure for others just by being pleasant ourselves. A happy disposition can provide happiness which mere money cannot buy. Fortunate are those who have such a temperament and doubly fortunate are those who have such a person in the home.

"Rights" Bill Eludes Quebec

Montreal Le Devoir: If the Quebec justice minister offers more ambiguous talk of rights this fall, snap up whatever he offers.

Above among the Canadian provinces, Quebec has not until now renounced the need for such a charter. We have not even the necessity of a commission to see that charter provisions are respected.

The Bourassa government seems quite loose between the debates of the Gendron commission on the situation of the French language in Quebec and the drafting of the French Quebec movement and between the freedom of supplying information to one or the other group. If the government emerged a bill of rights could do not with it and an "French priority," many persons would react violently. On the other hand, it is extremely difficult to draft a bill of rights on a element favorable to linguistic group.

Opposite the theoreticians would like the bill to defend all the oppressed and infringed of our society. If the bill aims at improving one or two areas and does not invade every little bit, little the minor fields of linguistic and school rights, those surveyors of the quarrel-journals will not accept it. They are not stingy with their principles and will not be satisfied with half measures.

The government should, as soon as possible, throw out for public debate the questions it feels should be raised. By the same token, the Gendron commission, without denouncing its recommendations and its analysis and without cutting up its final report, could form now on submit for public examination the results of inquiries and surveys it has completed.

It would be a practical effort to publish the necessarily imperfect charter. This half-charter will become a respectable point of departure if the non-conformist of the Gendron commission give up a bit of their jealousy for the specific rights of men or rights of language and school all must be prepared on the market place and with the co-operation of the people.

Mary Merrill Grave Sought

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Re: Mary Merrill — 1833-1920

Born on Prince Edward County, May 13, 1833, Mary Merrill, a child prodigy was particularly gifted in mathematics and languages. At the age of 18 she graduated from Alexander College, Albert University. Her tragic death occurred when she was only 22.

Your paper of April 19, 1930 carries an account of the funeral service at the Bible Christian Church, Bellevue. The sermon was preached by the Rev. M. Schuster. Unfortunately, there is no record of where Mary Merrill was buried.

A photograph of her grave and certified copy of the burial is being requested from Toronto for such purposes. A $20 reward will be paid to the first person who sends me this information.

The co-operation of local historians and high school teachers in furthering this request to the attention of students will be particularly appreciated.

Northern Ontario Gets Cold Shoulder From MPPs

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Recently there was a members' tour of Northern Ontario.

These are sorties started during Premier Frost's day and have been held every four years since then.

The original purpose announced was to familiarize the members of the Legislature with the north.

Actually, it was more like politically shooing a flock of show northerners who felt ignored, with justification, that Queen's Park (and Frost) really cared.

On this latest trip some 65 members signed up for it.

A total of 43 showed up at one stage or another. And at times there were few more than 30 on tours.

And this was out of a 117-member house.

There were reasons why attendance would be low.

This was the week after the McKeough resignation crisis and Premier Davis was still secured with it.

Knowing this, some Progressive Conservative members would have dropped off.

Their main reason for going would have been to impress before the premier, hoping they might latch his eye.

Then it was the week after the federal election was called. And members intended to be actively engaged in this, would perhaps be needed at home for the important first organization duties.

But nevertheless the show was deplorable.

It is a black eye for the government (another).

It was also a black eye for the legislature, though the government probably will get most of the blame.

The members should not be penalized.

Particularly as if this had been a junket to some trip to Germany, California, New York—even to Rochester—they would have been elbowing themselves to get aboard.

As for Northern Ontario, if it feels isolated don't blame it.

Perhaps, however, the last laugh is actually with the northerners.

Some good northern air in their hands, particularly the Toronto crew here, could have washed out some of the fog and reduced their hat sizes.

In a burst of appreciation for Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier,

Leo had to hear the brunt of this. He had to face the people as the spokesman for the government.

And to them he would represent its failure.

He wouldn't let the government down.

But inside he would be furious, and he certainly will let this be known, with force.

He's a northerner. And a true one—which means he's loyal.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

A branch library expected to fill a big demand in the outlying area of the city was opened by the Corby Public Library at Queen Elizabeth School, MacDonald Ave.

Navy, army and air force will combine in the biggest tri-service operational scheme ever held in this district, announced Lieut.-Col. G. M. W. MacGregor, commanding officer of the 5th Anti-Tank Regiment, following a conference of regimental officers and non-commissioned officers and members of the RCN (Reserve).

Saturday's tag day sponsored by Belleville Chapter No. 53 Order of the Minerva Chapter No. 139 OES, resulted in the sum of $587.07 being realized for the patriotic needs of the chapters. The particular purpose of the tag day was to contribute the fund for the mobile canteen being presented by chapters of Ontario to the people of Britain. This will be the second canteen which the chapters had been able to send overseas.

Rowdyism Suggests Curfew

Alderman Paul Russell, chairman of Belleville board of management, is receiving complaints of late hour rowdyism in city parks with the suggestion that a curfew should be established.

The complaints are that young adults and teenagers under the influence of alcohol, frequenting parks after 10 p.m., have been using profane language and are disturbing the rest and sleep of nearby residents.

The complaint was aired at Thursday's meeting of the board but was tabled for action at the next meeting.

Also there have been complaints of dogs running at large at the Stanley Parkette with result that the city recreation - arena committee has recommended investigation of the possibility of introducing a "banning of dogs" policy.

Parks board members went along with the recreation committee motion and have recommended that the city clerk be requested to enquire from other municipalities whether they have a bylaw banning dogs from parks.

County Council Meeting

Members of Hastings County Council will hold their September session on Wednesday of this week.

At the one-day session Clerk Administrator Carl Bateman will recommend the appointment of county tax rates for 1973 while committee reports will also be presented.

Also it is expected that the report being prepared by ARDA on the York River development proposal will be available for the session.

Cyclists Injured

TRENTON (Staff) — Minor injuries were sustained in a car-motorcycle accident at 8:40 p.m. Saturday.

Town police report the car driven by George Minnie, 23, of RR3, Trenton, was proceeding west on King Street when it began a left turn onto Dufferin, coming into collision with a motorcycle.

Neither Mr. Minnie nor his three passengers were injured.

Steven LaBrash, 18, of 171 West St., driver of the motorcycle, received only minor bruises. His passenger, Peter Dinger, 18, of 124 Henry St., was treated at Trenton Memorial Hospital for minor cuts and bruises and was released.

Investigating constable Fred Nokes estimated total damage at $300.

Veterans Here On Weekend

World War I veterans of the 21st Battalion came to Belleville from all across North America this weekend for their 54th annual reunion.

Rev. Ephraim Hiscock, 85-year-old padre of the battalion association, drove from Salmo, B.C., to take part in the event.

James MacIntosh was the east coast representative coming from Dartmouth, N.S., while from Florida, Mitchell Fox and Howard Salisbury made the long journey.

The men, 60 this year, converge, each year to recall First World War battles at Vimy Ridge, Passchendale, Amiens and other European landmarks.

They were recruited from Central Ontario, 8,000 passing through the battalion while it was overseas.

Now, only 175 survive but interest is still strong and memories vivid.

A movie titled Fields of Sacrifice brought back former glories to the veterans and their families as they enjoyed a banquet in the Legion Hall Saturday night.

Earlier in the day, Rev. Hiscock placed a wreath on the Cenotaph in Memorial Park while a color party stood by.

The Sea Cadet Band played Sunday morning during the drumhead service on the front lawn of the armory.

The association also elected a new executive over the weekend. William Drake of Barrie is president, with Roy Madden of Belleville remaining as secretary-treasurer and Bill Michaud of Shannonville as editor of the bulletin publication, Communique.

Next year's reunion will be held in Kingston.

And A Do-Si-Do

Dancers crowd the floor of Centennial Secondary School auditorium Saturday as the Quinte Twirlers celebrate their 6th annual Square Dance Jamboree. Kicking off the hoe-down were 635 dancers, two-thirds of them from outside Belleville. Under the chairmanship of Wes and Doris Rees of Carrying Place, the seven hour marathon featured the calling of Belleville's Ralph O'Hara, Tom Trainor of Rochester and Carrie and Art Jackson of Ottawa on rounds.

Group Makes Five Sandbanks Points

TORONTO (Special) — Politicians Probe and the Canadian Environmental Law Research Foundation told a Queen's Park Press conference today the giant dunes of Prince Edward County are irreplaceable and of international scientific and recreational potential to conservers.

The committee, in a 70-page report prepared by Ronald Alexander of Queen's University and Larry Green of Pollution Probe gave five recommendations.

The recommendations are the result from Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. he controversial company - the proposed use of the pits and quarry on the property to fill Ontario Township on Sept. 1 be enforced in full and that Lake Ontario Cement's quarry not not be eventual — that the leased area be incorporated into Sandbanks Provincial Park — with a committee composed of five interested citizens and two government representatives be established to devise the plan for protection of the dune area and to limit future alterations — that Sandbanks Provincial Park be designated as a future reserve to preserve its unique features.

Mr. Green told the conference he hopes public pressure following release of the report today will result in presentation of the report to natural resources minister Leo Bernier and to the cabinet.

The report said the Ontario Government has not recognized the importance of the dunes and has allowed the highest and most attractive ones to be destroyed by a commercial interest.

Davey Pulls No Punches

NAPANEE (Staff) —Senator Keith Davey took verbal swipes at two political foes Saturday, one a long - time enemy and the other more recent.

Davey, addressing a nominating convention of the Frontenac - Lennox and Addington riding association, termed Opposition leader Robert Stanfield "uninspired and uninspiring" as he predicted the Liberals would win the Oct. 30 federal election with a larger majority than in 1968.

The other victim of Davey's tongue was Paul Hellyer, onetime companion of Davey's in the University of Toronto Liberal Club and a recent convert to the Conservative party.

Davey, who supported Hellyer for the Liberal leadership in 1968, quoted Toronto Star columnist Dennis Braithwaite who labelled Hellyer "the perfect WASP gentleman this country has always loved."

On the subject of Mr. Stanfield, Davey said he could almost feel sorry for the former Nova Scotia premier who now has "Diefenbaker looking over one shoulder and Hellyer looking over the other."

Continuing his assault, he threw a picture of an imaginary Conservative cabinet "with Steve Roman as minister of economics and Labor Zink as secretary of state for external affairs."

The senator didn't spare the New Democratic Party either, declaring the NDP is an "outdated" party with "the oldest leader and the oldest average age of MPs."

Davey said the most important strength of the Liberal party was the leadership of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

"Pierre Elliott Trudeau is what the 1972 election is all about. Having him on our side is like playing hockey with Gordie Howe."

As for the Liberals' chances in Frontenac - Lennox and Addington, won by PC Douglas Altenbrand in 1968, the senator was optimistic, noting the riding was one of 15 the Liberals lost by less than 1% per cent of the vote in the last election.

Wrapping in Preparation

Wrapping the door prizes for this Saturday evening's Women's Hospital Auxiliary dance are Miss Lucy Stackmans, a junior volunteer and Mrs. A. B. Duffy, a member of the organization. This dance (to be held at the Four Seasons Hotel) is a promotional for the coffee and gift shops which the WHA are sponsoring, also an annual event for the Women's Hospital Auxiliary to promote their public relations.

WEDDING

Spry – Bunnett

Rev J. A. Dunlop officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church of Gail Louise Bunnett, daughter of Mr. Wm. Gordon Bunnett of Belleville and the late Mrs. Edith Bunnett, and Mr. D. Gordon Spry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Spry of Belleville. Wm. McAvon rendered organ music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white satin peau. Supported Chantilly lace accented the cuffs of the long Bishop sleeves and the high neckline. Her gown was enhanced by a bonded mantilla sheerelena cost of Chantilly lace. The bride carried a muff trimmed with Chantilly lace and centered with a corsage of white baby carnations and yellow sweetheart roses on a background of trailing ivy.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Susan Gould was attired in a floor length gown of aquamarine peau organza. Her empire bodice featured an insert of tucking complemented by a border of Venis lace embroidery threaded with teal satin ribbon. The same lace border accented the waistline and portrait neckline.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Brenda Langman and Mrs. Pamela Slapkauskas were attired in identically matched gowns in the maiton of honor. Each wore white stephanotis flowers in their hair. Miss Lizabeth Bunnett, flower girl wore a similar gown to the other bridal attendants enhanced by a circlette of yellow sweetheart roses. Each attendant carried nosegays of white carnations with intermingling yellow sweetheart roses.

Bob Brett was the best man. Ken Spry, brother of the bridegroom and Bill Bunnett, brother of the bride ushered the guests.

For the reception which was held at the Oddfellows Hall, the bridegroom's mother greeted guests wearing a rose crepe dress featuring a lace overblouse of the same color, jewel neckline and matching accessories. Her dress was complemented by a corsage of pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to the Pocono Mts., the bride donned a red and white checked jersey coat and dress ensemble. The sleeveless dress featured a white bodice while long sleeves with a white brim at the cuffs enhanced her coat. A corsage of red roses completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Belleville.

MISS SANDRA JEAN AITKEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken of Foxboro, graduated from the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing on Saturday, Sept. 9, 1972. Miss Aitken, who is a graduate of Quinte Secondary School, has accepted a position on the staff of Belleville General Hospital.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON SPRY

Party Held On Departure

TWEED — Last Wednesday evening, a large crowd assembled at the Tweedmuse Hotel to pay tribute to Gerald O'Hearn, and to wish him every success in his new position with the Ministry of Natural Resources at Maple, Ontario.

Gerry's contributions and unstinting devotion to Minor Hockey are well-known in the area and these qualities were highlighted in speeches by Walt Hollister and Burton Vance, who, through their long association with minor hockey are perhaps more aware than anyone of the job Gerry did. The presentation was made to Gerry, a handsome ring with the TMHA crest, — a fitting tribute to a worthy recipient.

WHA Members Prepare for Dance

In the expansion plans for the Belleville General Hospital, there is seldom mention of a small but rather important new addition — the coffee and gift shops. In promoting this forthcoming opening at the hospital, the Women's Hospital Auxiliary who will sponsor these shops are holding an open dinner dance at the Four Seasons Hotel on Saturday evening, September 23. There has been an almost complete sell-out for this public relations festivity at which 90 couples will attend, including the auxiliary members, their husbands and others in the community.

"This will be the second annual dance," remarked Mrs. Bochsek, a member of the dance committee. "It's also our (the WHA's) chance to show the public what we have accomplished."

Suppliers to the coffee and gift shops have sent donations for prizes at this dance, and the Four Seasons Hotel will provide the main door prize.

The coffee and gift shops will begin training for the volunteers in mid October and hopefully, the shops will begin operation in November. The Women's Hospital Auxiliary will completely furnish this particular area in the hospital and provide the equipment.

In the new gift shop there will be talong with hand-made and hand-creaped articles made by WHA members and friends) some necessary bedside trinkets including stationery, toiletries, bed clothing and even paintings.

The WHA members who are organizing this dance are Mrs. S. B. Bochsek, Mrs. A. B Duffy, and Mrs F. Stokmans.

Several Junior Hospital Auxiliary Volunteers will be on hand also to assist

Fishing From Rowboat Tame for Nonagenarian

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Fishing from a rowboat is a bit tame for a woman who was born aboard a schooner, but 91-year-old Emma Hudson says any way of going to sea is fine for her.

Mrs. Hudson, who calls herself "the oldest living native of Marco Island," lives in a white frame house nestled under a huge shade tree on this island off Florida's Gulf Coast 90 miles west of Miami.

She was only a few days old when the first saw the island from the decks of the Emma White, the mail schooner which her sea captain father named for her mother.

Mrs. Hudson has seen the island change from a pristine wilderness with a handful of residents to a popular retirement and vacation retreat with condominiums sprouting where mangroves used to grow.

Lately, her main enjoyment has been daily fishing trips for snapper, snook and channel bass. She used to run a power boat, but when it wore out five years ago, her daughter, Mrs. George Pattison, refused to get her another one.

"She just went too far in the power boat," Mrs. Pattison said. "We didn't know where she was half the time and it worried us out of our mind, so we decided she should stick to a rowboat."

Mrs. Hudson took the change philosophically.

"I told a guide I didn't need a motor," she said. "He had a big motor, and a little motor for emergencies. Both failed and he got a tow from a friend.

"I told him to stick to two, oar power—it never fails."

Mrs. Hudson is only five feet tall and weighs less than 100 pounds, but she still hoists on doing the rowing, even if she has young male guests along.

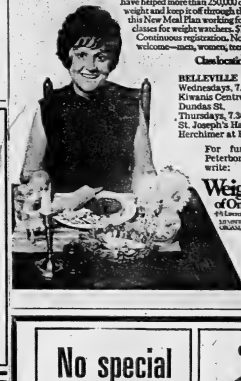
Each day, she picks up bait from the Coon Key Fans Market run by her son-in-law, George Pattison, and rows to her favorite fishing spots. She usually comes home with a nice mess of snapper or sea trout.

When Hurricane Donna approached in 1960 and most residents fled to the mainland Mrs. Hudson refused to go. She put her parakeet on top of the refrigerator, placed the dog in the attic, climbed up on the drainboard and announced she was going to sit it out.

Mrs. Pattison stayed with her mother as the water rose inside the house and the waves slashed savagely against the shoreline.

"I was scared, but she wasn't," Mrs. Pattison said. "She just sat through it all very calmly and waited for the wind to die."

George Pattison was away at the time.



When he got home next day, he found his mother in an armchair on her water-logged back porch eating a quart of ice cream.

She explained, "No power. No refrigerator. No need to waste ice cream."

Announcing... the beginning of the end of dull dieting.

Should Unwed Mom Wear White?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I am an unwed mother of a six - month - old baby boy. I haven't seen or heard from the father for the past year. I have now been asked by another man and am planning on marrying him.

What type of wedding is appropriate in this case — a church wedding or a private ceremony? Could I wear white? Or would pastel or dark be better?

How many attendants? Would it be proper to have a flower girl and a ring bearer?

What about my baby — should he be taken to the wedding or left with a baby sitter?

Bride-to-Be.

Dear Bride-To-Be: Keep the wedding small (under 100 guests) and you can't go wrong whatever you like. Wear any shade but white; pastel or darker. A church affair, maroon gown would be about right.

Keep it all in good taste by limiting yourself to one, or at most two attendants. To use such trimmings as a flower girl or ring bearer would turn the affair into something too splashy.

Baby don't make a big formal show of it. Leave the baby home with a sitter. — have a good time!

Dear Doris: I've had the misfortune of marrying a man who is a drug addict. We have been married for two years. The children have accepted me fairly well but are emotionally disturbed since their father's addiction to drugs.

Since I got married to him I have supported him as the source of income as well. It wasn't too bad working until I got pregnant with my second child. Now I also realize that I am foolish to overtax my body and mind in this fashion.

My husband is irresponsible. He only supports us with two-thirds of his small salary. My in-laws are always making me feel I'm not doing enough for the children.

Had I only known all these things I would not have taken the children under my care. — Frustrated.

Dear Frustrated: Talk over your problems with the parents of your own baby, plus the fact that your own step-children have emotional problems, assures you should be home. A second income might help, but if more money means more tension, forget it. Be content, which do you think comes first?

There's trouble ahead unless you help all three of your children. Make sure they enjoy the security of a loving mother an less than the baby does. This is more vital by far than steak on the table or new school clothes.

Take hold of the job which no one but you can do and give your husband the satisfaction of being the bread-winner. Let's hope that this letter will build in him a better sense of responsibility.

Confidential to Doubtful: You don't just ask a follow for a date — it isn't proper. But you can put on your own parties and make sure he is among those present. You can also have the charge of the record player or the soft drinks or whatever.

But — and it is a big but — this boy you are interested in sounds like pretty hot stuff and not to be pursued.

ST. MICHAEL'S CWL

St. Michael's CWL held its September meeting at Mary's last with approximately 30 members present. Miss Sally Sullivan celebrated Mass for the members following the general meeting and a dessert party.

Mrs. John McGinnis chaired the meeting and reminded the CWL of the communion dinner which had not been filled and hoped that many of the members would consider accepting the dinner.

A regional conference will be held on Sunday, Sept. 17 at St. Gregory's Parish in Picton. Members will host the 1972 Diocesan convention and it will be held at the Parr Secretan Hotel in Belleville.

In October the regular meeting will be dispensed with and in its place on Oct. 26 from 7-9 p.m. a Euchre and costume party will be held. The members of the parish and their families are encouraged to attend as there will be games for all. It will be a good opportunity for everyone to get to know each other.

Mrs. George O'Brien suggested a letter be sent to the local chapter of Hadassah expressing regrets about the members of the Israeli Olympic team who had been killed.

Mrs. Joseph Farrell introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Brenda O'Connor Director of the CWL who spoke on the topic "Why I should be a member of the CWL." Most people were not aware of the work done by this group, said Mrs. O'Connor. The various standing committees and the variety of activities offered something for everyone. Two of the projects undertaken by the diocesan council was development and aiding the less fortunate in other countries and their opposition to abortion.

After a most interesting talk Mrs. O'Connor presented members from the floor, Mrs. M. Rathbun thanked the speaker and presented her with a gift on behalf of the members.

Everyone enjoyed the dessert and coffee.

Mirror of Your Mind

by ANNE CONNELL

Is jealousy just a game wives play?

If could be, if they simply went to re-union individually because they wanted to, and will feel hurried when caught between the two husbands who want to be in private, the last and only time I'll ever be caught in that position. Both of you are having fun trying to make him jealous. As a rule, this is another fun or hurt pair. She has a sense of guilt over the way her husband is treating her, and only wants to be admired.

Are chronic complainers insensitive?

YES, otherwise they would give up their constant complaints. Instead, when the chronic complainer, chronic complainers are made to pin this label of chronic complainer on someone else who may have a justified beef about something the chronic complainers should correct. A chronic complainer is often so insensitive, though, he accepts the criticism as it is rather than how himself called a chronic complainer.

Can perverts learn when to 'bend'?

CERTAINLY. There is a very simple guideline that "can help mothers and fathers decide when to reform. If a child normally responds to a reward, it is wise to reform. The only problem is that parents often don't want to put themselves to the test. In most cases, the child will respond. But will this affect your child? All too many times, however, the mother or father will be guided by this: "How will my decision affect my image as a parent?"

Women in Philippines Work 19-Hour Day

MANILA (Reuter) — A 19 - hour live in boarding houses provided hour working day for less than by their employers. This was the national minimum wage a cost them nearly half their one of the hard facts of life for many women in Manila's labor force.

A survey conducted by the Philippine government's bureau of census and statistics found that many employers are openly flouting labor laws which guarantee a minimum wage and provide for an eight-hour working day.

But, with many unemployed in the Manila area and hundreds of young girls flocking here from the countryside each year, employers have by far the greater bargaining power.

Worst off are women employees of bus companies, the survey indicated. Many women working in beauty parlors, drug shops, department stores and bakeries face only slightly better.

The survey found that the eight-hour minimum law was ignored by at least 14 bus companies, the size of these companies, mostly conductors, started work before six in the morning and finished at 10 at night.

Two of every nine women worked unbroken stretches of 12 hours a day, the survey, taken in mid-1971 showed. Employees of bus companies, showed

Only one of the companies studied paid the minimum wage of $40 a month. For this the employees were required to work 14-hour days.

Other companies paid women conductors about 35 cents a trip, while some paid a commission on their daily takings.

On top of this, many women

Mistaken Information on Hernia

Dear Ann Landers: I have a ridiculous problem and I am ready to explode with anger. I can't talk to my parents because I'm too ashamed.

I am male, 19 years old, and I'm a rotten kid. I have a double hernia caused by misbehavior. Please help me.—No Name

Dear Friend: Where in the world did you get the idea that a hernia can be caused by misbehavior? Self-consultation is the normal part of growing up. About 50 per cent of all normal boys and 50 per cent of all normal girls find themselves aware of their sex driven by exhilarating. In this manner.

If you are having physical discomfort in the groin I urge you to see a doctor at once. Your ignorance is appalling, Son. And what is even more frightening is that there are millions of kids receiving bum information just like you.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in your comment to the young woman who had her boyfriend because he was allergic to her cat. It seems the fellow simply didn't want to be bothered because he was allergic to cats. It seems the fellow simply didn't want to be bothered because he was allergic to cats. WHA Vetoed?

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Joe Kryaka, president of his Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday that under no circumstances will the World Hockey Association be able to arrange a tournament with the national teams of Czechoslovakia or Sweden.

Commenting on reports that such arrangements were being negotiated, Kryaka said:

"There will be no series between the WHA and the Czechs or the Swedes. I have the assurances on a federation-to-federation basis that the Swedes and the Czechs will not deal with the WHA."

The CAHA, ruling body in Canada for amateur hockey, is a European representative to the International Ice Hockey Federation, the world ruling body, to which Sweden and Czechoslovakia belong.

Kryaka, a Calgary lawyer, said that even if an agreement could be arranged, Canada through the IIHF, would be able to veto it.

"I am also assured by the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States that such tournaments would not be sanctioned," Kryaka said.

Predicts .500

PRAGUE (AP) — Gordon Juckes, executive director of the Canadian amateur Hockey Association, says he will be disappointed if Team Canada does not win at least two of the four hockey matches with the Russians in Moscow.

Juckes made the comment at a press conference in this city, where the Canadian professionals are to meet the Czechoslovak world champions Sept. 30 after the games with Russia.

Zdenek Andrst, chairman of the National Ice Hockey League, said the Czech team will not be in top form for the match because the season here is only beginning.

Czechoslovakia wrested the world crown from the Soviet Union in the 1972 championships last April in Prague.

Canadians Act Like Amateurs

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Team Canada did little to salve Swedish edginess about Canadian hockey in its somewhat styleless exhibition games during the weekend.

The Canadians downed the Swedish nationals, Three Crowns, 4-1 Saturday in a lackluster effort and Sunday needed Phil Esposito's goal in the final minute to salvage a 4-4 tie in a game that bordered on mayhem.

The second game was reminiscent to the fans of former Canadian amateur teams that represented the country in international tournaments. They had come to see a game of finesse as only the National Hockey League stars were purported to produce.

Instead, it was open retaliation on Swedish players as the Canadians reacted to subtle barbs and infractions from the homesides, along with inconsistent international officiating they had been warned against.

Vic Hadfield, Don Awrey and Rick Martin were the other Canadian marksmen Sunday. Lars-Goeran Nilsson, Tord Lundstroem, Hans Hansson and Ingo Hammarstroem replied for the Swedes who carried a well-earned 4-3 lead into the final minute.

But the score was incidental to the other elements of the exhibition that seemed to escalate after Canada's Wayne Cashman almost had his tongue severed in the first period by Ulf Sterner's stick blade.

"I don't think there was anything intentional about it," said Gary Aldcorn of Hockey Canada who saw the incident from the press box.

"He (Sterner) was surprised when he saw Cashman coming in and when he turned he got him," said Aldcorn, a member of the Canadian National team that played here before it disbanded in 1970.

Cashman's injury, though serious enough to keep him out of the game, didn't keep him out of the Swede's hair. At the end of the second period he engaged in verbal byplay with Swedish coach Kell Svensson and assistant coach Bjorn Nord and shoved at a young police constable.

Canadian coach Harry Sinden was forced to intervene when the policeman, Kenneth Karlsson, started to raise his night stick over the Swedish coaches disclosed that an exchange of snide remarks led to the confrontation. The Canadians alleged the Swedish hockey players were girls, the Swedes retaliated by calling the Canadians donkeys.

Then, in the third period, Canadian Vic Hadfield drew a major for breaking Lars-Erik Sjoberg's nose with his stick as the two clashed in front of Swedish goalie Curt Larsson. Dale Tallon and Sterner almost created an international incident with their stick-swinging exhibition.

And for the second night, a Canadian retaliation resulted in consecutive two-minute minors and a misconduct. Bill Goldsworthy was the victim Sunday, getting two minutes each for cross-checking and spearing, the latter carrying an automatic 10 minute sentence, that left Team Canada short-handed for four minutes.

Saturday night, under somewhat similar circumstances, Phil Esposito got two minutes for cross-checking, two minutes for charging and 10 minutes for "yelling at the referee."

"A haywire game," said Sinden, obviously upset by the officiating of West Germany's Franz Baader and Josef Kompalla.

A protest was out of the question, though, since "we negotiated for them, I guess we're stuck with them."

The officials are included in the group that will referee the forthcoming Team Canada exhibition games in Moscow on Sept. 22, 24, 26 and 28. The Russians lead that series on the strength of two wins, a loss and a tie in Canada.

The Canadians will continue to work out here before moving on to Moscow later in the week.

Svensson, who told reporters before the two weekend games he expected the Swedes to win both, was understandably disturbed during the post-game news conference Sunday.

"What is the reason that all games Canada plays against Sweden end up in the same type?" he asked reporters. He was referring to previous Canada-Sweden engagements that have been marred by fights and arouse the normally passive Swedish populace.

Sinden wasn't particularly impressed with his club's effort, either.

"We have to play much better than this in Moscow to stand a chance," he said, noting the difficulty Canadian players are having adjusting to the wider European rinks.

Swedes' Turn To Be 'Out of Shape'

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Team Canada, which defeated the Swedish national team 4-1 Saturday night, may have been a success on the scoreboard but, to the Swedish press at least, was a flop from an artistic standpoint.

Bobby Bystrom in Dramens Nyheter (Today's News) wrote:

"It was more Swedish weakness than Canadian strength that made the Six victory for the guests. This contributed to making the debut of the professionals on European soil something of an anti-climax. The Soviet performances now are explained. The Swedes, who were in awe of the Canadians, are not top-trained this early. Normally they play much better."

Russia beats Canada 2-1 with one game tied, after the first four of an eight-game exhibition schedule which resumes in Moscow later this month.

Nic Ashard, columnist for Aftonbladet (Evening Blade), wrote:

"Canada, why did you do this to us? There were very large, full of expectation like a child on Christmas Eve, to see the world's best hockey. It was something that led to become a hockey feast. It became a nothing, a deception. I never felt so disappointed."

"The Canadians may return at some foreseeable date but at lower prices. This was no glimpse even from far the legendary professionals. On the contrary, their reputation as unbeatable is decayed."

Orr Doubtful Starter

STOCKHOLM (CP) — The possibility of Bobby Orr playing for Team Canada against the Russians in the four games in Moscow later this month is remote, his agent says.

Alan Eagleson, director of Hockey Canada and negotiator for the Boston Bruins defence superstar, said the most valuable left knee in hockey is responding to treatment but that it's still painful and swollen.

"I don't think you'll see him out there," Eagleson said.

To the suggestion that Orr might be sent home to rejoin the Boston club, Eagleson said:

"What for? He's skating for an hour and a half every day here and he's working with the best physiotherapist in the world. What more could he have done back home to get him in shape?"

Orr, who had an off-season operation on the knee, did not resume serious skating until he arrived here with Team Canada. In addition to his knee problems, he's at least 20 pounds overweight.

Eagleson denied knowledge of reports that professional club owners in the United States were getting anxious to have their players back for training camp.

"Nobody has said anything to me about it," he said.

Eagleson said he had spoken to a Chicago Black Hawks representative here about star centre Stan Mikita and was told "keep him as long as you need him."

Indians Hold Pennant Key

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember Cleveland Indians' manager Detroit Tigers, Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees will. And Boston Red Sox certainly do.

The Indians, it seems, controlled the destiny of the American League East, and that means the Tigers, Orioles, Yankees and Red Sox.

Cleveland, wallowing in fifth place, 14 games off the Eastern pace, closes out its season with two games against Detroit, followed by four apiece with Baltimore and New York.

Gaylord Perry, scattered seven Red Sox hits Sunday en route to a 9-2 romp that nailed down his 21st victory.

That, coupled with Detroit's 6-2 victory over Milwaukee Brewers, shaved the Red Sox lead over the Tigers to one percentage point.

The Yankees kept their hopes alive by shaking Detroit 3-1 in the morning within 2½ games of the leaders' runners while keeping Baltimore 1½ back.

Cards Postpone Pirates' Party

Lightning is about to strike again for Pittsburgh Pirates, but it won't be in St. Louis.

They had enough fun here last year; let them have some fun in New York for a change, grumbled Vern Benson, a St. Louis coach. Sunday after the Cardinals delayed the Pirates' pennant-clinching by sweeping a three-game series.

Sunday's score was 5-4 and it kept the Pirates' magic number in baseball's National League East at three.

Any combination of three Pittsburgh wins and Chicago losses will eliminate the Cubs, who eliminated the Mets with a 6-4 triumph Sunday.

In Saturday's action, St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 4-3, Chicago slugged New York 10-3, San Francisco downed Atlanta 5-2 in the first game of their doubleheader before losing 5-2, Los Angeles blanked Houston 7-0 and Philadelphia edged seven hits, Cincinnati tripped San Diego 6-3 and Philadelphia downed Montreal 3-1.

Ted Sizemore, who hit Pirate pitching at a .350 clip this season, got the key blow for St. Louis, a looping, two-run single in the fifth inning. Earlier, Ted Simmons, .294 against the Bucs, delivered two runs with a single and double.

John Bateman's sacrifice fly off Montreal relief ace Mike Marshall with the bases loaded in the eighth inning enabled Philadelphia to shade the Expos.

In the West Division, Oakland Athletics downed Texas Rangers 4-1 to open a five-game lead over second-place Chicago White Sox, 3-1 victims of California Angels. In the only other game of the day, Kansas City Royals shaped Minnesota Twins 10-4 in 10 innings.

The Red Sox rode Luis Tiant's three-hitter to a 10-0 win over Cleveland Saturday while Minnesota thumped Kansas City 11-1. Baltimore trimmed New York 7-3. Detroit edged Milwaukee 2-1. Vida Blue's two-hitter led Oakland's 4-0 win over Texas and Chicago blanked California 2-0 on Dick Allen's 36th homer.

"I don't consider ourselves spoilers," said Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte. "We're just trying to do the best possible [as we can."

Graig Nettles and Frank Duffy slapped run-scoring doubles in the second inning, Nettles' 3rd in a row, and in the third, then Duffy doubled to trigger a two-run fourth.

"I'm a little surprised we've done this well," Dick McAuliffe said after the Tigers ran their winning streak to five games. He cracked two homers, driving in four runs.

Joe Coleman coasted home with a six-hitter, his sixth win over Brewers.

Felipe Alou unloaded a two-run homer in the fourth inning, the only runs the Yanks needed to down Orioles, now Sparky Lyle preserved Fritz Peterson's 16th victory.

"We all knew how important this game was," Lyle said after equalling an American League record with his 34th save of the season.

Ealey Leads Ticats to Top

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nobody's saying, but if Hamilton circulated a runner before this year's National Football League draft that Chuck Ealey had already come to terms with a Canadian Football League club it was a stroke of genius.

Ealey, waving credentials that boasted never having lost a small college game with Toledo of Ohio, was passed over by the NFL brass—some of whom considered him too small for league standards, others, possibly, because of the colour.

Whatever, Ealey came to terms with the Tiger-Cats and, combined his unrumbling talents with the pass-catching expertise of veteran Garney Henley and a defence that made the Hamilton club has vaulted into respectability on offence.

The three players, supported by the ever-menacing Ticat defence, pummeled Hamilton into a 30-22 victory Saturday at Ottawa to move into a share of first place in the Eastern Football Conference with the Rough Riders.

The Riders have a 5-2 won-loss mark, the Ticats 5-3, losing three early-season games to the sixmesnt of margins a the Ottawa contingent has gained.

In the only other EFC action during the weekend, Montreal Alouettes were four points off the pace with a well-earned 22-17 win over British Columbia Lions in an interlocking Canadian Football League game at Montreal.

"We were hammered," admitted a disappointed coach Marv Levy in Ottawa dressing room after watching Ealey connect on his playoff strikes to Henley and another to Coffey.

Rookie Ian Sunter converted two single scores and added a single on a wide field goal try.

"When you turn the ball over five times, you can't expect to win," Gotta said in praise of the Hamilton defence that intercepted five of Ottawa quarterback Rick Cassata's passes.

Gerry Sternberg was Hamilton's chief culprit. He set up late in the third quarter leading Sunter's first successful field goal that broke a 15-15 deadlock.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Ticat defences turned back a third-and-one situation and converted it into Henley's second touchdown.

Winning coach Jerry Williams had little to say of his Ticats, only that it was "a pretty good game . . . we did very well."

The Als got untracked behind veteran Sonny Wade who showed far more poise than he had since leading Montreal to the 1970 Grey Cup.

Wade took over from George Mira, who twisted his knee in the second quarter and didn't dress in the second half.

PCOs Get Jump

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough PCOs jumped to a 7-0 first period lead and went on to defeat Richmond Hill Canucks 17-10 Saturday to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Canadian Lacrosse Association Junior A finals.

Third game will be played here tonight and all games in the Main Centre series are being held in Peterborough.

Cash Rhymes with Ashe

MONTREAL (CP) — Ones thing about Arthur Ashe, the nice next to Ashe.

Arthur Ashe, winner over Ray Emerson in four sets at the Rothmans International Tennis Tournament here Sunday, made the comparison after collecting his $19,000 first-placed money.

"I sure like the money," he said. "It goes well next to my name."

A week ago, he wasn't so happy, although he made $13,000. That time, Ashe lost the single final at the U.S. Open to Romania's Ilie Nastase, Madison general $25,000.

But all that was forgotten Sunday as Ashe clipped Emerson 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5; snapping a five-game comeback bid by the Australian in the fourth set. Emerson received $3,000 as runner up.

In doubles, Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Marty Riessen defeated Australia's Ken Rosewall and Bob Maud of South Africa, 6-1, 4-6, 7-6 to take the $1,800 top prize. The losers got $800.

The singles final produced most of the action which had the 3,017 spectators on the edge of their seats as Emerson just fell short of an amazing comeback.

Trailing 2-1 in sets and 5-4 in the fourth set after Emily Australian veteran broke his opponent's service in the seventh and ninth games and eventually pulled even ab 5-5.

What had been a vocally pro Ashe crowd sensed a dramatic comeback and began pulling for the 35-year-old Emerson.

"He made a lot of exceptionally good shots and I began dropping my serve into the net during that rally," Ashe said after the match.

Asked if the crowd's reaction to Emerson's revival bothered him Ashe replied:

"No, I like noisy crowds and I really don't pay attention to who they were cheering for."

Emerson said he got a lift from the fans.

"You can't help but play better when you have a demonstrative crowd and when they get behind you, it picks you up," he said.

"Still, if I could have brought it to the tie-breaker, I think I had a good chance."

Ashe boosted his 1972 WCT earnings to $75,525.

Trevino Keeps Lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino lost his putting touch but was his lead in hanging on to win $30,000 top money in the $150,000 Greater St. Louis Golf Classic Sunday.

The confident Texan, fulfilling a week-old promise, overcame Deane Beman's one-stroke edge early on the final 18 holes and prevailed with a 280, matching the year's best winning mark.

Trevino at the finish was a stroke ahead of Beman with a 281 and Beman was the former British and U.S. Amateur champion's 72 for 276.

The victory, however, would have been a comfortable one-two-three finish for Trevino faltered in sweltering heat and bogeyed three holes on the back nine of the 6,550-yard Norwood Hills Country Club course.

Ben Kern of Toronto had a final-round 72 for a 281 total and prize money of $810.

George Knudson, also of Toronto, had a 71 in the fourth round for 282 and $566 in prize money, while Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg had a final round 74 and 283 and $365.

Gary Bowerman of Toronto had a final-round 75 for a 293 total that netted him $271.

Five Escape At Kingston

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A province-wide search is under way for four of the five men who escaped from two Kingston-area correctional institutions on the weekend. The fifth man was captured Saturday night.

Provincial police said James Turner, 27, of Kingston, and Joseph Goodwin, 25, of Guelph, Ont., were missing from the minimum security annex of Collins Bay. John Edward McKernan, 25, of Toronto, escaped from the Joyceville minimum security institution Saturday night.

Sunday, Leslie W. Sparrow, 34, of Ottawa, slipped away from his father in a Kingston restaurant, after being let out on a pre-day pass from Joyceville.

A police spokesman said Sunday night that none is considered dangerous.

The fifth escaper, Wayne Herbert, 28, of New Brunswick, was captured shortly after fleeing the Joyceville prison.

Turner was serving 15 months for parole violation; Goodwin was serving two years for breaking, entering and theft; McKernan was serving nine years for break-in, entering and theft and parole violation; Sparrow was serving six years for armed robbery and parole violation.

Ontario Seeking Parole Crackdown

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario wants the federal government to crack down on paroles for vicious criminals.

Dalton Bales, provincial attorney-general who made the statement, also said a do-gooder philosophy should not obscure the government's decision to protect law-abiding citizens.

Mr. Bales told the closing luncheon of an international conference on compensation for victims of crime he wants "a more reasonable and respectable course of social justice that will protect the public from repeated acts of violence by a few dangerous persons."

He wondered whether the government should not be taking a closer and more informative look towards working in closer liaison with parole boards, psychiatrists and others "to ensure that parole is not given to so many repeat offenders."

The crime rate is rising so fast that Mr. Bales said he expects a doubling in the next four years in the number and cost of the claims awarded by Ontario's crime compensation board.

"This is a warning to all of us that we might better spend money now to prevent violent crime."

Mr. Bales said that money should be spent on improving police forces and the laws and procedures for administering them and for education of the public.

Lino's Finish With Flourish

Lino's Pizzeria put the finishing touches on a successful Kingston and District Soccer campaign by taking two weekend wins from the Flying Dutchmen.

The Belleville entry won 3-0 Saturday and 4-1 Sunday to finish the season deadlocked for first place with the Greek Olympics. Lino's lost the pennant on fewer goals despite the fact that both teams recorded 11-1-3 records.

Charlie Nesterouk counted twice in Saturday's win with Joe Romano collecting the other goal. Sunday, it was Fendic Zdravko with a pair and singles by Nesterouk and Kevin Kirby.

Lino's now meet Bolofogo in a sudden-death, semi-final game to help determine the league champions. The match will be played Saturday, 5 p.m. at the OSD field.

Ship Shape

Rob Allore and skip Bruce Cook ran a tight ship in the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's One - of - a - Kind regatta Saturday. Cooke, a 19-year-old member of the Trenton Yacht Club, and Allore, an 18-year-old Quinte member, piloted their Fireball to victory in the centreboard competition. The over-all win went to Dr. Ken Douglas in the Serendipity. A total of 36 craft took part in the handicapped race, that was open to all sailing classes.

Wheatley Had Wood

Wheatley proved to be carrying the lumber Saturday for the Thurlow Plane's Concrete to whittle down as they recorded a 16-5 win Saturday to give them the Ontario Baseball Association title "C" title.

The new OBA champions belted 18 hits to cinch a 2-0 sweep of the final series. Dave Bleakley and Tom Masterson were victims of the Wheatley attack. They allowed six bases on balls, striking out a half-dozen. Matier gave up eight hits and one walk for the winners. He fanned eight Thurlow batters.

Rob O'Brien tripled for Plane's with Boyd Sullivan and David Blakely getting two hits each and singles going to Gerard Cole, Tom Masterson, Jeff Heggie and Rob O'Brien.

Hedge Hits Winner

Mead Johnston squirts weren't "Hedging", their bets about winning a berth in the OASA finals.

First baseman Bob Hedge pushed them past Barrie with a three-run homer in the top of the seventh Sunday. The blow gave Meads a 13-13 victory and a two-game sweep of the semi-final series.

Andy Rossit blanked Barrie in the bottom of the inning to preserve the Belleville win. He worked the final three innings after taking over from starter Tim Soule. They were touched for 17 hits but did not walk a batter and recorded four strikeouts. Losing hurler Andy Brownlee yielded 13 safeties and three walks.

Barrie had carried a 13-11 lead into the final inning, thanks to the heavy hitting of catcher Dave Johnston who slammed two homers and a single. Hedge's game winning hit was his third of the game. He had singled twice previously.

Ron Begley collected a homer, double and single for the winners with Allan Brooks adding a homer and double. John Henry added two safeties to Meads' attack with single hits going to Rossit, Paul and Tim Soule.

The Belleville team will now meet the winner of the Sarnia - Grantham series in a best-of-three match for the provincial title.

Titus Tops Field of 60

Ann Titus proved to be one golfer in 60 by beating 59 other entries in Sunday's Belleville Golf and Country Club September Ladies Open.

The CFB Trenton member carded a 78 to win low gross, honors in the tournament, while Pine Ridge's Helen Tremble took low net with a 56.

The "A" flight title went to Bay of Quinte's Betty Walmsley with an 83 while chubmate Helen Philp's 62 was low net.

Low gross in the "B" flight was won by Cary Meed of Napanee with an 88, while Pine Ridge's M. Havill netted a 62. Quinte golfers Anita Johnston and Lorna Bennett carded 91 and 68 respectively to share the "C" flight honors.

United Wins

Belleville United flew to a 5-1 win over CFB Trenton in the final game of Belleville Charity Cup play-Saturday.

Four unanswered goals in the final half gave the win to United as their entire forward line counted during the course of the game. Mario Calavigna scored in the first half for the winners with second frame goals coming from Stu Mitton, Dave Hadley, Chris Johnson and Nick Del Grosso.

Del Grosso and Colin Bailey were standouts for the Belleville Charity Cup winners.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Tuesday, Sept. 19

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your tendency is to speak out too sharply for comfort. Give advice only where asked; listen in case you start getting some.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): What you attend personally gets done, more or less; what you delegate needs supervision. Work strivings absorb extra effort.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Medical check-ups are a practical necessity, no matter what your state of health. Today is a good time for such things.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Progress in clarifying your affairs and accounts is indicated. Longstanding doubts are resolved with fresh evidence or insight.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Expect little of loved ones. Know that you press so strongly that nobody can react smoothly or very quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Bring technical and legal matters to a head. Set budgets for the future. Consider parental friendships in your plans.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Social activity brings you into conflicts. You have enough creative interests of your own to pursue without intruding in others.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Home conditions can change if you are willing to try new ideas. Spending more time with those you care about becomes essential.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep an eye on your budget, as impulse spending comes readily. Clear something outdated from your home.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You have to make a definite effort, somehow, so you may as well get started—the earlier the better for a prompt return.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can stimulate younger people to lasting self-improvement experiments now. Colorful dence figures in any property directed project.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Stick quietly to your own affairs, and out of public view. Continue research into personal or confidential questions.

'Wonder Drug' Not Used in U.S.

By GEO. J. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know that DMSO (dimethylsulfoxide) is being used in a hospital in Mexico just across the border of Texas. Is it being used elsewhere and if not why not? I've heard that people get marvellous relief after treatments with it. Is there any danger to the use of it?—Mrs. R.D.M.

It's not being used in the United States except for research, although it is being used in Mexico, Germany and perhaps elsewhere.

Why not in the U.S.? For the simple reason that the Food and Drug Administration has not approved it for medical use. It is being studied at various medical centres, but it won't be approved until the FDA is convinced that enough is known about its uses and its safety. (It has extensive uses in industry [illegible].)

A few years ago DMSO was being talked about a great deal and hailed as a wonderful addition to available medications. Well, maybe it is, but until the FDA is satisfied, I'd rather wait.

Recently, though, I have seen upsurge of inquiries about it, perhaps resulting from use in Mexico.

The drug, first announced in 1963 as a potential medication, has as one of its chief virtues the fact that it is anti-inflammatory, and hence has been effective in some types of arthritis, bursitis, sprains and some skin conditions. It has been used with some success for scleroderma.

How clog, first announced in 1963 as a potential medication, has as one of its chief virtues the fact that it is anti-inflammatory, and hence has been effective in some types of arthritis, bursitis, sprains and some skin conditions. It has been used with some success for scleroderma.

How clog the FDA is to taking an official stand on its use, I don't know, but I can tell you some of the things their people have in mind.

Remember thalidomide? It was, so it was thought at first, a useful, harmless sedative. And so it was—except that after several years of use, it was identified as the drug causing so many malformed babies. Some years ago there was a lot of this side of the Atlantic was from bootleg sources, as the FDA never did approve it.

In case of other drugs, warnings as to when not how to use them have been added as time passed. Chloromycetin is an outstanding example. It is a powerful, useful drug, and for some purposes there is no substitute. But because it was too freely used for trivial purposes, restrictions had to be placed on it because it also can be dangerous in some cases, causing blood disorders.

Whether it's DMSO or any other new drug, the FDA wants to be as certain as it reasonably can as to safety, and as to proper and improper uses, before it approves it. So does Canada.

In animals, for example, DMSO has resulted in changes in the lens of the eye. This hasn't been observed in humans. Perhaps it won't. The FDA doesn't know. But there have been side effects that don't show at once, but only after continued use?

Such are the questions that FDA hopes to answer. Folks in painful circumstances who have read about DMSO in Mexico or elsewhere are understandably impatient. But the reasons for delay are sound.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You wrote about griseofulvin for fungus of the toenails. I have tried several places to get this, without success. Where can I get it?—J.F.

It's a prescription medication, so see your doctor.

Note to Mr. and Mrs. J.S.: Chances of pregnancy are markedly improved if you avoid intercourse for several days before ovulation.

Opening lead — king of spades.

Panama finished 35th among the 39 nations who participated in the Olympiad. They gained their world shellacking when they met Italy in the round robin and lost by 97 international match points!

The Panamanians were undeniably unlucky on this deal. Were they ever! Italy made the very first board played.

With Panama North-South the bidding went as shown. It is hard to blame South for his jump to four hearts, even though it turned out that the contract was hopeless. From South's viewpoint, it seemed highly likely on the bidding that his partner would have a singleton or doubleton spade and he would have a good chance for 10 tricks. As it was, though, South went down one.

What the Italians were North - South, their bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♥	Dble	3♥
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Forquet and Garozzo were playing an Italianized version of the Precision System. Garozzo's heart bid announced at least five trumps and less than 16 high - card points. Three hearts was preemptive and denied interest in a game.

But Garozzo nevertheless pressed on. Furthermore, knowing full well that he and partner together had at least ten hearts, he bid game in notrump — deliberately violating the oft-asserted principle that it is easier to make a major suit game than a notrump game.

Garozzo couldn't have been more right. Three notrump was unstoppable against any lead, and this quickly became certain when the Panamanian West led the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. Perhaps if Garozzo was lucky to find the exact dummy he did, but it was the kind of luck that pursued the Italians all through the Olympiad.

Tomorrow: Peru vs. Switzerland.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♥	Dble	2♥
2♠	4♥	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead — king of spades.

Panama finished 35th among the 39 nations who participated in the Olympiad. They gained their world shellacking when they met Italy in the round robin and lost by 97 international match points!

The Panamanians were undeniably unlucky on this deal. Were they ever! Italy made the very first board played.

With Panama North-South the bidding went as shown. It is hard to blame South for his jump to four hearts, even though it turned out that the contract was hopeless. From South's viewpoint, it seemed highly likely on the bidding that his partner would have a singleton or doubleton spade and he would have a good chance for 10 tricks. As it was, though, South went down one.

What the Italians were North - South, their bidding went:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♥	Dble	3♥
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Forquet and Garozzo were playing an Italianized version of the Precision System. Garozzo's heart bid announced at least five trumps and less than 16 high - card points. Three hearts was preemptive and denied interest in a game.

But Garozzo nevertheless pressed on. Furthermore, knowing full well that he and partner together had at least ten hearts, he bid game in notrump — deliberately violating the oft-asserted principle that it is easier to make a major suit game than a notrump game.

Garozzo couldn't have been more right. Three notrump was unstoppable against any lead, and this quickly became certain when the Panamanian West led the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. Perhaps if Garozzo was lucky to find the exact dummy he did, but it was the kind of luck that pursued the Italians all through the Olympiad.

Tomorrow: Peru vs. Switzerland.

Zorro Wins Corby's Stake in A Walk

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

"I think I'll take next week-end and go duck hunting," chuckled Hugh Wemp Saturday after competing in his third harness racing card of the week.

He had good reason to chuckle after driving Zorro Gratton to a win in the Corby's Distillery $800 stakes race. The victory was, to coin a phrase "Duck Soup".

Wemp kept Zorro Gratton on the heels of the favorite, Cadillac Hanover, throughout most of the mile race before charging into a two - length lead in the stretch. The time was a surprisingly slow 2:18.1 considering the strong field of contenders.

"Yes, I was surprised that it went that slow — it was because of a slow first half. We only went, what, 1:06?" Cadillac Hanover, Russ Ray's powerful eight-year-old horse, moving from the Number one hole because of Frosty Linda's late scratch, moved into the lead before the first turn and held that position until Zorro Gratton's stretch run.

Printers Post Shutouts

Howard and Robert's two-man pitching staff split the pitching honors this weekend as they ousted Owen Sound from the OASA Intermediate "AA" quarter finals.

Bob Ethier saw round action in Owen Sound Saturday recording a 2-0 victory while Bob Swan wrapped up the best - of - three series with a 4-0 victory at the Alemite Sunday.

Ethier fired a four-hit, 18-strikeout effort in the opening game, showing flawless control. John Campbell singled home Pat Kellar with the winning run in the seventh inning. Kellar, Campbell and Pat Assetsine had the winning hits.

In Sunday's game Swan scattered seven hits to Owen Sound. He struck out three batters and walked only one. Ethier scored the winning run in the third, as unearned tallyly.

Assetsine's double brought home another marker in the fourth while singles by Kellar, Campbell and Swan in the fifth accounted for the final two markers.

Rollins Construction weren't as fortunate in their Intermediate "A" quarter final opener as a pair of unearned runs cost them a 2-1 loss to Barrie.

Ted Waite lost a four-hitter for the Belleville club who got singles from Carl Boomhower, Ted Waite, Wayne McTaggart, and Ralph Plane. Senior "A" hockey star Corby Adams had one of the Barrie hits.

The teams meet Tuesday night in an 8.15 encounter at the Alemite.

Head and Shoulders

That's what the combination of Zorro Gratton and Hugh Wemp were above the competition in the Corby's Distillery stakes race at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway Saturday. Wemp held the little pacer in second place for most of the mile before blazing to a stretch win in the $800 event. It was Wemp's second win of the night.

Ski Show Polished

The Belleville Water Ski Club held its first aquatic show Sunday and proved that — for amateurs — the members do a pretty professional job.

Kite flying, trick skiing, slalom runs and pyramid building were all part of the two hour presentation, held on the north side of Zwick's Island. Local ski enthusiasts were assisted by members of the Rice Lake Water Ski Club.

Club founder Rollie Bonneau, of Rollie's Sports Ltd, on Highway 2, was the star of the show. A third place finisher in the 1965 world kite flying championships in Paris, Rollie thrilled hundreds on hand with his bags and dives above the water while banging precariously from an oversized red kite.

He contributed a 19 foot boat with twin 115-horsepower outboard motors, along with skis, life preservers and other essentials. Membership is already at 53, with many families taking part in the fun.

The club also boasts about 10 active female participants whose fine form yesterday left many of the male spectators longing for a return to summer.

Described by one skier as Cypris Gardens material, the exhibition hopefully will stimulate others to join the club when it begins its second season next June.

Flying High

Rollie Bonneau floats through the air under his red and white kite. The exhibition was part of the Belleville Water Ski Club's first show, held under perfect conditions at Zwick's Island.

Lions Score First

The Belleville Lions peewees scored a first for minor lacrosse in this city by capturing the OMLA "D" championship Saturday. It was the first provincial title ever won by a Belleville team.

The Lions championship win was a 10-4 sudden-death game verdict at the expense of Wallaceburg, the western Ontario champions. The victory was even more satisfying due to the fact that they trailed Wallaceburg 3-0 at the end of the first period.

Scot Summers started Belleville on the comeback route with a marker at 3.55 of the second period. Before that frame ended the Lions had grabbed a 5-3 lead which they never relinquished. Danny Duffy scored twice in that frame with Summers adding his second goal and Doug Rainbolt his first.

Rainbolt and Duffy completed hat trick scoring efforts in the final period, while Jeff Runciman also added a pair.

Final Touch

Incoming Belleville Minor Softball Association president Don Smith gets some able assistance in polishing the lyke trophy presented to the city champions at the minor softball awards day Saturday. Doug Haley, who helped Burl Gib Waite Motors in pig finals and pitching ace Sean Monaghan of the championship Kinsmen Hawks help apply the final touches. Haley won the Most Valuable Player award in the lyke west division, while Monaghan captured eastern honors. A total of over 300 boys were on hand for the ceremonies to honor city softball champions. It was the sixth year that the special presentations have been made. Free soft drinks and hot dogs were distributed to the minor softball participants.

O'Connell Says New Inflation Would Bring Pay, price Curbs

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said Friday wage and price controls will be enforced if Canada faces another period of high inflation.

Speaking to an audience of 300 at a nomination meeting of the Toronto Davenport Liberal Association, he said:

"We have no immediate plan to set wage and price controls but we are not going to sit and see our country get out of hand.

"Don't think for a moment that we would hesitate to use them."

He said the federal government did not fail in its fight against inflation but it did have some "perverse results that might have warranted controls."

"We can't use the standard, orthodox methods of controlling inflation because of our extraordinarily large labor force, and maybe not enough attention was given this when we were trying to curb inflation."

Bridge Closed

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Police and emergency squads were on full-scale alert today after an anonymous caller said a bomb had been placed on the Sydney Harbor Bridge, the city's main arterial link.

For the first time in its 39-year history, all motor vehicles, trains and pedestrians were stopped from using the bridge, which spans the harbor linking the city with the northern suburbs.

Nationalists Bog Down In Debate on Program

EDMONTON (CP) — The Committee for an Independent Canada, formed early in 1970 to give dissatisfied nationalists a united voice, concluded its first policy conference Sunday with not much more accomplished than an airing of protests and a vague campaign program for the Oct. 30 federal election.

Some 139 delegates spent 2½ days debating more than a dozen policy proposals, but they became bogged down in procedural wrangles.

An official policy statement, however, is expected within a week or so from CIC headquarters in Toronto.

Most of the major policy proposals, a collection of paper weighing 7½ pounds, were aimed at giving Canadians control of their own economic and social destinies.

Committee Chairman Edwin A. Goodman, a Toronto lawyer and former national chairman of the federal Progressive Conservative party, said Sunday that although few of the policy proposals were formally voted on as resolutions, there was little argument about the non-partisan group's basic goals.

The policy papers studied during a number of simultaneous workshops included recommendations that:

—Foreign-controlled companies in Canada become Canadian-controlled both from a shareholders' and administrative point of view.

—The Canadian dollar be devalued to 85 cents to be put a flexible rate of exchange.

—Tax privileges cease for resources-based industry.

—Americans end their domination of Canadian trade unions through "internationals."

—All administrative officers in universities be Canadian.

—Canadian content be increased at all levels of education, and in films, television, theatre and all forms of art.

—A Canadian publishing agency be established to make low-interest federal government loans to publishers.

—An immediate moratorium be placed on the sale or lease of private land to aliens pending formulation of legislation to this effect.

—A national energy policy rather than a continental one be developed.

Approve Pact

TORONTO (CP) — The eight-month strike at de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. ended Sunday when workers, members of local 112, United Auto Workers, voted to accept a new three-year contract.

Workers voted 605 to 36 in favor of the settlement, tentatively reached Friday following nearly a week of intensive negotiations with conciliation officer, Ontario Mancini.

Reach Accord

TORONTO (CP) — The negotiating committee for 4,000 store employees reached tentative agreement with Dominion Stores Ltd. Sunday, just two days after reaching a similar agreement with the striking warehouse workers.

Donald Gillies, chairman of the negotiating committee for Local 414, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, said the ratification vote for both warehouse and store employees will be held Sept. 21.

Heads Plowmen

VERNON CENTER, Minn. (AP) — Will Flatzitzer, plowing in his first world competition, became the first Austrian to win the world plowing title by edging Mads Hakkre of Norway Saturday.

Doug Reid, 48, of Bramalea, Ont., where tractor crashed early in the match Saturday and was given 45 additional minutes to complete his plowing, finished 16th with 233 points.

Roland Bollchard, 44, of St. Augustine, Que., finished 22th with 219 points.

Ready to Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Production workers for Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. in Toronto and Brantford voted 97 per cent Sunday to authorize a strike, if necessary, in a contract dispute with the company.

The United Auto Workers, which represents about 1,600 of the company's employees in Toronto and another 1,700 in Brantford, has been in the position to call a legal strike since Sept. 1.

Four-way Crash

DORCHESTER, Ont. (CP) — Two persons were killed and two injured critically in an accident Sunday involving three motorcycles and a car.

Dead are Derrick Oct. 23, of Woodstock, Ont., a driver of one of the motorcycles, and Brenda Livingston, 19, of nearby London, a passenger in the car.

The car was travelling westbound on a road near here and began fishtailing after passing a car, police said. The car then struck the motorcycles which were travelling eastbound.

Man Burned

TORONTO (CP) — Aires Ferreira Branco, 28, of Toronto died in hospital Sunday after being found, clothes afire, in a field behind a housing subdivision construction site in Markham, 15 miles northeast of here.

Strike Over

TORONTO (CP) — Striking employees at the Pilkington Brothers Ltd. glass factory voted Sunday to end a 14-week strike and accept a new three-year contract with the firm.

Members of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America, local 295, voted 290 to 265 in favor of a return to work.

Hourly rates for laborers will rise from the present $3.14 an hour to $3.89 an hour by April 1, 1974. Skilled workers will go from $4.19 to $5.19 and a cost of living allowance could boost the figures by as much as 26 cents an hour over the three-year contract. The first year's increase will be retroactive to last April 1.

Only New Jobs Are for Bureaucrats Handling Jobless Benefits - - Stanfield

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield says Prime Minister Trudeau's government is responsible for changed unemployment, from a "fact of life" to a "way of life for hundreds of thousands of Canadians."

"We are approaching this stage," Mr. Stanfield said in an address in Le Droit Saturday, "where the only new jobs created are in the gigantic army of federal bureaucrats who bolster co-ordinate and administer the demands for benefits of the unemployed."

Mr. Stanfield said that if the Conservatives win the Oct. 30 federal election they would:

—Reduce personal income taxes to allow the average citizen to spend more of his money as he wishes;

—Stop using inflation as a method of obtaining a hidden increase in personal income taxes;

—Give elderly persons better protection by pegging their pensions to the cost of living;

—Reduce the size and cost of bureaucracy and abolish "unproductive" government programs.

—In the event of an inflation crisis, establish partial control on profits and incomes.

Lewis Statistics Old

HALIFAX (CP) On an open-line radio program Saturday, Mr. Trudeau said David Lewis is using statistics that deal with a time before tax loopholes were plugged by federal legislation.

Trudeau said some mistakes have been made in awarding regional economic expansion grants but that the program helps bring equality to all parts of Canada.

On tax benefits to corporations, he noted that profits made by many corporations are sent out to shareholders as dividends and then taxed.

PC Choice

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Tom Cossitt, 38, a Brockville businessman and once an organizer for the Liberal association here, was nominated Saturday as the Progressive Conservative candidate in the Oct. 30 federal election for Leeds riding.

Mr. Cossitt led a mass resignation of executive members of the Leeds Liberal association in January over a dispute with the government's handling of bilingualism.

Liberals Called Best Bet To Keep NDP Out of Power

OTTAWA (CP) — The president of the Liberal party said Saturday his party is "the one most likely" to prevent the NDP from being a federal govern ment.

Senator Richard Stanbury, speaking on CTV interview program Question Period, was commenting on the potential effect of the New Democratic Party victory last month in the British Columbia provincial election.

He said it is "quite "request" that Canadians vote differently in federal and provincial elections and the NDP win in B.C. will likely mean a Liberal success there in the Oct. 30 election.

Stanfield Is Displaying His Easy-going Personality

VICTORIA (CP) — It was the aisle of his chartered campaign jet, handing him a piece of specially-ordered cake and leading members of the media gang in Happy Birthday.

It's the sort of thing Bob Stanfield does naturally.

After his first week of campaigning for the Oct. 30 federal election, travelling from Nova Scotia to British Columbia where he campaigns today, it is apparent that Progressive Conservative party strategists are making the most of their leader's personality.

They are getting Mr. Stanfield among the people where he can shake hands, chat for a minute, let the easy-going personality come through.

Bomb Sent Embassy Kills London Israeli

Uganda Routs Invading Army

KAMPALA (Reuter) — Uganda's armed forces have put to flight a 1,500-strong invasion force which invaded the country three days ago, latest battle reports said today.

Towns taken by the invaders as they pushed into Uganda from its southern border with Tanzania have been recaptured.

One of the retaken towns, was Mbarara, a key garrison town guarding the road to Kampala from southwest Uganda. Two other recaptured towns were named by a Ugandan military spokesmen as Kyotera and Lukaya.

The spokesman, who said the invasion force was retreating, issued his report on the fighting amid fresh charges by President Idi Amin that the attack was "completely unprovoked."

Amin said the attack was staged by Tanzanian regular soldiers and Ugandan guerrillas supported by a number of British and Israeli mercenaries.

Tanzania, Britain and Israel all have denied any involvement in the invasion.

President Amin made his accusations during a briefing he gave Monday night to diplomatic representatives in Kampala of the Organization of African Unity.

He said 200 of the guerrillas had been killed and 50 taken prisoner.

The guerrillas in the invading force were supporters of Uganda's former president Milton Obote, President Amin said.

Obote was deposed by Gen. Amin in a military coup in January, 1971, and fled to Tanzania, where he was given sanctuary by President Julius Nyerere.

Radio Uganda reported that three guerrillas captured in the fighting had confessed to Amin that the invasion force had been expecting help from British troops.

The guerrillas, brought to Amin's home in Kampala, made videotaped statements, the radio said.

In Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Reuters correspondent Anas Thomas reported that Tanzanian border units, attacked by 1,500 troops, took up positions along the frontier with Uganda today as fighting in the East African country raged on into a third day.

The troop reinforcements were moved up to the border village of Mutukula—scene of clashes between the two countries a year ago—after two Ugandan air force jets attacked the northern Tanzanian town of Bukoba Monday.

Informed sources said the Tanzanian troops had strict orders not to enter Uganda. They would, however, "confront the enemy in the event of any aggression against Tanzania," Radio Tanzania said.

Latest word from the Ugandan capital, Kampala, was that the invasion force was retreating back towards Tanzania—but unofficial reports circulating here said the insurgents might be putting up a stand south of Masaka, a town about 36 miles inside Uganda.

Syria Seizes U.S. Envoy

By The Associated Press

A booby-trapped package exploded in the Israeli embassy in London today and killed the Israeli agricultural attache who opened it and injured another man, Scotland Yard reported.

In Beirut, in an unrelated incident, the U.S. embassy reported the Syrian government has arrested the assistant military attache of the American Embassy in Amman, Jordan. The attache was arrested near the Golan-Syria border.

The British foreign office identified the man killed in today's blast as Agricultural Attache Dr. Ami Schachori in his early 40s.

A spokesman said police reports disclosed the package had been mailed to the embassy from Amsterdam. It was not immediately determined to whom the package was addressed.

They said the army was enforcing an ultimatum it gave to the guerrillas' leadership even before the Israelis withdrew Sunday night, and that the ultimatum imposed through new restraints on guerrilla movements.

Scotland Yard, has been watching for an incident like this ever since the Munich massacre of 11 members of Israel's Olympic squad Sept. 5 and subsequent Israeli reprisals against Arab guerrillas.

The package bomb exploded on a level with Shachori's stomach, Scotland Yard said.

The diplomatic informants in Beirut said Maj. Richard Bar-

Priests Urge End To Violence

BELFAST (AP) — Roman Catholic priests have called on the Irish Republican Army to end its bloody bombing campaign in Northern Ireland as the guerrillas claimed three more victims, one of them killed in bomb blasts.

Police said they had captured a sniper firing from near a Catholic convent in Lurgan and shot Matthew O'Connell, a Catholic stronghold in Belfast early today. One soldier was wounded.

Three bombs exploded, one killing a bar owner as he opened the door of his badly trapped car on a road near the Irish republican border late Monday night. Two men with him were wounded.

Police said the men were collecting the bar owner's car near Crossmaglen. It had been stolen last week in Dundalk, a former Irish border stronghold in the Irish republic.

The others who died Monday were a 53-year-old woman, wounded when the Imperial Hotel in north Belfast was bombed last Thursday, and a soldier wounded in Londonderry by a sniper Sunday.

The priests said in Londonderry that Catholics were weary of the "senseless bombing and shooting."

But the priests also condemned British troops for "the army practice—coming with wearying repetition—of referring to all civilian victims of shooting as gunmen as justification of their actions."

They said that nearly 20 civilians killed by army fire in Londonderry in the last 14 months, only three were known to have been armed. But, they stressed, all were described as gunmen by the army.

Hees Nominated

At the Prince Edward - Hastings Progressive Conservative Association nomination convention at Brighton last night, MP George Hees, left, is shown with guest speaker Dr. Tom Symons, chairman of the policy committee for the Conservative Party. Mr. Hees was returned as candidate by acclamation.

Thousand Name Hees Candidate

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

BRIGHTON — There was really no speculation necessary to predict the candidacy of incumbent George Hees as the Progressive Conservative standard bearer for Prince Edward-Hastings.

The member of parliament and former minister of transport and minister of trade and commerce in the Diefenbaker governments, had no serious contenders during last night's Prince Edward - Hastings Progressive Conservative Association nomination meeting held at the East Northumberland Secondary School here. More than 1,000 loyal Tories turned out in force to renew the Hees name once again appears on the ballot for an upcoming federal election.

This is the eighth time he has allowed his name to stand for Parliament. Three other nominees, former Prince Edward - Lennox MPP Norris Whitney, Trenton councillor E. M. Parker and Mr. Hees' campaign manager Douglas Whitley declined.

Although he basically repeated Conservative policies, Mr. Hees received the undivided attention of the audience, flailing the present Liberal government for "the colossal mess made in managing the economic affairs of this country in the last four years."

He charged that Trudeau government with attempting to avoid the real issue at stake in the upcoming Oct. 30 election—that of the economic problems facing Canada. "During the next six weeks the PCs

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (Reuter) — The city of Jacui will erect a statute of a local homing pigeon that has broken the world distance record, the mayor said Monday. The bird, also named Jacui, covered 1,200 miles from northern Teresina in 14 days and lost five ounces in weight.

Study Fee Referendum

TORONTO — The executive of the Ontario Federation of Students, which represents more than 160,000 college and university students, is to decide this afternoon whether to hold a referendum on increased fees. If the federation still approves a mid-October vote, students will be asked whether or not they are willing to withhold payment of winter-term fees as a pressure tactic on the provincial government. They approved the measure originally at a meeting last July.

PC Wins Byelection

CARAQUET, N.B. (CP) — Progressive Conservative Lorenzo Morais, 38, mayor of this northeastern New Brunswick community, won a provincial byelection in Gloucester riding Monday, wresting the seat from the Opposition Liberals.

Controls Better Method

TORONTO (CP) — Wage and price controls would have been a better weapon to fight inflation than the methods used by the government, federal Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said Monday night.

Sixteen Injured

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Fifteen school children and a school bus driver were treated for minor cuts and bruises when their bus and a transport truck collided on Highway 7 about three miles east of Sarnia Monday.

Stanfield Speaks Up For Rival

VICTORIA (CP) — Robert Stanfield took a low-key run at British Columbia voters Monday, capping a day of circulation among the people by rejecting any idea that the Oct. 30 federal election campaign should be fought on language issues.

The one thing that depressed him after a day of handshaking and chatting with the populace, the Progressive Conservative leader said on a radio hot line program, was a lady telling him the country must "get rid of that Frenchman in Ottawa."

Mr. Stanfield said he could think of many reasons for getting rid of Prime Minister Trudeau. But, the prime minister's race or language were not among them.

Anti-polluters Ask Question

Sand Dunes: Are PC Backers Being Protected?

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government may have been looking after the interest of some of its party supporters in establishing policy to save the sand dunes of Prince Edward County, an independent research team said Monday.

The report, prepared for Pollution Probe and the Canadian Environmental Law Research Foundation, said there is "strong evidence" to suggest members of the Ontario government have a "close relationship" with directors of Denison Mines, which has a 64.7-percent controlling interest in Lake Ontario Cement Ltd., the firm that has been mining sand from the massive dunes, 11 miles from Picton, since 1958.

The report, written by researchers Larry Green and Ron Alexander, suggests that the relationship "may have had significant influence on government policy toward the dunes."

"The directors of Denison Mines include such noted Conservatives as Stephen Roman; George Drew, former national party leader; and Toronto realtor E. K. Willoughby," the report said.

"Lake Ontario Cement has on its board of directors former federal Conservative cabinet minister Michael Starr, highway contractor Harvey J. McFarland Jr. Picton, and Toronto financier Charles Bronfman, prominent friends of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party.

It said these political relationships offer "a possible explanation" for the original lease granted to Lake Ontario Cement by the government for 21 a year "and their refusal to terminate the lease despite irreversible damage to the dunes."

Mr. Roman, federal Conservative candidate for Toronto York North in the Oct. 30 election, is a member of the board of the Royal Ontario Museum. Dr. Walter Tovell, whose recent report on the dunes for the government was the cause of the new study, also is on the museum board.

The report said it was "conceivable" that even Dr. Tovell may not have been able to escape "these governmentcorporate inter-relationships."

"It is difficult to believe that all these factors are merely coincidental and that they did not have an influence on the development of government policy for the dunes."

At a news conference, where the 36-page report was released, Mr. Green said he had no evidence to support the claim that there may have been collusion in setting policy. "It is only a suspicion we have."

Dr. Tovell's one-man study proposed the end to excavation of the sand within three years. Dr. Tovell also recommended that the lease with Lake Ontario Cement be end-

PCs Hold Convention

Liberal party will do everything it possibly can to divert the attention of the Canadian people away from the economic problems they are facing today," he told the packed audience.

"They will try to persuade them that there are more important issues on which the election should be fought — issues such as the unity of the country, the Canadian identity and so on; issues that the prime minister is stressing so hard today."

Mr. Hees said recent polls across the country have clearly indicated Canadians are in no mood to be diverted away from what they have decided is the main issue of this election, and that is why the party is best able to control economic affairs of this country during the next four years."

He cited parents' concern for the future of their children; a person's job situation and the steadily rising cost of living, of paramount concern to the average voter.

Backing his statement up with facts, Mr. Hees quoted a figure of 6.7 per cent of the working force unemployed in August, stating "it is the highest it has ever been at this time of year since the sad, dark days of the terrible great depression of the 1930s."

Other figures quoted were a 4.7 per cent increase in the cost of living over the same period in 1971, a rise of 12 per cent a year in the cost of living during the past two months and economists' predictions of an even higher, continuing level if something is not done to halt the upsurge.

He attacked the present federal government and finance minister John Turner, for the stand on personal and corporate taxes, stating a forthcoming tax reduction for the manufacturing industry would only represent one-third of the economy, while the other two-thirds of the economy would face a five per cent increase. Mr. Hees says the Liberal government has forgotten to emphasize the latter figure, commenting it "will counteract all the beneficial results" to be expected from the reduction.

"Mr. Turner also seemed to forget that his predecessor, while reducing personal income taxes by three per cent in his budget of Oct., 1971, as an intended spur to the economy, provided also that this tax would be restored to its former level on Jan. 1, 1972," he said during his acceptance speech.

Although Mr. Hees quoted national Conservative leader Robert Stanfield as saying a new Conservative government would reduce personal income taxes by at least four per cent, he said he would urge this be carried further, to at least 10 per cent.

Further attempts to create a rejuvenated economy would be aided by plans for a massive trade drive to sell more Canadian products in the free world market, an historical move recalled by the Conservative candidate from the Diefenbaker governments of the late 1950s, early 1960s.

Dealing with the subject of inflation, Mr. Hees continued to lash out at the Trudeau government for the introduction of a voluntary wage and price guidelines program two years ago. He referred to the move as one "no sensible businessmen would have ever tried."

"The whole plan flopped miserably because there were no penalties that could be imposed on people who didn't comply with those wage and price guidelines. The whole labor collapsed as the cost of labor said there are no penalties; this is going to harm what our economy needs — to pay any attention to them— and they didn't."

He said the only sensible move would be to implement those same guidelines, calculated to keep the annual rise in the consumer price index to no greater than 2½ percent a year, "because that is the average rise of inflation."

Speaking with all the force and physical expressions which have made him famous over the years, Mr. Hees emphasized the Conservatives would lay this guideline policy on the line for management and organized labor, if they are prepared to bring in mandatory price and wage controls, if the voluntary guidelines are not adhered to.

If they are not met, he said, the future can only mean less jobs and less dollars in a take-home pay plus the increasing and spiralling ever expensive foreign products.

Having consulted with top management and labor economists, he said the last thing Canadian industry wants are mandatory controls, which would place them in an economic "straightjacket". Mr. Hees said they would be much more willing to comply with the voluntary schedules laid down by government economists.

The final subject dealt with by the former minister, was Canada's farming industry, which he says has fallen from 430,000 farmers in 1966, to 366,000 in 1971, a decrease of 15 per cent.

Mr. Hees said this industry is the only "basic" industry, the bone of the whole Canadian economy, that has been provided with adequate export markets for surplus produce other than that which is well distributed or adequate domestic markets, by way of farm expansion at a viable interest rate.

He re-emphasized a Conservative government's bid for other industrial as well as agricultural markets.

In concluding his first official pre - election speech, Mr. Hees stated: "If the people of this country want a government that is going to deal with issues instead of theorizing at this hundred - and - minded theorists in Ottawa, Mr. Trudeau and his group have been doing for the last four years, the people of Canada have only one alternative.

"This is the most important election this country has ever faced."

Both Mr. Hees and guest speaker T. H. B. Symons, past president of Trent University, 1971 president of the Association of Universities of the British Commonwealth and chairman of the policy committee for the Conservatives, used "Big Blue Machine" methods during their speeches.

This method, made successful during the recent Ontario provincial election, which saw Premier William Davis elected, promotes the concept of the Conservative leader, his ability and appeal.

Large poster-photographs of speaker, greets the returning standard bearer, in the background is Alan Lawrence, former provincial cabinet minister, who re-signed to seek federal nomination for the Conservatives in Northumberland-Durham Wednesday night.

Indicative of criticisms being leveled against Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau across the country, Mr. Symons states, "we just can't afford the policies of confrontation which are so frequently practised by the present prime minister," further commenting, "it is urgently necessary that we have a prime minister and policies which bring Canadians closer together . . . not tear it apart by basing our policy on a lack of understanding and a lack of conciliation."

Sandbanks

ed through negotiation with compensation, and that a sufficient alternative site should be found to protect the 235 jobs at stake.

Dr. Tovell's report was described by the pollution researchers as inadequate and misleading.

The dependent report called for an immediate ban on mining in the dunes, that the area located by Lafarge Canada Cement be immediately incorporated into Sandbanks Provincial Park, and that the park itself be designated as a nature reserve. It also proposed the establishment of a committee of five citizens and five government representatives to plan the restoration of the dunes.

The report challenges the government's claim that the company needs the sand in order to ensure production of cement.

Mr. Alexander told the news conference that an independent chemist, identified only as a woman working for a rival firm, reported that the sand was not suitable for production of cement because of its alkaline content.

Mr. Alexander, answering a question, said at first that the cement being produced by the firm was "low quality." He later amended that, after pondering, that it was "objectionable" in the production of cement.

The report also claimed that Lake Ontario Cement has been in the past been convicted under the Combines Investigation Act of limiting competition. It said this was an indication of the company's "complete disregard for the public interest."

It said the dunes are now shifting constantly as the report call claimed and that continued mining of the sand would seriously curtail tourism which can be the mainstay of the county's economy in the future.

James Taylor, Conservative member of the legislature for Prince Edward-Lennox, said in an interview later the report was a form of "grandstanding." He said the references to a relationship with the legislature's energy policy committee for the Conservatives, used "Big Blue Machine" methods during their speeches.

This method, made successful during the recent Ontario provincial election, which saw Premier William Davis elected, "promotes the concept of the Conservative leader, his ability and appeal.

Syria

rett was arrested Sept. 9 at Deraa, the crossing point from Jordan into Syria, and that all efforts to obtain his release thus far have been unsuccessful. No reason for the arrest was given, the sources said.

Meanwhile, the cabinet of the federation of Arab Egypt and Libya declared agression on any of the Arab states which will be considered an attack on all and retaliatory action will be swift.

Aggression, "even on one inch of the federal state," will not be permitted to pass without "swift deterrent action," the cabinet said in a statement published in the Egyptian press.

Syria has been expecting an Israeli attack since Saturday, when the Israelis plunged deep into Lebanon.

Syria, Egypt and Libya formed in a loose federation a year ago.

Earlier today, the secretary-general of the Arab League arrived in Beirut to mediate tension between the Lebanese army and Palestinian Arab guerrillas in the wake of Israel's invasion of southern Lebanon during the weekend, Cairo's semi-official newspaper, Al Ahram, reported.

It said Mahmoud Riad's talks were undertaken with "full political authorization" by Arab governments to resolve the situation in Lebanon.

Meanwhile, there was odyssey through contacts on the "highest level" Monday, led by Egypt, Libya, Syria and Saudi Arabia, it said.

The newspaper added Riad might also conduct talks in Syria, where an estimated 15,000-strong Palestinian Liberation Army is based.

Meanwhile, Ahram called for restraint "in order to foil the objectives of the Israeli attack," and urged all Arab countries to participate in efforts to find a solution acceptable to both the guerrillas and the Lebanese.

Travellers arriving in Cyprus Monday said the Lebanese army was moving into areas in southern Lebanon which the guerrillas abandoned both of the advancing Israelis during the weekend.

Crop Damage May Boost Food Prices

Smaller crop yields as the result of heavy frosts last winter and wet weather during the summer months may result in higher prices for such food products as catsup, tomato juice, corn and peas, peaches and frozen fruits and vegetables.

But the shorter crops are in the Western Ontario area and in the Niagara Peninsula rather than in the Quinte district.

The possible price increase will depend on the weather for the next two or three weeks, according to Jack Pirie, general manager of procurement for H. J. Heinz Co. of Canada.

He said it would be a touch-and-go situation in Essex county.

"We are hoping frost won't strike for at least the next two weeks," he said.

Mr. Pirie said there was no hope for the peaches in the Essex county district because of a frost in early spring which caused 100 per cent loss.

There has been a delayed ripening of the tomato crop in Western Ontario and some canneries had to import tomatoes at the beginning of the season.

The peach crop in the Niagara district is said to be thin, about 70 per cent of last year's crop. There is a good fresh market supply but only 50 per cent is available for canning.

Bob Cobbledick, fieldman for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food for the Prince Edward district, said that June frost which hit the tomato plants in Western Ontario had little effect here.

The 1,400 acres of tomatoes are normally "whole pack" processed, meaning they go into canned rather than as paste or as tomato juice.

Only the occasional field of tomatoes in the Prince Edward area was touched by the June frost, according to Mr. Cobbledick.

Neither has there been any problem with corn in the Quinte area.

Mr. Cobbledick said the only problem had been uneven maturity with a spread of up to 14 days for corn planted on the same day.

Mr. Cobbledick said corn is planted on a best fault system meaning that plantings are spaced so that only so much corn will mature at one time.

But the shortage in the peach crop has already forced prices up for this type of fruit.

Mr. Cobbledick said that six-quart baskets of peaches were being retailed at $2.65 in the Niagara area where the price normally would be about $1.50.

Hello Down There

The last link in the sewer system, beneath the bank of the Moira River means a long way down to construction crews. At the pumping station, on the corner of Front and Dundas Streets, crews dig more than 70 feet down to make necessary connections. The project, according to city engineer Wilbur Purcell, is proceeding on schedule with the contractor's target date set at the end of October. The contract calls for the project to be finished by the first week in December.

Board Requests Green Flasher

The Hastings County Board of Education would like to see the installation of a flashing green light at the corner of Dundas and Church Streets to facilitate left turns for eastbound school buses.

The request for consideration of the installation was made to the city traffic committee yesterday in a letter from the board.

The letter said that buses were losing considerable time as they wait during the morning rush hour for the opportunity to make left turns.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell doubted if there were sufficient school buses being inconvenienced to warrant installation of a flashing green light which he said would "steal" moving time from east and west bound vehicles.

The request was referred to traffic inspector Ralph Blatchford, and Orville Sumner, city traffic technician, for investigation and report.

Crown Land Embargoed

TWEED (Special) — According to the Ministry of Natural Resources, there will be no more crown land leased or sold for summer cottage sites in the Tweed district of the department of natural resources, for the time being.

The district staff believes that far too many cottage lots have already been sold on the lakes in the district, resulting in water pollution.

The Tweed district encompasses a vast area of summer—resort lakes extending from the eastern part of the Kawartha's to the edge of the Rideau Country. A report from the district says that the demand for lakeshore property has been great, and that past practices of disposing of shoreline property have resulted in water quality problems.

Clerks Attend Seminar

Loyalist College's first professional development seminar for female clerical staff appeared at first to be another lesson in personal grooming and self improvement. But when the day was over, most of the 48 employees who attended found they had been on an enlightening excursion through the psychology of human relations.

Held Saturday at the college, the seminar presented the women with four typical office situations, then asked how to overcome them.

For instance, the women were asked how to cope with two gossiping girls who were interested in talk than work.

A variety of answers came out in the discussion group after, most revealing tact and with a certain degree of firmness.

The ladies were helped in their problem-solving by an earlier address from Marie Switcher, certified professional secretary and employee of the Moore Corp. of Toronto.

As well as offering hints on proper office appearance and behavior, Miss Switcher also told her audience to improve themselves mentally and physically at work by expanding their lives outside the office.

The seminar, first ever held at Loyalist for clerical workers, also gave staff members a chance to find out more about the operation of the college.

Dean Paul King, representing academic affairs, Harold Butterill of the extension division and Edward Lott of retraining were present to answer questions about their respective fields.

F. Glyn Harry, director of finance at Loyalist, also spoke at the meeting.

A short skit, titled Maw Bell Fights Back, demonstrated how not to answer a telephone. And a fashion show with Loyalist staff as models presented ideas for an office wardrobe.

An Old-Fashioned Law Man

No-Nonsense Claude Wagner Campaign Powerhouse for PCs

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Who is Claude Wagner and, why is he such a big deal for the Conservatives?

Well, as everyone should know he is a former Quebec Liberal attorney general and justice minister, and until recently a Judge, but always, all his adult life, a stern law-and-order advocate.

Now, he is a big deal for the Conservatives not only because they — and some Liberals and Creditistes too — expect he may win as many as 15 Quebec seats for the Tories.

. . . But a big deal, too, because he gives Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield some election credibility in Quebec where, previously holding only three of 75 Quebec seats, he lacked it.

And an even bigger deal nationally, since giving the Conservatives this credibility in Quebec, reflected all across the country, he is instrumental in cracking at least the facade of what historically has been the one great and ever-dependable Liberal power-base.

That is the election "why" of Claude Wagner.

The "who" of him is just as interesting.

Claude Wagner burst upon the public scene on a crisp autumn day eight years ago as former Quebec Liberal Premier Jean Lesage's stern, hard-headed, tough, law-and-order attorney general.

He ordered his white crash-helmeted provincial police in their spectacular phosphorescent orange greatcoats and shields, swinging their three-foot-long, leaded nightsticks into the untidy ranks of assorted hooligans, separatists, terrorists and Quebec nationalist extremists who were rioting and screaming obscenities at Queen Elizabeth on her Quebec City visit.

You may recall how the terrorists had made no secret, in fact, they boasted publicly — of their plans to kill the Queen, and in spectacularly law-defying fashion mounted arms raids on federal army barracks to collect the weapons for what they swore would be her assassination.

For this firm, sense - making stand in the face of hooligan terrorism, he took a pounding from what Prime Minister Trudeau, six years later in the crunch of the FLQ kidnap-murder terror, was to call the "bleeding hearts".

But he fought back and stood off the separatists and their fatsoft political and academic allies with the declaration:

"The well - ordered state and society itself can be well protected only when the forces of law and order know how to effectively deal with demonstrations that inevitably lead to disorders and riots well-planned in advance by bird-brained anarchists who too often make fools and fools of well-intentioned young people."

From the bench, Claude Wagner publicly has proclaimed his disgust with what he calls "leaguelaw" — this gaggle of leagues for the defence of this and the saving of that, for the abolition of such - and - such and for the elimination of so-and-so, for the let-us-be-at-it attitude and the who-cares-pure.

And he has wondered why those who are not nuts, who do care, and who have some concern and want to preserve the traditions and freedoms, do not themselves form a league.

He suggests a league for the preservation of public order, for respect of authority, and the upholding of the law, for putting the common interest first, for disciplining anarchists, revolutionaries and demonstrators in general.

"I hold," says Claude Wagner, "that the prior right of any society which professes to live by the rule of law belongs to the decent citizen who expects to walk the streets of our cities and lanes of our countryside with reasonable assurance of doing so without fear of robbery, assault, rape, insult or obscenity."

Claude Wagner, agree many Frenchy Canadian politicians and observers alike, stands in public esteem in Quebec with Pierre Trudeau and towers above Rene Levesque.

Quebec has the cut of Claude Wagner's jaw and the way he uses it.

For the Conservatives he is a strongman whose toughness, power of quick decision and determination to hold to the rule of law rivals even that of Pierre Trudeau whom the Prime Minister called out the armed forces and marshalled public opinion to smash the FLQ terror.

Fun of the Fair

There is the thunder of hooves as horses and riders fly around the track, to disappear momentarily among the trees at the bend. The lady in the announcer's box urges them on, with a special word of praise for one young rider back in the thick of things after injury and hospitalization last year and a blistering warning to a car driver who somehow has got his vehicle onto the track while the race is in progress.

It is all part of the fun of the fair as the Mohawks and palefaces get together at the annual Mohawk fair on the Tyendinaga Reserve. There is a touch of the wild west about the event as the horses pound the track but the only shooting irons to be seen are at the stalls where you try your target skill for prizes.

It is one of the more interesting social occasions around. Chief Earl Hill and his wife are out there in the centre of the throng, behind them the handsome and nearly completed Council House to replace the old one destroyed by fire. A middle-aged woman spots someone and says to her husband, "I haven't seen him in years" and yes it is that kind of occasion. There are new faces, the scions of a race whose origins are far back in history, handsome too, and old faces that show the strength and character of experience.

Small boys are small boys whatever the color of their skin and toffee apples leave the sticky imprint on Indian and paleface alike. Fashionwise black is still beautiful as a graceful young Indian woman in black smock and slacks and a statuesque paleface in black shorts demonstrate.

One thing we shall remember next time around at the Mohawk Fair — if the horses kick up a dust it is nothing compared with the drive on the gravel road from Shannonville. Far better to go via the Deseronto end where the road is paved virtually all the way to the fair site.

Search for Safety

Making the school bus safer for 20 million kids is the subject of an article in a recent issue of Life Magazine and we are sure whatever modifications are made will show up on buses here too.

The search for safer school buses, Life points out, is impelled by a rising number of accidents. In the course of transporting those 20 million American youngsters to and from school last year, 150 persons were killed and more than 9,500 injured. We do not have the figures for Canada, but most of us remember the nasty accident on the Bay Bridge last winter when a bus came to grief during a storm. General Motors Corporation currently is testing a new vehicle which has an emergency escape hatch in the roof, since ten per cent of all school bus accidents in the United States wind up with the coach overturned.

In addition to the hatch, Life points out, the experimental bus has a lowered hoodline to give the driver better visibility and high padded seats to give small passengers better protection in case of collision.

As vital to the Canadian school bus scene as to the U.S. is the contributing part of the fatal vehicle. "Research elsewhere," it points out, "are working at other problems, such as how to eliminate lethal gradecrossing accidents. And for existing buses new federal safety standards are in effect this fall: standees are to be outlawed, buses must be inspected at least semi-annually, and tougher methods of selection and training for drivers will be required."

It is pointed out that statistically school buses are still the safest vehicles on the road. This record is now threatened but it is encouraging to note that a remedy is being sought through safer vehicles and driver standards.

Rough Ride

We referred last week to various municipal road works which will inconvenience the travelling public to some extent. We might have mentioned also the rough surfaces of the city's road system generally. There are places more suited to an autorally than to the relatively sedate business of driving around town. City Council members might treat themselves to a comprehensive tour of the community and they will see what we mean.

Ontario Cabinet Faces Yet Another Shakeup

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

If a current rumor is correct the Davis regime may be known, in at least one respect, as the most changeable government in Ontario history.

The rumor is that Premier Davis is planning another shake-up at Queen's Park. A reorganization, which some say will see changes in both the cabinet and the senior civil service.

This is still only a rumor, of course, but it is an impressively strong one.

And if it is right it means that it will be the third reorganization since the premier has been in office and will come only six months or so after he completed his really drastic remodelling last March.

The first move in the shakeup, according to some, was the chairmanship of the new Sudbury regional government.

The appointment was unprecedented in that never before has a civil servant, or even an outsider, been named to the chairmanship of a regional government.

Here it is said that an important factor could have been finding an acceptable position for a senior civil servant who didn't fit in too well with the new regime.

Collins has been deputy Minister of Industry and Tourism. He has held a number of other top jobs and was accepted as one of the two or three key inside powers in the Robarts administration.

There have been reports for some months that he wouldn't fit in with the Davis plans.

While there is a lot of further shake-up talk there is surprisingly little name-dropping.

When it comes down to the cabinet Revenue Minister Allan Grossman and solicitor General John Yaremko do enjoy the confidence of the premier and have some months.

Also adding some credibility to that theory early in office Davis said he believed in changing ministers and senior officials around.

But when does changing around turn into rig around a ring?

But as the veterans of the cabinet they always do figure in shake-up talk.

One indication that the premier does have something further in mind is that the chairmanship of the Ontario Science Centre has been vacant for Quebec an Independent Marxist State by 1984?

THE WORLD TODAY
By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs-Analyst

Quebec as a separate and new nation in the Western Hemisphere? No dream anymore, but within realm of reality.

The possibility this might happen has not escaped the technocrats in the prime minister's office if we are to believe Jacques Parizeau, one of Quebec's leading economists and a stalwart of the separatist Parti Quebecois.

Parizeau claims he has a copy of such an Ottawa study assessing the position of two countries in the northern half of this hemisphere, a future, truncated Canada and a future Republic of Quebec.

According to what Parizeau has released, the Ottawa report seems to make some assumptions about a Quebec nation, which could be wrong, and in the course of future independence, arrogant. One of these is that a future Quebec currency would probably be about 15 per cent below the future Canadian dollar in value and always shaky in international money markets.

Let's look, speculatively of course, at what a new Le in republic in the hemisphere might be like. Economically speaking, she would be much better off than most of the republics in Latin America. Her industrial potential would be greater than any other country in the hemisphere except the United States, Canada without her and Brazil.

Her ability to borrow at that great trough, the World Bank, would also be greater than that nearly all her new hemisphere. Latin American partners. In fact, there are a few truly imaginative economists in Ottawa who privately suggest Quebec would get a better deal out of the World Bank's experience in development than from such Canadian government agencies as the department of regional and economic expansion.

One reason they give is the fact Quebec would be on its own, without constant carping from English-Canadians that Quebec always got larger federal handouts than any of the other provinces.

Politically, a future Quebec state looks more shaky. Premier Rene Levesque's moderate but separatist Parti Quebecois was elected, he would move Quebec out of Confederation. There would be an increase in nationalized industries. Deals would have to be made with Ottawa to share the Seaway and other federal services no longer paid for in part by the former provinces through federal taxes.

But how strong are the anti-democratic separatists of both the left and right who now menace in silence, but could rise in violence after the new state was created? Would Levesque's role, like Kerensky's in Russia in 1917, be only to set the model for future and gen uine social revolution?

Would Quebec by some arbitrary date — pick 1984, everybody's date for the optimum controlled state — end up as a "North American Chile," Marxist after all? And if so, would events take place without some kind of United States intervention? Whatever happens finally, the revolutionaries would still have to dispose of

'Conflict' Issue Is Puzzling

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

Conflict of interest? It's the biggest political question we've had here in years. Everybody is excited about it. A great many people are talking about it sternly and profoundly. Opposition members, the press, street corner pundits . . . all are pontificating.

It's agreed! It's horrible! It's offensive! It shouldn't be permitted! We should strictly control it! Control it at others do!

But do you know a funny thing. Practically nobody seems to know just what they are talking about.

This particularly applies to the question of control.

For example, the case cited far and wide in the current conflict hassle is the resignation of Reginald Maudling in the United Kingdom.

"Maudling resigned in the U.K. Bales and McKeough should get out in Ontario." One hears this ringing out.

But try to get beyond the ring and you're beat.

Very few, if any, know the exact circumstances of the resignation of Maudling.

Even Attorney-General Dalton Bales wasn't too sure when asked about them at the time he announced he was staying in the government.

And he is the background of just what the situation is in the U.K.—is there law against conflict, is it precedent that is followed, what is the general principle? — nobody seems to know.

Premier David, asked specifically at last week's office controversy, said no, he didn't know just what the story was in the U.K.

Even NDP Leader Stephen Lewis, probably the most broadly informed man around here, was in the bleachers on this one.

He himself was curious and his researchers are at work on it. (One reason he is so well informed, his research bureau under Marion Bryden is leagues ahead of efforts by the other parties). But for now he was stuck.

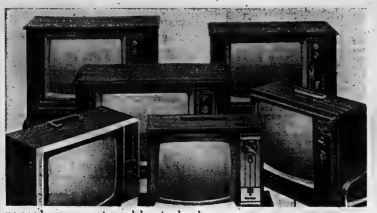
And there is an impression that the press, generally speaking, is just as much in the dark.

We do know, of course, through instinct if nothing else, that conflict is a way elected wrong, for a member of a government to gain from privileges he attended the Divinity attended by the affairs of the public.

We know, generally speaking, that it is wrong for any elected representative to make personal gain because of his office. We are on the right track.

But it certainly would help if we knew a bit more about just why we are on it.

Forget all the mumbo jumbo.



Just remember the Fleetwood check list when you shop for Color TV and we guarantee you'll end up happy.

Color TV manufacturers love to give things names. Like "Silicon Controlled Rectifier", "Color Demodulator" and "Audio Pre-Amplifier".

(How would you like to be the only guy on the street without one of those on his Color Television set?) Gobbledegook.

There are only eight things worth looking for (and paying extra for) in Color TV. Five of them control picture quality and three are for reliability. The sooner you find out what they are, the sooner you'll find the best buys in Color.

And just to prove that this isn't another snow-job, we'll tell you right now that Fleetwood isn't the only manufacturer who has them. Most manufacturers put most of the features in their high-priced models. And they put some of them in their low-priced models. But no-one has so many in models priced as low as ours.

And that's something you can easily check for yourself.

Eight things to look for before you look at price tags.

If you show a TV salesman our list, you'll be letting him know that he's dealing with a very rare kind of Color buyer. Someone who knows exactly what to look for—and what to ignore. In effect, you'll be asking him to quote you a price on a Color TV package which includes these important features:

1. Natural Color. That probably sounds so obvious that it isn't worth listing. But don't be confused. There's a big difference in color—because there's a difference in color picture tubes. Basically, there are two kinds. One produces very bright, dramatic color—the reds are very red and the blues are very blue, for example—and the other is designed to make colors softer, more natural. Each manufacturer has his own preference and his own funny name. Our friends at Zenith call their picture tube Chromacolor. The people at RCA call their's Accucolor. And Admiral's is called Solar Color. At Fleetwood, we offer a choice of two "natural color" picture tubes—SuperColor (which is a black matrix tube) and TruColor. Look at both.

2. Automatic Picture Tuning. Five major controls actually determine the quality of the picture you get on a Color set—Color, Tint, Contrast, Brightness and Fine Tune. To get the best possible picture, you have to "balance" those controls—which takes patience and practice. Automatic Picture tuning balances them for you. One push-bar control automatically finds the best picture your set is capable of receiving on each channel. Motorola offers this feature, and they call it Chromatic Tuning. We call ours Total Picture Lok. Very few other manufacturers offer it at all.

If you choose a set with automatic picture tuning (Total Picture Lok), then you won't need the next three features. They're already included.

3. Automatic Color Tuning. This control handles part of the total tuning job described above. In effect, it combines the functions of Automatic Tint Control and Automatic Fine Tuning—which between them determine the quality of the color (as opposed to the complete picture) you get on each channel. That's why we call this feature Total Color Lok.

If you choose a set with automatic color tuning (Total Color Lok), then you won't need the next two features.

4. Automatic Tint Control. Admiral calls it Tint-A-Matic, Electrohome calls it Electrotint . . . etc., etc., etc. But what it does is much more important than what it's called. And what it does is automatically adjust color values. So if a series of greenish or pinkish faces suddenly appear on the screen, you can switch to automatic tint control instead of trying to make the correction manually. Our automatic tint control is called Tint Lok.

5. Automatic Fine Tuning. It works like a push-button radio. You tune in each station just once and your TV set "remembers" for itself after that. Without AFT, you may find yourself jumping up and down to adjust the picture every time someone changes channels. We call our AFT control Color Lok.

6. A Solid State Chassis. That's usually taken to mean a chassis that's at least 90% solid state. Transistors replace old-fashioned vacuum tubes in a solid state chassis—and transistors run cooler and thus reduce the need for servicing.

7. Plug-in Transistors. Just because they're easier, faster and cheaper to replace than the solder-in kind. Incidentally, we're way ahead of everyone else in this field. Fleetwood is the only manufacturer to use plug-in transistors right throughout the circuitry.

8. A Solid State Voltage Booster. It does exactly what the name implies — boosts the house current up to the high voltages needed to operate Color TV. You'll still find bulky and relatively unreliable voltage "cages" in some sets. They take up a lot of space and give off a lot of heat. The solid state kind is compact, cool-running and ready to operate the instant the set is switched on. We call ours a High Voltage Tripler—and we're happy to tell you that not one of them has ever failed.

And one more thing to keep in mind. Service.

No matter which set you buy, it's going to need servicing sooner or later. And service has been a sore point with a lot of color TV owners in the past. So ask about it. Make sure you know just what servicing arrangements are available.

Fleetwood has established what is regarded to be the finest network of service centers of any TV manufacturer in Canada. There are ten large factory-owned service centers throughout the country, to service the major areas. Each of these centers is staffed by Fleetwood factory trained personnel. Over 500 associated service centers in fringe areas further ensure that our customers get fast, low-cost service from people we've trained ourselves—and that the spare parts those people put into Fleetwood color sets are made right in our own plant to our own rigid specifications.

We figure that's the least any manufacturer can do.

We want you to be happy.

You don't have to have all those features in the Color TV set you buy—any more than you have to have an automatic transmission in your car.

But if you want the kind of Color TV you'll be happy with two or three years from now, start out by pricing the sets that do have them all.

Take our check list to as many dealers as you like—so long as one of them sells Fleetwood. Because we think that's where you'll find the best buys.

The Experts Say
Jam or Jelly Recipes Can Be Combined

By JEAN SHARP
Of Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — If you want to tinker with a jam or jelly recipe, feel free. You can mix flavors, make more, make less, but you must be precise about the changes.

In a booklet on jam and jelly making from General Foods, the word is that two different recipes can be combined, provided they both use the same brand of pektin and the same method of preparation.

You prepare the fruit or juice according to the directions in the original recipes, then combine half the amounts of the ingredients specified in each recipe and proceed according to directions.

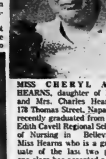
If you want to divide the recipe, cut all the amounts by half and write down the new quantities. Do not change anything else in the recipe.

When you increase a recipe, do the same thing, write down the doubled amounts. Bring the ingredients to a full rolling boil, and use a large pot serving kettle so it is less than half full of fruit and sugar.

The booklet has some advice on how to avoid common problems.

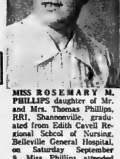
Air bubbles sometimes form around the edge of the glass when hot paraffin is poured on hot jelly. You can avoid that by pouring hot paraffin close to the glass.

Don't let the paraffin layer get too thick, or jelly may come over it or air pockets form under it. The paraffin coating should be about ¼-inch thick.



Such air pockets are not harmful to jam or jelly if the surface is properly covered to protect it from dust, and if it is stored in a cool, dry place. If mould grows in an air pocket, cut it out with a knife dipped in boiling water, and use the jelly as soon as possible.

You may get sugar crystals in cooked jam or jelly as it cools if the mixture contains more than seven parts of sugar to every 10 parts of finished product.



In a short-boil method, crystals may be caused by cooking longer than specified in the recipe, a mistake in measuring ingredients or too great evaporation of fruit juice due to slow cooking.

Sugar crystals in a no-cook jam or jelly may be the result of not having stirred the prepared fruit or juice and sugar mixture continuously for the full three minutes. They may also result in a jam from not having crushed the fruit thoroughly enough to obtain a sufficiently juicy mixture to dissolve the sugar.

The booklet is called, Jam and Jelly Making: A Pleasurable Art, and is available from: General Foods Kitchens, P.O. Box 4018, Terminal A, Toronto.

Westminster United Church was the scene of the recent wedding ceremony of Elizabeth Suzanne Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson of RR 3 Belleville and Harold Wilson Rapp, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Rapp of Hanover. Rev. J. Leslie Dean performed the ceremony and Miss Linda Johnson rendered organ music during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a Ligoda crepe gown which featured an empire bodice accented with French alencon lace and encrusted with seed pearls and a floor length skirt. Her cape sleeves which were similarly adorned formed a short cape effect at the back beneath her floor length chapel train. A matching pill box headdress was caught to the rear length silk illusion veil. The bride carried a bouquet of orchids, white carnations and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Marilyn Riley of Toronto chose a polyester crepe gown of multi-color blue floral on a mauve background. Long full sleeves enhanced her gown. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Dianne Wamboldt, sister of the bride, Mrs. Patricia Wood and Miss Eleanore Riordan, all of Toronto were dressed identically to the matron of honor. All the bridal attendants wore matching picture hats and carried baskets of white daisies spotted with orchid colored carnations.

Steve Cherevaty of Toronto attended the bridegroom. Ushers were: Wayne Rapp, of Mississauga, brother of the bridegroom; Stewart Lumsden of Hanover; Bill MacLean, Toronto and Doug Malcom of Toronto. A garden reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the wedding. The bride's mother greeted guests wearing a floor length mauve polyester crepe gown which was accented by long sheer sleeves and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a floor length turquoise polyester crepe gown also enhanced by long sheer sleeves and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Europe, the bride donned a floor length navy, red and white dress. A white shawl, white accessories and a red carnation corsage completed her dress.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Rapp will reside in Toronto.

Says Hubby's Snoring Music to Her Ears

Dear Ann Landers: I was one of those women who complained about my husband's snoring. But when my husband left to go to Vietnam the silence in my bedroom nearly drove me out of my mind. More than once I regretted not having made a tape recording of my husband's snoring before he left. It would have been better than any sleeping pill. . . .

Three weeks ago my man came back to me. I am so happy to have him home that I thank God with all my heart he is at my side instead of a storm. It's the sweetest sound in the world.—Love That Music

Dear Love: I wonder if you will be singing the same tune after the blush of your husband's homecoming has worn off? I hope so, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: A few words from you might prevent many from becoming cripples. I am speaking of dental cripples. Statistics are dull, but a few might be useful. Do you know that less than 40 per cent of the people in the United States receive dental care? Nearly 67 million have gum disease, and 75 per cent of these 67 million will lose all their teeth because of it. Half of all the children in the United States have never been to a dentist.

Club Activities

STIRLING SENIOR CITIZENS

Stirling — The Stirling Senior Citizens have enjoyed two events recently. On Tuesday, 35 club members and two visitors travelled by charter bus to Watertown, N.Y. Mrs. George Heasman arranged the tour. En route, the group crossed the Ivy Lea Bridge over the Thousand Islands. At Hill Island, several of the group visited the Skydeck and went by elevator 400 feet above the St. Lawrence River. While in Watertown, a tour of the various shops was of interest even though the articles were not duty-free.

On Saturday evening, Sept. 8, the sponsors of the Trent Valley Jamboree entertained the Stirling club of senior citizens in the Stirling theatre. This was their first performance of the season. Approximately 40 club members attended. The Singing Edwards Family of Wooler was a special attraction.

The club has arranged a scenic bus tour to the Gatineau Hills early in October.

Ten Rules of Human Relations

By DORIS CLARK

(1) Speak to people. There is nothing so nice as a cheerful word of greeting.

(2) Smile at people. It takes 72 muscles to frown; only 14 to smile.

(3) Call people by name. The sweetest music to anyone's ears is the sound of his or her own name.

(4) Be friendly and helpful. If you would have friends, be friendly.

(5) Be cordial. Speak and act as if everything you do is a genuine pleasure.

(6) Be genuinely interested in people. Try to look for their good points.

(7) Be generous with praise — cautious with criticism.

(8) Be considerate of the feelings of others. It is appreciated.

(9) Be thoughtful of the opinions of others. There are three sides to every controversy — yours, the other fellow's and the right one.

(10) Be alert to give service. What counts most in life is what we do for others. — Boys and Girls, Department of Social Services and Rehabilitation, Newfoundland.

Dear Doris: Your story about Pinkerton set up a strong response in me because I have been writing some about the Velocity of Change. An alert person today is truly blessed. A dull wit is in the same class as a Galapagos turtle who is unaware of his 286-year life span. Right now, we are ugly industrial situations due entirely to idea resistance on both sides. Yet the key people are not stupid.

Dr. Robert Oppenheimer hit it hard when he said that "Scientific knowledge is redoubling every eight years," — which led me to remark that one can be twice as stupid in eight years.

The same cultural pile-up can be seen in engineering, in agriculture . . . but not in politics! — Bob Ludwig (The Idea Clinic)

Dear Bob: Thank you. It seems to me there just is no room for prejudice and closed minds — that is, for anyone who wants to be really in this world.

If our young people are going to take over society, we of the older generations must bend over backwards to see their point of view. Then we will be able to help them a little by sharing the things we have found out through experience.

* * *

Dear Doris: I find that my grandfather had a son who was away from home for two years on a business mission.

During this time the son's wife had a baby by another man. This baby son was given the family name, but never adopted by the son or my grandfather (no relation to me).

Now in assembling our family tree, since the boy born to the wife was not a relative and a blood descendant, should he be listed as part of the family tree? — Branching Out

Dear Branching Out: The boy born to the lady while her husband was away is legally assumed to be her husband's child. At the same time he does not belong in the family tree since he is neither a blood relative nor legally adopted. Yet you don't want to ignore his existence completely; and what happened is not his fault.

Why not show him in the records simply as the son of the mother?

Have you asked Doris about your dilemma? Perhaps she can suggest a Canadian resource that will help.

CWL Votes to Campaign Against Abortion

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Delegates to the 52nd annual convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada voted unanimously Friday to continue their campaign against abortion and in favor of life.

They also voted to oppose euthanasia.

Mrs. F. S. Lucas of Saskatoon, Sask., the league's director for family life, urged delegates to the convention's closing session to seek out the help of all concerned people in their fight.

The delegates responded by unanimously supporting resolutions expressing opposition to any move that would remove abortion from the Criminal Code of Canada and asked the federal government to draft stricter legislation to replace the current law.

The resolutions on abortion were among 36 passed by the CWL.

The delegates approved a resolution asking the federal government to extend the moratorium on capital punishment for further study. The resolution said the five-year period set out in the current legislation was too short a period to assess the results of the experiment.

The moratorium, except in cases of the murder of police men and prison guards, was enacted in 1967. It is to be discussed by Parliament at the end of the period next year.

The league also asked the federal justice minister to review criminal court procedures with a view to using alternative forms of punishment to imprisonment. The league said probation for offenders in lesser types of crime was an alternative as was the use of restitution by an offender to the offended party.

The delegates elected Mrs. A. A. Boucher of Vancouver as president. Other officers are: Mrs. J. J. Matthews, Wilbraham, Ont., first vice-president; Mrs. D. A. Aitken, Rosemere, Que., second vice-president; Mrs. V. A. Cooney of Calgary, third vice-president, and Mrs. W. D. Brockhurst, Sydney, secretary-treasurer.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CROSBY

Do men avoid 'moody' women?

YES! because the women are moody, that's for sure. He may solve today's problem, but there's always tomorrow's problem to worry about. The answer is a temporary purpose. Let her get a little sunshine, and it is right there again that whatever was the problem is forgotten. It would be a lot easier to cope with it if she has a few pals like herself that she can cry on. Fortunately, in most cases, the pain is right there, and to make a person moody do more lighter if the brighter of them can be shared.

Are all egotists unbearable?

YES; but the trouble is that not all egotists are readily recognizable. The out and out egotists, of course, are unbearable. The more modest egotist, as the other person discovers after he has been married for a few years, is often almost just as bad. The very modest admits the way he accomplishes his egotism. Occasionally, however, people will realize they have been "taken" by the egotist; and he will be even more unbearable because they believe they have been duped.

Why can't kids confide in parents?

OH, but they can. Parents, however, shouldn't expect their children to change overnight. In other words, if the youngsters had always been repelled in their attempts to confide in their parents, they aren't going to be overjoyed when parents suddenly decide to be receptive now. The children are bound to feel that somehow it's a trap. I say wait. Be given the children they believe it sincere.

Refereeing Will Be Same in Russia

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Team Canada is going to "run into real trouble in Russia" if the referees experienced in the Sweden continues, Al MacNeil, coach of Montreal Canadiens in 1970-71, said Monday.

"They were having trouble with the refereeing in Sweden, but they are going to have it just as bad in Russia," MacNeil told a service club.

MacNeil, who led the Canadiens to the Stanley Cup, is here with the Canadiens and his Nova Scotia Voyageurs of the American Hockey League at a training camp.

Although Canada is getting "quite a lesson" in the current Canada-Russia series, "the situation has not gone so far that we cannot correct it," he said.

Up to three years ago, he said, a Russian team could have been "handled" by any NHL club. But "physical conditioning was a telling factor in the current series.

"I hope Clay (Ali) is a 10-to-1 favorite. The bigger underdog I am the better chance I have to win. The bigger favorite he is, the more confidence he has, the more overconfident he will get."

Ali was such a favorite there was no getting line on the fight. Meanwhile, Ali continued working out at a championship pace at his camp at Deer Lake. Pa. He sparred a total of 19 rounds Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

"I'm not making any prediction but I expect the fight to go all the way," said Ali.

NHL Counters with Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Hockey League filed a counter-suit in United States District Court here Monday against the World Hockey Association, asking the court to prohibit any NHL players from jumping to the newborn WHA in any of the next three seasons.

The claim was included as part of the NHL's response to a suit filed last month by Philadelphia Blazers, a WHA team.

The Blazers suit asked the court to declare the NHL's no-cancel reserve clause invalid.

In the original suit, the Blazers charged the NHL with having "complete control of the pool of capable professional hockey players."

The NHL's counter-suit charged that the Blazers and the entire WHA, as "co-conspirators," had entered into a "combination and conspiracy to induce NHL players to breach their NHL contracts." It said that defections from the older league had caused "irreparable harm," but did not ask for a specific monetary damage claim.

In addition to asking an injunction prohibiting any NHL player who played in the 1971-72 season from jumping to the WHA through the 1974-75 seasons, the suit also asked the court to prohibit former NHL players from doing personal-appearance, managing or in "any way assisting" teams in the rival league.

Patterson Hopes Ali Favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson rested Monday and hoped Muhammad Ali was a big favorite for their fight Wednesday night, while Ali continued to train and said he expects the fight "to go all the way."

Patterson, who ended his training Saturday for the scheduled 12-round fight between the two former heavyweight champions at Madison Square Garden, said:

"I hope Clay (Ali) is a 10-to-1 favorite. The bigger underdog I am the better chance I have to win. The bigger favorite he is, the more confidence he has, the more overconfident he will get."

Ali was such a favorite there was no getting line on the fight. Meanwhile, Ali continued working out at a championship pace at his camp at Deer Lake, Pa. He sparred a total of 19 rounds Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

"I'm not making any prediction but I expect the fight to go all the way," said Ali.

Last week, in a separate action, Philadelphia Flyers of the NHL filed suit here asking that the Blazers be enjoined from using former Boston Bruins star John McKenzie. The Flyers obtained McKenzie's contract from the Bruins after he jumped, and now claim him as their own. The suit is expected to be moved to the U.S. District Court.

McKenzie and another Bruins star, Derek Sanderson, have been signed by the Blazers. The Bruins filed suit in Boston in August attempting to block the defections.

Flu Hits Kings Hard

VICTORIA (CP) — Influenza has thrown a stiff bodycheck at Los Angeles Kings, the National Hockey League team in training here.

Fifteen of the 38 players in camp were hit by influenza during the weekend. It even caught up with the team's publicity director and an assistant trainer.

"The players are affected at varying degrees, but none seriously," general manager Larry Regan said.

"It's a nuisance, more than anything," he said.

Islanders Kissing Cousins

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Dave Hudson scored twice Monday night as New York Islanders overcame a two-goal deficit to tie Atlanta Flames 3-3 in National Hockey League preseason play.

Hudson's goals at 4:52 of the second period and 2:52 of the third forced the deadlock.

Brian Lefley scored New York's other goal on a short-handed effort at 9:02 of the first period.

The Atlanta goals were scored by Larry Romanchych, Morris Stephanov and Lew Morrison.

Atlanta outshot their expansion cousins, 34-30.

Robinson Gives Baltimore Jump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore's defending American League champions journeyed to Boston for the start of a must series against the Red Sox Monday night and Brooks Robinson gave them the jump, drilling three hits to pace a 3-2 Orioles victory.

It was a typical performance for the Orioles' and pro third baseman, who's always at his best in the clutch ball games.

Robinson had two singles and a double, scoring two runs and driving in another for the Orioles, now one game back of the Detroit Tigers in the East. Boston is in second place, 1½ game behind, while New York Yankees remained fourth, 2½ games off the pace.

In Monday's other games, all in the National League, Cincinnati Reds inched closer to the West crown by topping San Francisco Giants 2-1, New York Mets edged Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 and Los Angeles Dodgers edged San Diego Padres 3-2 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's victory reduced the Reds' magic number to five while the Pirates' fourth straight loss left their East clinching number at three.

"We're just in a position where we can't lose," said Robinson. "You've got to fight like there's no tomorrow."

Baltimore manager Earl Weaver was less than jubilant despite the victory.

"We still got to come out and play tomorrow night. We only got (Marty) Pattin and Luis (Tiant) to face."

Johnny Bench gave San Francisco a taste of versatility as the Reds shut out the Giants.

First, the Cincinnati slugger crashed his 40th home run of the year for the first run of the game in the fourth inning.

Then, two innings later, Bench shifted to his short ball reflexes, fielding a perfect squeeze bunt down the third base line to score Joe Morgan with the other run.

Jim McGlothlin surrendered (2), at Detroit, Sept. 27, 28.

eight hits in the first five innings but his shutout was preserved by outfielders Oscar Gerondino and Pete Rose who both threw out Giant runners on the basepaths.

The Mets got five-hit pitching from rookie Jon Matlack to beat Pittsburgh.

The game's only run came in the ninth inning on a single by Duffy Dyer.

Four 10th-inning walks, the last one to Willie Crawford with two out, forced home the winning run as Los Angeles nipped San Diego.

Frank Robinson hit his 19th homer for the Dodgers and No. 522 for his career, moving into seventh place ahead of Ted Williams on the all-time list. It was also the 30th major league park in which the veteran slugger has homered, extending his own record.

Redskins Ride Taxi Over Vikings

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bill Malinchak draws his National Football League salary chasing kickoffs and punts, charging the kickers and punters.

The seven-year veteran on the taxi squad last week, earned his paycheque Monday when Washington Redskins toppled Minnesota Vikings 24-23 in a regular season opener for both clubs.

"I had faith that I would be activated because that's what I did last year and that's something the coach thinks of," Malinchak said.

Malinchak blocked a punt, picked it up and ran for a touchdown. He recovered a fumble that led to the winning touchdown, and was on the field when team-mate Ted Vactor blocked a field goal and deflected another.

"This is what a special teams' player always works for," said Malinchak.

"It's something that rarely happens. But if you get a couple or three a year in special team has done its job."

Malinchak's touchdown came on Minnesota's first series of the game. The fumble recovery came on the kickoff after Larry Brown, who rushed for 161 yards on 21 carries, ran 65 yards for a three-yard touchdown to give Washington a 17-14 lead with 12:32 to play.

Just 95 seconds later, Charley Harraway swept left end for a nine-yard touchdown run that put it away for the Redskins.

Asked why Malinchak was activated just a week after he was placed on waivers, Washington coach George Allen said: "Because he's a good special teams man."

The Vikings outgained the Redskins 383 yards to 202 in total offence. Fran Tarkenton fired touchdown passes to John Gilliam and to Bill Brown with 1:30 remaining in the game. Chet Jones scored from a yard out in the second period.

"Giving up two fumbles and blocked punt, a missed field goal, a blocked field goal—the Redskins are lucky we're not too much to overcome," said Minnesota coach Bud Grant. The former Winnipeg Blue Bomber coach. "I don't care how much offence you have."

Mira Needs Recuperation

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal Alouettes' team physician has recommended at least two games rest for first-string quarterback George Mira to recuperate from a knee injury suffered during the team's 22-17 win Sunday over B.C. Lions.

Dr. Ted Percy Monday advised that the quarterback rest for at least two games.

San Diego Signs Mackey

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Chargers signed tight end John Mackey Monday.

Yardmen Need Good Wrapping

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

You can't judge a book by looking at its cover. Just don't try to tell that to anyone who sells them.

Unfortunately, the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund sports complex officially unveiled Monday, could use some smarter packaging to assure that the contents won't fall through.

The complex — a proposed $5 million worth of the latest in recreational facilities on a 38-acre site in the city's technical park area — were attractive enough.

* * *

Architects and planners, with the aid of a $6,000 scale model, slick brochures, blueprints, and photographs, described the proposal to an excited crowd.

The centre of the project — a 300-foot square Sports Centre housing a 15,000 seat hockey rink, a 1,000 seat Olympic-caliber swimming pool and diving tower, an auditorium, and gymnasium-cum-ice rink to cater somewhat of a stir among the most stoic faces at Monday's Lions Hall press conference.

* * *

In addition to being enthusiastically appealing, the new centre would cater to every conceivable recreational need, from junior sports to weightlifting, from skating to summer bathing.

But, for some strange reason, the scheme was presented to the public with vague financial background, flimsy packaging and buried in technical jargon.

Yardmen spokesmen appeared reluctant to even discuss how the project would be funded. Former mayor Addamont Don Whalen, for example, asked the first question — "Where's the money coming from" — three times, without getting a suitable answer.

* * *

Mr. Whalen and most other people in attendance were not aware that the press conference was being used by the Yardmen as a "test run" to get their proposal before the public and get some support — both moral and financial.

But the reason they were not aware of the precise nature of Monday's meeting is that it wasn't made clear.

Similarly, the Yardmen weren't trying to be evasive in neglecting to inform a meeting just what sort of a nest-egg their monthly lottery had left them sitting on after 2½ years of operation.

Fortunately, Alderman Art Keegan, an associate director of the Fund, came to the rescue by candidly stating there was $300,000 in the bank earmarked for the project, which, he indicated, might be doubled by the expected April start of the project.

But RYBP president Ted Brenton further clouded the financial picture when he stated the group had "no definite commitment of any size" in the form of federal or provincial grants.

* * *

There was also some confusion over how the Yardmen expect to acquire the 25.6-acre proposed site off the Canniffon Road and south of the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway. The Yardmen said they had an option to purchase 4.6 acres closest to Highway 37, but added the option expires November 1.
